1940 TYEE

POWER HOUSE . . . Key to campus life. It furnishes power and heat to 74 buildings on Washington's 605-acre campus. Tyee, another key to campus life, furnishes a permanent record of a year's college activity—academically, athletically, and socially. For you Tyee is a picture of Washington history in the making.

Dean Herbert T. Condon

The life of an institution is chronicled in the lives of the men who inspire and control it.

For the past thirty-six years, the untiring and devoted service which Herbert T. Condon has given to Washington make the story of his life and the life of the University a close parallel.

Friendly guidance and wise counsel to many generations of students have given this kindly educator a wealth of tolerant sympathy. Friendships with whole student bodies during his nine years as dean of men, and friendship with those who contacted him as an officer of the University administration, and as an educator, previously, have marked him as a man of insight and ability in a position well-suited to his personal attributes.

THIS book entered its formative stages before the school year started—during a period of international tenseness. A million lay dead in Spain, victims of a war just ended. Untold thousands had died in China, Ethiopia, Albania. More than ten thousand University students registered for studies here only aware that theirs was another year to study and play. But millions of young men and women in dozens of foreign countries saw an end to their hopes for another year of study and instead of leisurely strolling classward they now automatically respond to the commands of drill sergeants and company commanders. Thousands of them have died since this book was started and with them died their youthful hopes and aspirations. Thousands more will die before it is over and others will lose sight forever of their dreams of education and intellectual eminence.

Fall quarter registration at the University of Washington has already started—registration of young men and women for war service in Europe, Asia, Africa continues. . . .

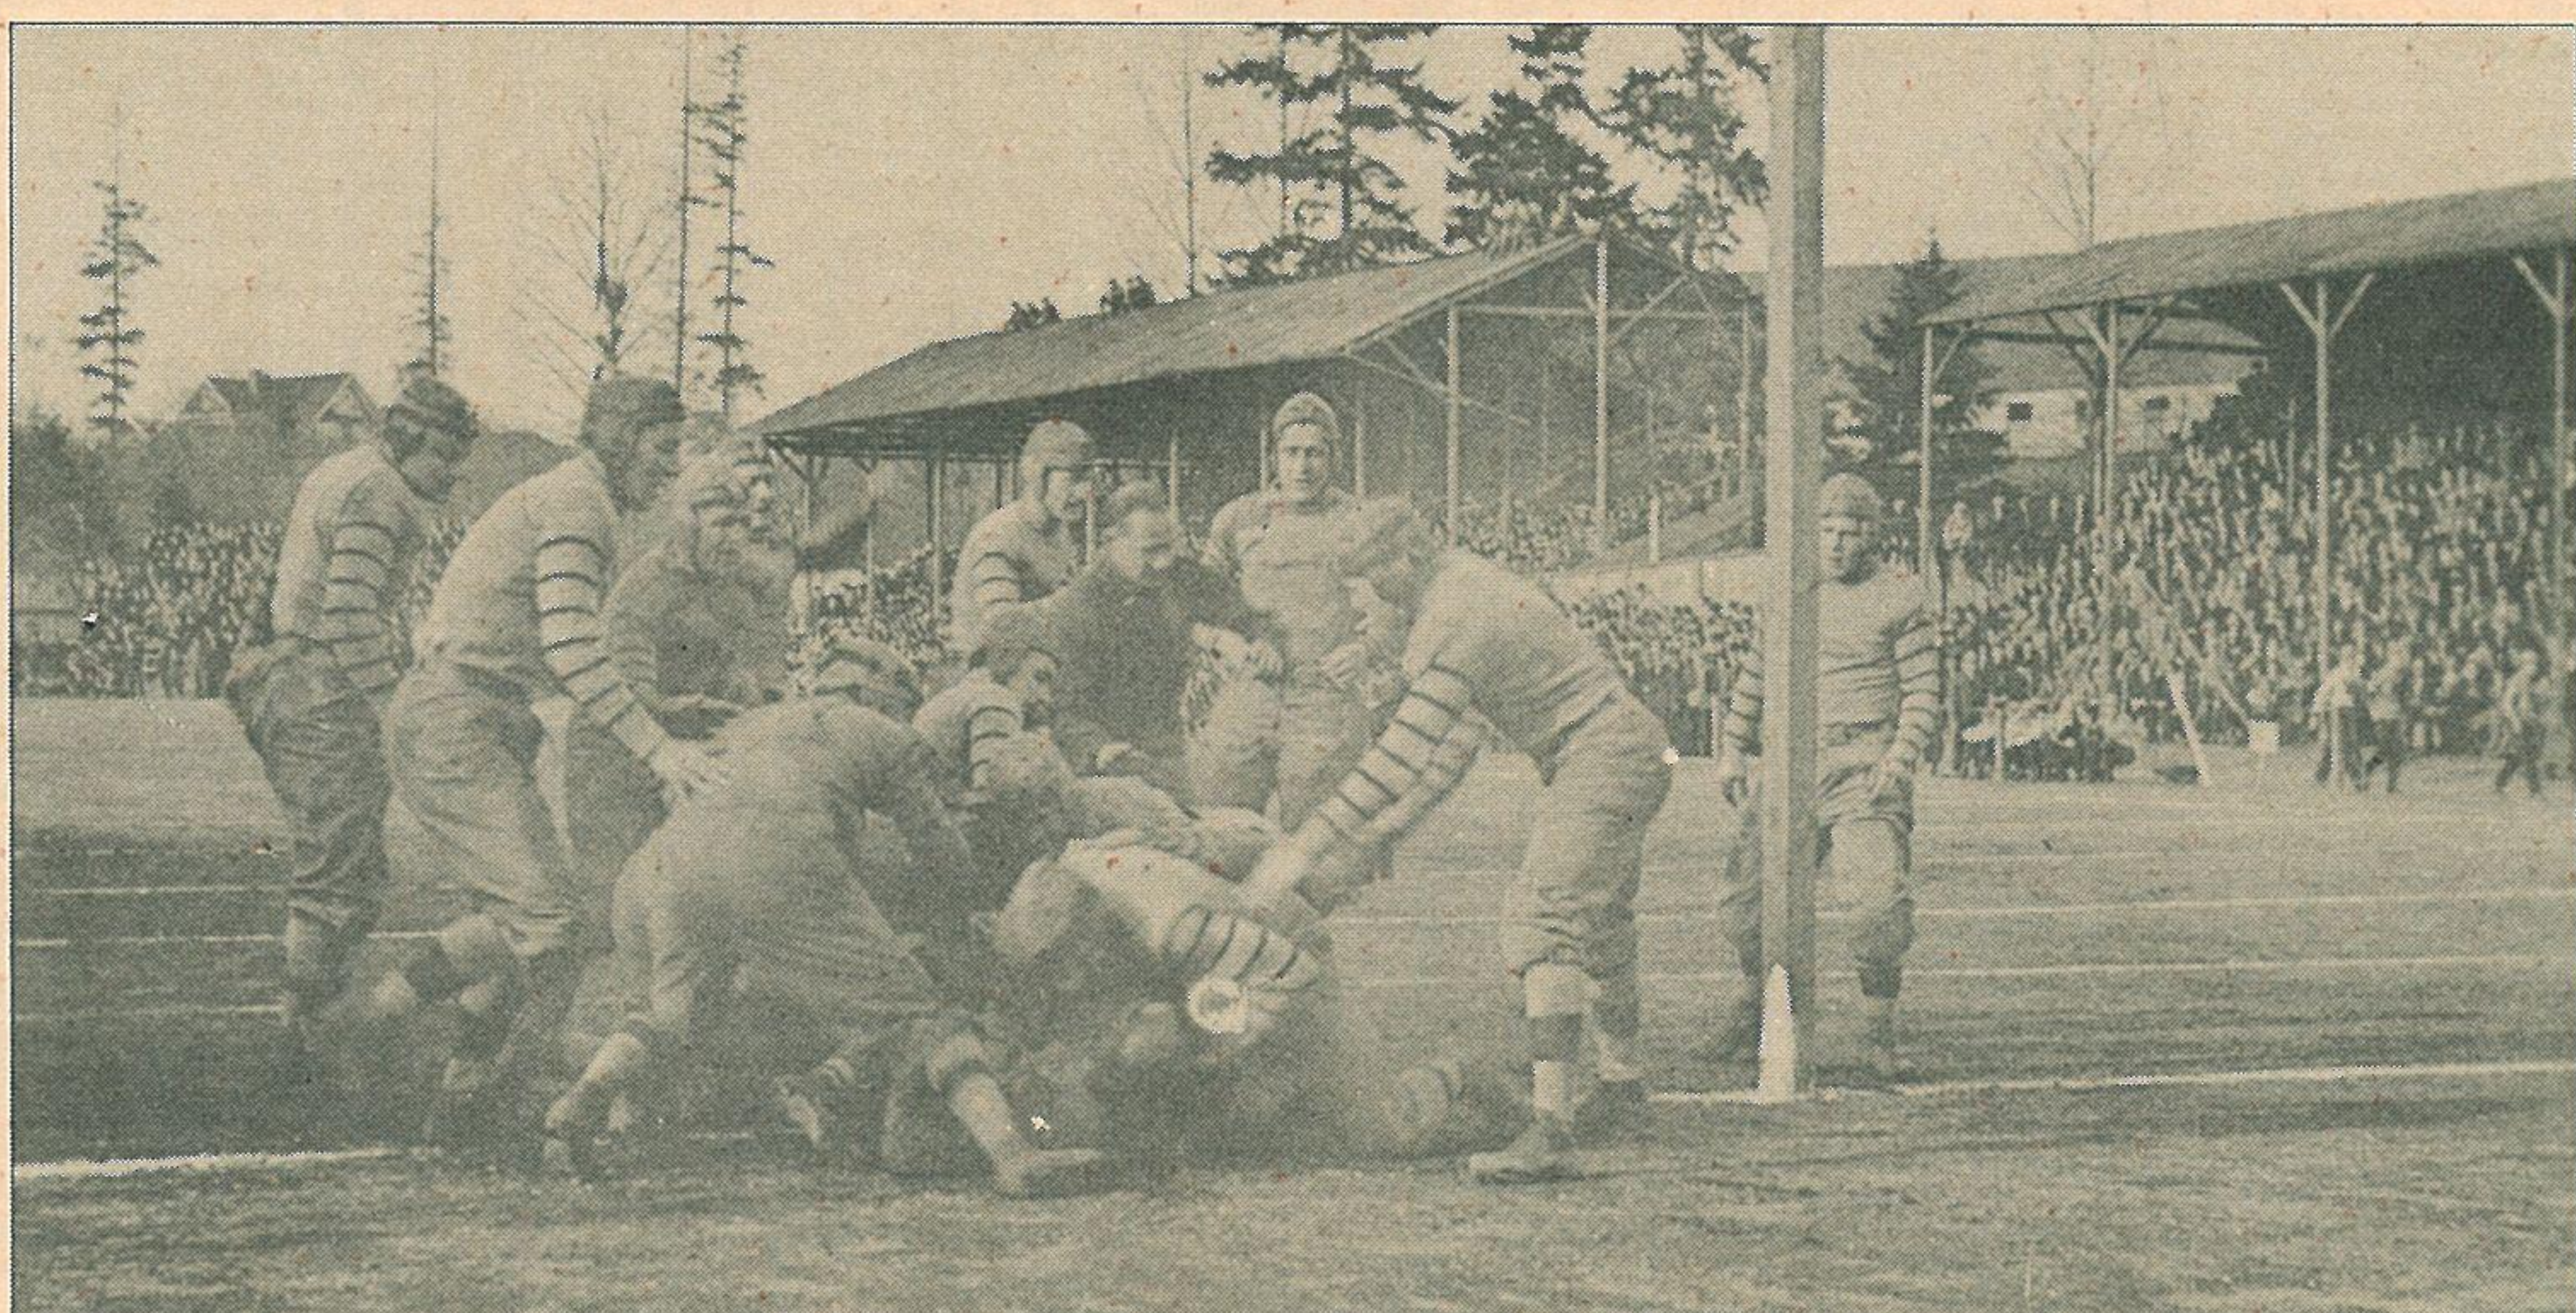

Short skirts ended this custom of an annual May-Pole dance.

FROM THESE BEGINNINGS

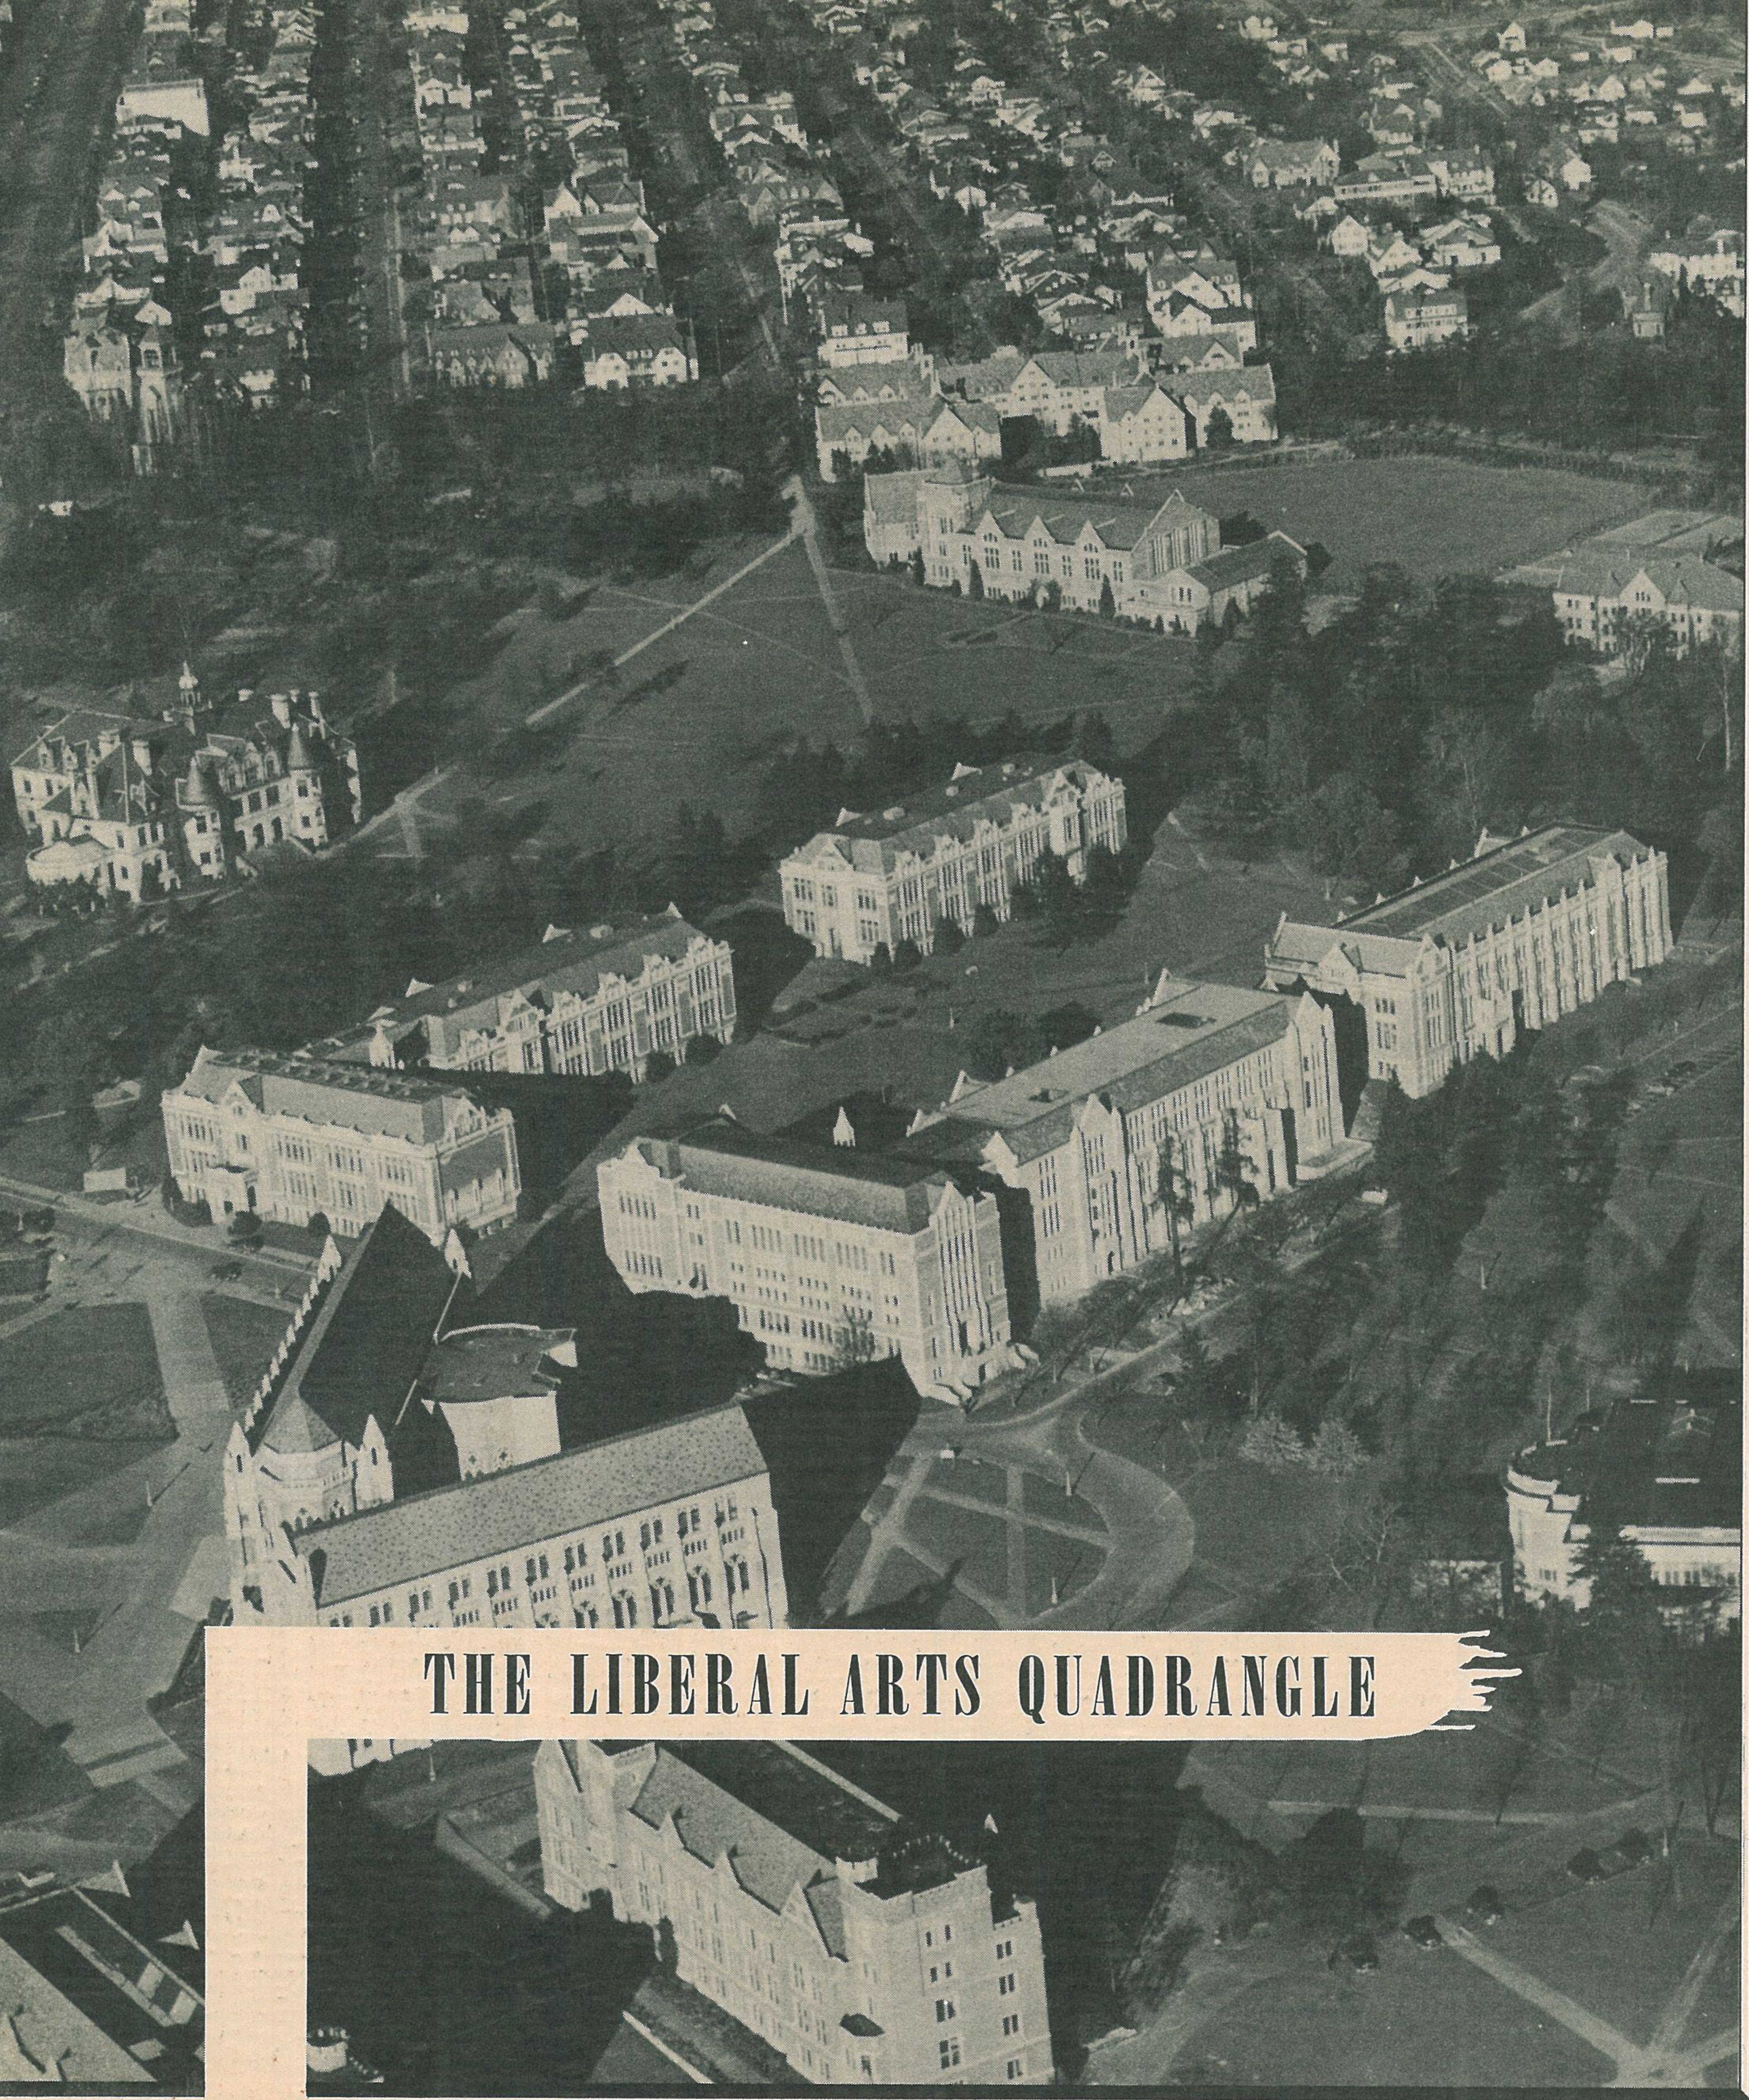

WASHINGTON'S campus, 1909, looked thus. Resplendent with the results of the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition, which left many buildings. Lewis and Clark halls remained from pre-Exposition days, the Washington State Museum, Old Bagley, Denny—all became a permanent part of the University.

DEVELOPED THIS CAMPUS

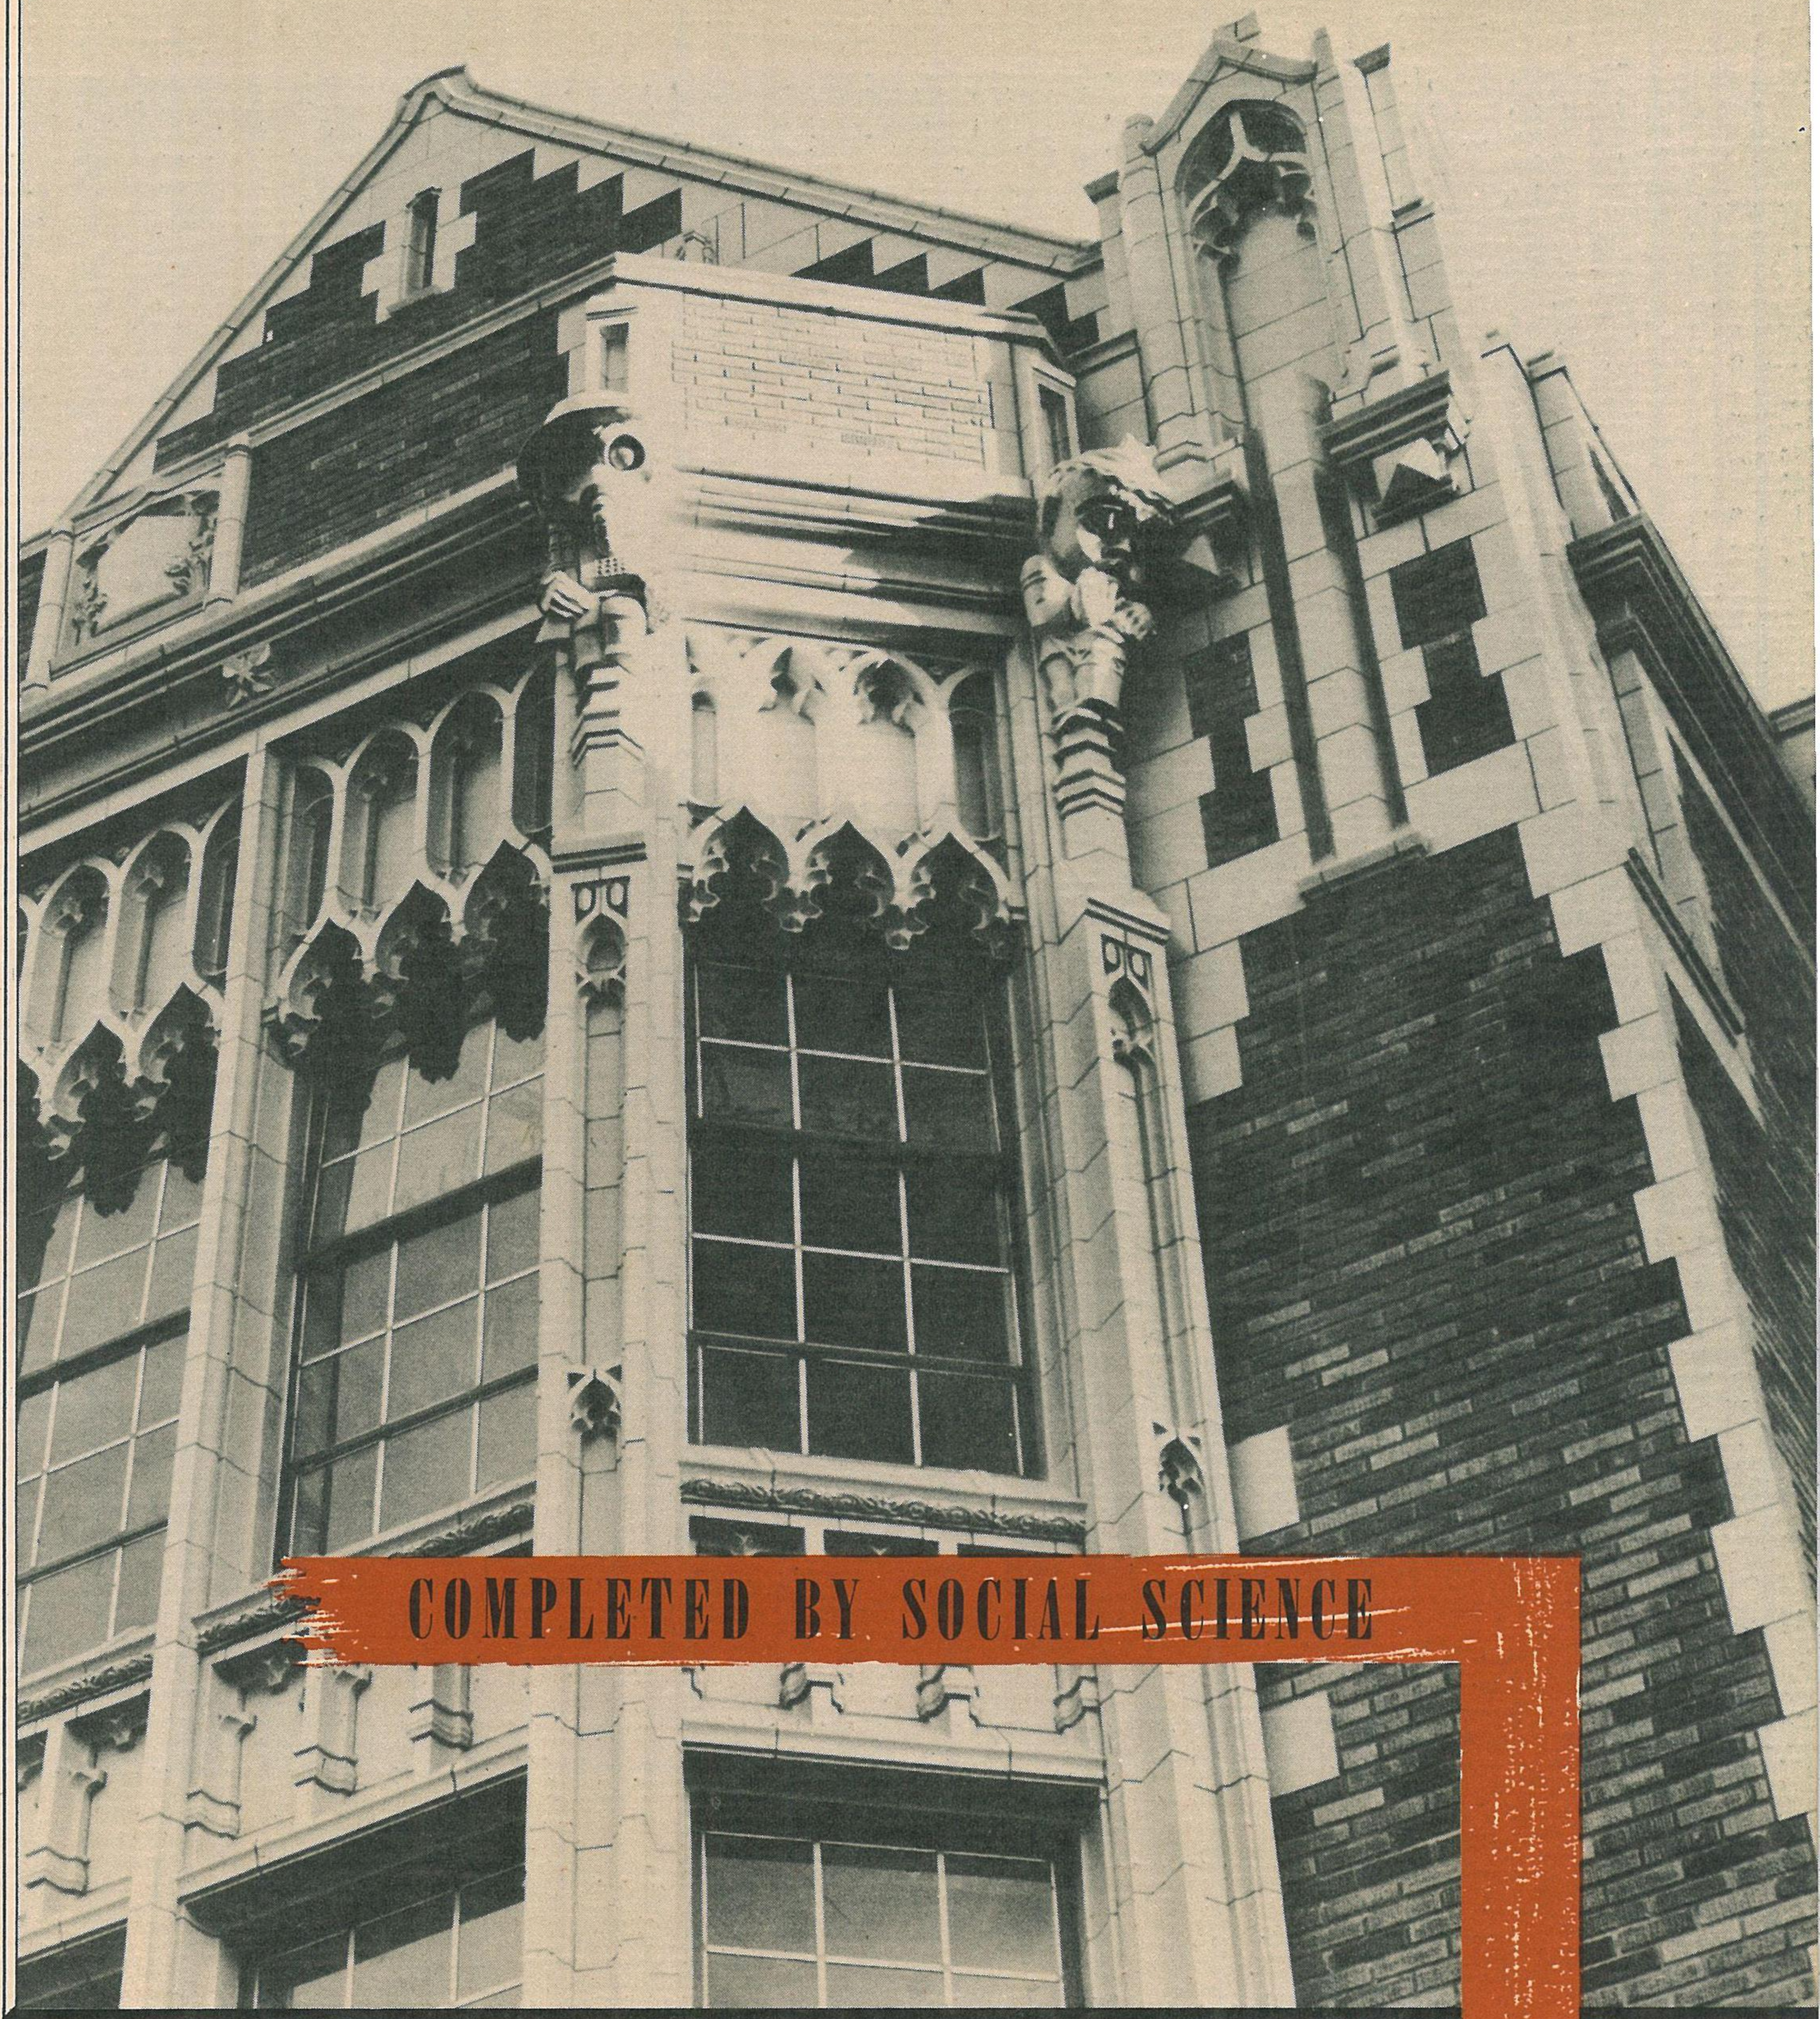

FROM the air, today's campus shows a new panorama of buildings, with a background of Lake Washington, training ground of Washington's famous crews — and Mt. Rainier, where college sportsmen ski. An even greater future is prophesied for campus building, such as medical, administrative, and student centers.

THE LIBERAL ARTS QUADRANGLE

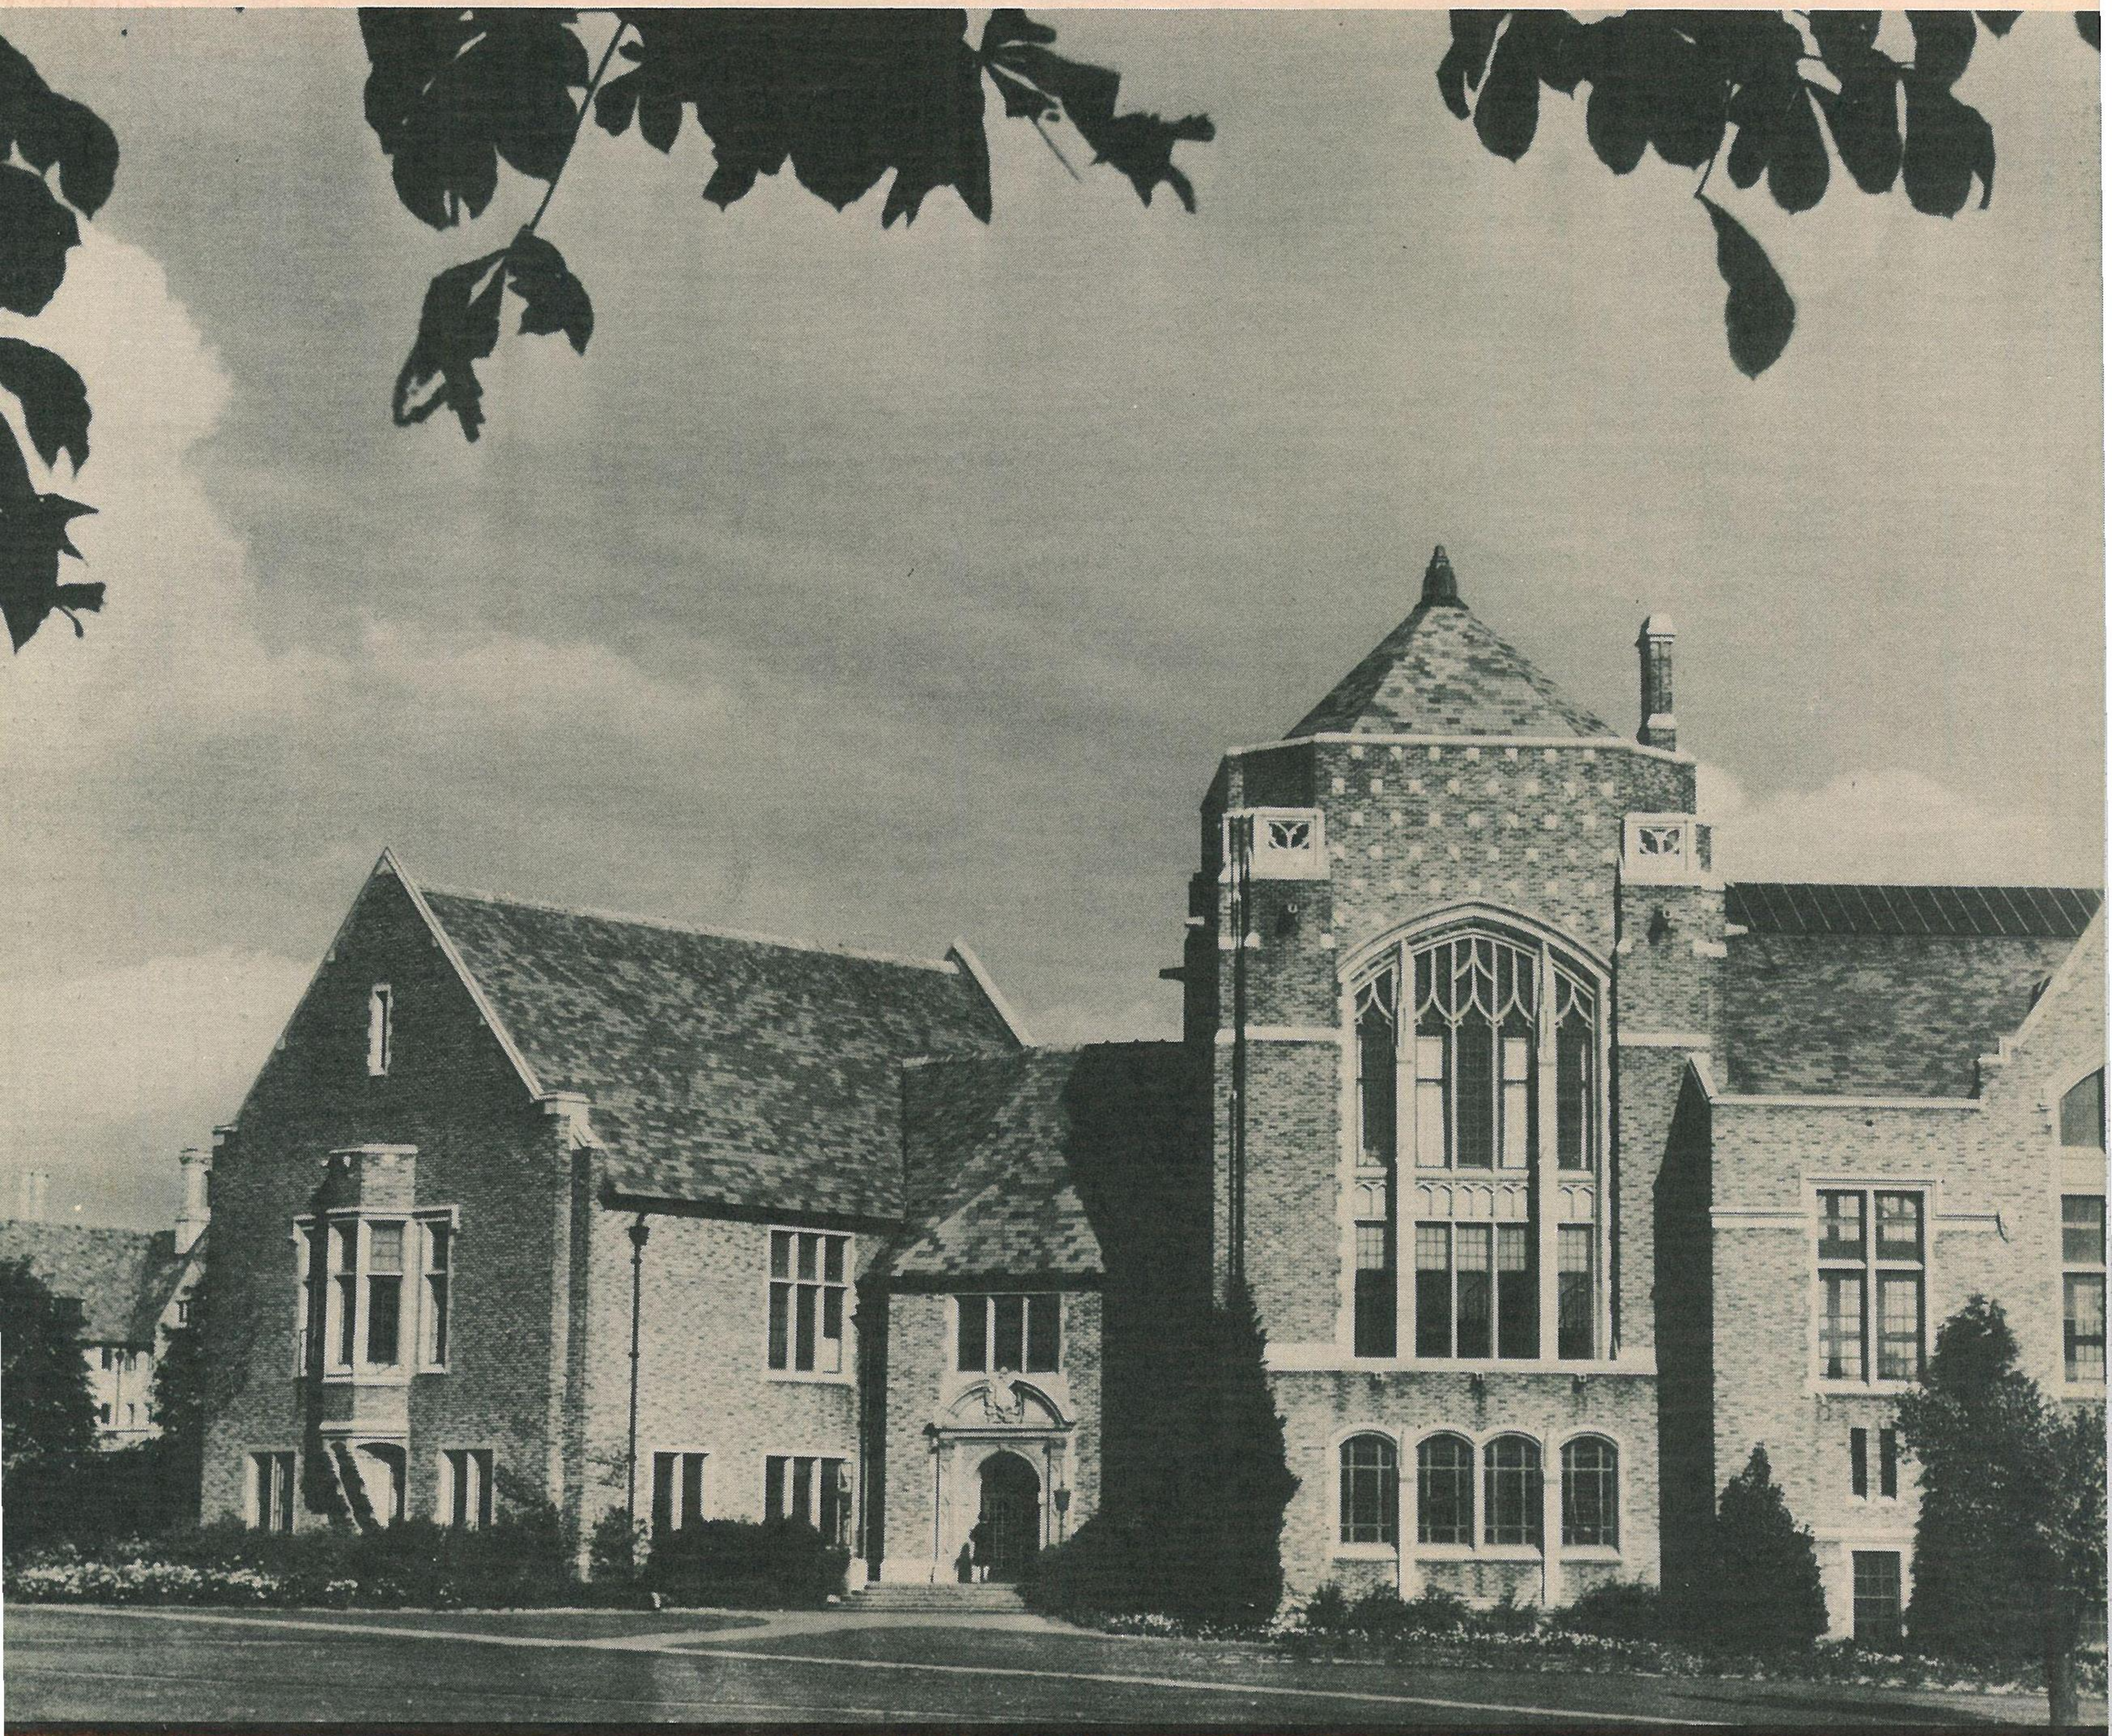

T

COMPLETED BY SOCIAL SCIENCE

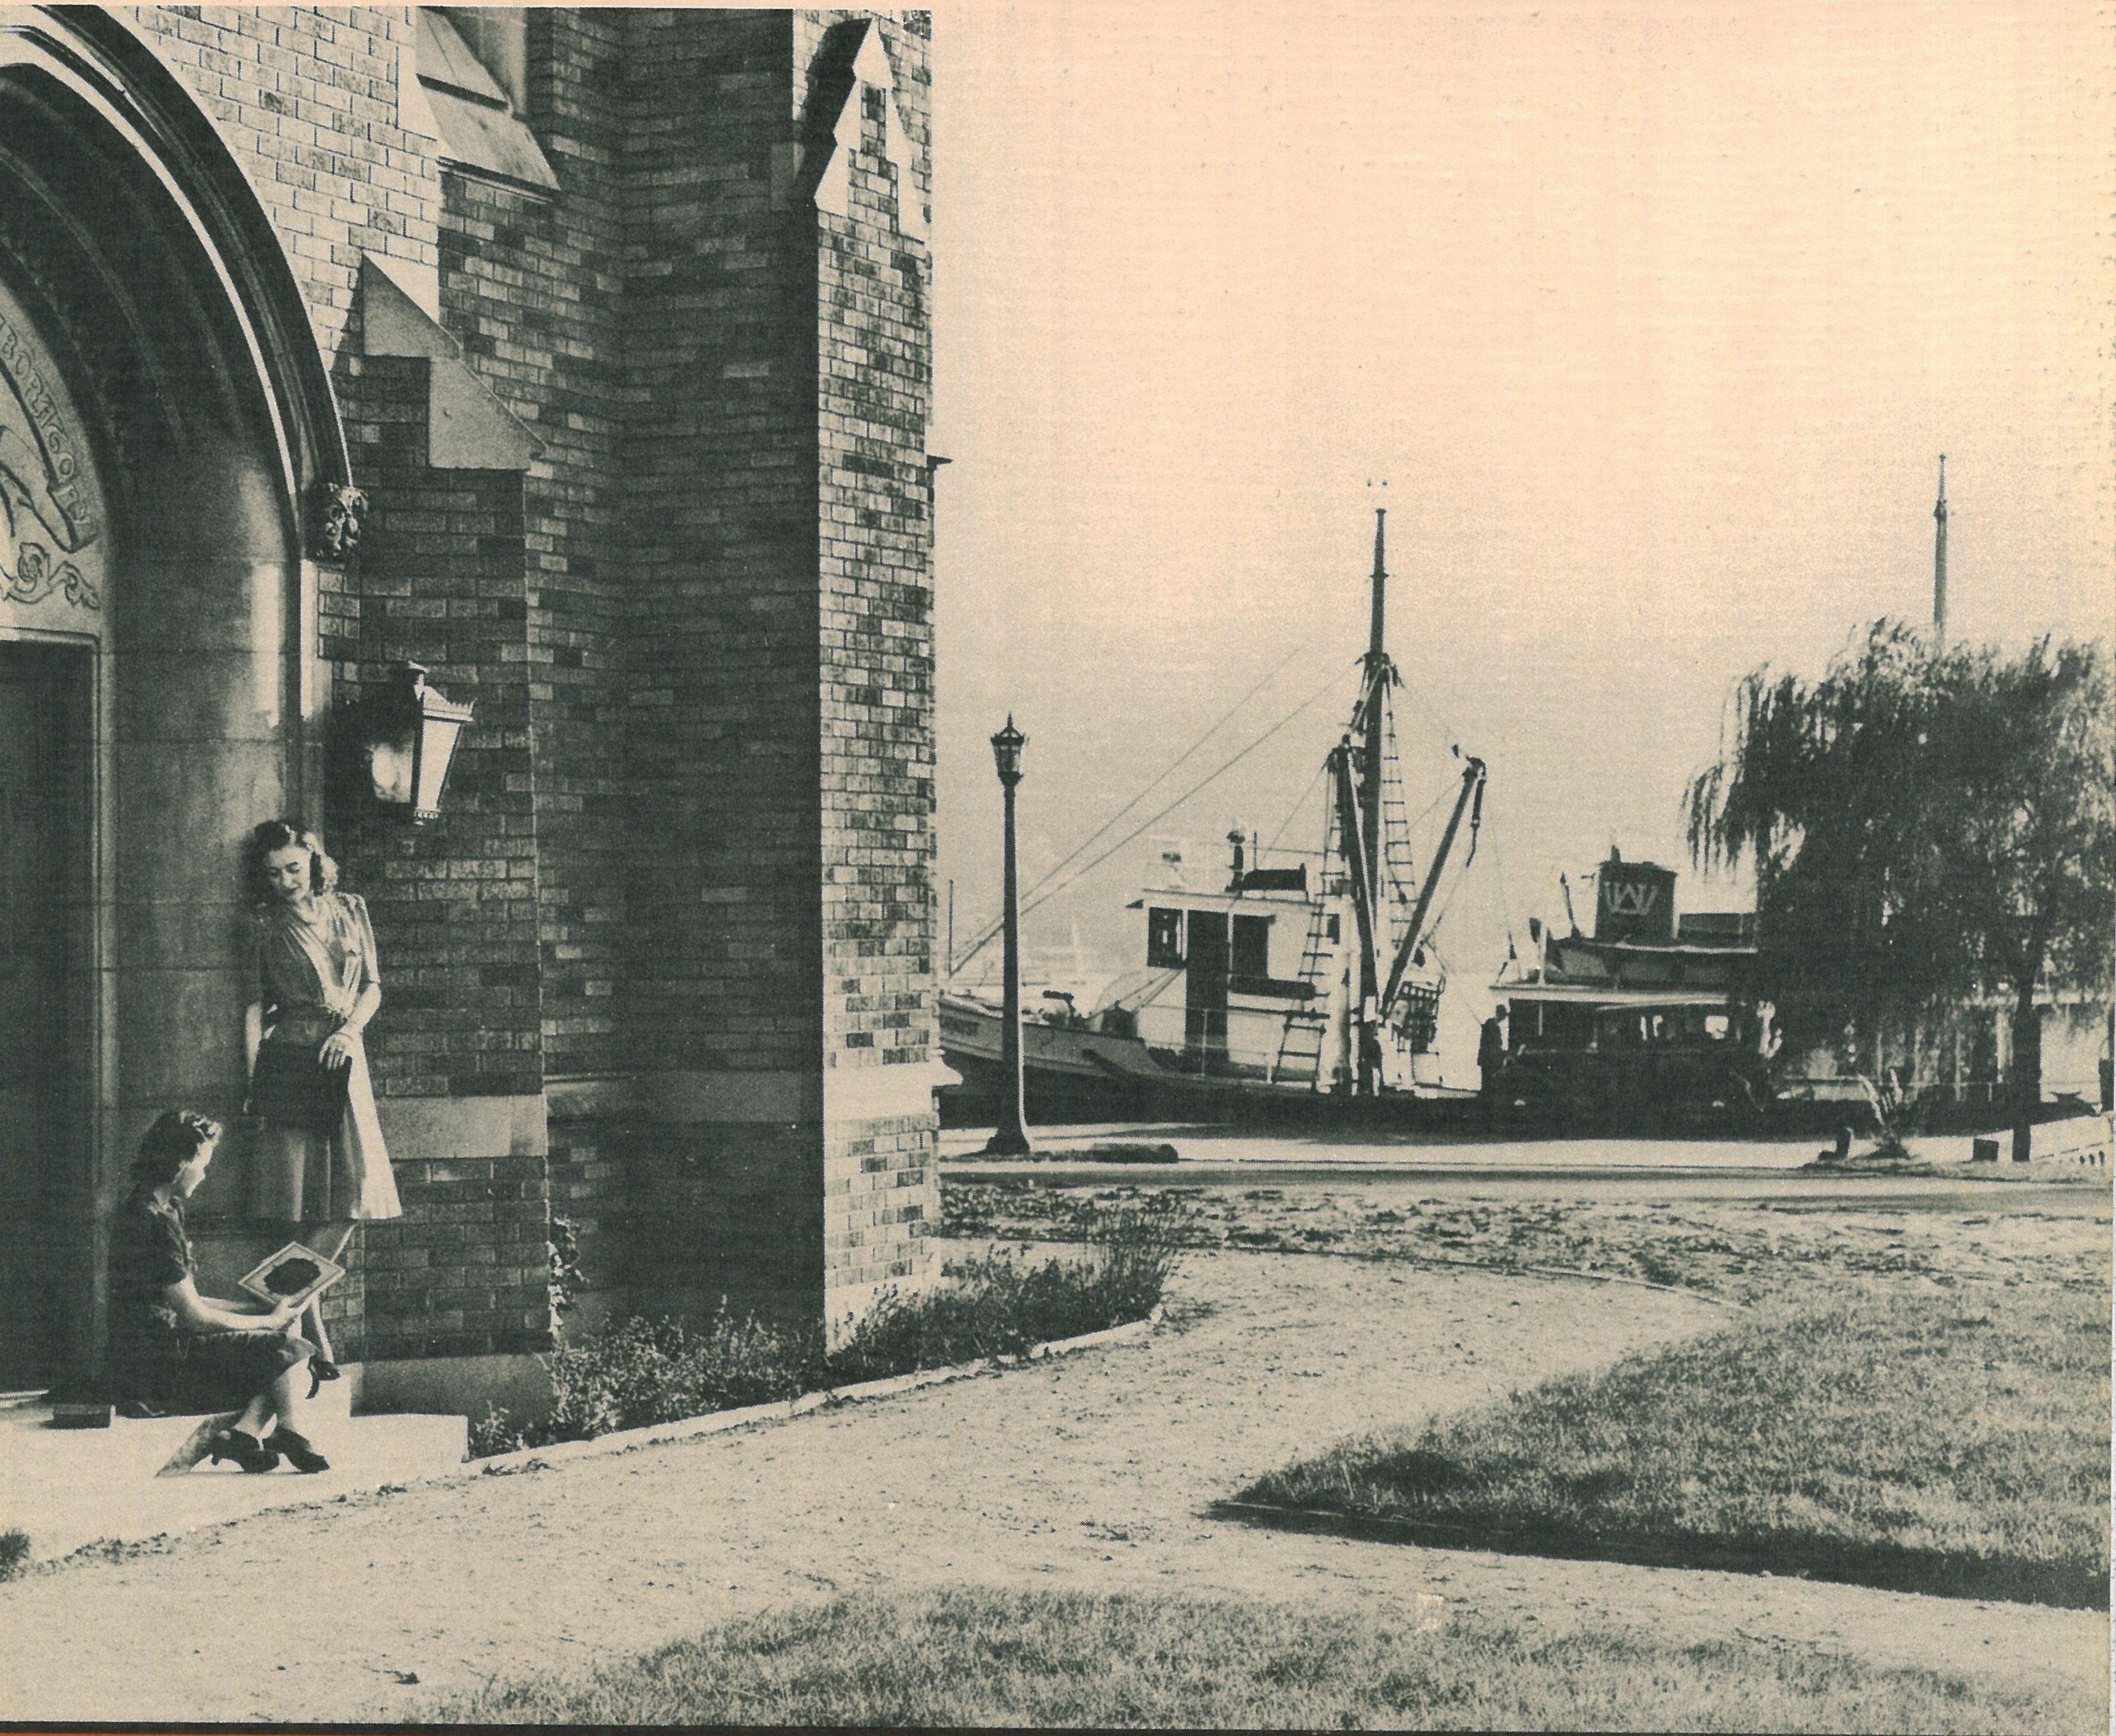

THE Quadrangle will be complete with the opening of classes in the Social Science building next fall.

COED SPORTS CENTER

THE women's Gym which nearly all students pass during some part of the day . . . houses women's sports . . . weekly mixers . . . the dance theatre where annual dance drama is given is only one of its kind in the West.

FLOATING LABORATORY

THE Catalyst and Oceanography building . . . laboratories of graduate research . . . The Catalyst, a floating classroom, makes trips from its Washington base to Alaska and Pacific points.

THE days of the school year are racing to the end. One more year has almost passed, one more year of physical and mental growth, of growth toward that time when you of today's youth will be tomorrow's leaders. You will first of all be rulers of your own lives. Make them purposeful and kindly. You will also be the rulers of our beloved democracy. From your hands it will be a better democracy than anything we yet have seen, but, my guess is, it will be built on the same old solid foundation stones of personal liberty and responsibility. Good wishes to all of you.

A typical meeting of the University Board of Regents with President Sieg and Dean Condon, Secretary to the Board

REGENTS

The University Board of Regents is composed of six Washington residents who have been elected to the Board, and who are willing to serve the State without compensation. They superintend all financial affairs of the University, elect the faculty, and are the ultimate authorities in courses of study. Thomas Balmer, President of the Board, is a Seattle attorney and is prominent in Spokane as a mining engineer and broker. Philip MacBride went to school with President Sieg and is at present an attorney in Seattle, as is Winlock W. Miller, chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee. The new Social Science Building is his pride and joy. Werner A. Rupp is the publisher of the Aberdeen World and is the administrator of University endowment lands. Edward P. Ryan, a Spokane business man, brings the experience of an extensive business interest and judgment to the Board. Alfred Shemanski, Seattle business man, is well known for his interest in civic and philanthropic work.

Administrators

*David Thompson, Vice-President, emeritus
This genial vice-dean of the College of Arts and Sciences is head of the department of Classical Languages and Professor of Latin.*

*Top Row: Henry A. Burd, Raymond C. Davis. Middle Row:
Charles C. May, Dean New-

Henry A. Burd, Director of Summer School, is a Professor of Economics and Business in the winter . . . likes both his jobs. Raymond C. Davis, Comptroller, handles the maze of figures which make up the budget of the University with the accuracy of Aristotle. Charles C. May, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, takes great pride in the many advances recently made on Washington's campus. Dean Newhouse, Registrar, has greatly simplified our registration, making it one of the most progressive systems in the United States. Charles W. Smith, Chief Librarian, has plenty of help, but keeping track of 468,000 books is no easy job. Harry E. Smith, Director of Extension Service, enables students who are not able to come to the campus to take courses which give them regular University credit.

Miss May Dunn Ward, Dean of Women

Deans of Women

Alert, sympathetic . . . has amazing insight into the special problems of students . . . believes that students should learn cooperation and benefit from group life through extra-curricular activities. Is a steak "fan" . . . likes to entertain her friends at her camp in North Edmonds and likes to do the actual building work on the camp herself.

At ease in any situation . . . noted for her poise . . . likes to invite students to her home for informal teas . . . and the students really enjoy them . . . has a favorite cat . . . likes animals because she thinks they have so much in common with people.

Miss Mary I. Bash, Associate Dean of Women

Herbert T. Condon, Dean of Men

Deans of Men

Affable, keen, friendly . . . loved by students for his sincerity and kindly understanding . . . a background of family tradition, long training and experience in administrative positions qualified him for his important task . . . his friendly guidance and wise counsel have endeared him to generations of Washington students and alumni.

Debonair, energetic, efficient . . . one of the most popular men on the campus . . . handled Freshman Week this year with a new zip . . . his touch electrifies anything he does . . . students like his informality and friendliness.

William H. Botzer, Assistant Dean of Men

Dean Judson Faulknor

Conscientious, affable, and hard-working, Dean Falknor has raised the standards of the University School of Law to create an institution second to none in the nation . . . his fine collection of books and an occasional game of bridge occupy his leisure hours.

Established in 1899, the purpose of the School of Law is to provide a thorough training in the law and to prepare students for practice in any state or jurisdiction where the Anglo-American legal system prevails. In 1938 the professional law course was increased from three to four years. In cooperation with the Washington State Bar Association, the school publishes a quarterly periodical, the Washington Law Review, which is received by all members of the profession within the state.

The University of Washington College of Pharmacy professionally and culturally implements its graduates for work as pharmacists and in other related fields. Some graduates may never practice pharmacy, but the intensive training in chemistry and other sciences fits many of them for research work. Many of the School's former students have been instrumental in furthering progress in pharmaceutical education and the School is proud of its many graduates, both men and women, occupying responsible positions in professional and scientific fields.

Dean Forest Goodrich

One of the younger deans on the campus . . . a graduate of Washington, he is interested in the relationship of plant drugs to medicine and has been instrumental in the establishment of the eight-acre garden of medicinal plants . . . likes to play billiards.

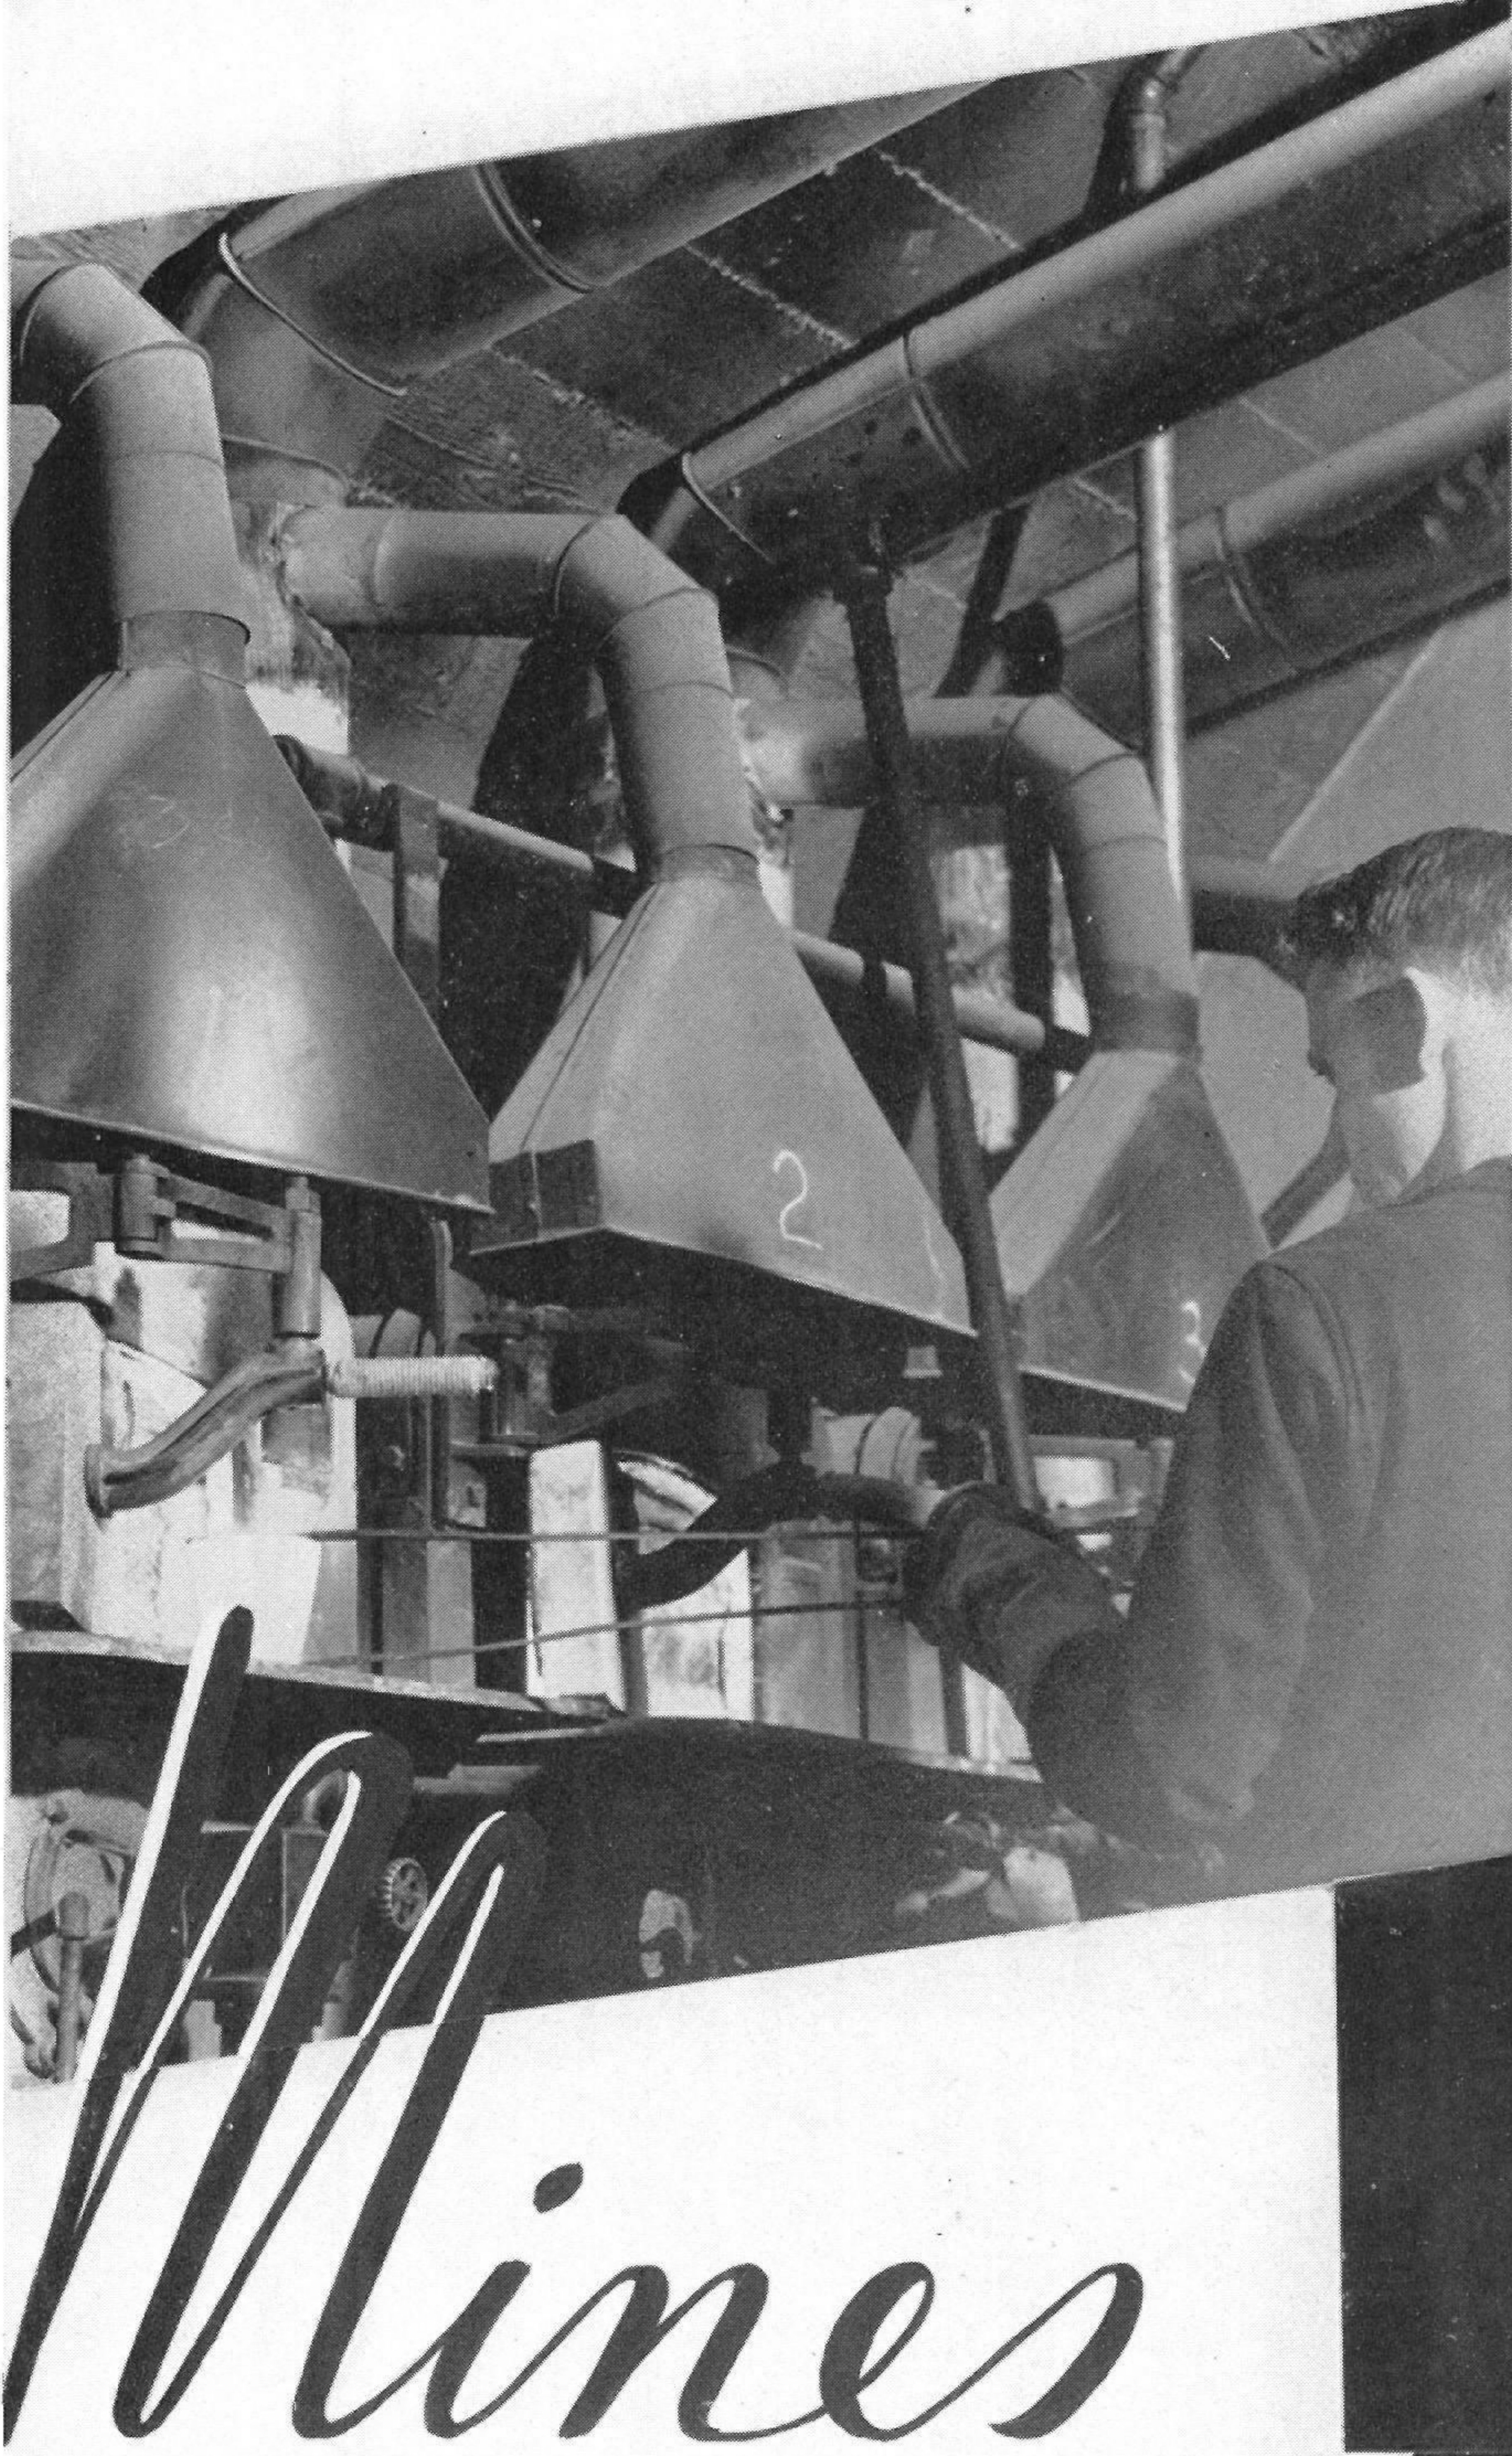

Arts & Sciences

Dean Edward H. Lauer

As successful head of a diversified college, he is qualified as an expert in faculty-student relationship . . . has won nation-wide acclaim for his efforts and success in this direction . . . one measure of his success is his popularity with students.

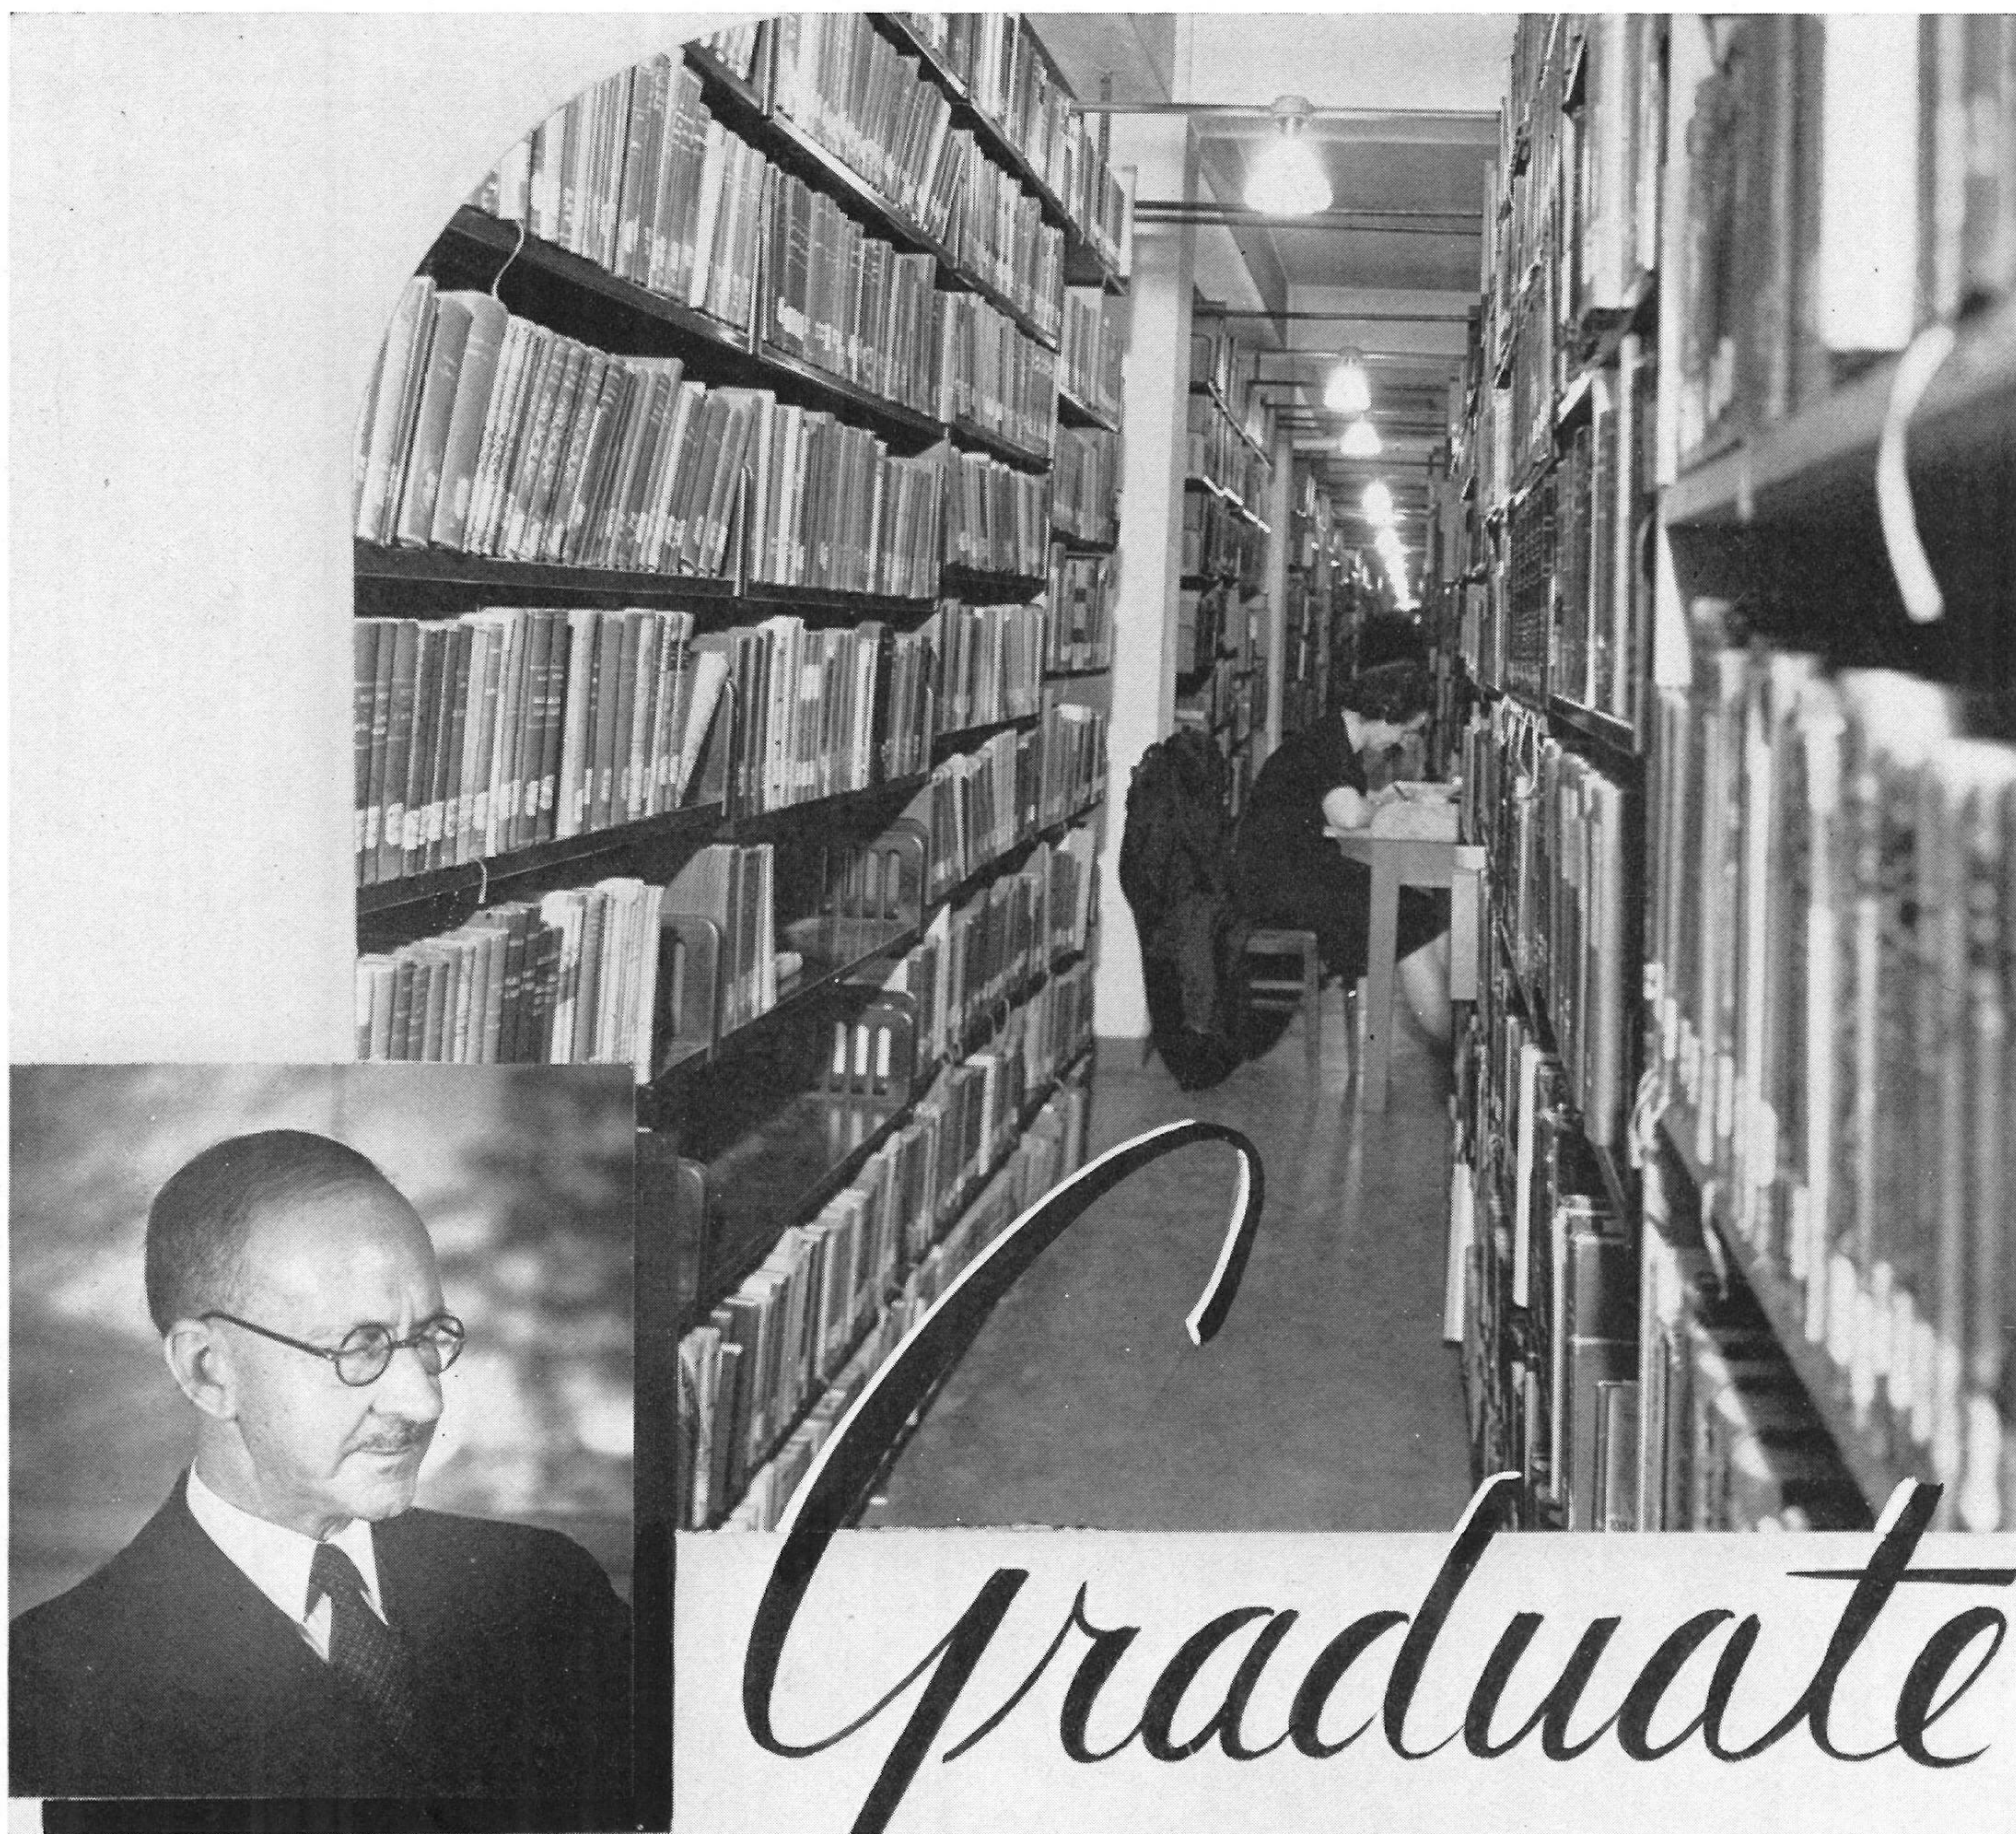

The aims of the College of Arts and Sciences are three-fold. The first aim is to give pre-professional work in such fields as law, medicine, library work, and teaching. Secondly, a student may aim for a general education with a specific major, or he may take general studies without any specialization for the purpose of obtaining a broader and more cultural background. This College has the largest scope of any College at the University and, with its thirty-eight departments, has the largest faculty.

Because of the many opportunities offered trained metallurgists by the vast area in and adjacent to Washington, the College of Mines fills an urgent need of the Northwest. The graduates of the School are trained for the three fields of mining, metallurgical, and ceramic engineering, and are able to take a large part in the growing Washington industry. It is predicted that this industry will continue to grow because the cheap power soon available from the Coulee Dam will cause an expansion in the field.

Dean Milnor Roberts

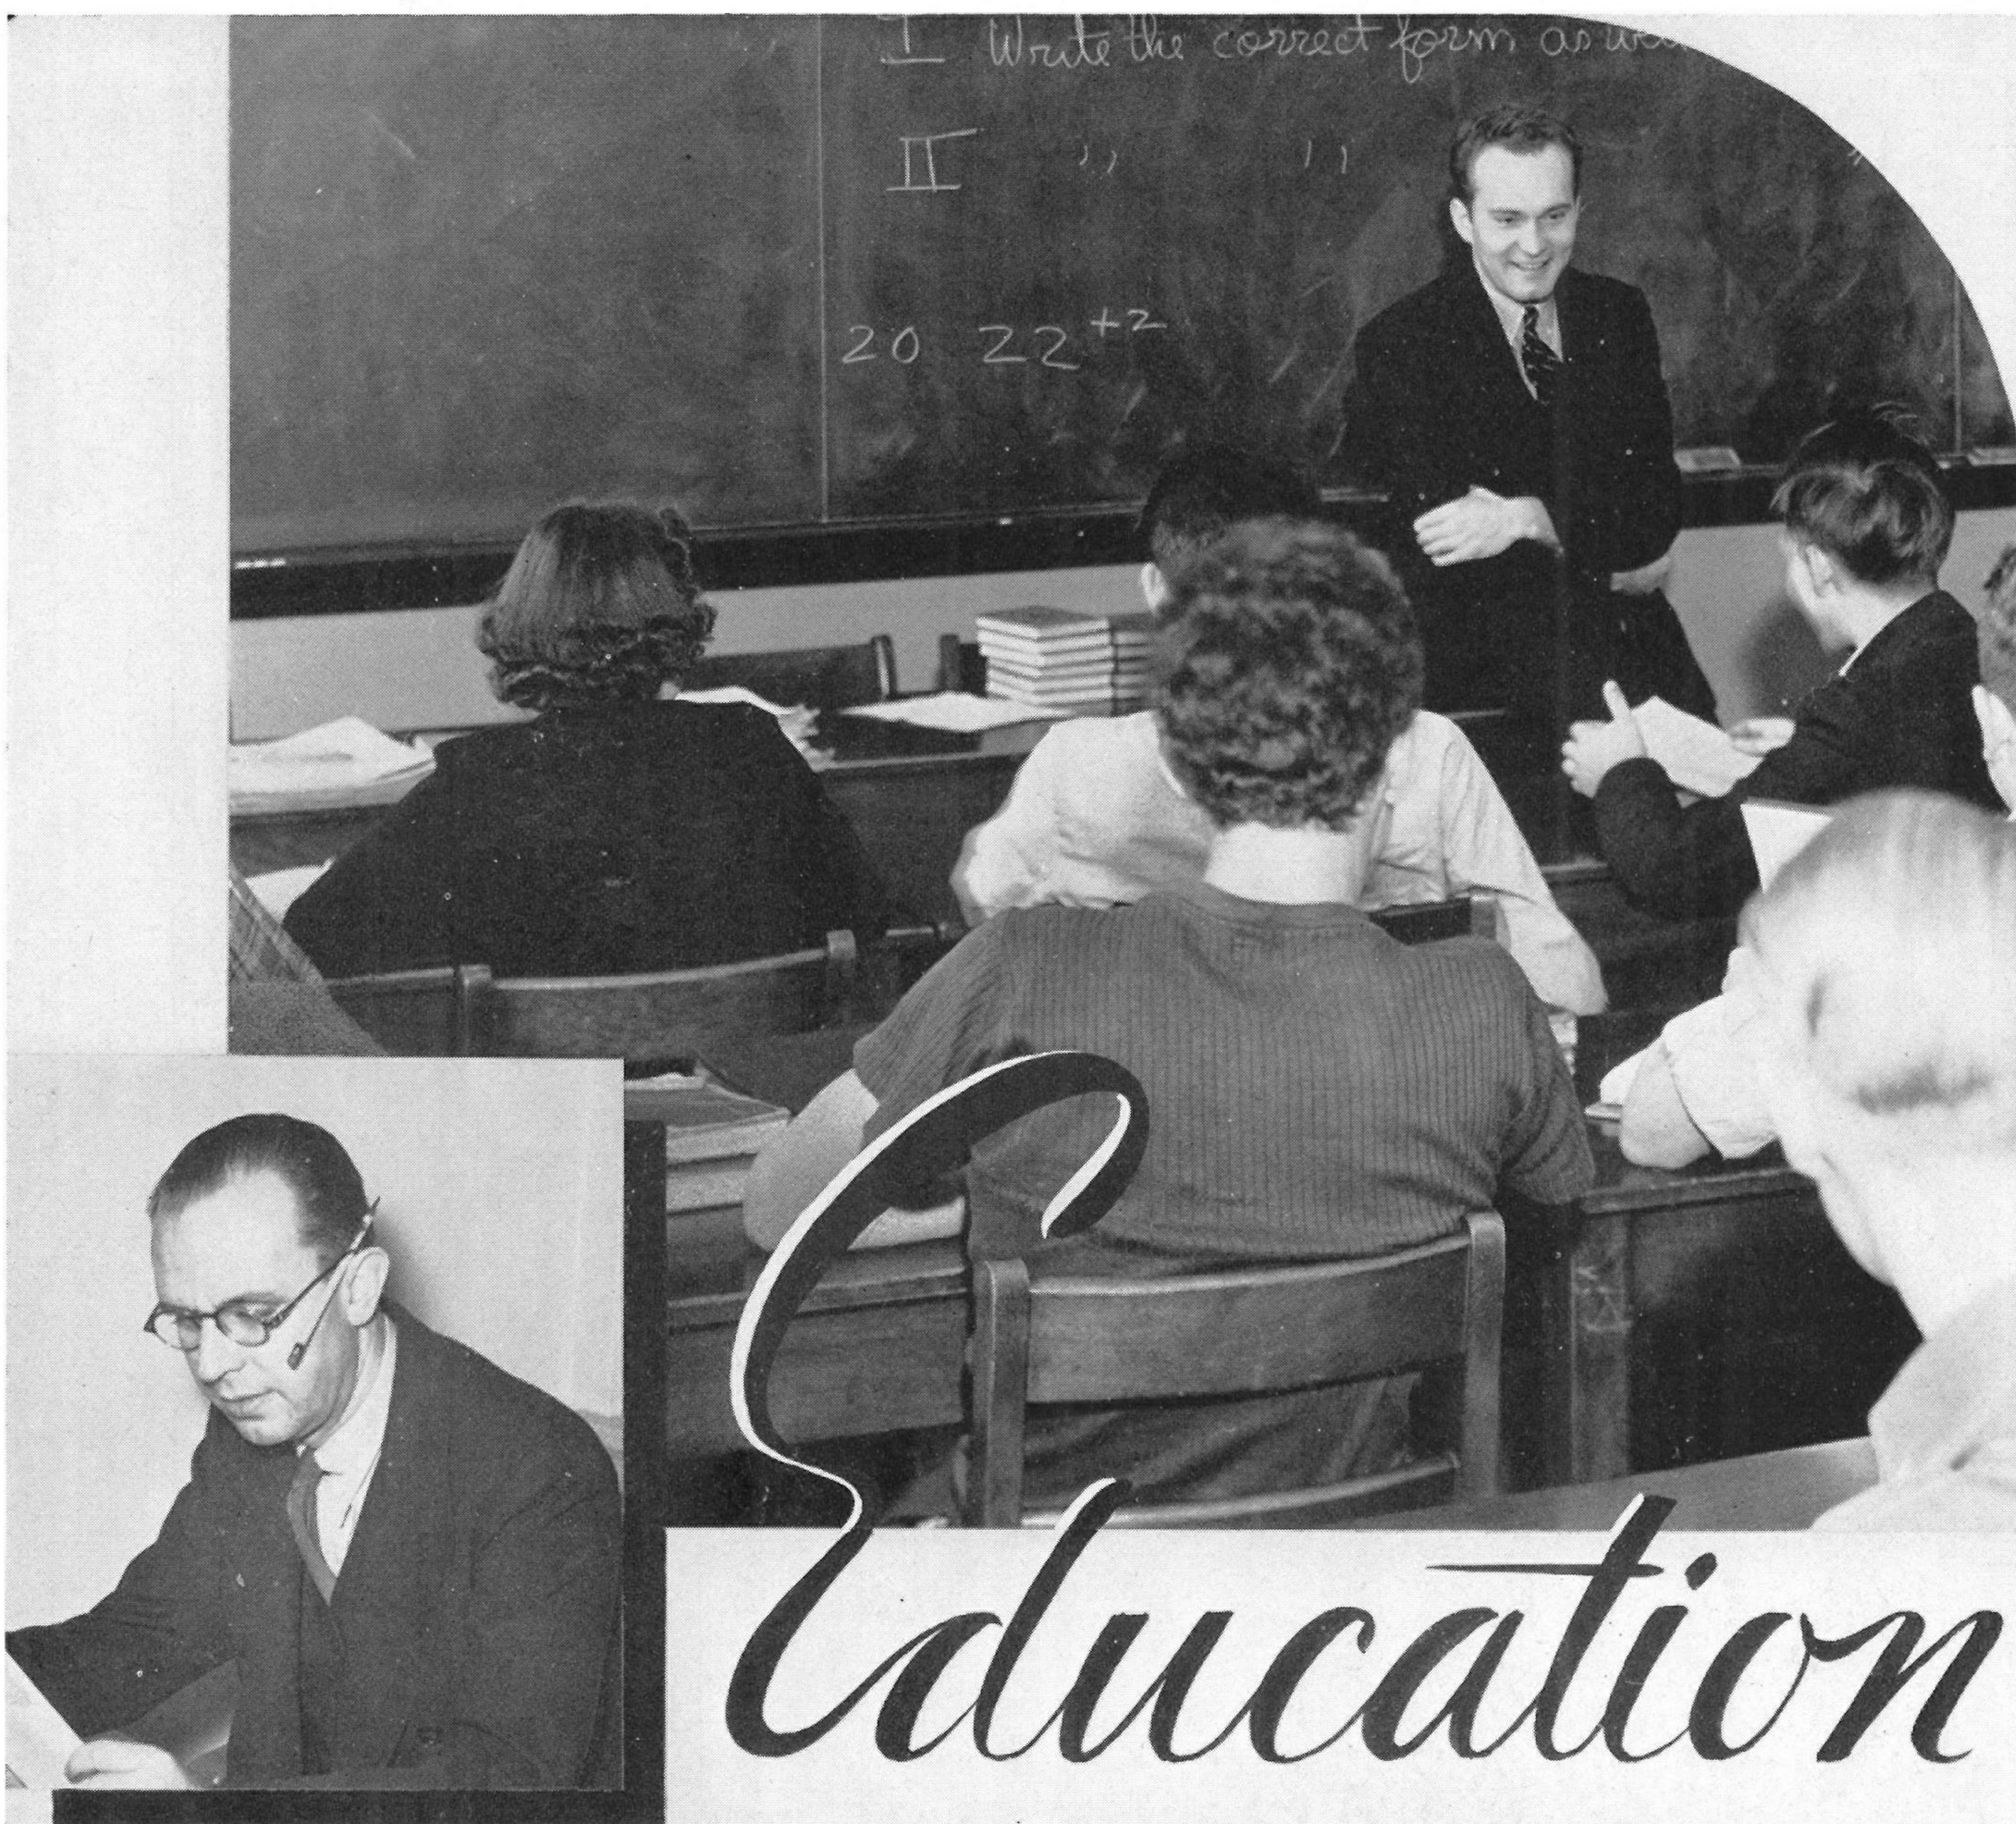

Energetic, scholarly . . . very active in public affairs . . . has a large garden near his house where he and his sister like to give garden parties which have become rather famous . . . has decorated the holly tree outside his house at Christmas time for many years.

Dean Frederick M. Padelford

Charming, scholarly . . . probably the most “deanish” looking man on the faculty . . . his appearance belies a subtle wit and a delicious sense of humor . . . likes to run down little-known facts about the poet Spenser . . . is an ardent golfer.

The University of Washington Graduate School, established in 1911, is responsible for the advanced training of students and for the encouragement and coordination of research. Students of all majors register in this College for graduate work, and the School cooperates with the various departments in their further education and research. This department actually represents a cross-section of the University, sharing its faculty with other Schools. Ours is the leading Graduate School west of Minnesota and north of California.

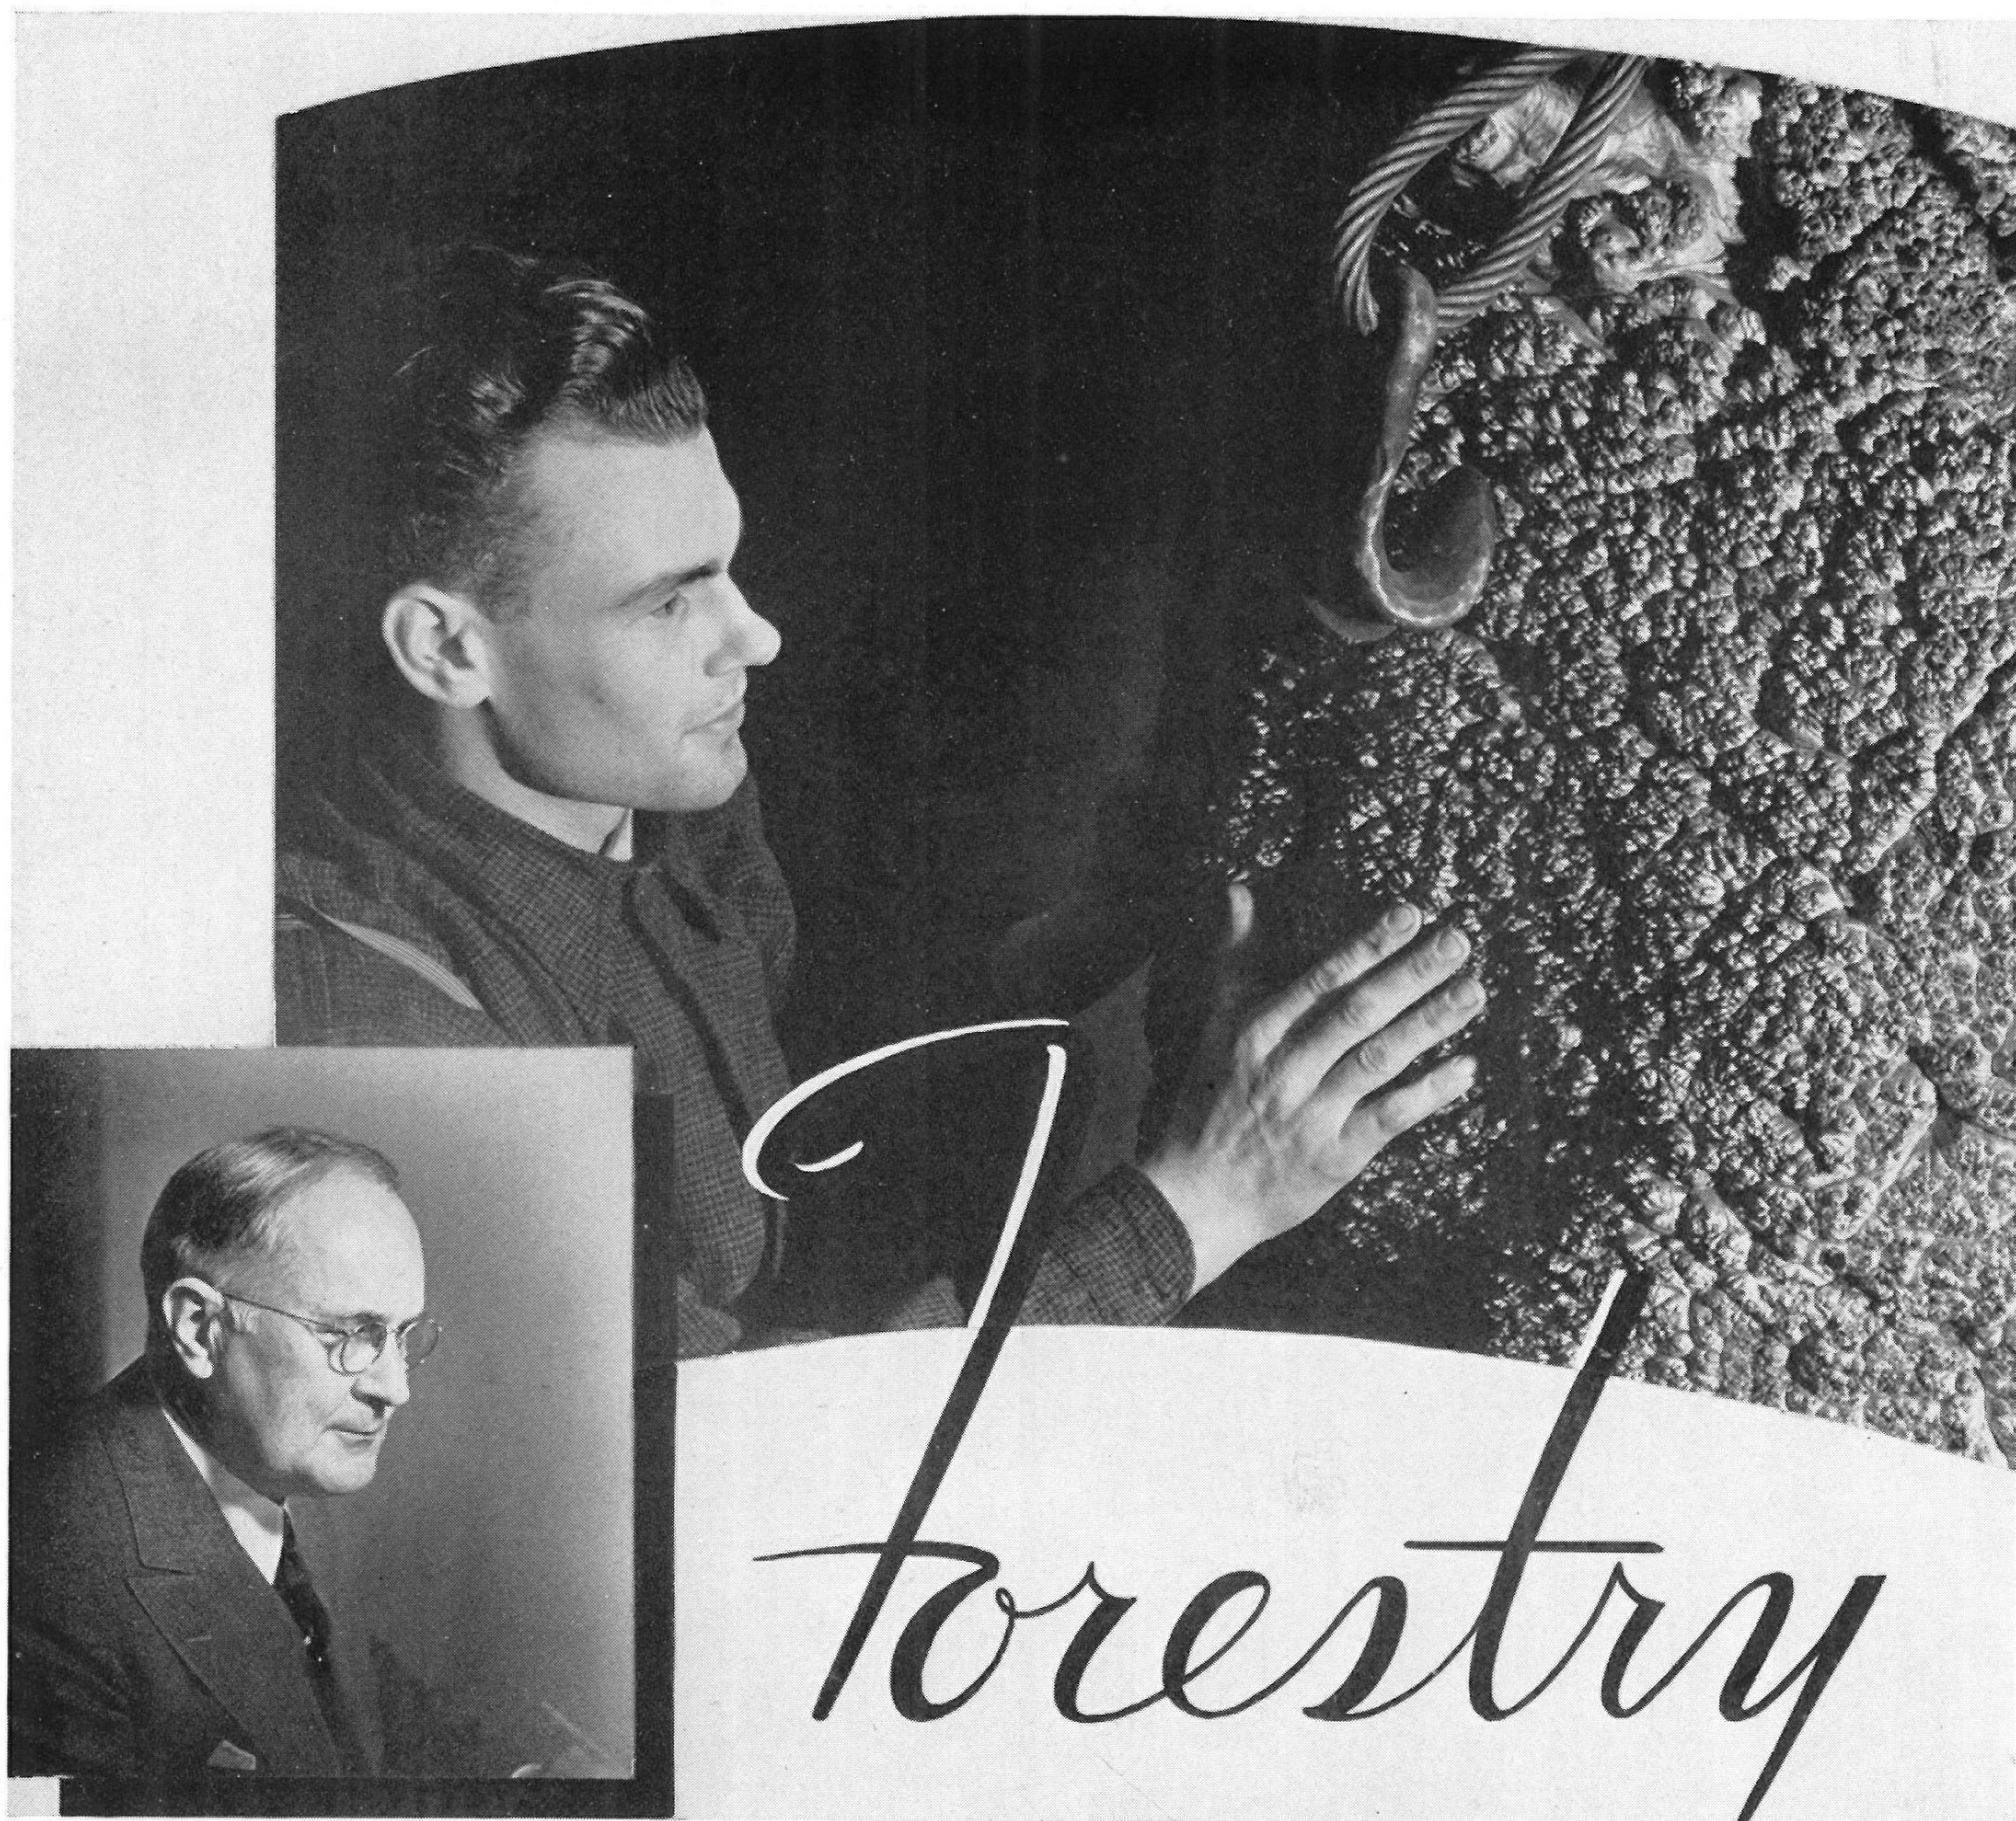

Education

Dean Francis F. Powers

Intense, stimulating, handsome . . . his vitality and interest have made him a popular lecturer and a well-liked man . . . is secretary of national education honorary . . . his special field is educational psychology, about which he has written several books . . . likes to go fishing.

The College of Education offers a curriculum which it hopes will give prospective teachers a broad and liberal education supplemented by professional training, including knowledge of the pupils to be taught and the problems to be met. An attempt is made to professionalize the subjects of instruction and the fundamental principles of teaching. Because of the variety of work that a beginning teacher is likely to be required to do, each teacher must have thorough preparation in two or more fields in addition to his major.

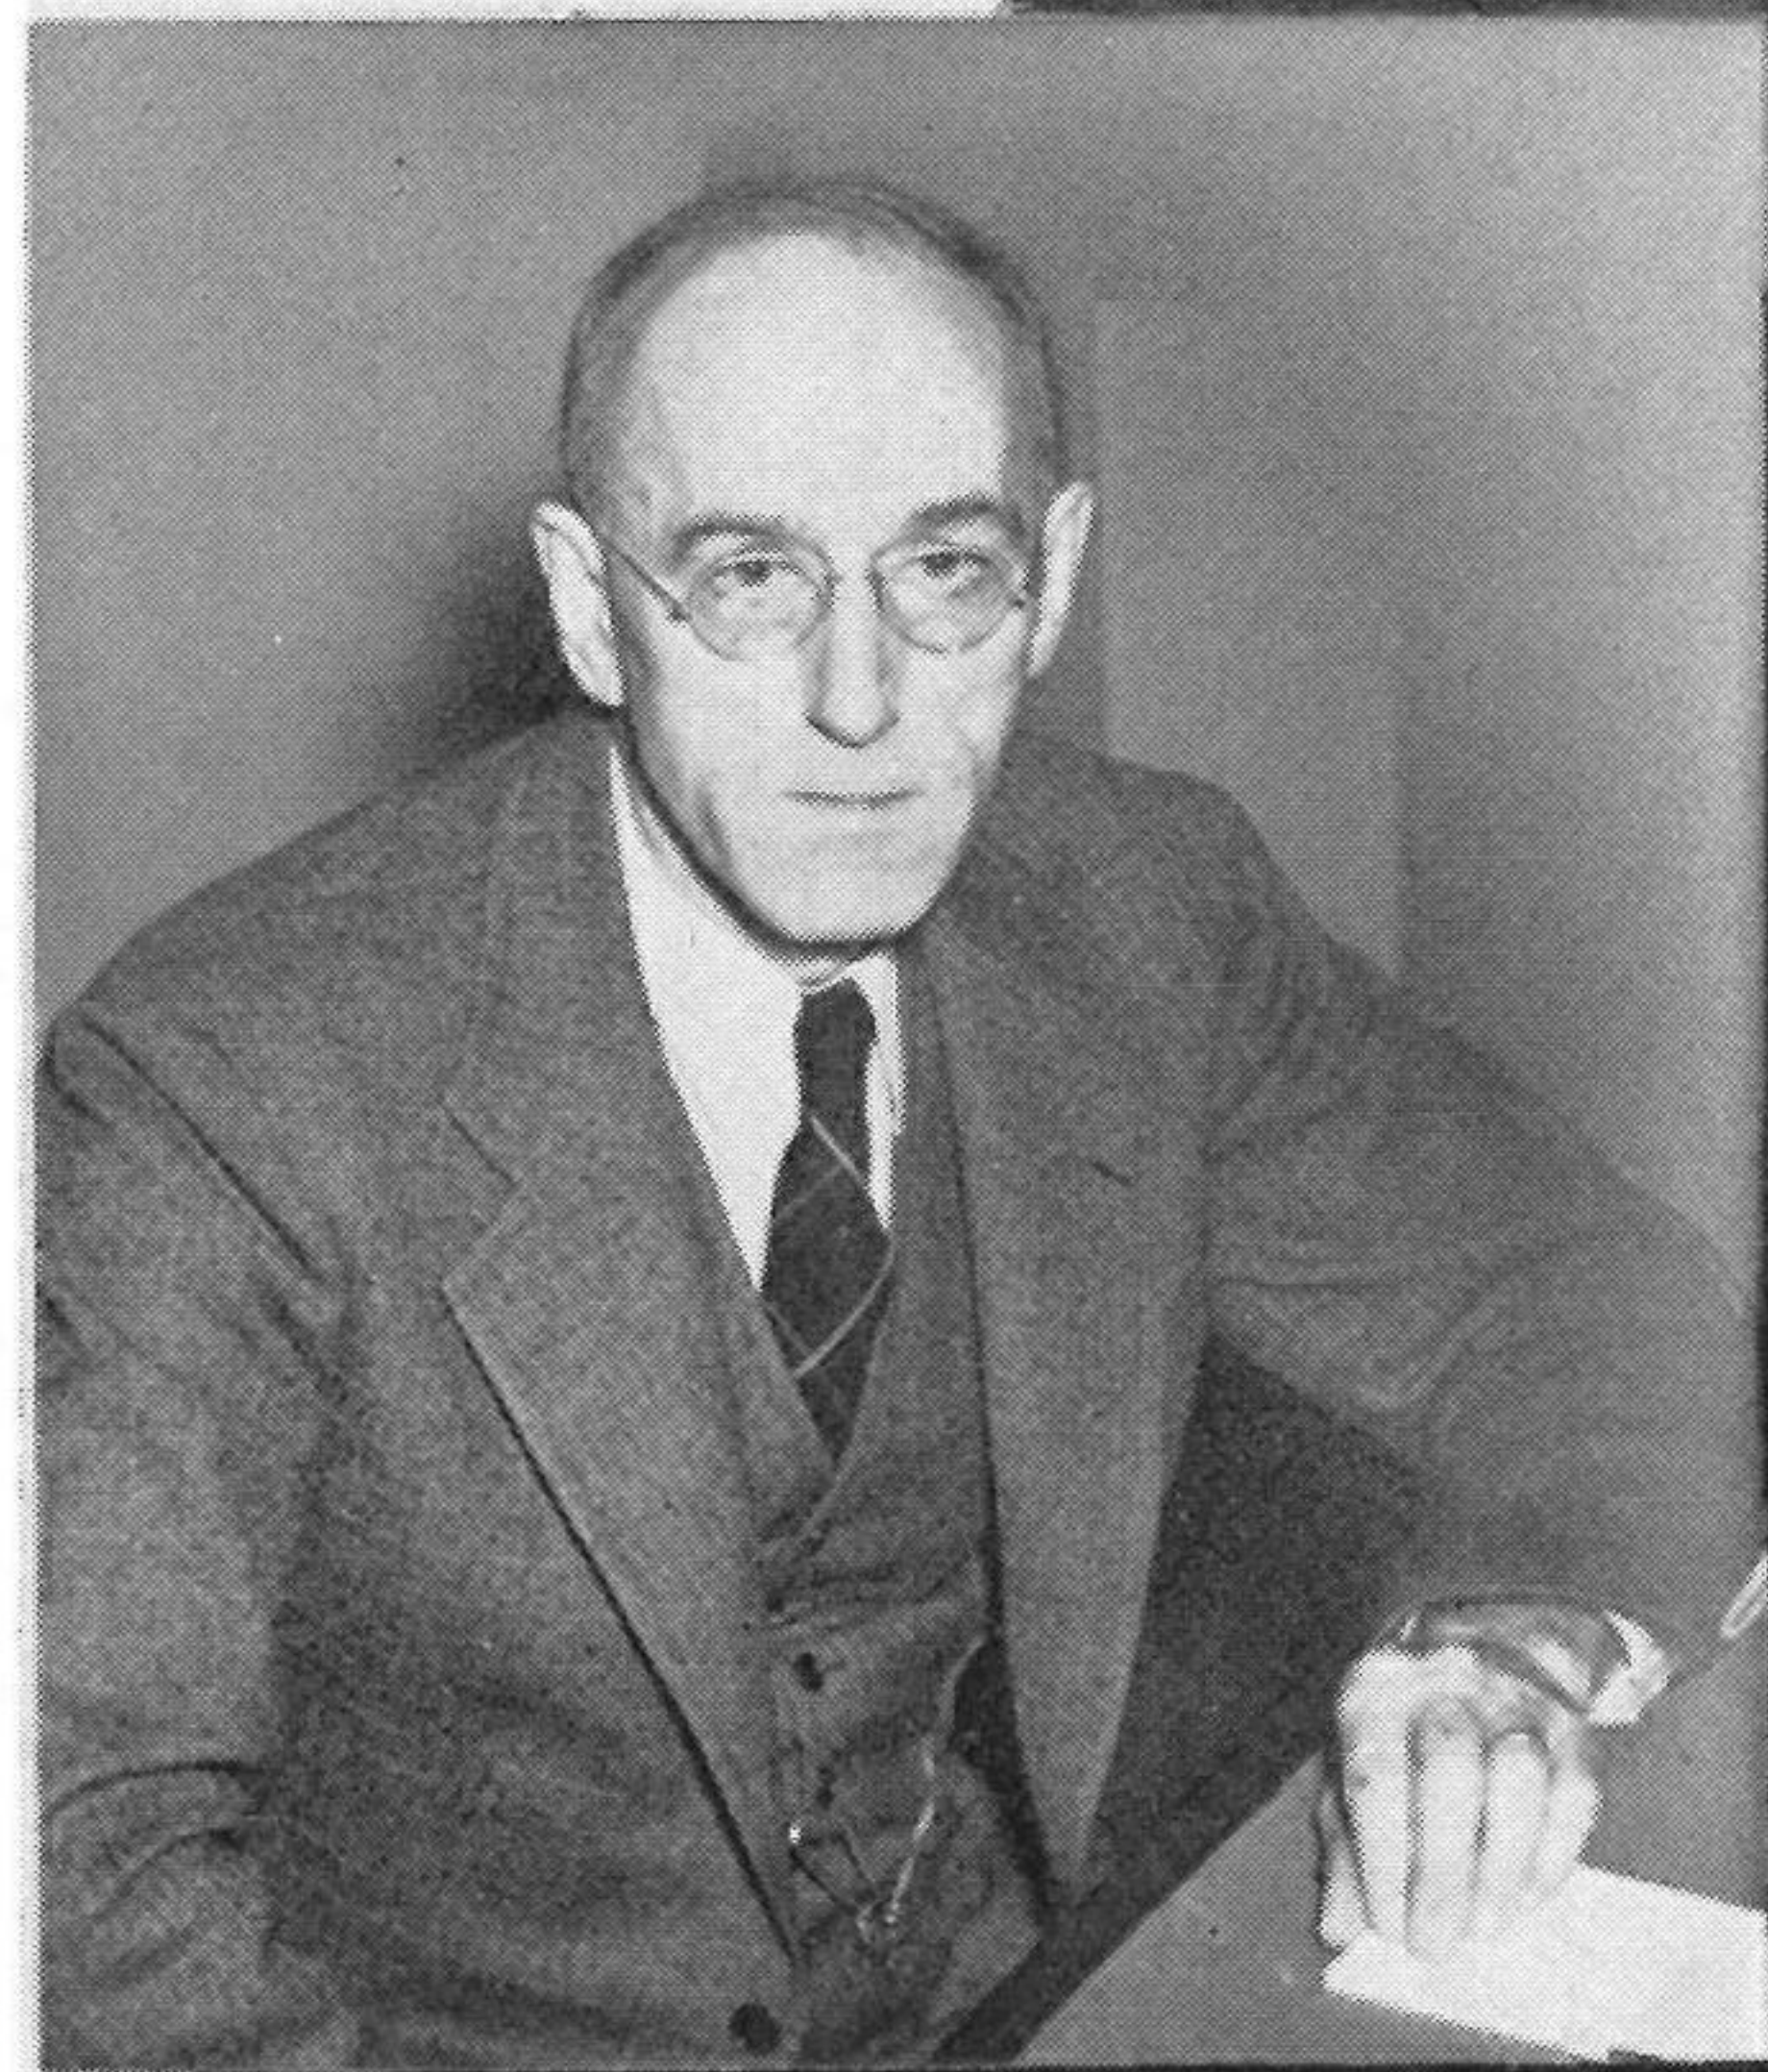

Dean Hugo Winkenwerder

Power behind the Arboretum . . . every brawny forester's heart has a special niche for him . . . his efforts have given the state a forest policy and a code of forest laws far in advance of other timbered states . . . ornithology is his special sideline interest.

The College of Forestry, the fourth largest College in the University, fulfills a great need in a state where stability of labor, industry, and community life will depend on the perpetuity and wise use of our forest resources. The College trains its graduates to enter the fields of government forestry service, logging engineering, and the manufacture and marketing of forest products. Through the excellence of this training it has raised the standards in these fields and has received international recognition.

Engineering

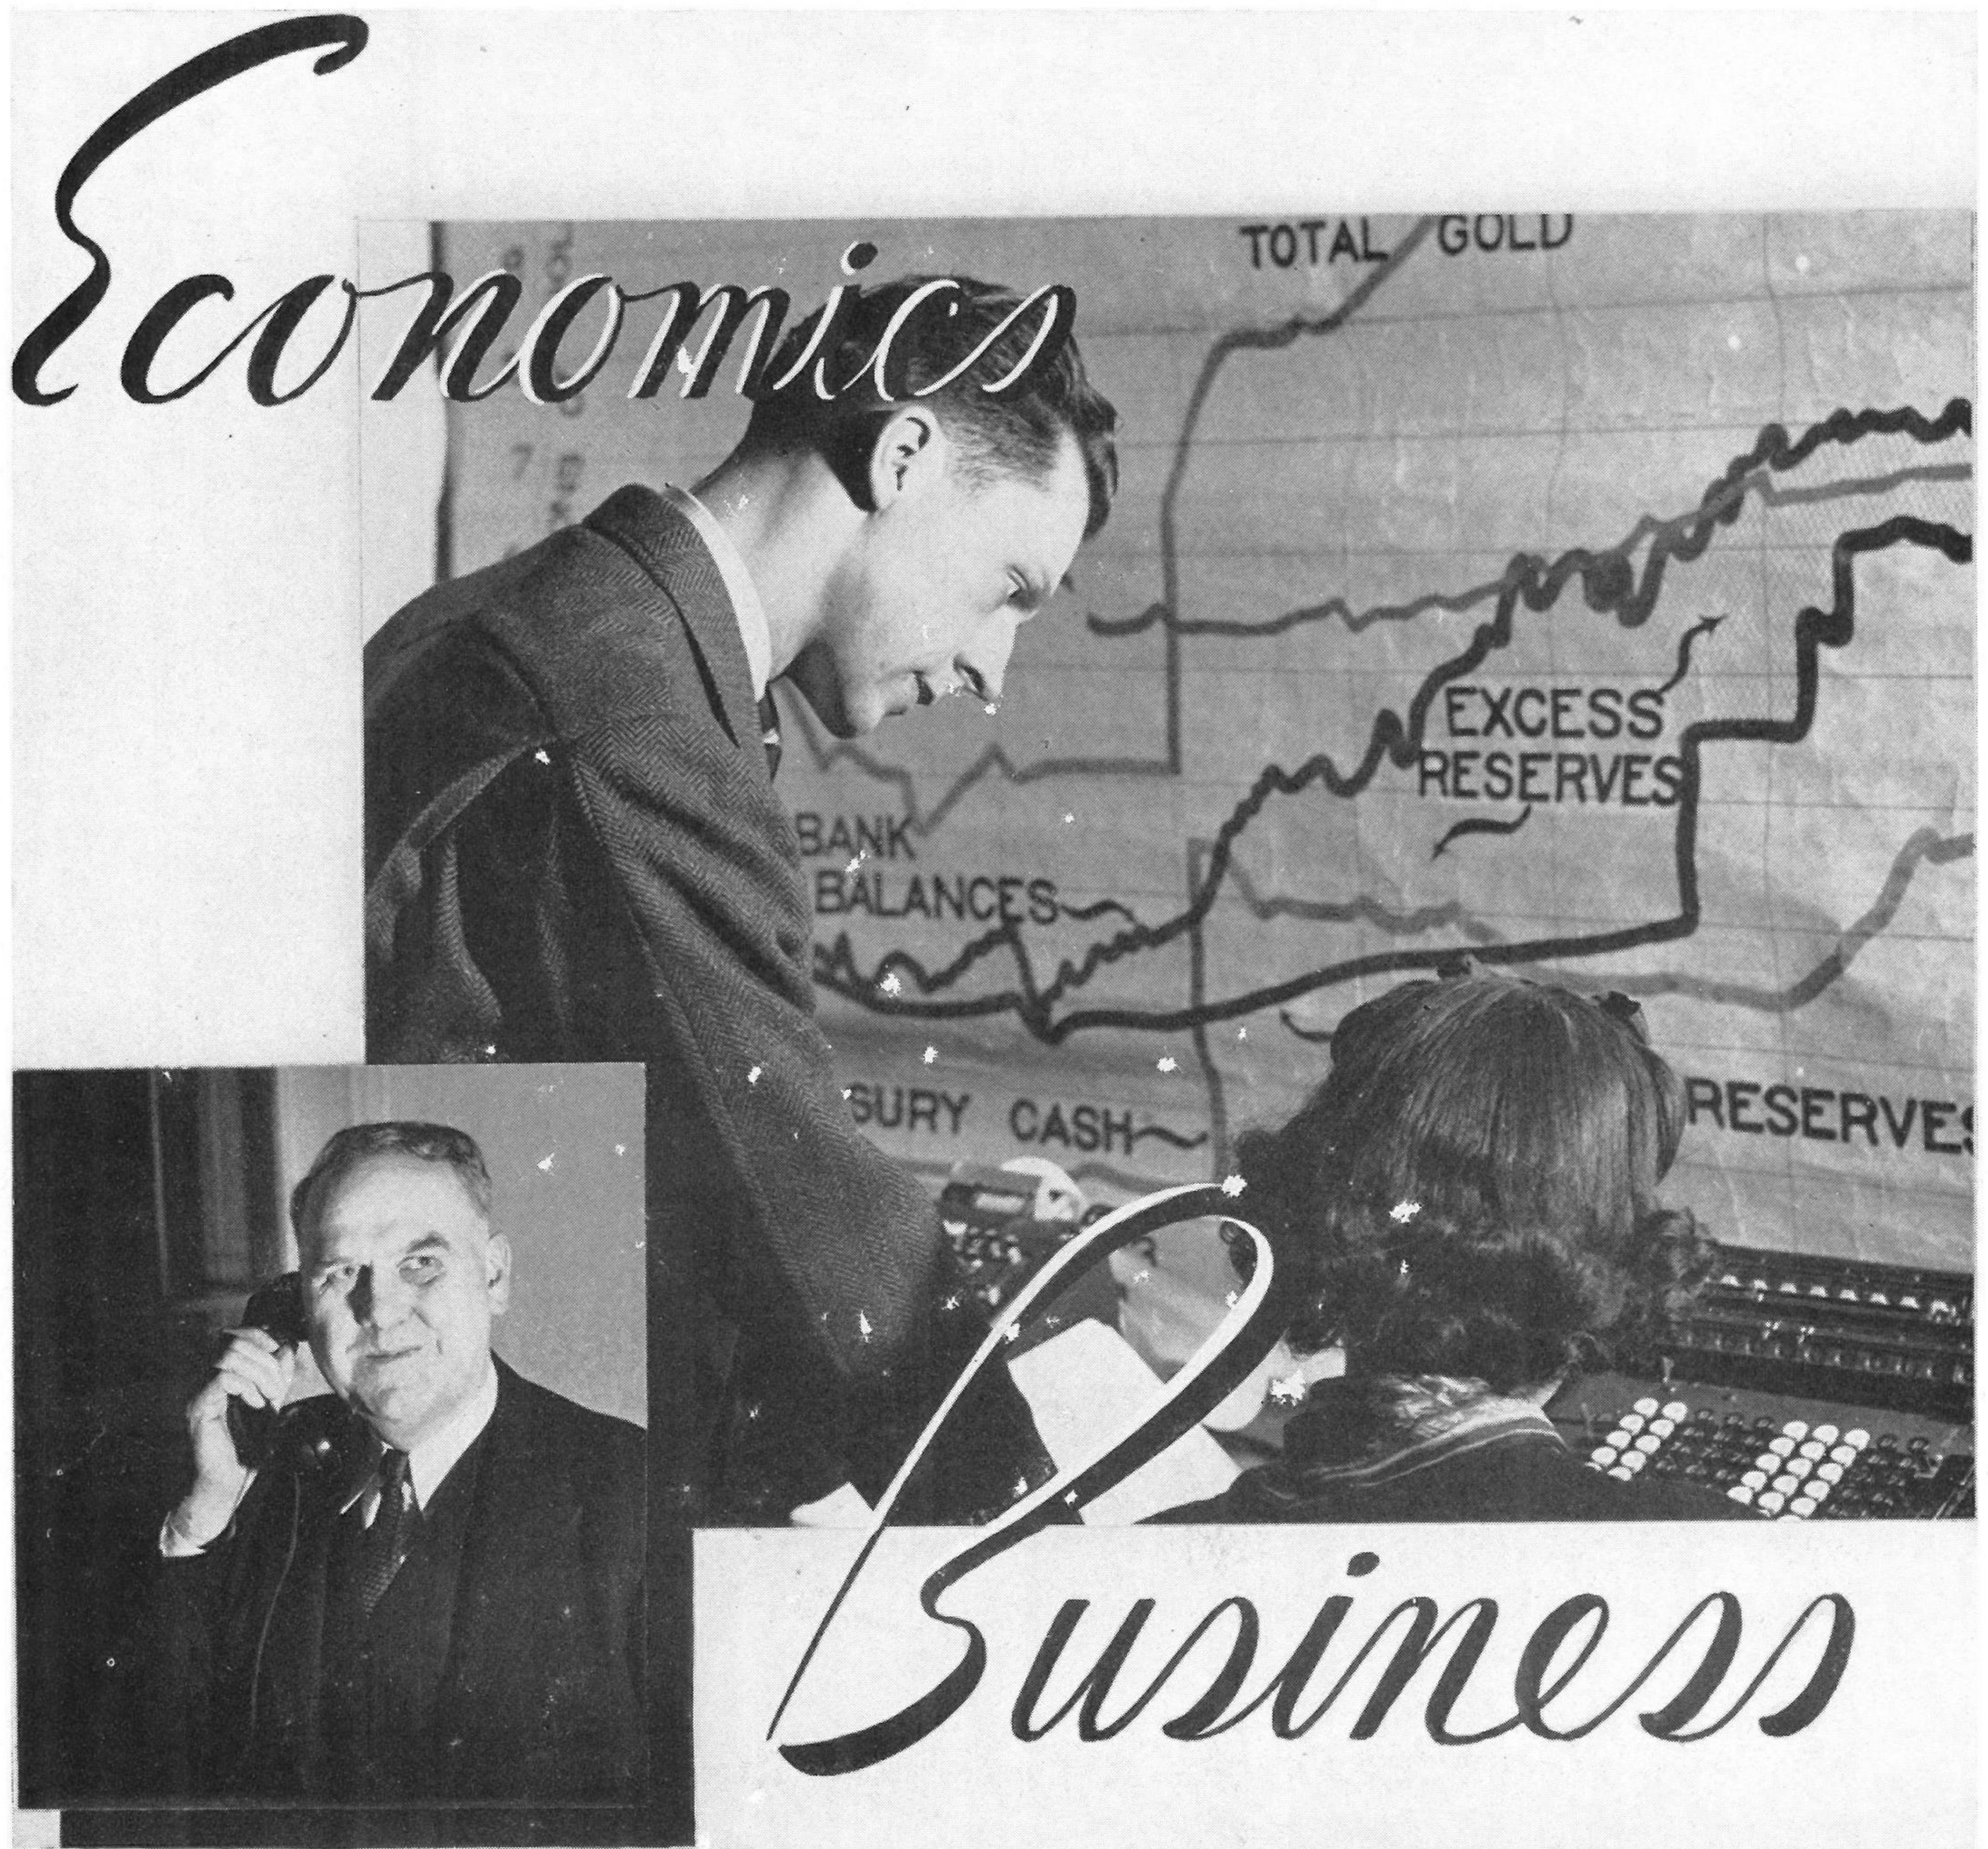

Dean Edgar A. Loew

A nationally distinguished figure in engineering . . . his special field is electric power transmission . . . has completed a book on it which should come out soon . . . he stands behind his engineering boys one hundred per cent . . . and the boys stand behind him.

The College of Engineering prepares its graduates for the practice of engineering in any one of six fields, Aeronautical, Chemical, Civil, Commercial, Electrical, and Mechanical. The School tries to give its students the best possible preparation for an adventure in industry, and offers them the stimulus of sympathetic instruction under which they develop into men of high character and ideals with a sense of fair play, a sense of humor, and the ability to work cheerfully for interminable hours at hard tasks.

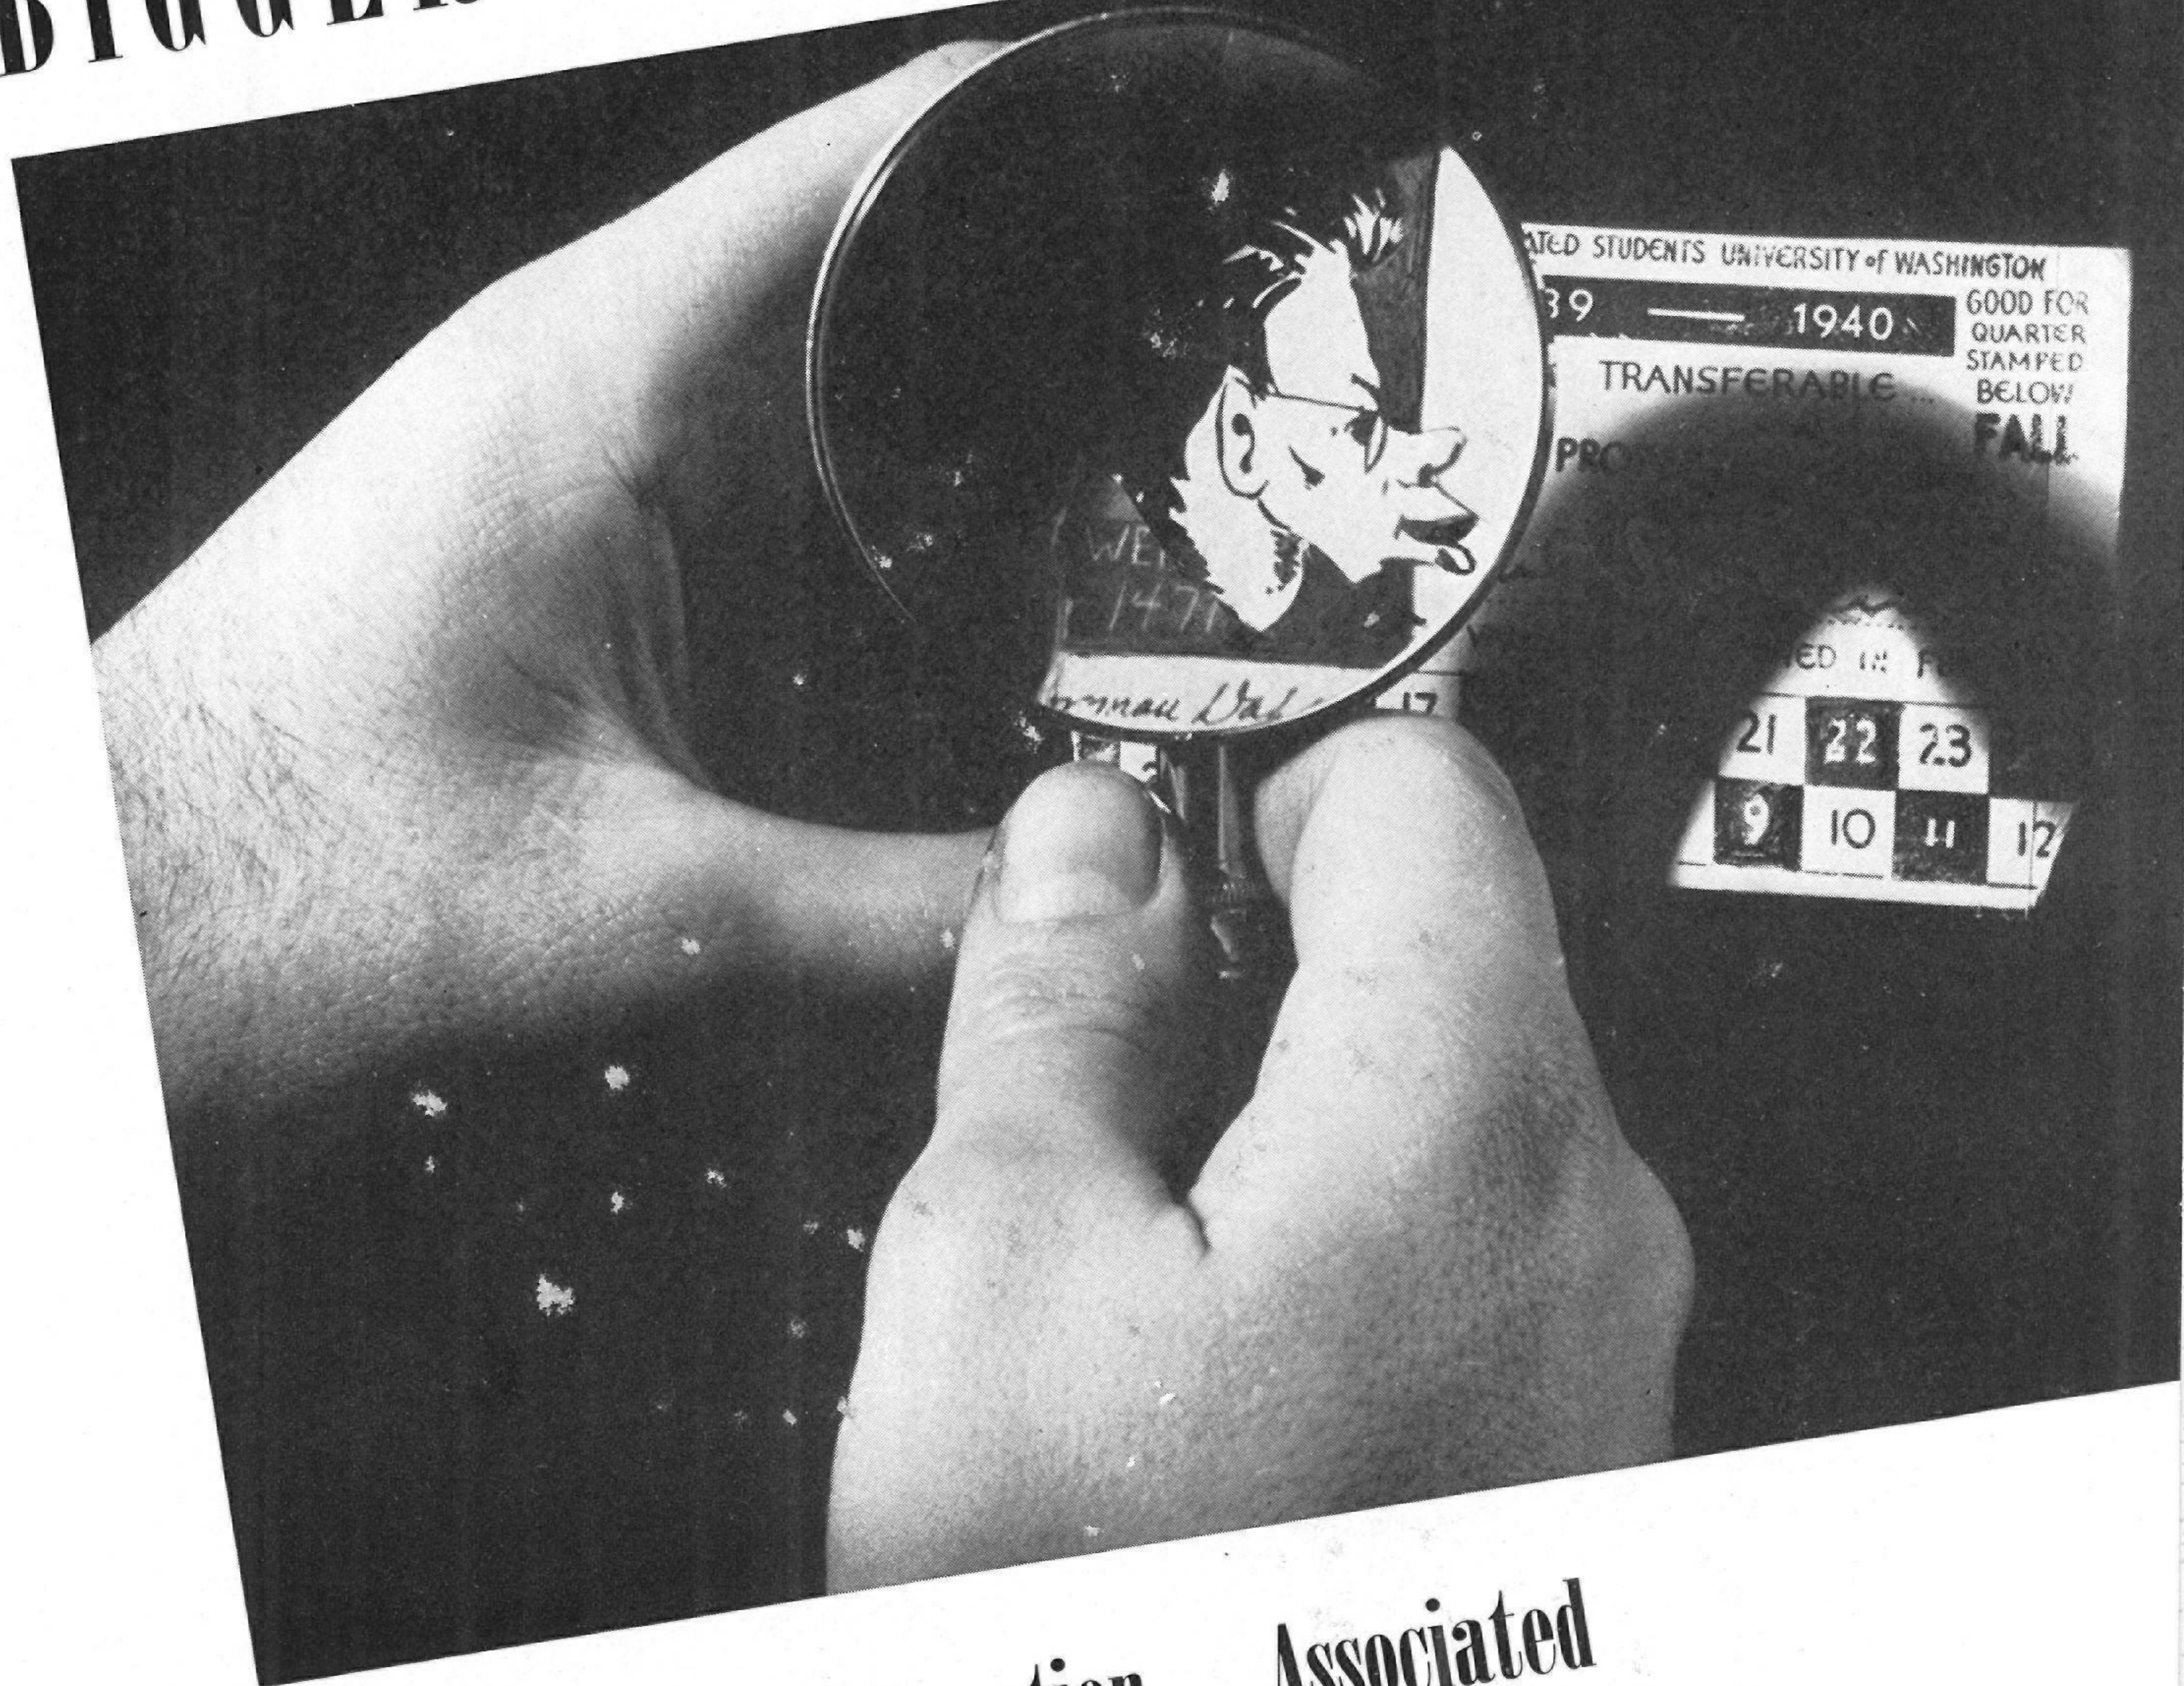

Dean Howard H. Preston

Energetic . . . likes to make speeches . . . his sense of humor makes even a money and banking course bearable . . . knows every student who has graduated from his College in the last nineteen years . . . spends extra time as a track-meet official . . . on YMCA administrative board.

The field offered to students in the College of Economics and Business is one of the most elastic and diversified of those offered at the University. Graduates may find positions on the faculties of colleges, in Public Service and governmental work, as teachers and administrators in public schools, and in business in all of its various phases. The school at the University is one of the most distinguished and successful schools of its kind in the United States.

Innovation this year was the much-needed freshman scholarship offered by ASUW Student Council to deserving high school students living outside of Seattle. Elections committee this year functioned more smoothly, running off elections and solving election problems with finesse. The Council is planning to get in closer contact with the various clubs on the campus in order to find their real needs and opinions. Boon to student loafers and relaxers was the $150 in magazine subscriptions which the Council provided for the Adelphi and AWS Lounges.

MEMOIRS OF A YELL KING

Nothing is more difficult than for a losing team to keep up its morale. This year Washington's football team had a tough season but the spirit of the squad was the best in years. This high morale permeated the entire University and you students displayed that good old college do or die when you attended and cheered week after week during the season. I know that you realized that our ball club was in every game giving every effort to win in the face of set-backs. That's the kind of spirit that puts any team on top.

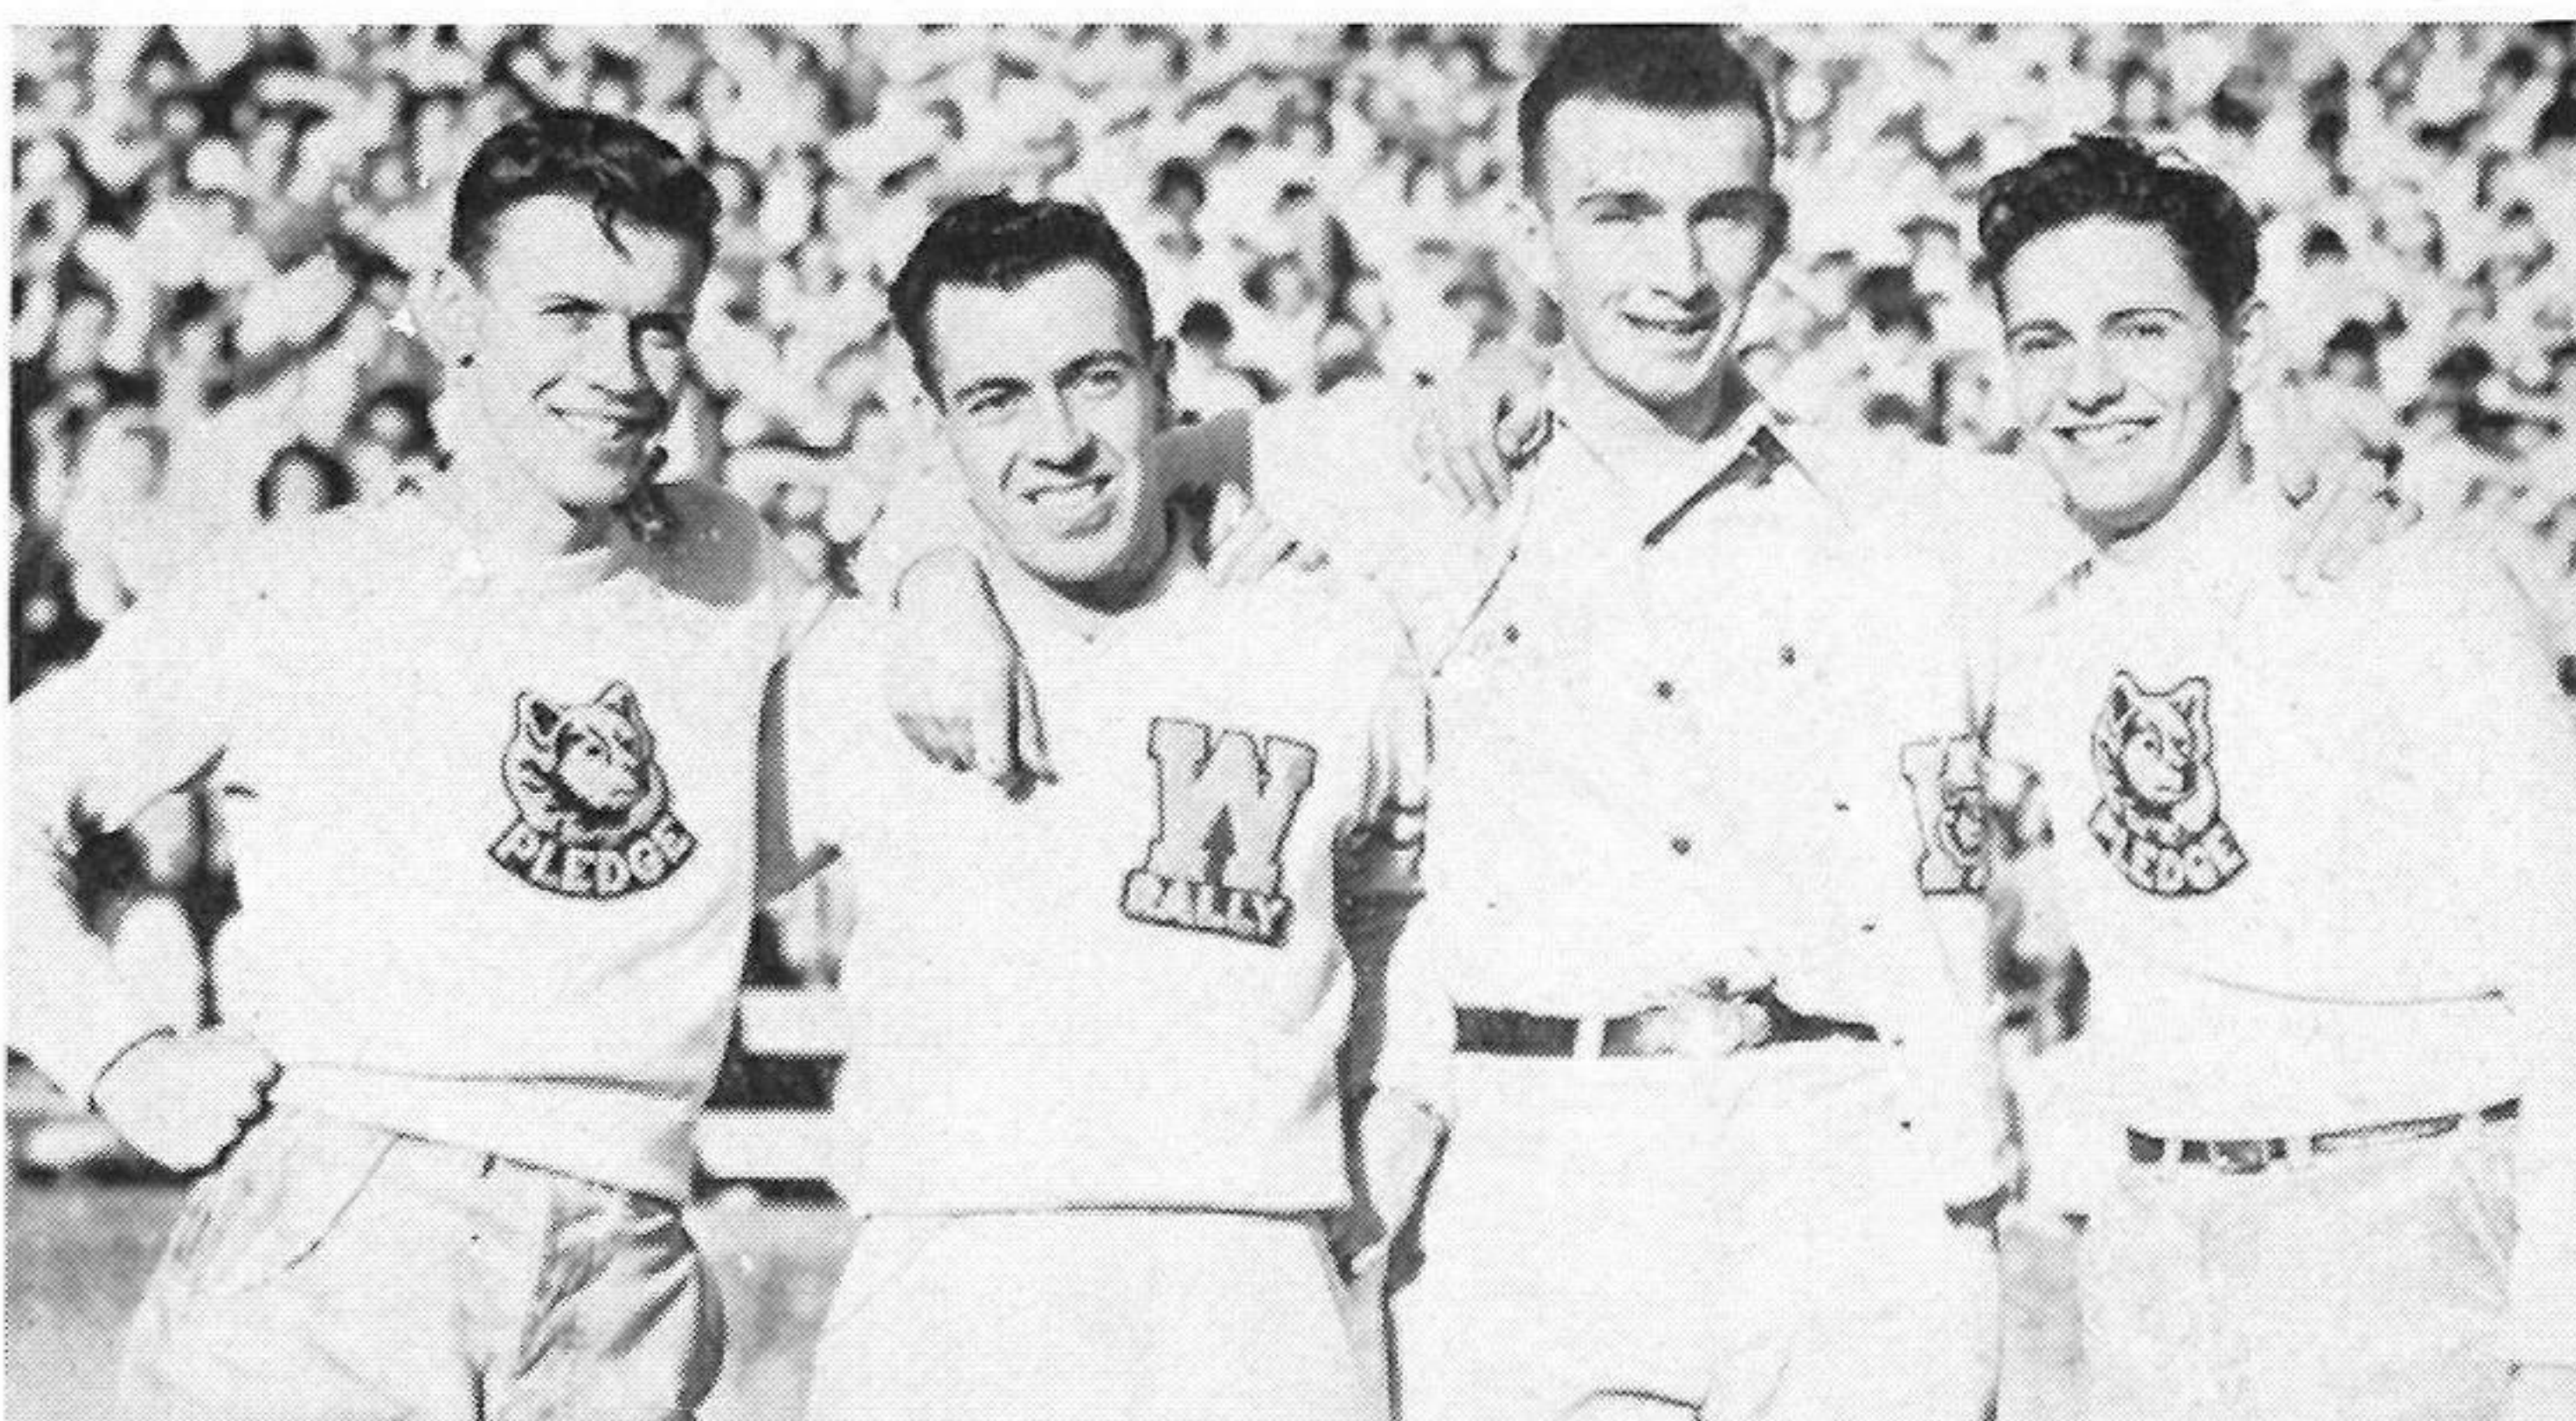

Can a guy forget—those apples in the Pittsburgh game—what a day for the doctor . . . Murray Sennett, the drummer boy . . . when that Montana mascot got the pants but not the leg . . . those Stanford card stunts—the best ever . . . the trip home from Washington State—longest train ride in the world . . . that team of men going on nerve in the U.S.C. game—how I cried like a baby—not the

The Drum Majorettes blossomed out from one baton-twirler to five this year, and opened up a new bag of tricks. Most spectacular of these was the baton relay at the last game. The Women's Rally Committee was responsible for the big double card stunt at the Homecoming Game in which the women got a shot at the mid-game antics. This committee also helped give the Pitt team a super-welcome, and sold pompoms at the games. The Men's Rally Committee re-established the tradition of the Avenue Rally, and put over a very successful Song Fest. Under the chairmanship of Howie Burke the committee was able to produce some lung-busting rallies and gave the homecoming teams some real welcomes.

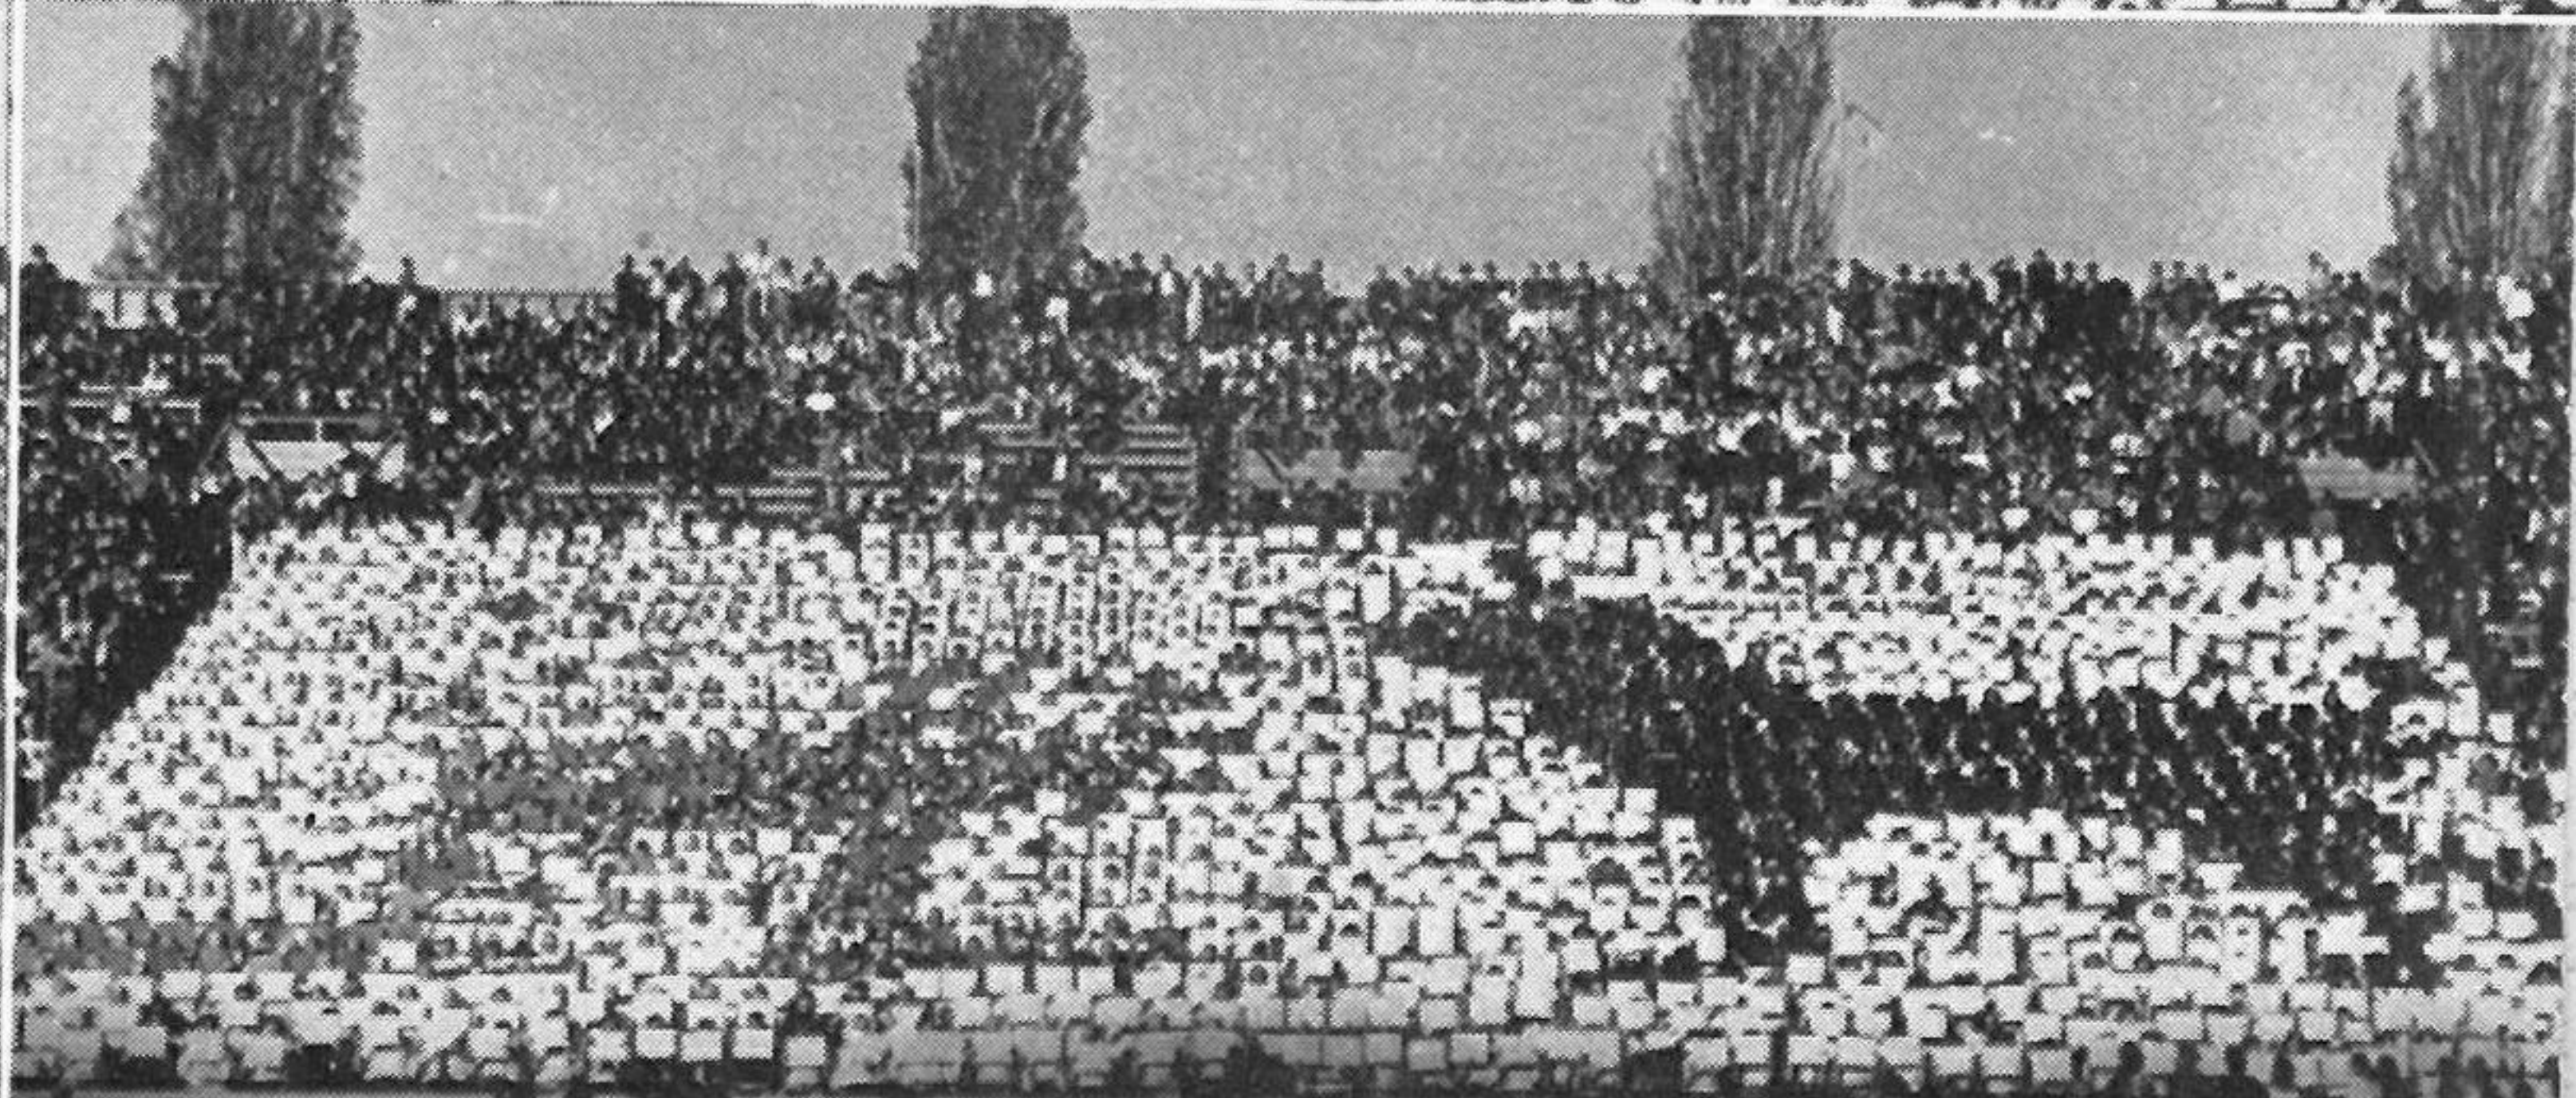

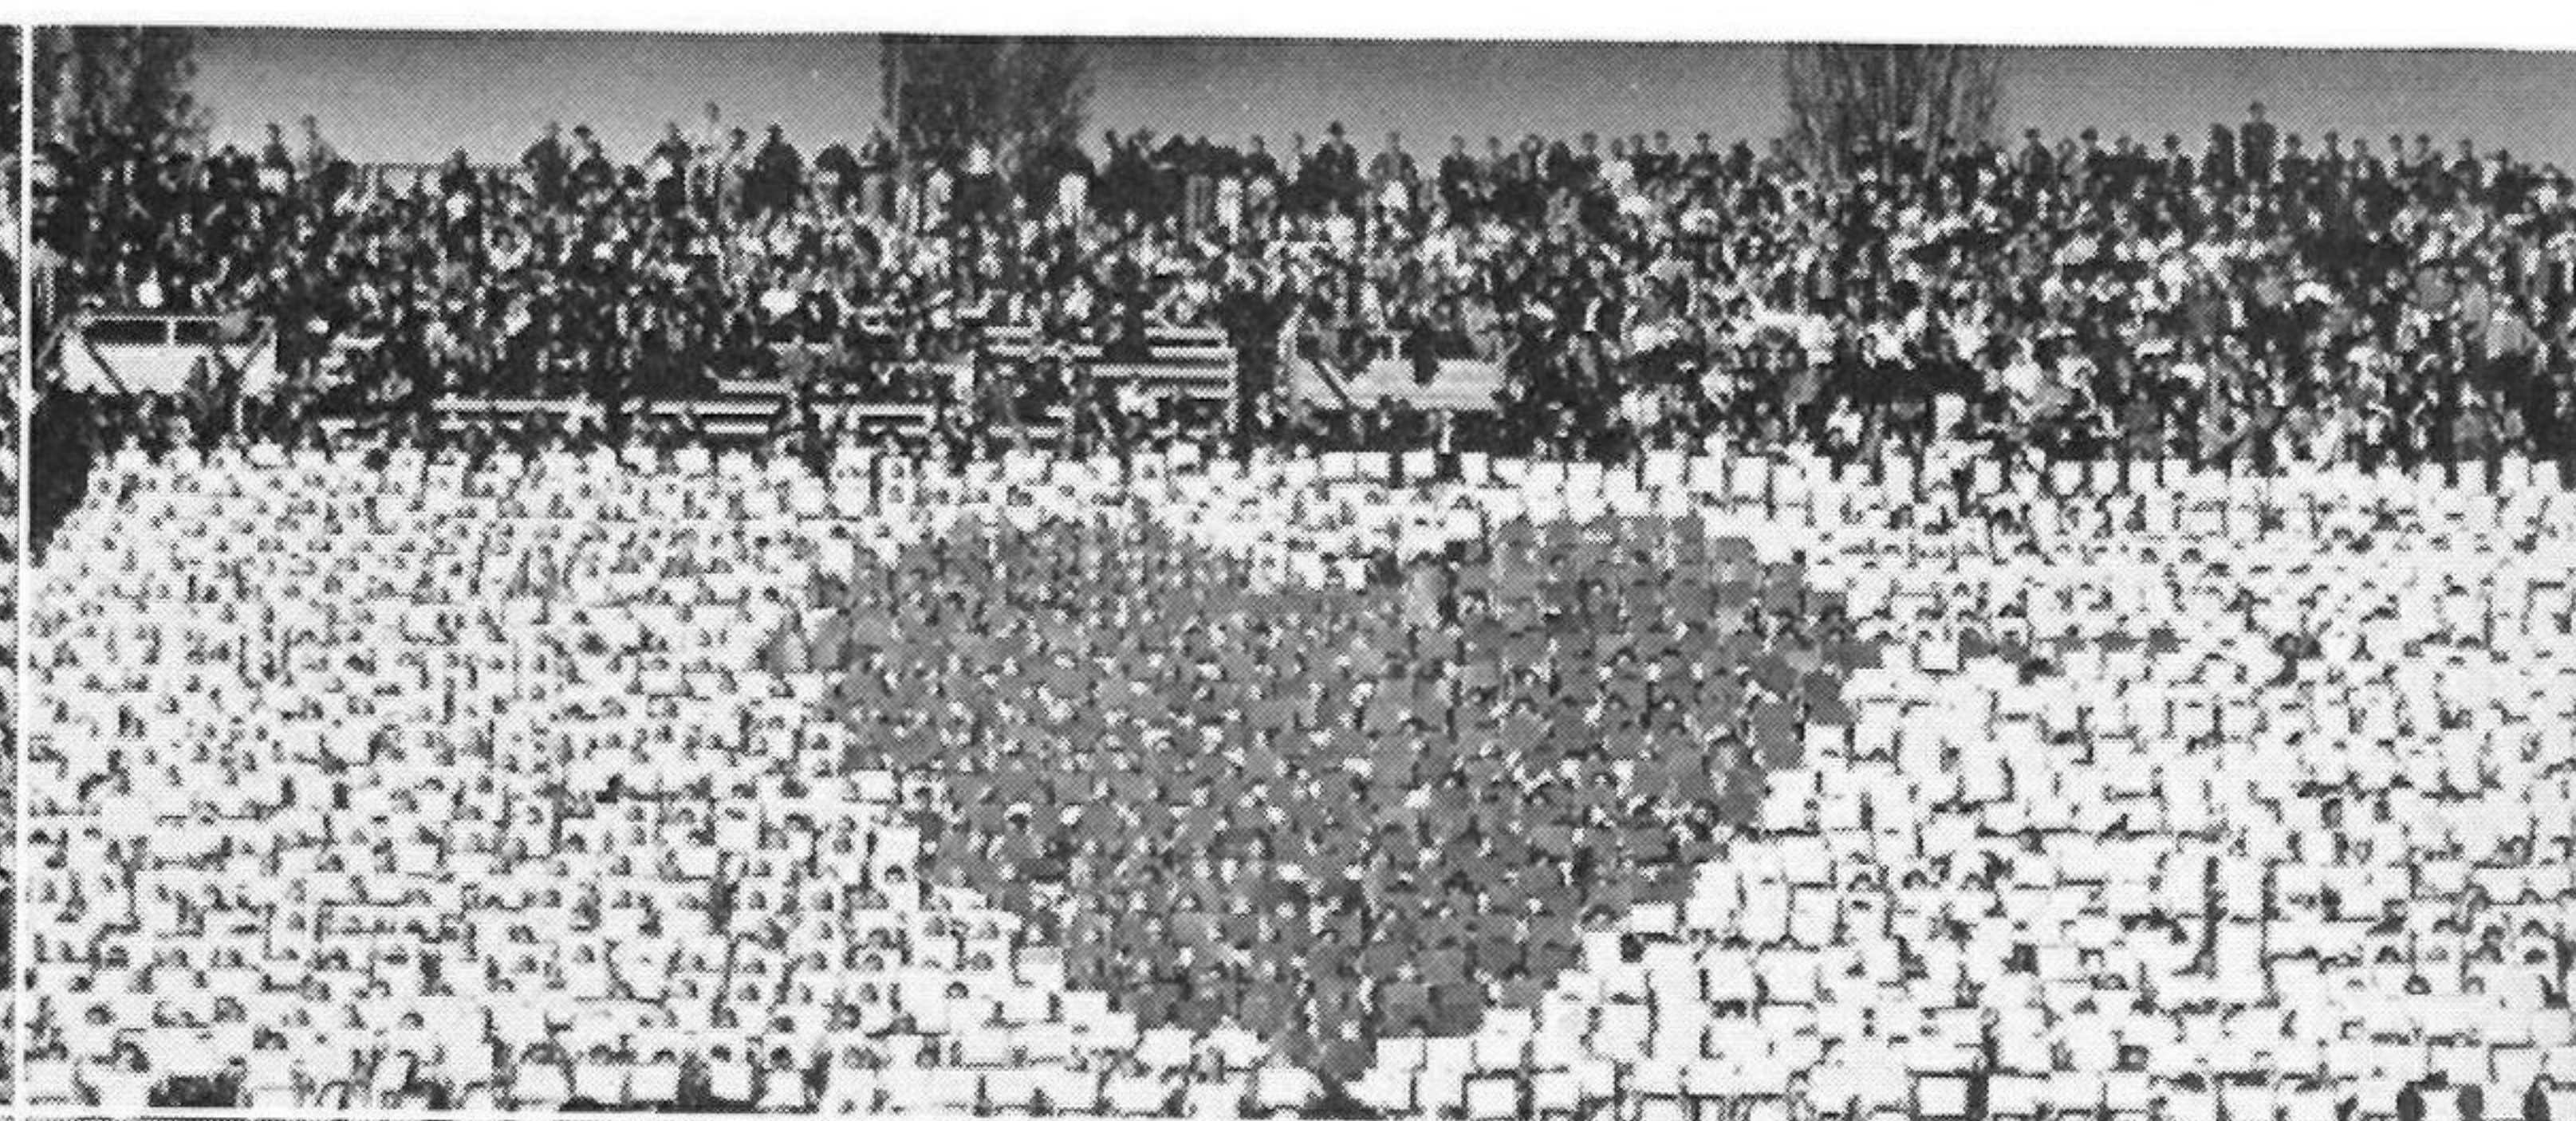

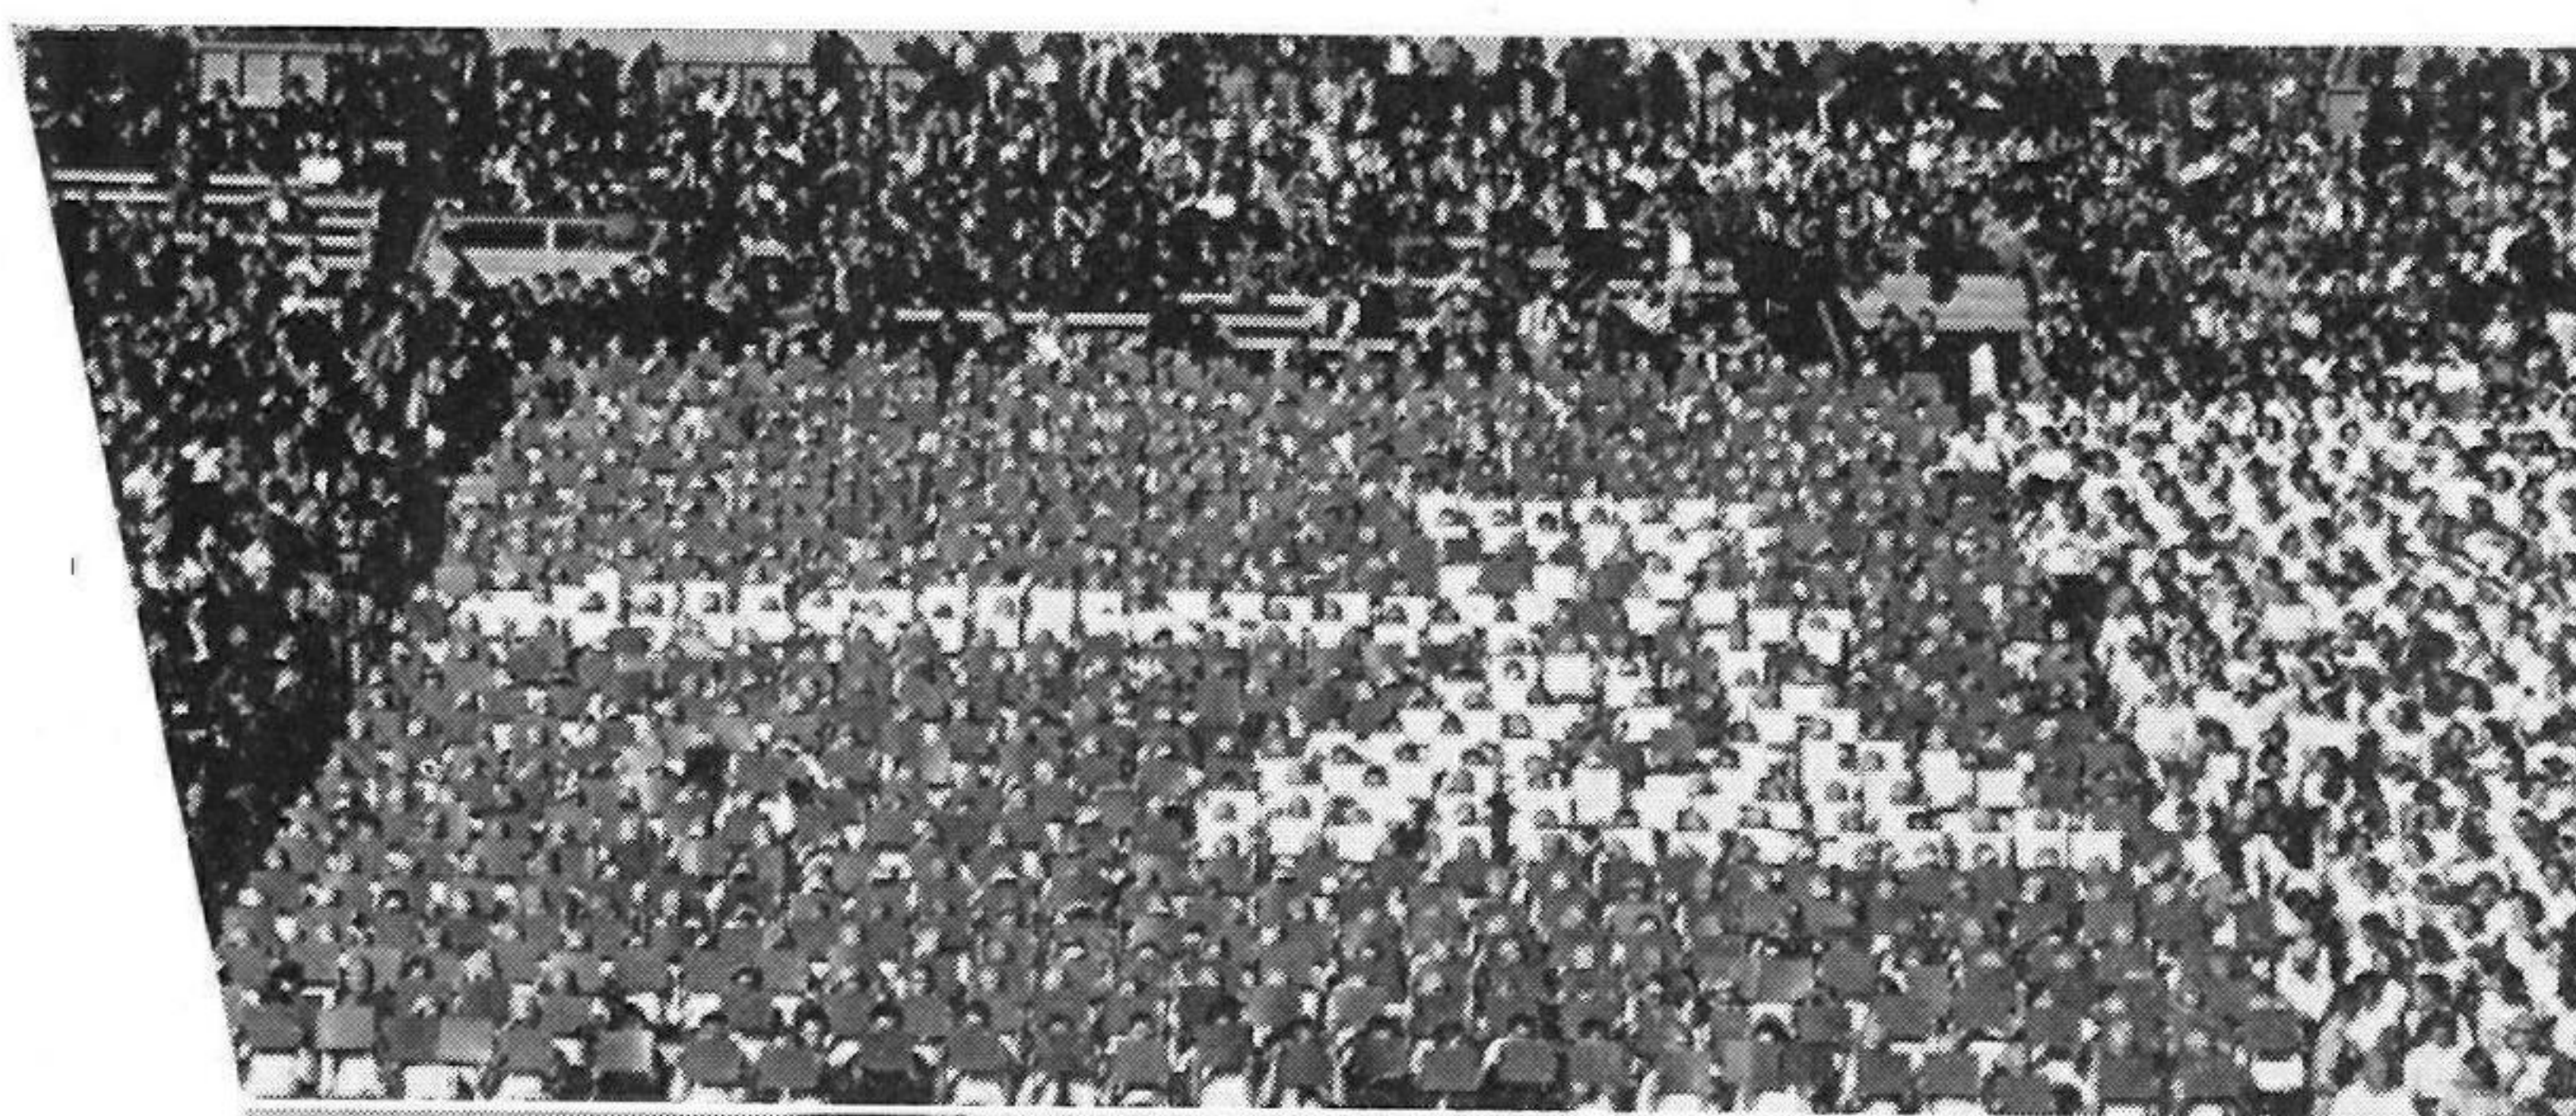

Dick Lachman, Jack Hart, and Harlan Hall make preliminary drawings of stunts in color. Harris Emmons, Stunt Chairman, places instruction card in place in rooting section. Ralph Spencer hands cards to a rooter at half-time.

SENIOR CLASSES

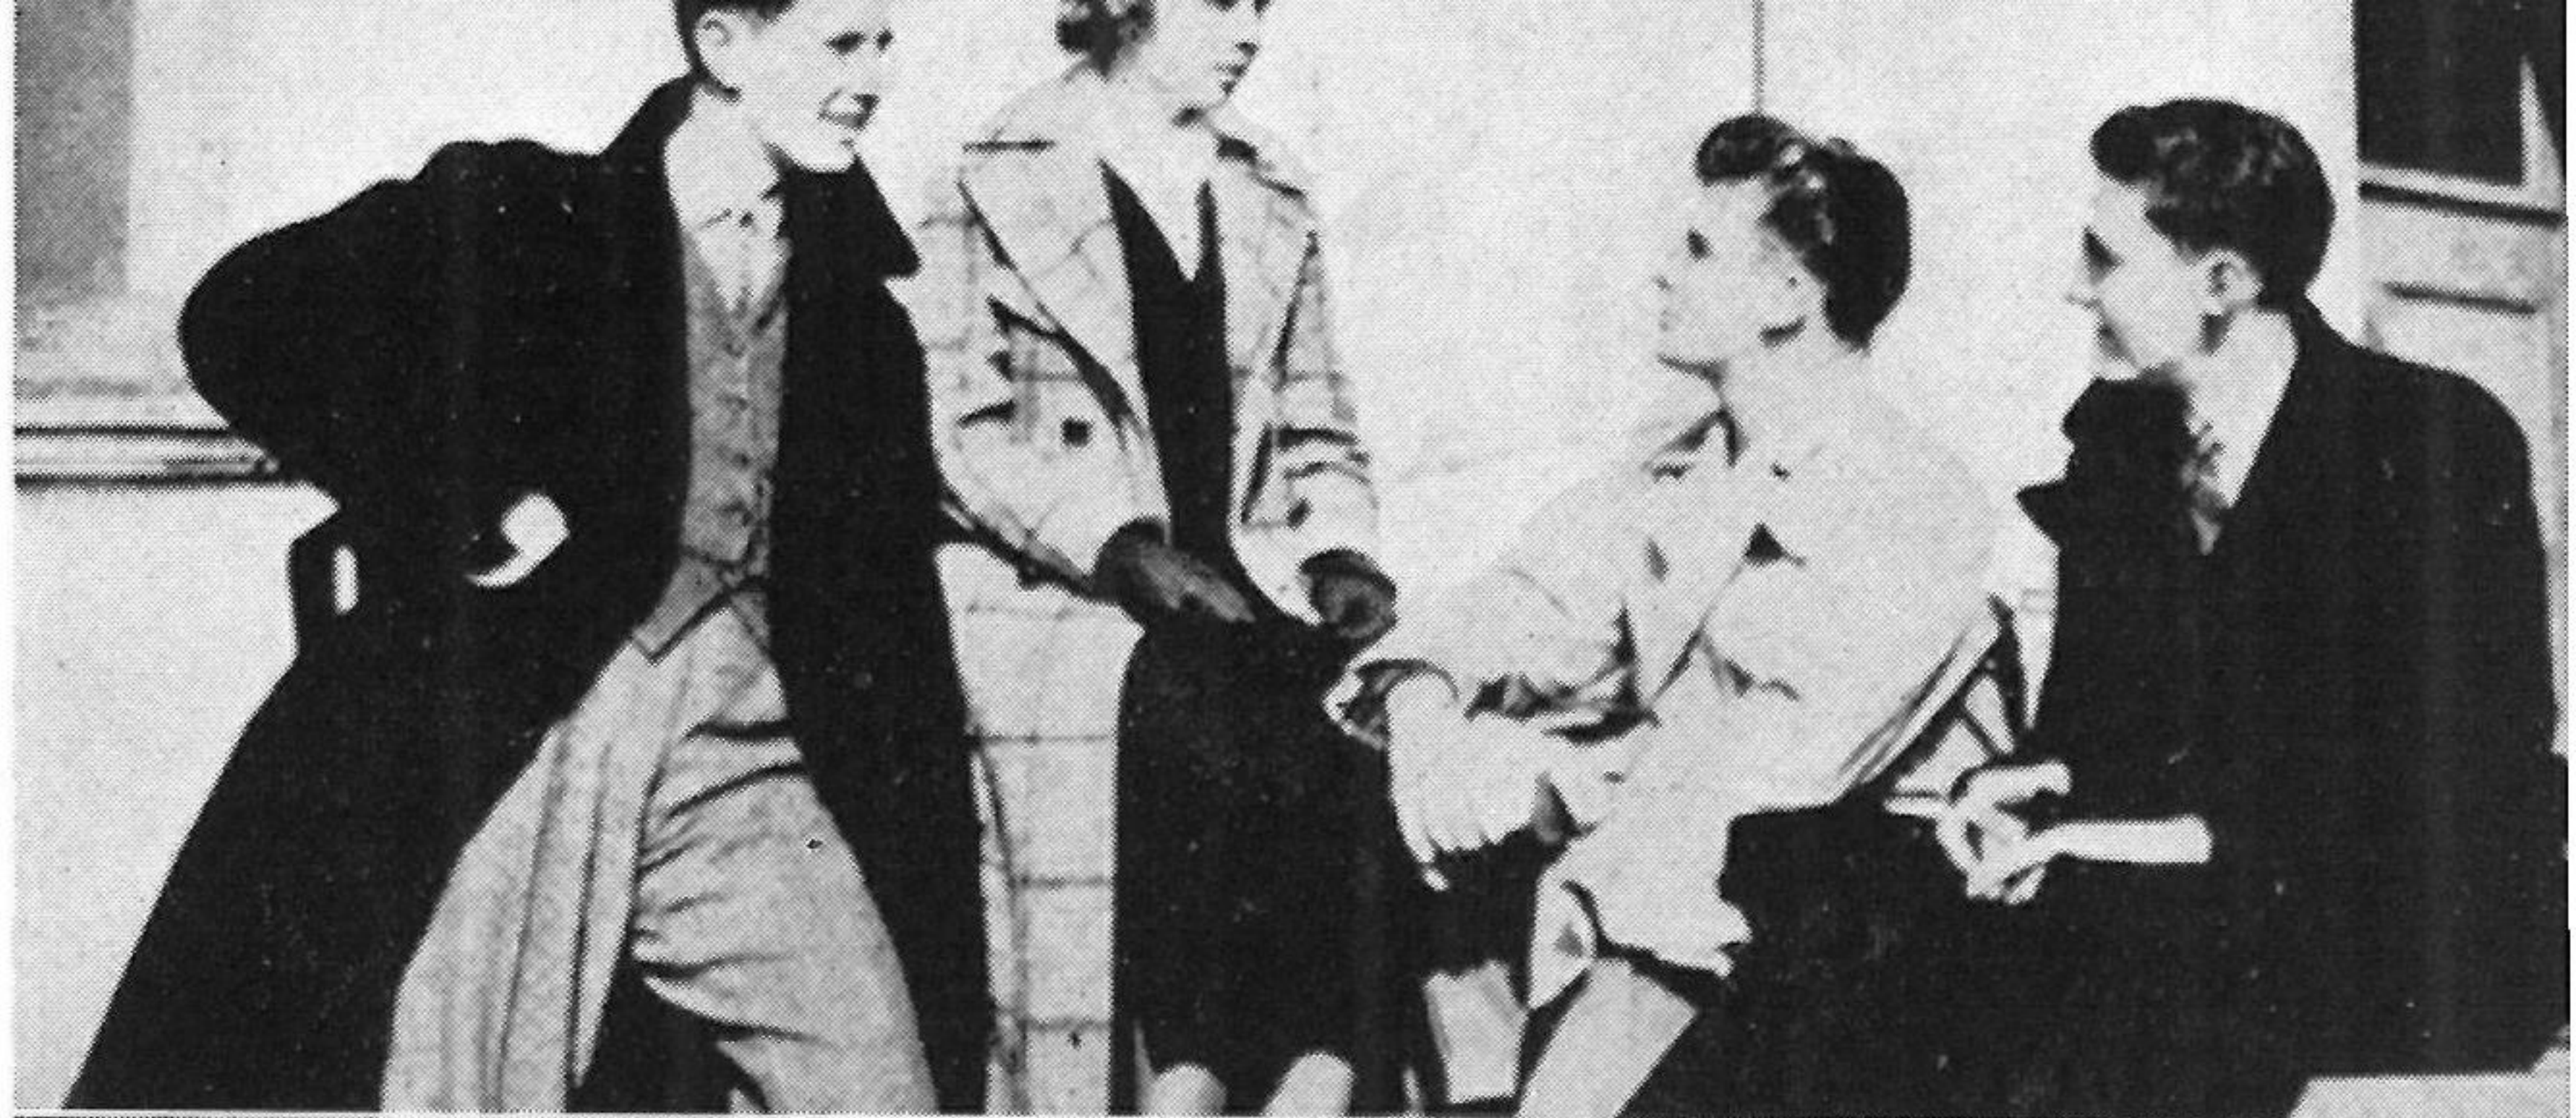

Outstanding among the new movements at Washington was the campaign promoted by the Senior Class to get students to join the Alumni Association before graduation. Under this new plan, the student joins the Association on a five-year membership basis and a percentage of the fee he pays goes to the Senior Class. The Top Hat Varsity Ball featured the music of Billy Mozet and was judged a success by the sophisticated crowd. A really successful Senior Week was put on by the class. The miracle was accomplished by intensive campaigning and personal contact with all seniors, and was something which will long be remembered by the members of the Class of '40.

Remember When

As freshmen, the members of this class showed their potentialities when they defied a four-year-old jinx on frosh-sponsored activities and held an all-university dance at the Trianon with two orchestras. A freshman "mystery" woman, whose identity was not disclosed until the night of the dance, was honor guest of the evening. Jean Fisher, Kappa Kappa Gamma, was chosen for the honor.

In the sophomore year the class of '40 put on a super-beard-growing contest with a variety of prizes for fancy, red, black, unique, and long beards. The fellow that won the prize for a unique beard had his beard clipped in the shape of a W and tinted it with gold paint. The class also put on the second all-University carnival with all of the yelling, screaming riots of sideshows and acts.

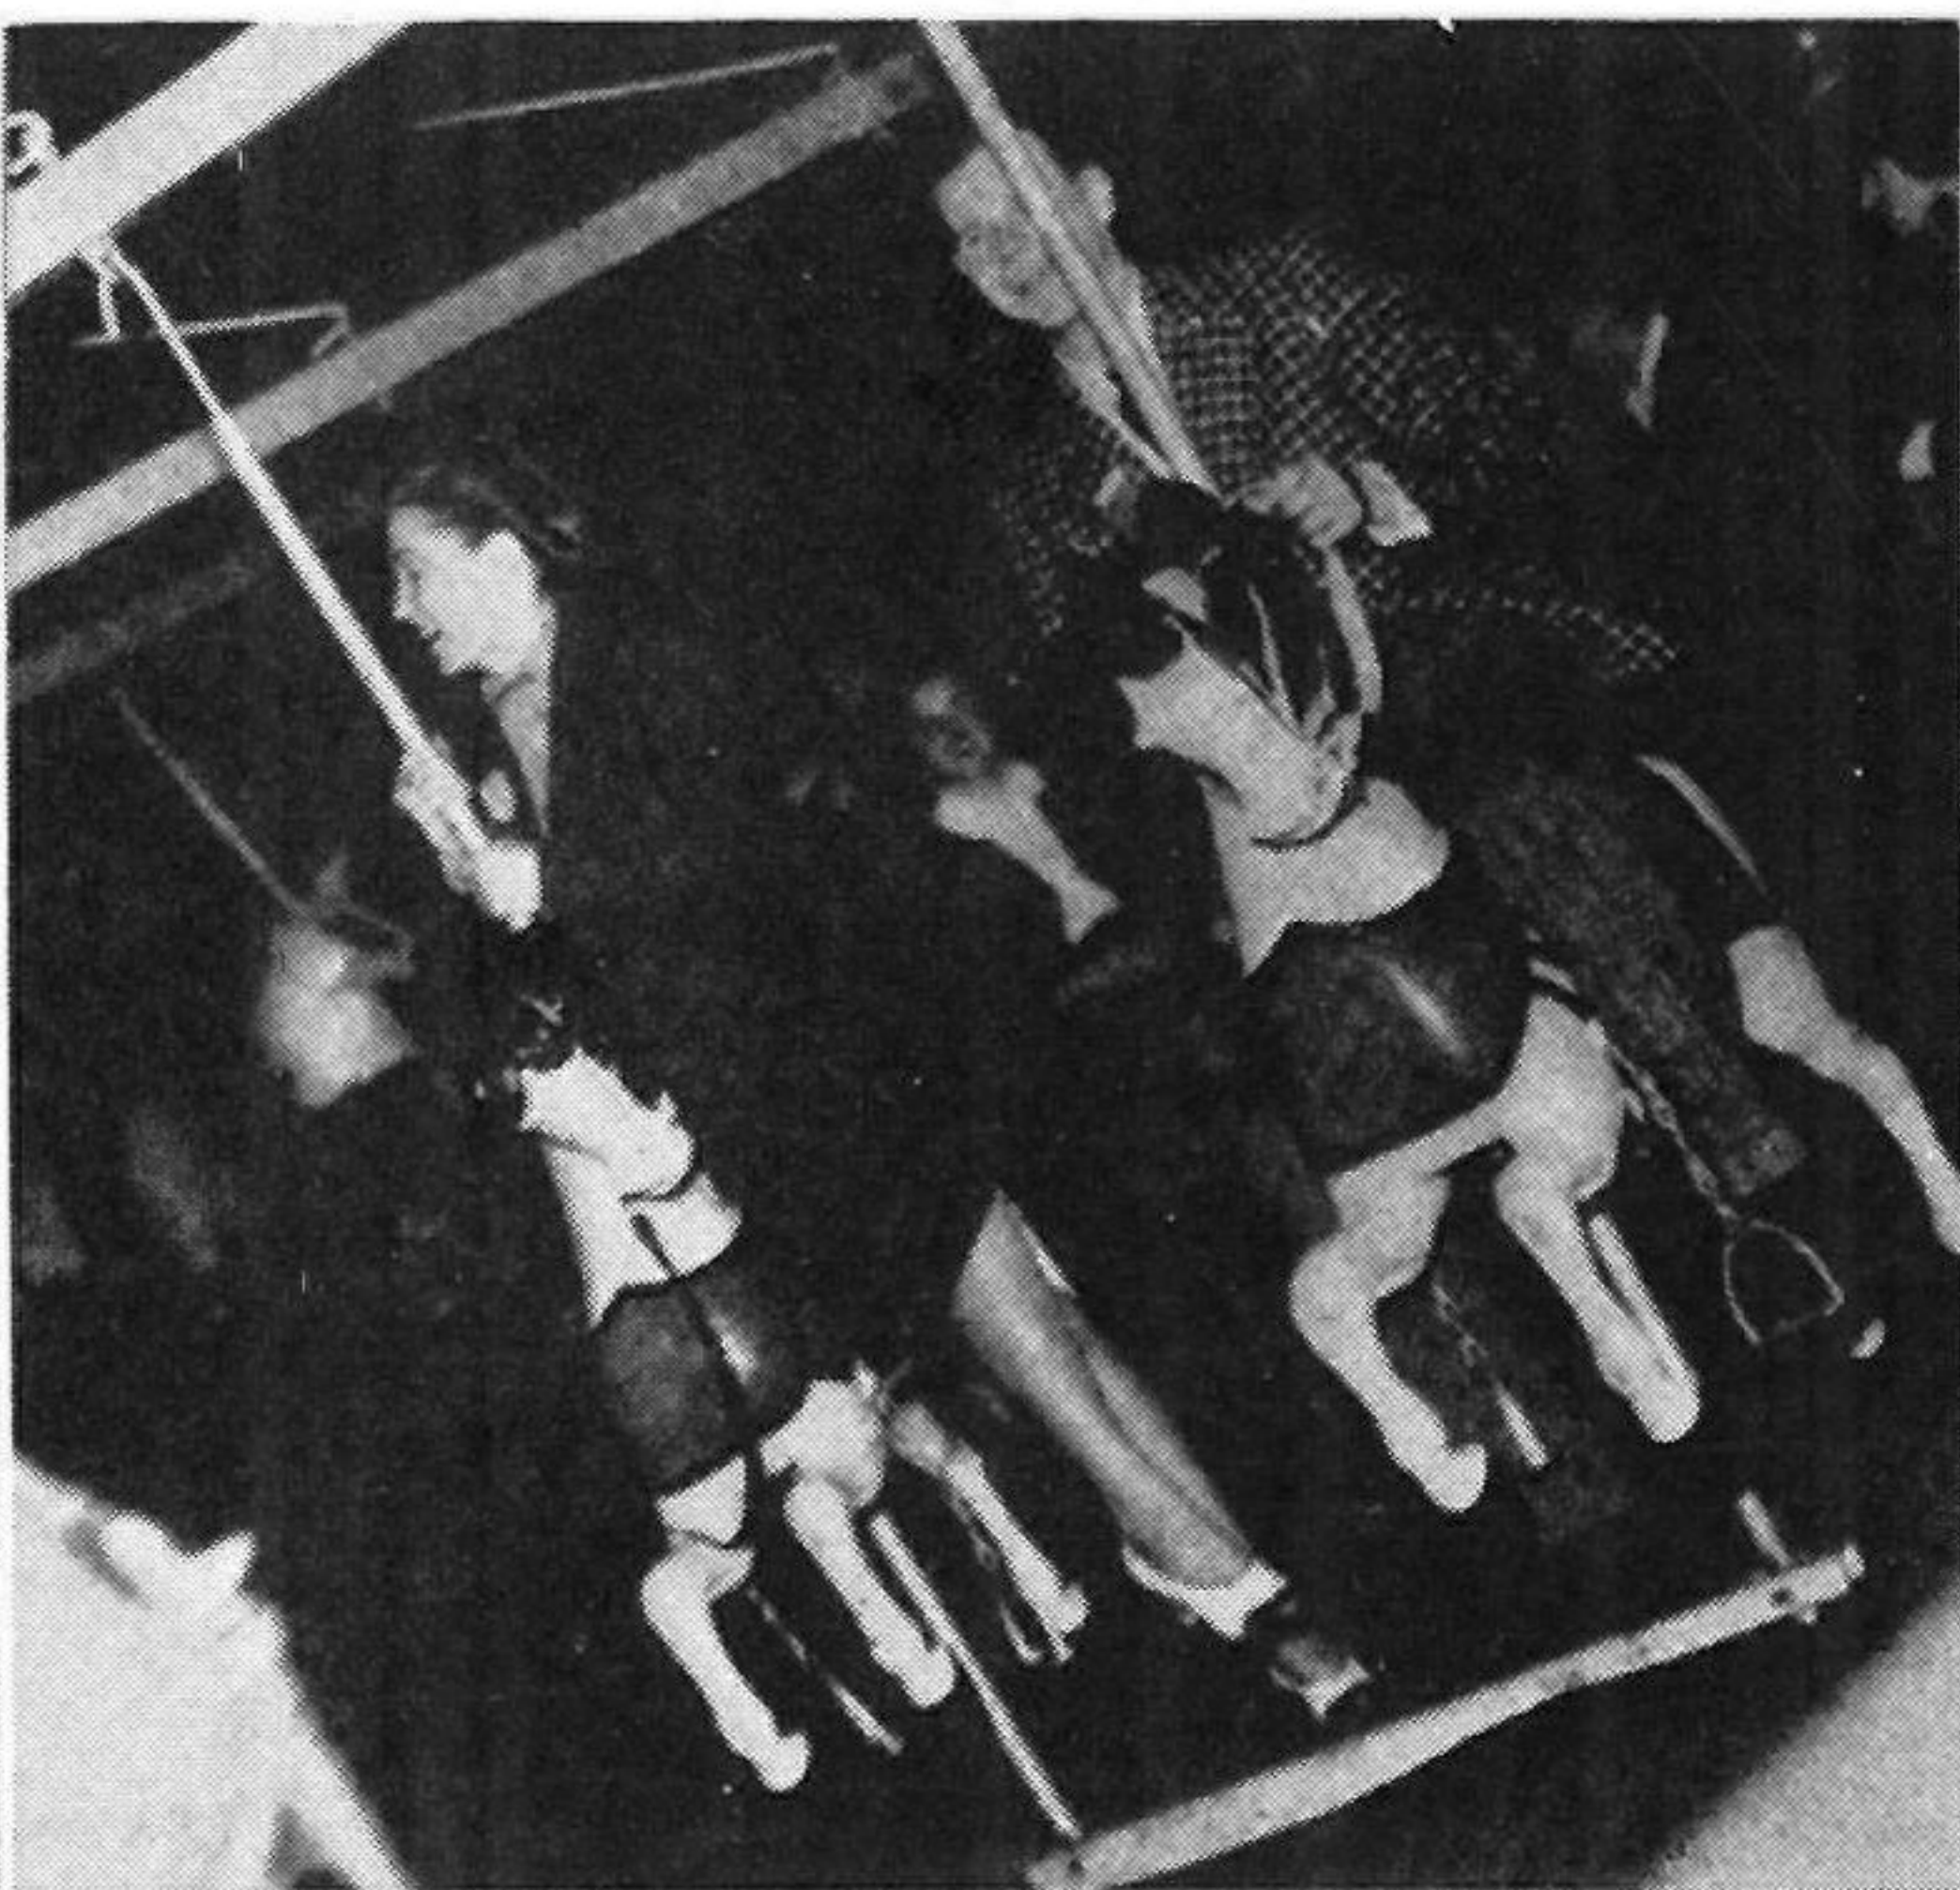

The Junior Prom was the big event in the junior year of the class of '40. The junior "brains" conceived the idea of having "Ideal" couples from several Northwest colleges come to the dance as honor guests. The couples were entertained by a tour of the city and a launch trip on Lake Washington. Ran Wilde's orchestra played for a capacity crowd at the "Wild Honey" Prom at the Civic Auditorium.

WOODHOUSE

THUS life begins in '40 for our graduating class. Life, that is, without the protective environment offered by the classroom, the gay social life of make-believe, the green lawns, gothic architecture and apple polish. For these will be traded the harsh realism that is business, the sharp strife that is competition for a job—and the right to abundant life.

Some of us will trade textbooks for bankbooks and bend our efforts toward the accumulation of a material fortune with varying degrees of success. Those who succeed will be proud of themselves, those who fail will blame it on inadequacy of college curricula and unintelligent professors.

War will exact its toll of human lives and energy from this year's graduating class and life may end in '40 for some. Few of us know where we are going, all of us have ambitions; only time will provide the answer.

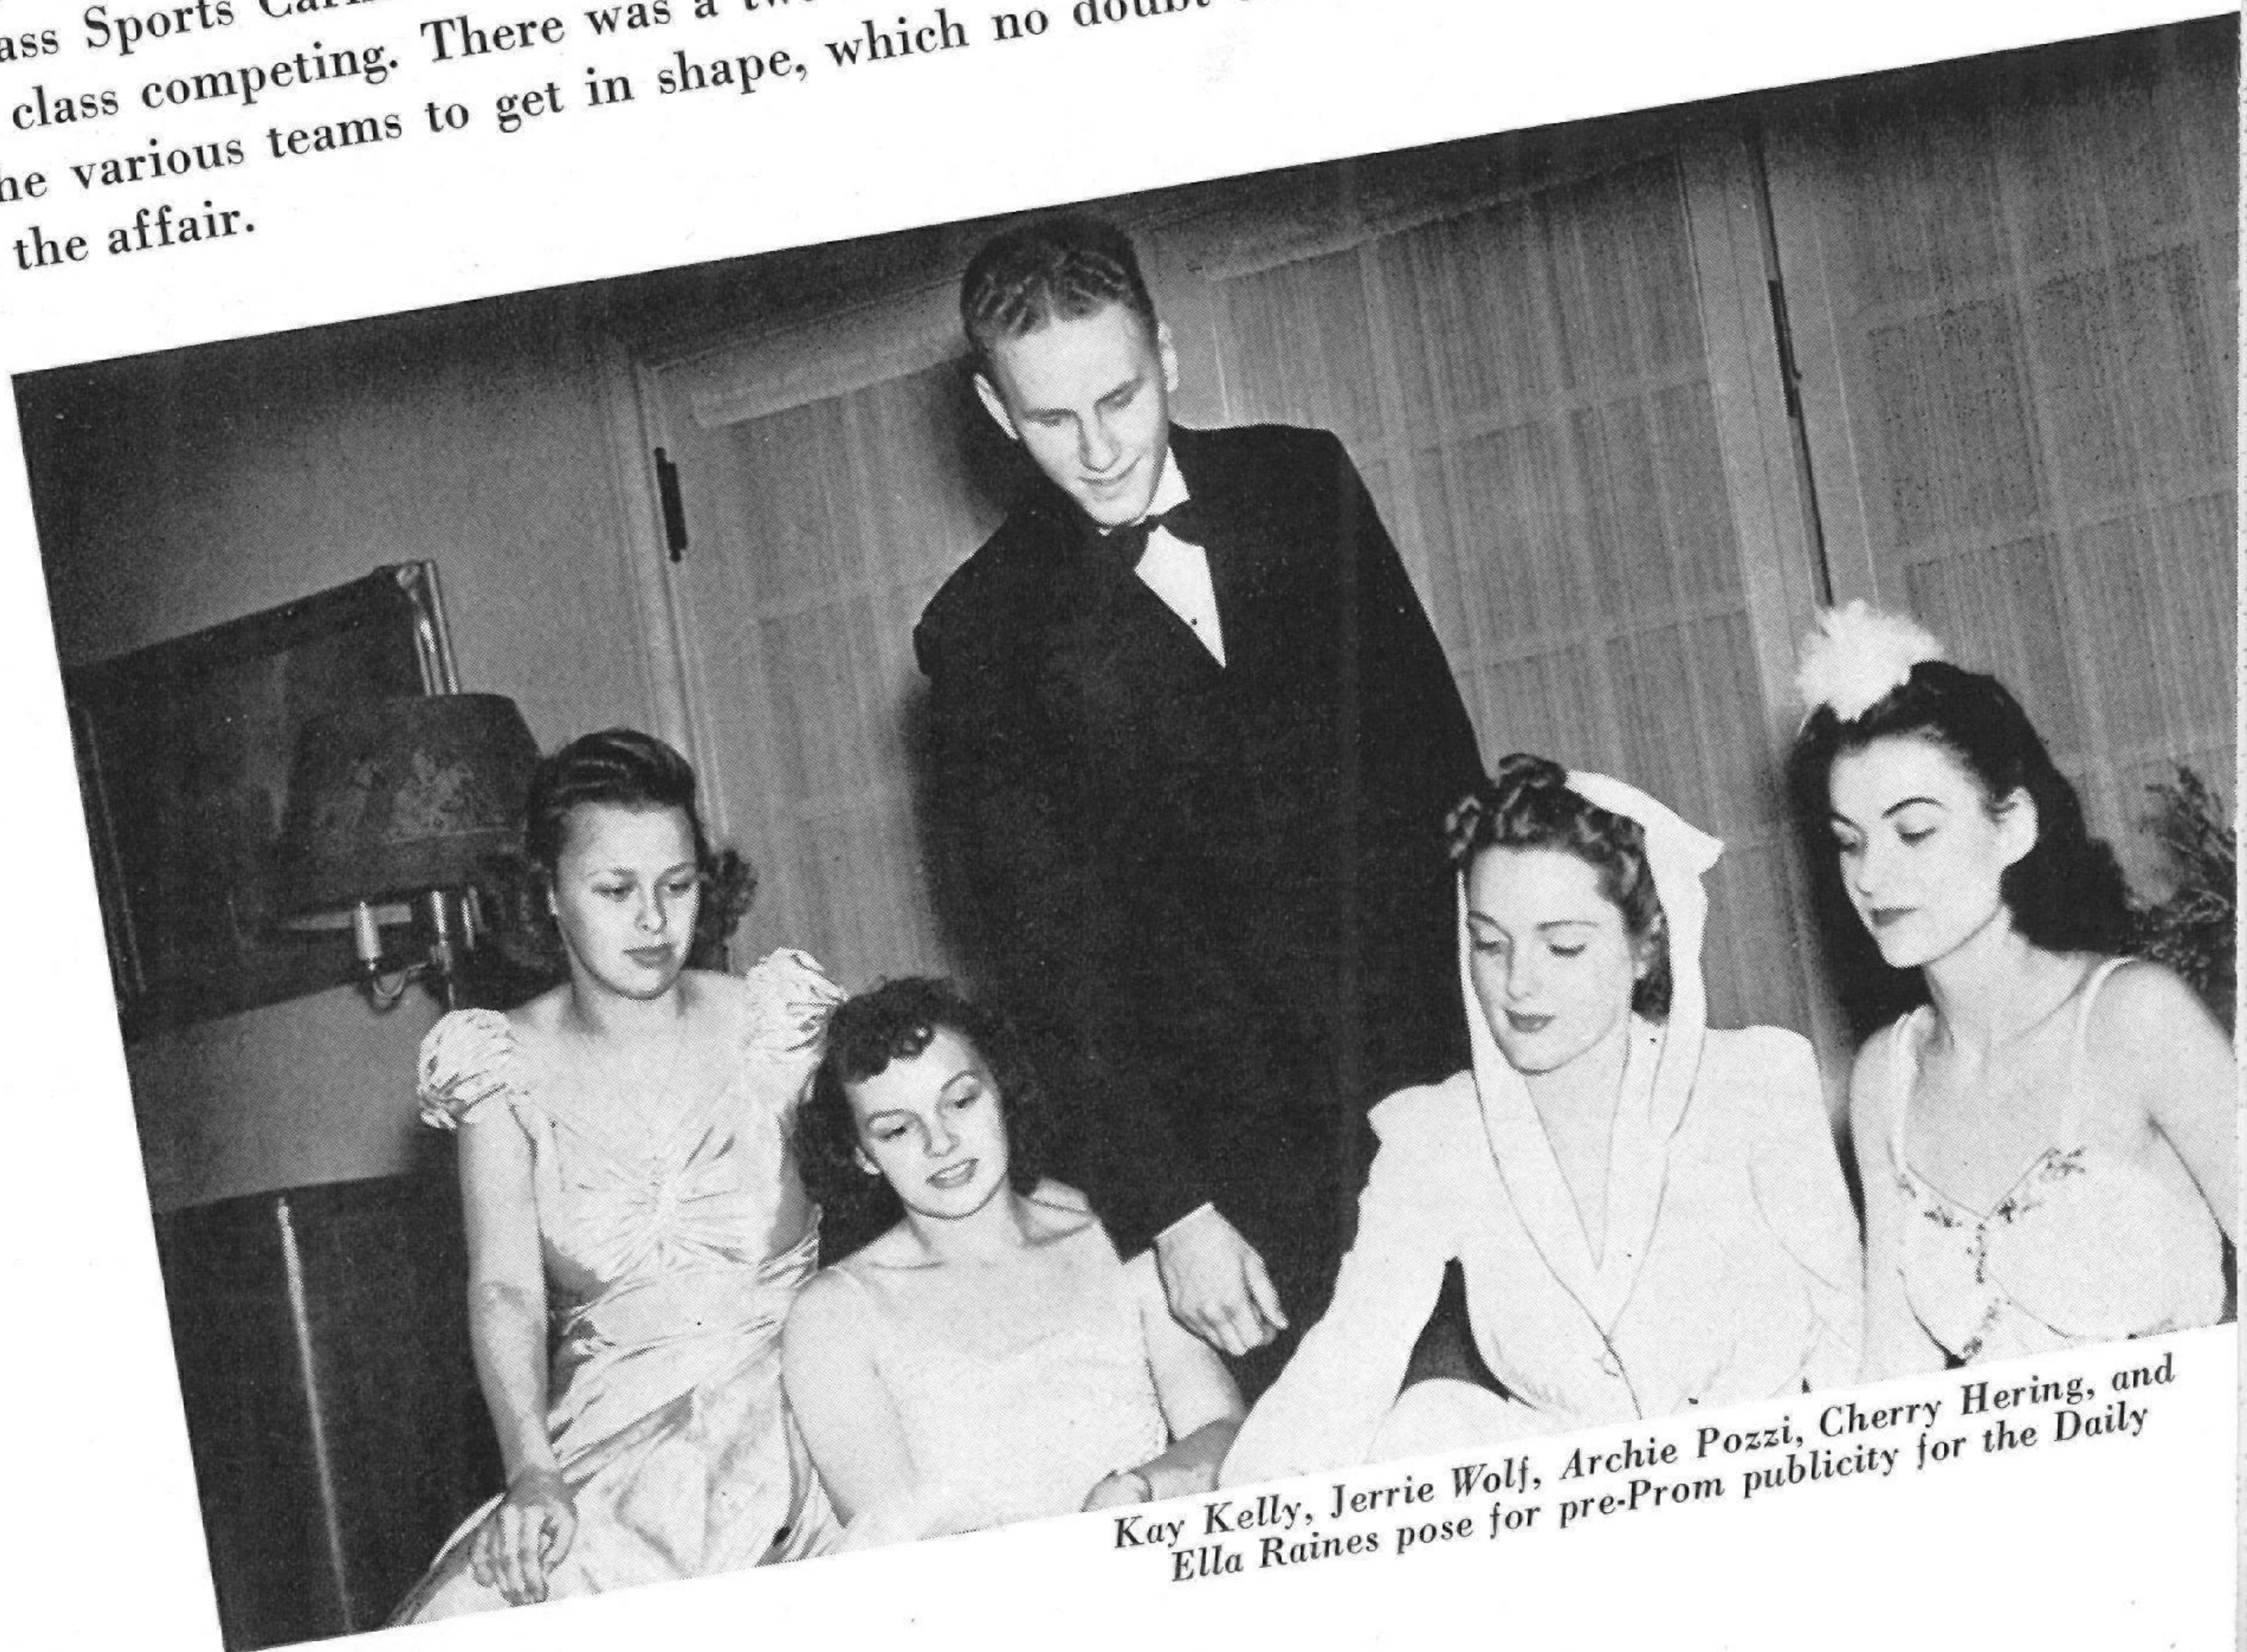

Going my way, mister?

*Bob Kellam, Vice-President; Lois Wilson, Secretary;
Neil Haig, President; Lois Johnson, Treasurer*

JUNIOR CLASS

In spite of many dire predictions, the Junior Class put on a Junior Prom that was among the best. With a war theme, the Prom featured sand bags, flags, and a bombing plane of purple and gold flowers. Eddie Fitzpatrick's orchestra furnished the music for the capacity crowd. The Class of '41 also brought forth a new brain child in the form of the Interclass Sports Carnival which was a sort of an interclass Olympics with teams from each class competing. There was a two weeks' training period before the carnival to allow the various teams to get in shape, which no doubt contributed largely to the success of the affair.

*Kay Kelly, Jerrie Wolf, Archie Pozzi, Cherry Hering, and

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The beards grow and grow . . . and the contest grows and grows. This year's sophomore Beard Growing Contest was larger than all previous contests and the judges were cuter. The boys proved their virility by competing for prizes for the heaviest, darkest, lightest, most unique, and best all-round beard. The judging took place at the Bookstore and the prize for the best all-round beard, a Kirsten pipe, was won by Ralph Terry. The Sophomore Carnival was held again with the organization end getting better and better and the ideas expanding. There was the usual fanfare of crazy acts plus several distinctive features which made the Carnival a real success.

Barbara Richards

Dark-haired secretary of Pan-hellenic . . . likeable and efficient . . . skiing and Alpha Delta Pi are among her other interests.

FRESHMAN CLASS

This year's Freshman Class will go down in history as the class that elected an independent president and which showed an independent spirit throughout the year. The Class of '43 was the only class to have a float in the Oregon Rally Parade, and was the first class in years to have enough initiative to enter a float. The goal set up by the class was the unification of class spirit. The class also petitioned to have a seat for its president on the Board of Control and generally kept itself in the limelight through agitation about one thing or another. More power to the Class of '43—the University can use some of its pep and verve.

Freshman Cabinet—Tom Lauer, Ann Ellsworth, Bert Bostrom, Betty Sheedy, Frank Latcham, Shirley Brown. Absentee Members: George Selvidge, Jack Turley, and Bill Collings.

The members of the Freshman Cabinet are appointed by the officers of the class, and an effort is made to get a membership which will comprise a cross-section of campus activities. Tom Lauer is the musician on the cabinet, being active in the concert and marching bands. Ann Ellsworth is an expert skier, is active in YWCA, and dabbles in politics. Bert Bostrom is active in YMCA, and Betty Sheedy is an AOPI, plays with politics, and works on the Daily and Tyee. Frank Latcham is active on the Daily and in Chi Psi, and Shirley Brown is a member of Sigma Tau Alpha. George Selvidge is an outstanding sports reporter on the Daily, and Jack Turley is a member of the debate team. Bill Collings skis, is interested in politics, and belongs to Pre-Medics Club.

Ski Carnival

General Chairman Dick Walter watches Ski Team Captain Bob Barto open the men's slalom championships at the Fourth Annual all-University Spring Ski Carnival at Mt. Rainier, April 20 and 21. Amazing to everyone was the ascendancy of this hitherto insignificant affair to first place in the campus spotlight. Sunday the student attendance was well over 3,000.

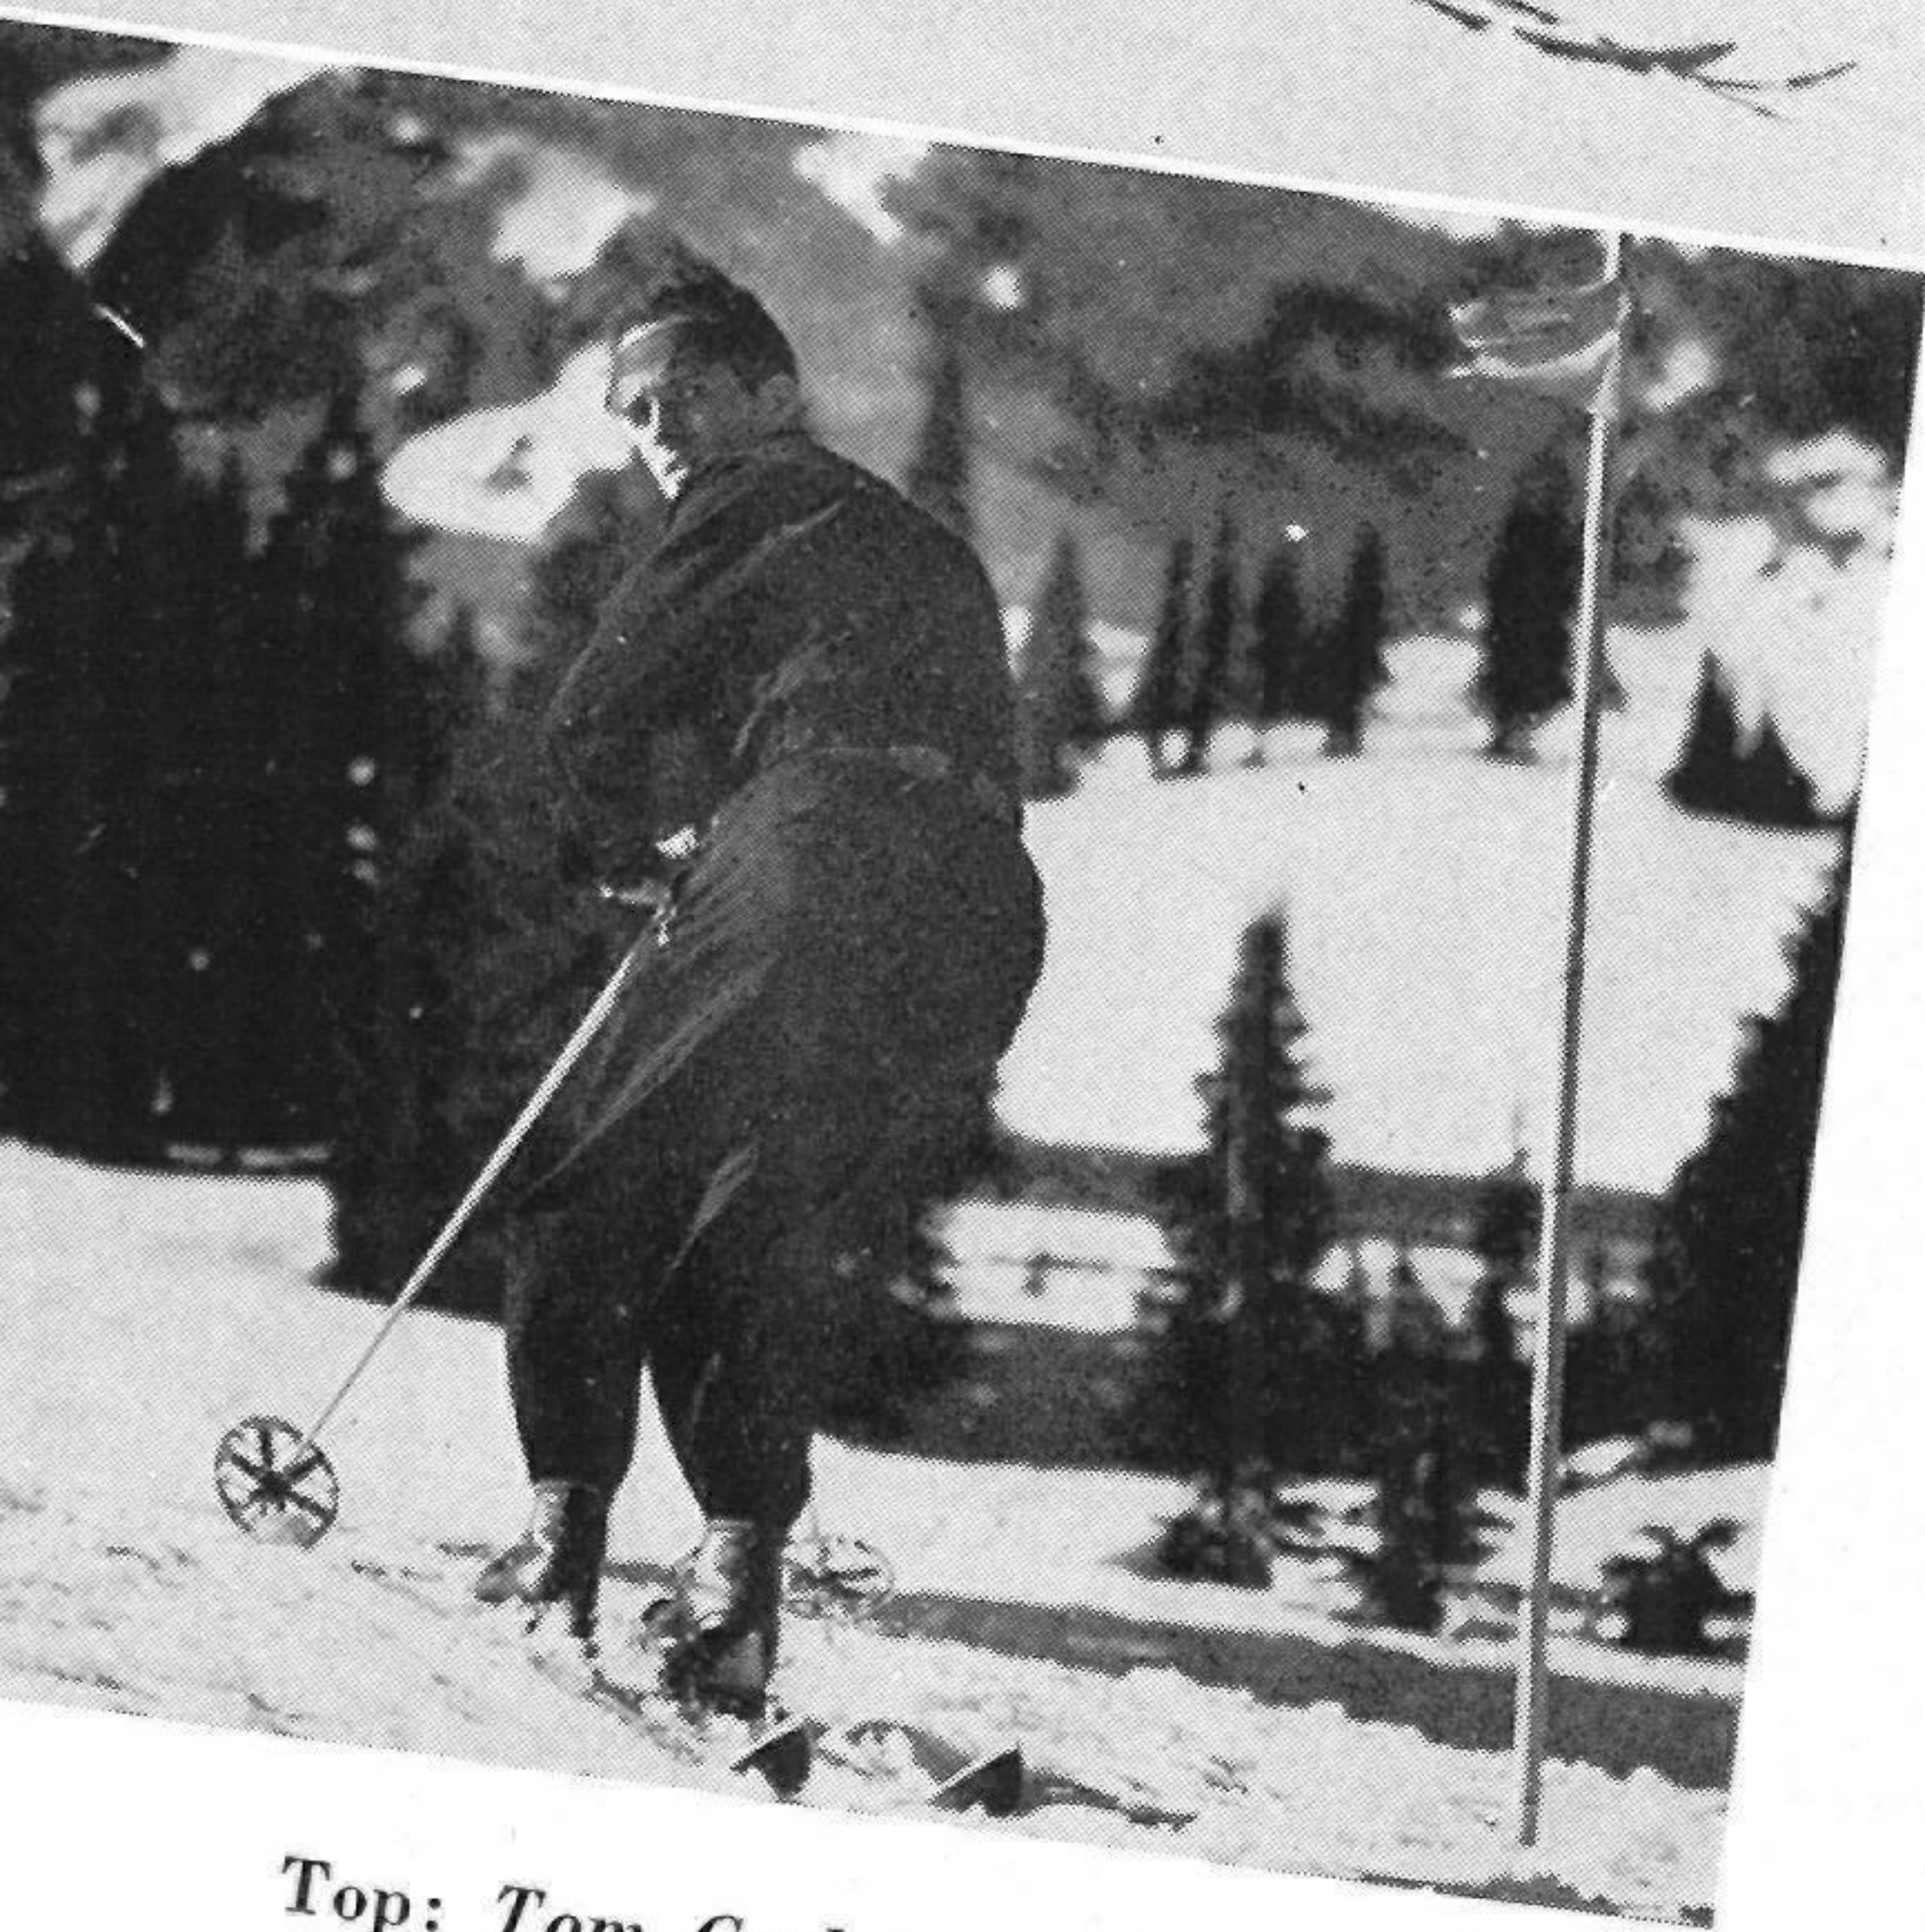

Carnival Queen Eleanor Neilsen (center) and her attendants, Priscilla Brown, left, and Pat Anderson relax on the ice throne where they were crowned on Saturday night. Immediately after Dean Newhouse had placed the floral wreaths upon their heads, a giant flare parade zig-zagged down Alta Vista and rolled up to their very feet.

ENGINEER'S OPEN HOUSE

Engineer's Open House, held this year on March 29 and 30, annually attracts more visitors to the campus than any other event except football games. This year's crowd was estimated at 25,000, and the large turnout was justified. Movies were taken of the displays which showed the latest developments in the six fields of engineering. General Chairman of the exposition was John Howard. Working with him were the following: Vic Stevens, Program; Cam Smith, Judging; Myles Eriksen, Aeronautical Engineering; Frank Preston, Electrical Engineering; Roger Kolm, Civil Engineering; Howard Brown, Chemical Engineering; Phil Lindstrom, Mining Engineering; Barney Acomb, Mechanical Engineering; Arve Dahl, Special Exhibits; and Hurst Clark, Routing. First prize was taken by the Mechanical Engineers, and second by Special Exhibits.

Penthouse Theatre Opening

May 16 saw the opening of a unique theatre on the University campus. The new Penthouse Theatre is the only theatre in the country originally built with a stage in the center of the auditorium, and the University is the leading center of such productions. The opening play, "Spring Dance" by Philip Barry, saw a capacity audience of 172.

Radio Class

Radio acting, writing and program presentation have become part of the University's most important professional-training courses. Under the direction of Mr. Ted Bell, writing of continuity includes commercial advertising writing, monologue, dialogue, and regular script writing. Students in radio acting put on the programs written by the radio writing classes. Acting classes get practical experience in a weekly broadcast of important dramatized novels for Seattle libraries. Script for the programs is arranged by Miss Alice Emel, assistant in drama, who also directs many of the shows. Acting and writing experience obtained in these classes proves helpful to graduates making contacts in the professional field.

Campus Radio

In the campus radio studio, basement of Meany hall, programs go out daily over local stations, and through the campus' own local broadcasting unit, under the direction of Dr. Francis Powers, assisted by Mike Hogan. Technical director for the studio is Prof. Phillip Jacobsen, and chief technician, Mr. Andrew Jacobsen. All equipment used in the studio is built by students with the technical help of Andrew Jacobsen, chief technician. Besides broadcasting of student and faculty programs, the studio staff keep busy with the recording of campus talent to be used in the development of future shows.

Puppetry

Students in puppetry classes learn their art from beginning to end. They make the puppets and the scenery, learn the dramatic parts in order to develop proper action, and finally put on the show, manipulating the strings or their hands for the puppets' pantomime acts. Demonstrating at left are class members during the presentation of a show, and below, scenery and puppets artistically designed and built by the class. Students presented "Hansel and Gretel," a hand show, to grade school students all over the state during fall and winter quarters. A string show of "Pinocchio" was presented at the Showboat theatre during spring quarter. "Jack and the Beanstalk" was popular with school audiences during the spring and will run into fall shows. Mr. Alan-son Davis taught and directed the puppetry group.

Meany Workshop

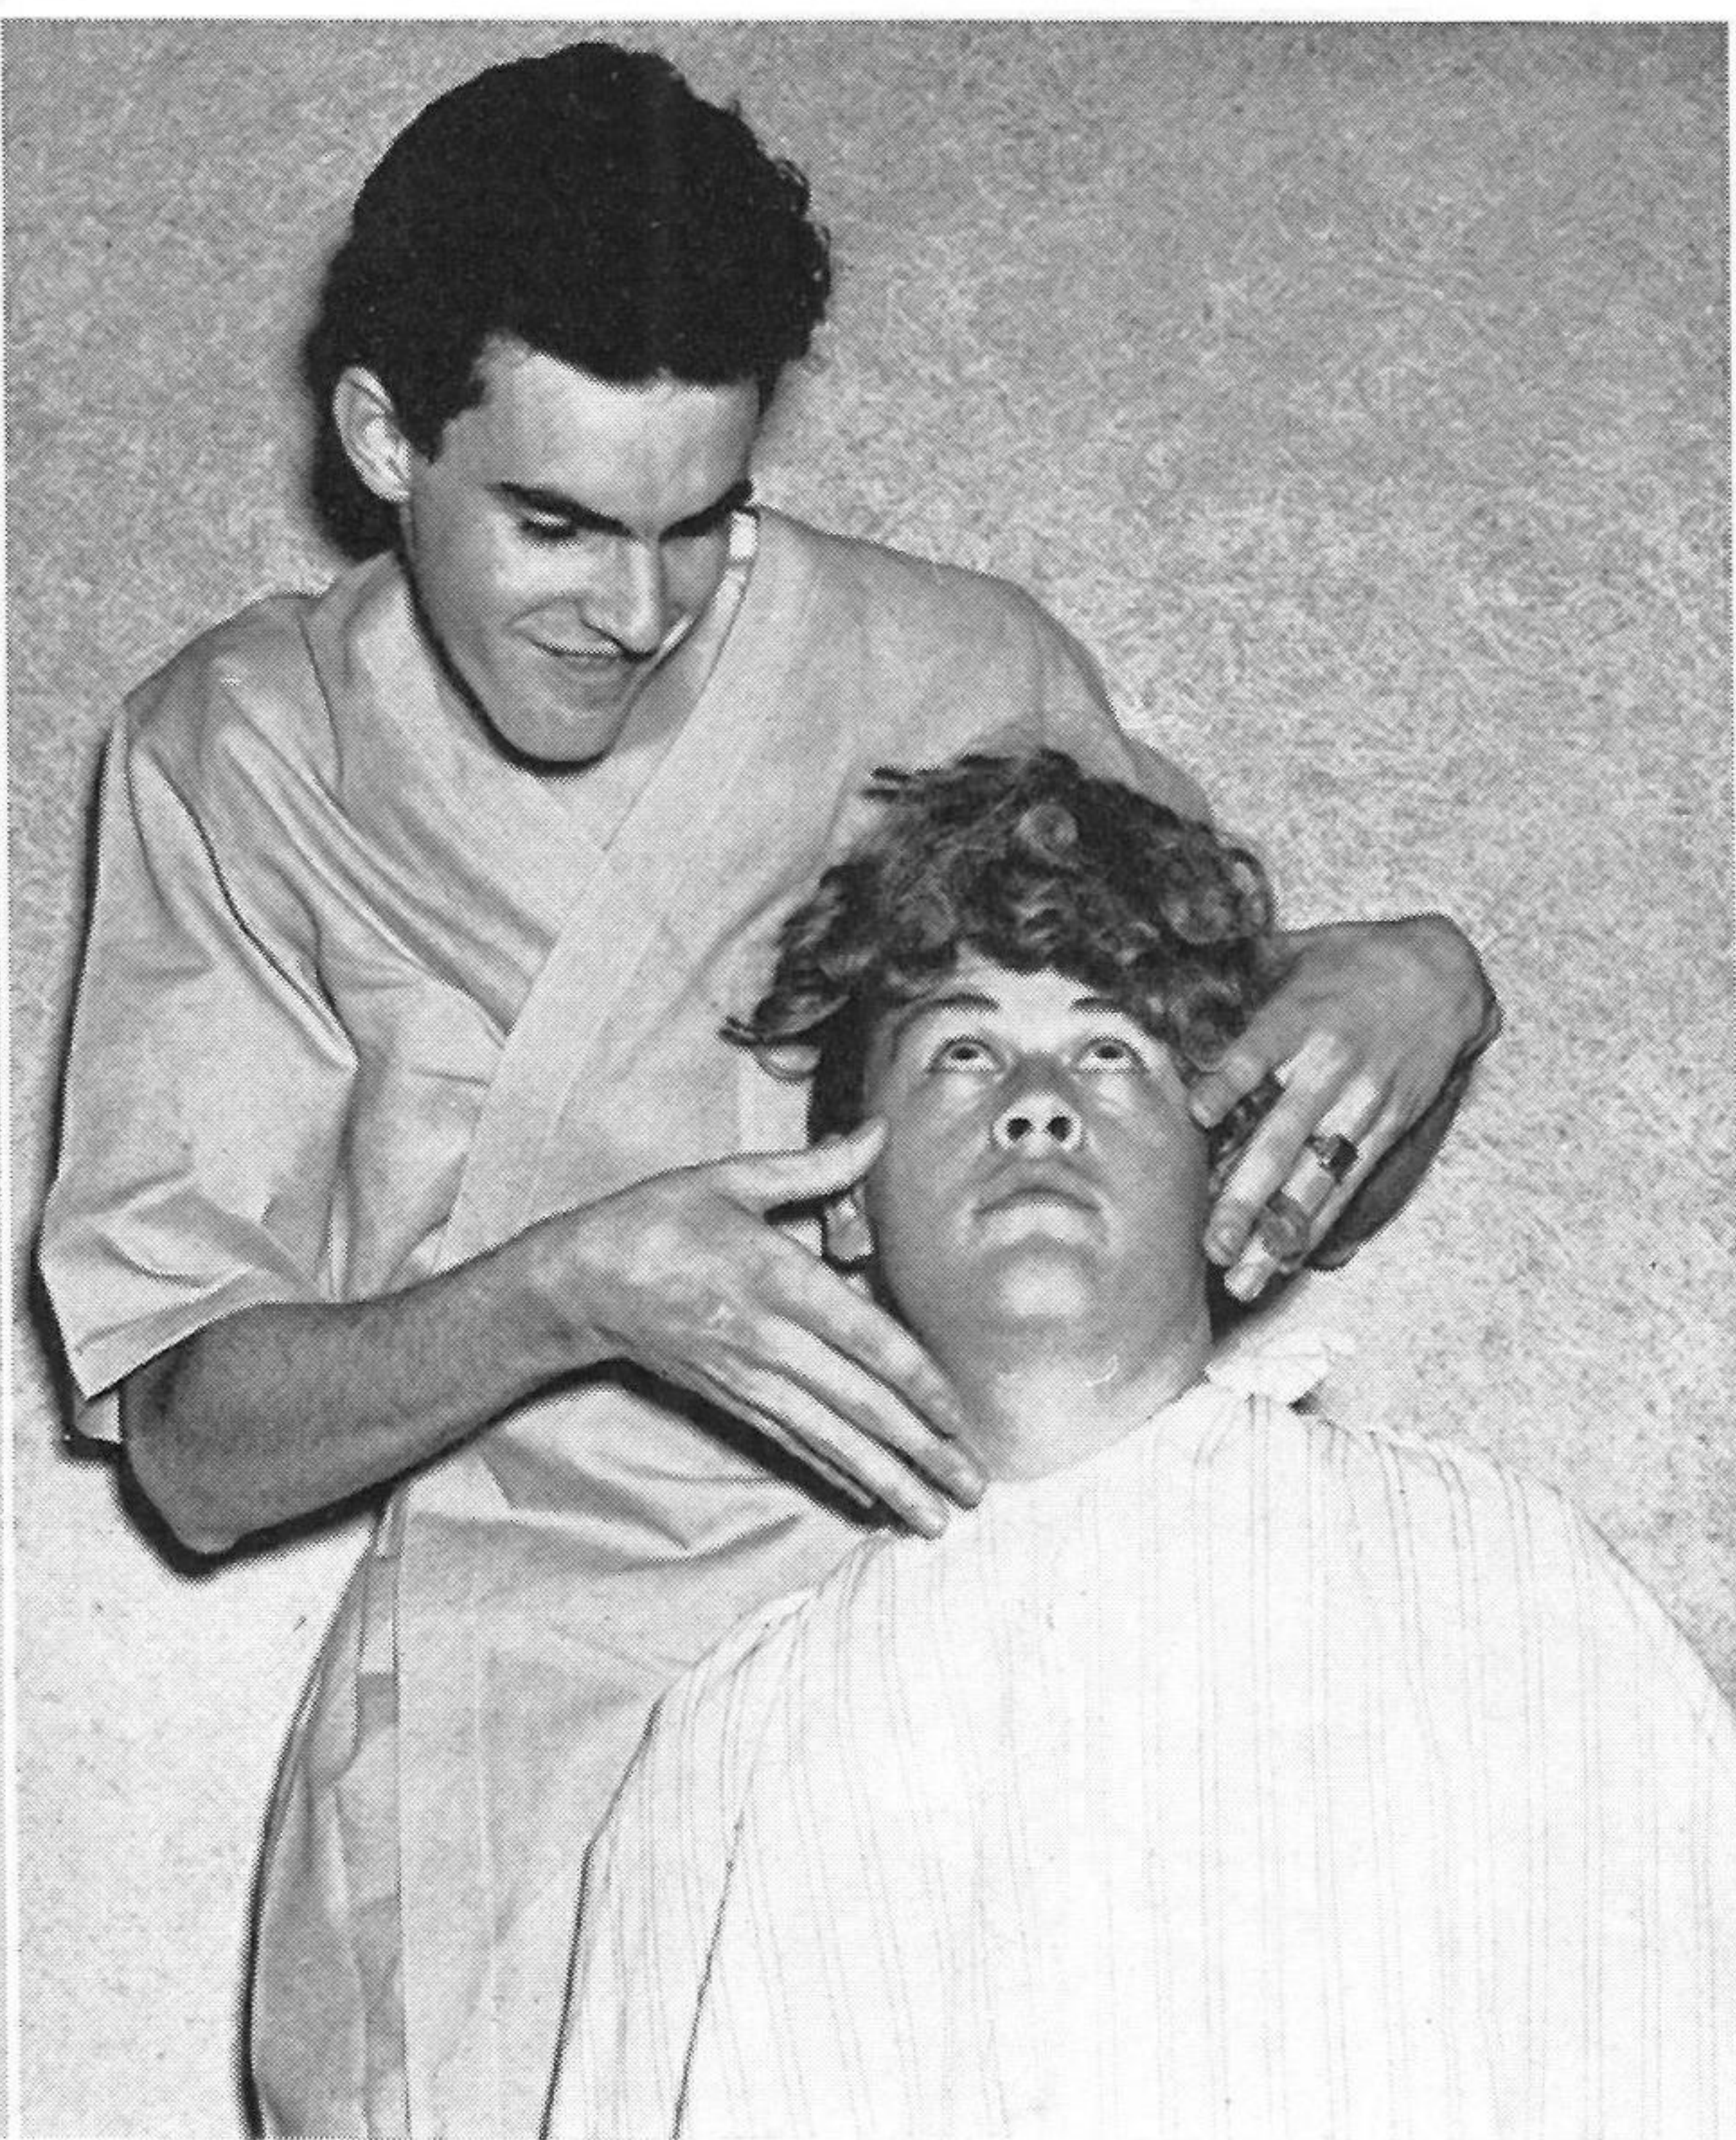

In the basement of Meany hall, underneath the stage, student workmen build stage scenery and sets for all campus productions . . . at the Showboat theatre, for special Penthouse and other drama performances, for all University functions. Both men and women are active in the classes, which are required for drama majors. They complete sets designed by the scene design classes. Construction classes are under the direction of James Hicken, associate in Drama, assisted by Jim McAllaster.

DANCE DRAMA

With "Americana" as its theme, the annual Dance Drama, sponsored by the Women's Physical Education department, presented a series of divertissements, during its six performances from February 27 through March 2. The first half of the performance portrayed a Convention, Beauty Parade, and World's Fair, with the struggle between culture and swing. A satirical study, the second half showed Women, a Romantic Theme, and a Folk Suite. Leading dance roles were taken by members of Orchesis, dance honorary, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Aid de-Vries. Nancy Jane Bare, Earlene Brown, Lois Keller and Betty Fox danced important individual parts. Guest artist on the program was Miss Uwarda Egley, graduate of the department and former dancer with the Hanya Holmes New York concert dance group.

The Lullaby "Scenes for Women" is portrayed by Earlene Brown, Lois Keller, and Betty Keller.

Using the "Problem-solving" debate method, developed by Dr. Frederick Orr of the University of Washington speech department, the Varsity Debate squad solved problems of "Monopolies" and "Foreign Affairs". They traveled east as far as Spokane, and south to California during Spring vacation. High schools, service clubs, radio stations, and business organizations heard their more than one hundred and sixty arguments. Speeches made, numbered over seventy for some members. Coached by Associate Professor Albert L. Franzke, season 1940 was managed by student member of the debate team Harry Henrichsen. Outstanding debaters were the above-pictured Phil Conkle, Kurt Bargmier, Tom Nilsen, and Henrichsen. Estimated number of miles traveled during the season, was more than ten thousand. Important purpose of the debaters is introduction of "Problem-solving" method to more colleges, high schools, and speaker's groups.

Varsity Debate Squad: Seated—Prof. Albert Franzke, Kurt Bargmeier, Franklyn Kilpatrick, Curtis Aller, Bill Fletcher, Phil McBride, Dan Plum, Carl Robertson, Tom Nilsen, Warren Kilpatrick, Stanley Remelmeyer, Lester McCrary, Henderson Braddick, and Richard Bush. Standing—Earl Ryan, Tom Calk, Hank Kirkpatrick, Bill Pulverman, Eugene Braeme, Harry Hendrickson, Bob Harrington, and Barney Baskerville.

Freshman debate is under the direction of Mr. Win Bird, and women's debate under Mrs. Naomi Hill. Subjects of their debates are more varied than those of the Varsity team. The women's team contests with colleges and speaking groups in cities up and down the coast. The Freshman debate squad is a training ground for the Varsity team. Pictured at right are Dr. Frederick Orr, speech professor and originator of the "problem-solving" method, and Associate Professor Albert Franzke, coach of the Varsity team. Both are nationally recognized as authorities on speech and debate methods. Dr. Orr's text on speech is used in universities and colleges all over the United States. Year 1940 ended a very successful season for all three debate teams, with more debaters for every squad.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

performances in Meany hall on Sunday afternoons were an innovation and received the commendation of students and faculty alike. Under the direction of Prof. George C. Kirchner, the orchestra combined with other groups of the music department to present a Christmas concert. The 65 campus musicians took a cooperative tour of Northwest Washington, performing at high schools and small towns, during February.

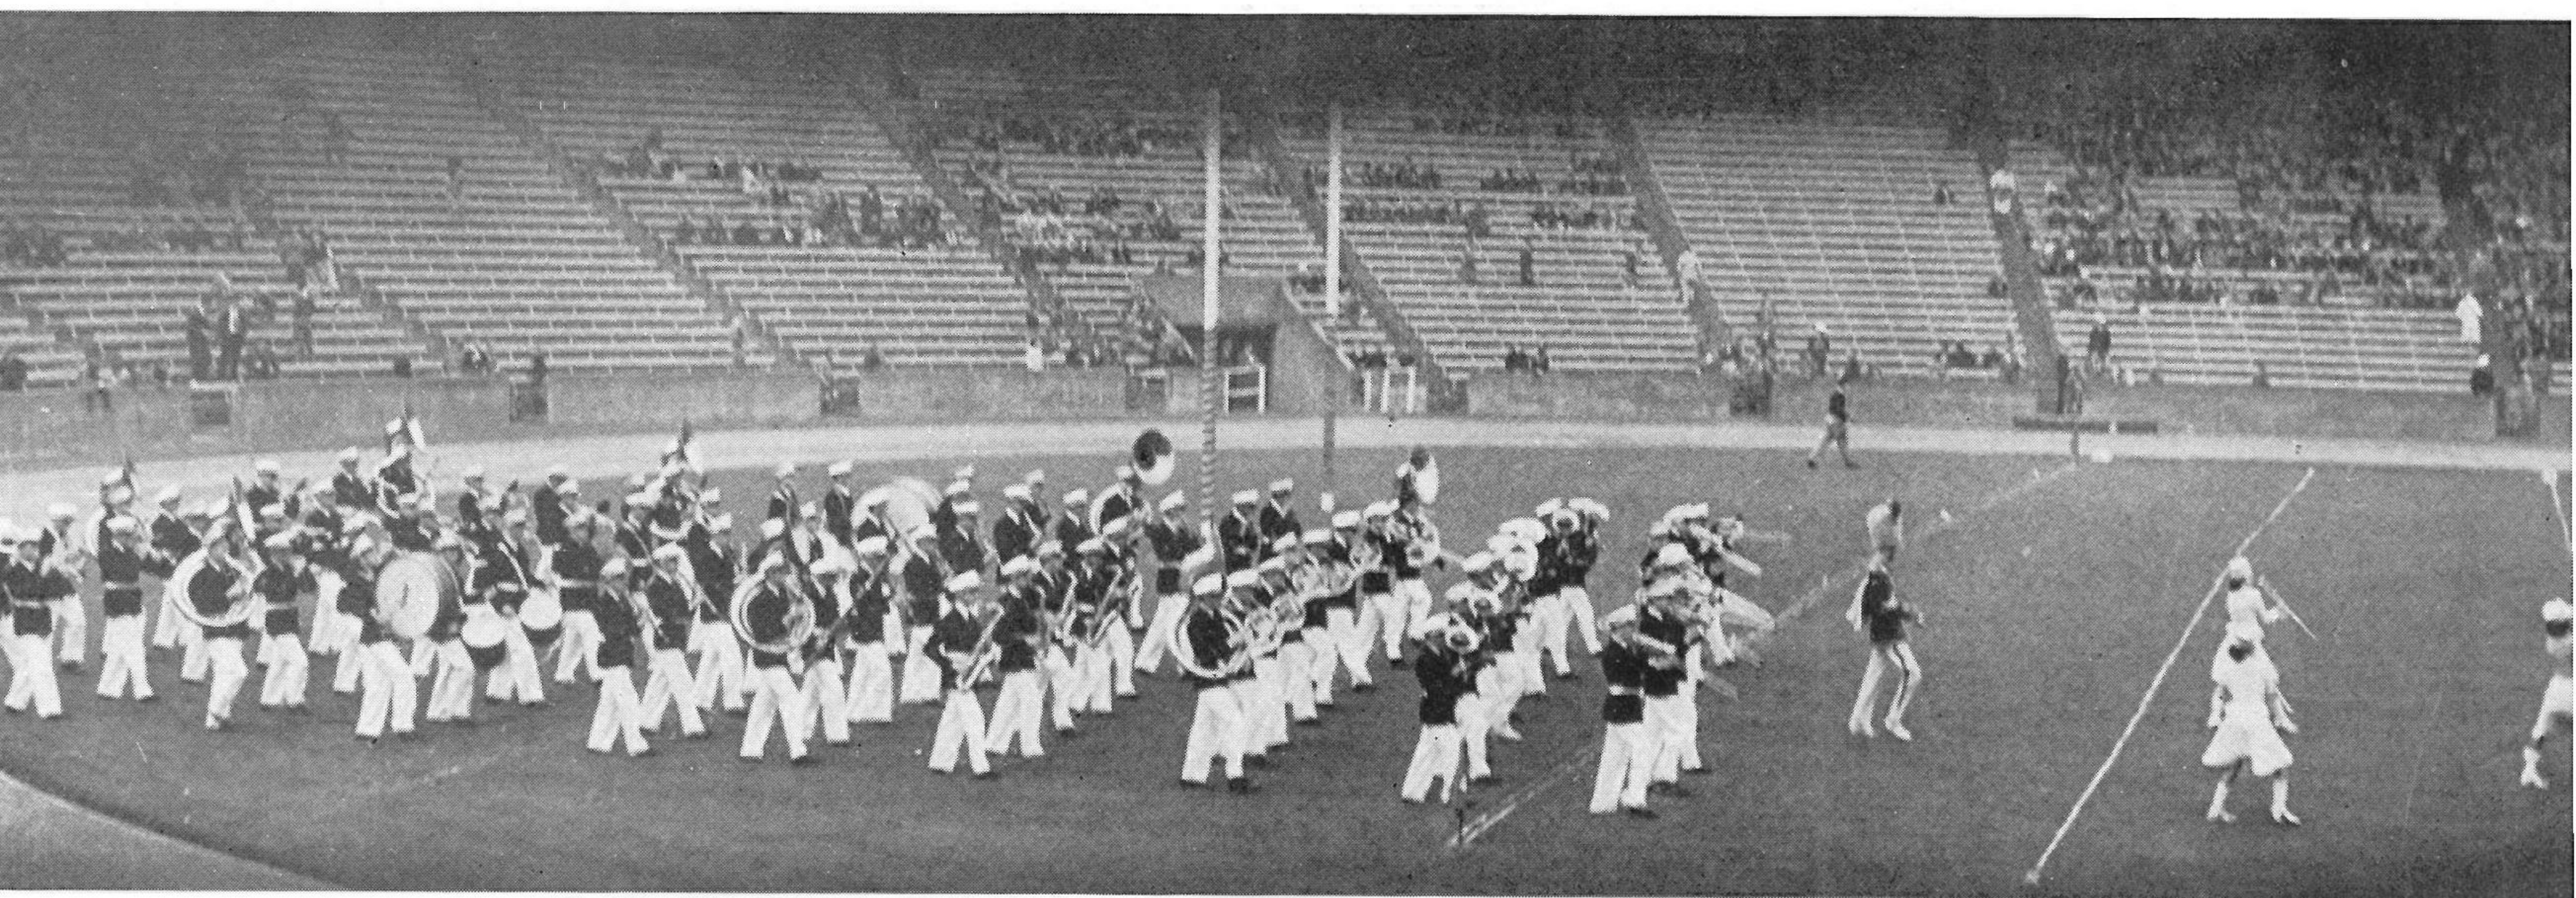

The University Symphony, composed of 65 student members, finished its most successful season during 1940. Popular

Varsity Quartet

A popular foursome, these young men appeared before groups all over the state, in addition to campus performances, during the year. Directed by Prof. Charles Lawrence, they particularly appealed to students at the mid-winter Concert, Tyee Cinderella show, and to the public through club and other local appearances.

Grouped about the piano, the quartet includes, standing, Robert Wilson, Lyman Snow, and George Parant. Seated is Glen Conley.

MARCHING BAND

With five drum majorettes twirling batons before them, the Marching Band parades up and down the field during fall football games. Smartly uniformed, it gives a short concert at the half, plays school pep songs during times out and at strategically exciting points during the game. They are under the direction of Professor Walter C. Welke.

CONCERT BAND

Student members of the marching band play in the concert band during winter and spring quarters. Larger than the other, the concert band adds women members. Innovation of this year's band was the development of a "swing" repertoire, that popularized them at their own Swing Concert, and the Tyee Cinderella show. The band gave concerts, in cooperation with other members of the music department at Christmas, and a series of their own during the rest of the year.

HIGH SCHOOL MUSIC CONFERENCE

Under the sponsorship of the University School of Music and the directorship of Professor George C. Kirchner and his assistants, the University gives a one-month course each summer for the training of high school music students in orchestra, band and chorus work. Both group and private instruction is offered. Students, boarded in sorority and fraternity houses, have the recreational facilities of the University, swimming pools, golf courses, canoes, ping pong tables, tennis and badminton courts. They are entertained with banquets, picnics, splash parties, and dances. They give radio programs, weekly concerts on the campus and a final mass concert. Above, last year's concert orchestra gives an out-door concert. Below, student members of the Institute eat at the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority house.

Bartlett and Robertson, ace piano team, gave a distinguished performance in Meany hall.

CONCERT SERIES

Talented favorites of the concert stage performed before Meany hall audiences during year '39-'40. Under the sponsorship of the Associated Women Students, Lily Pons, coloratura soprano, Jascha Heifetz, master maestro of the violin, Bartlett and Robertson, perfectly-matched piano team, and Devi Dja's troupe of Balinese dancers, introduced the favorites, new and old, to the campus.

University students came close to warring Europe with the news that the scheduled appearance of singers Favero and Jagel would be canceled because of unsettled conditions in Italy. Violinist Heifetz appeared on the campus early in winter quarter.

Credit for the widely varied cultural program goes to the management of Mrs. Margaret Donahue, graduate manager of AWS and her assistant, Miss Marjorie Shields. With the help of student chairmen they filled Meany hall for nearly every performance.

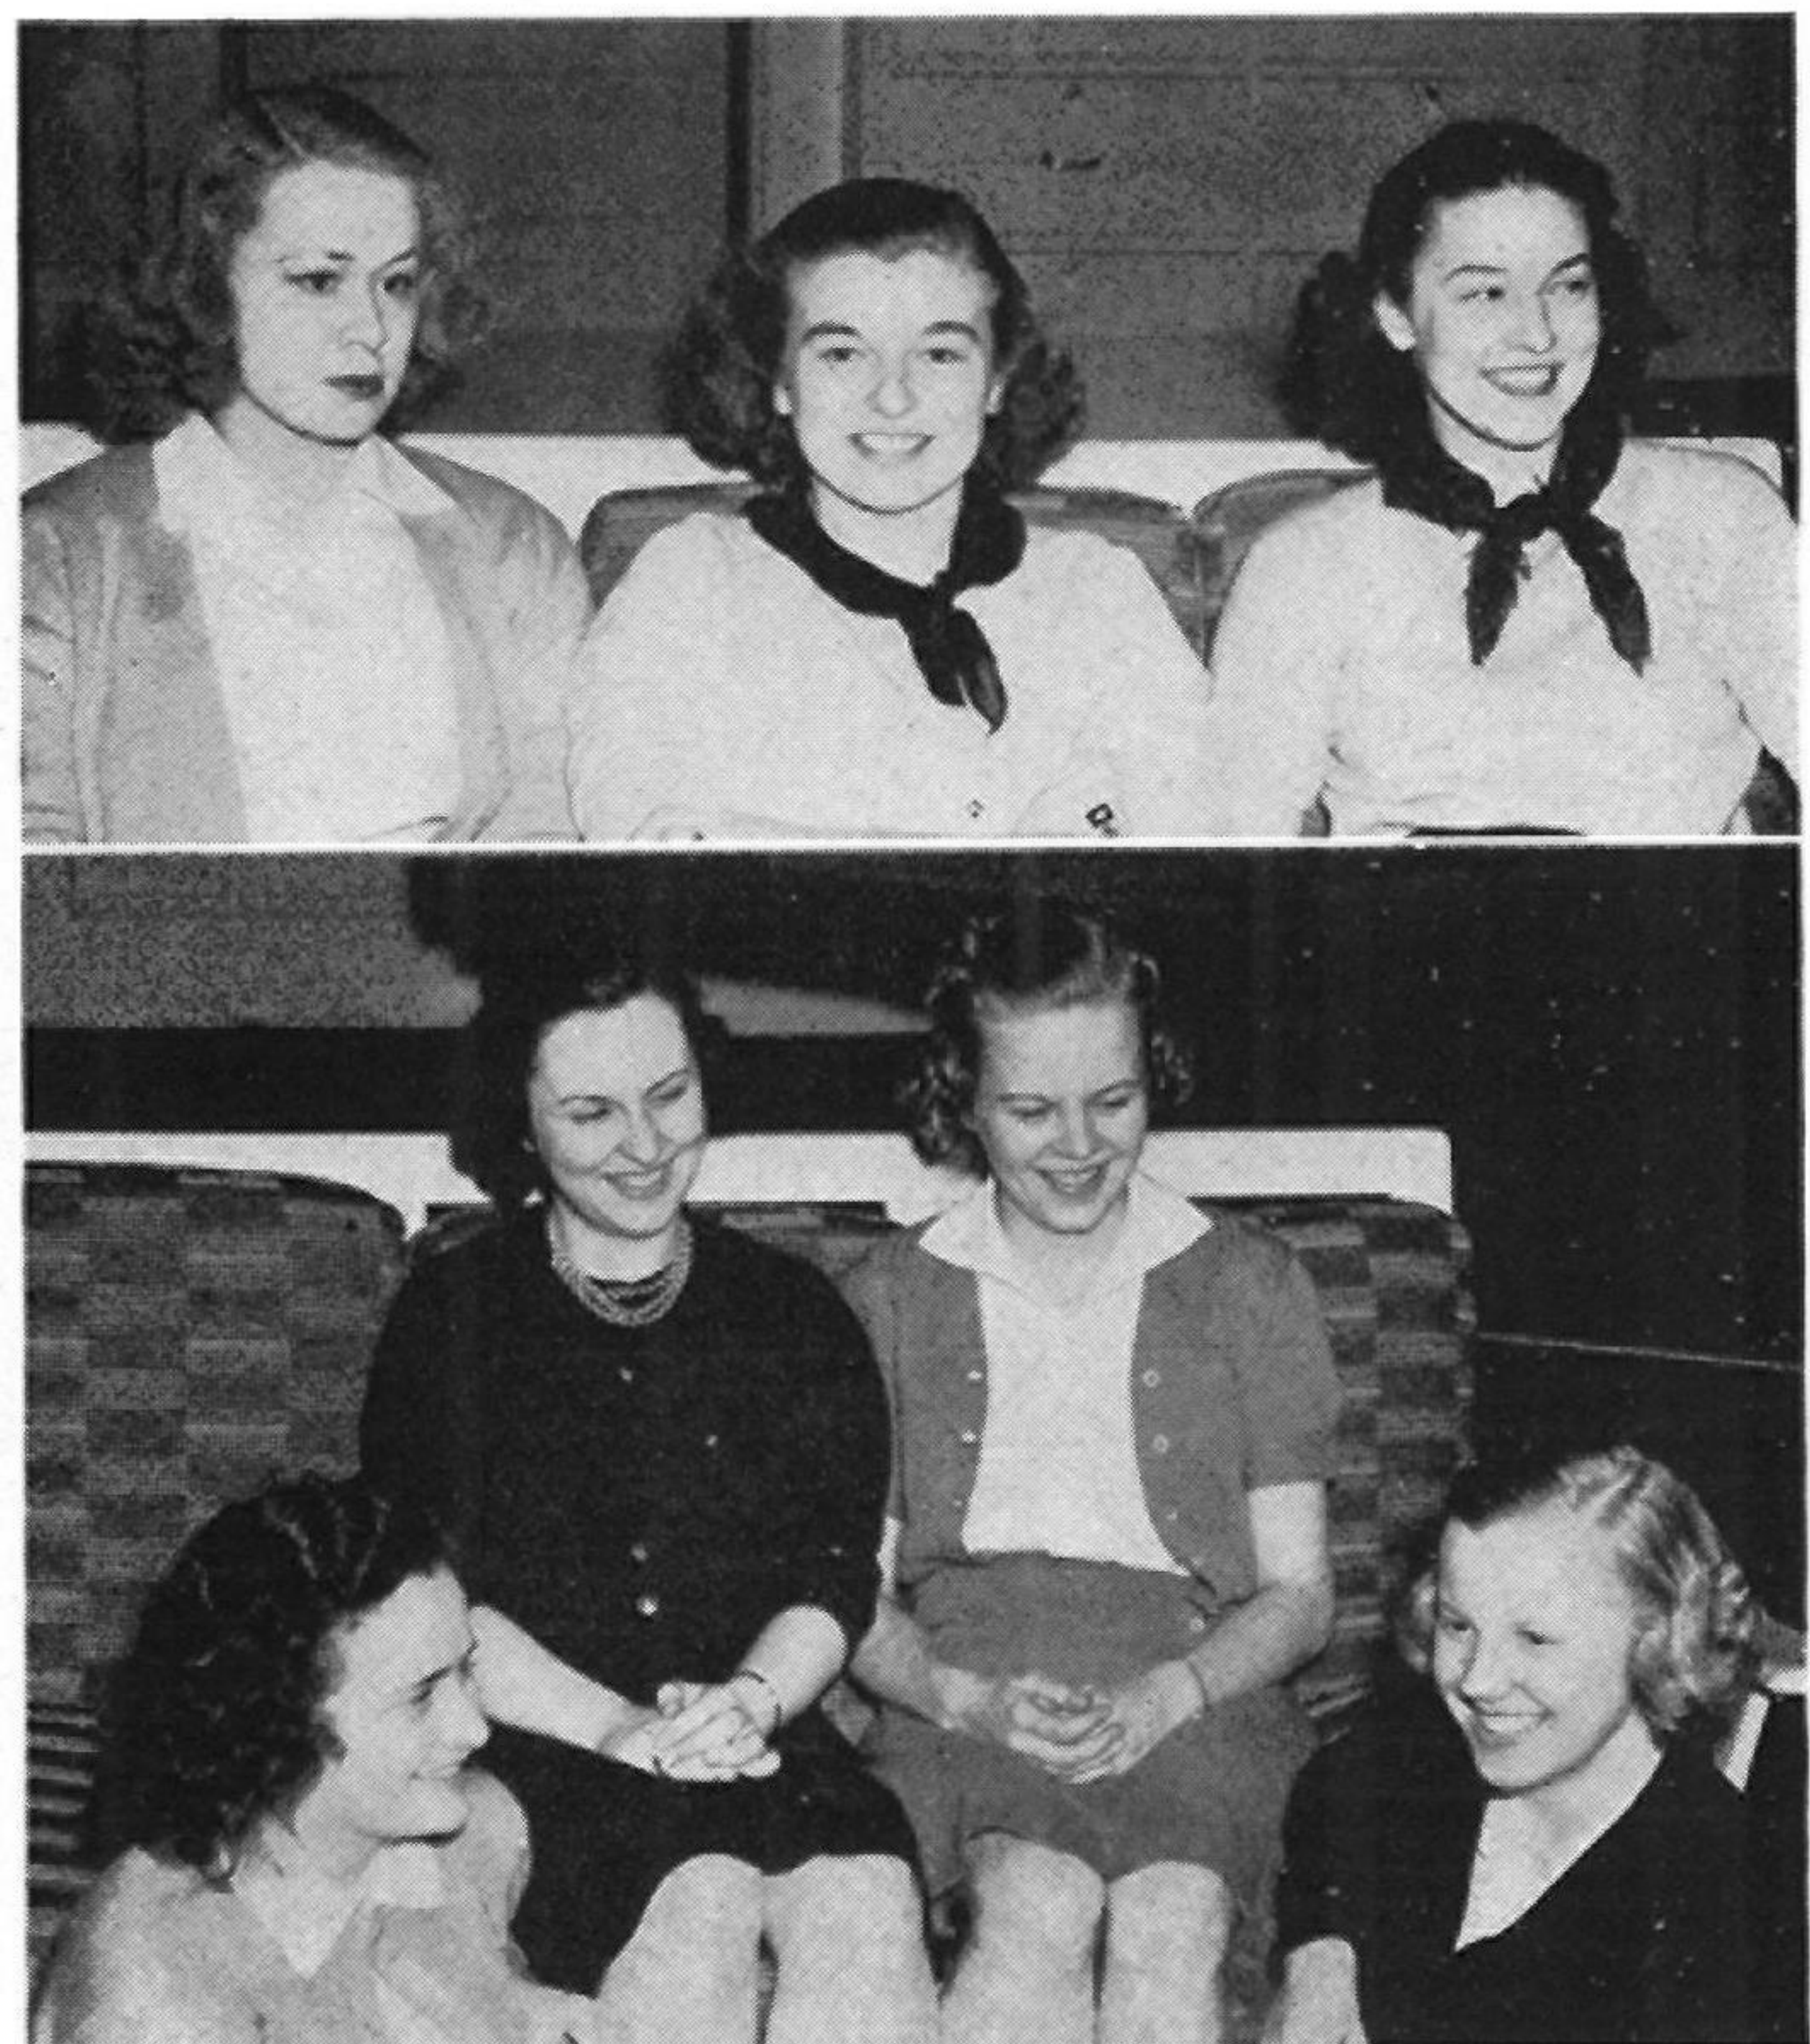

Devi Dja and troupe of Balinese dancers gave students a taste of Oriental culture, costuming, and dance technique.

UNIVERSITY OF

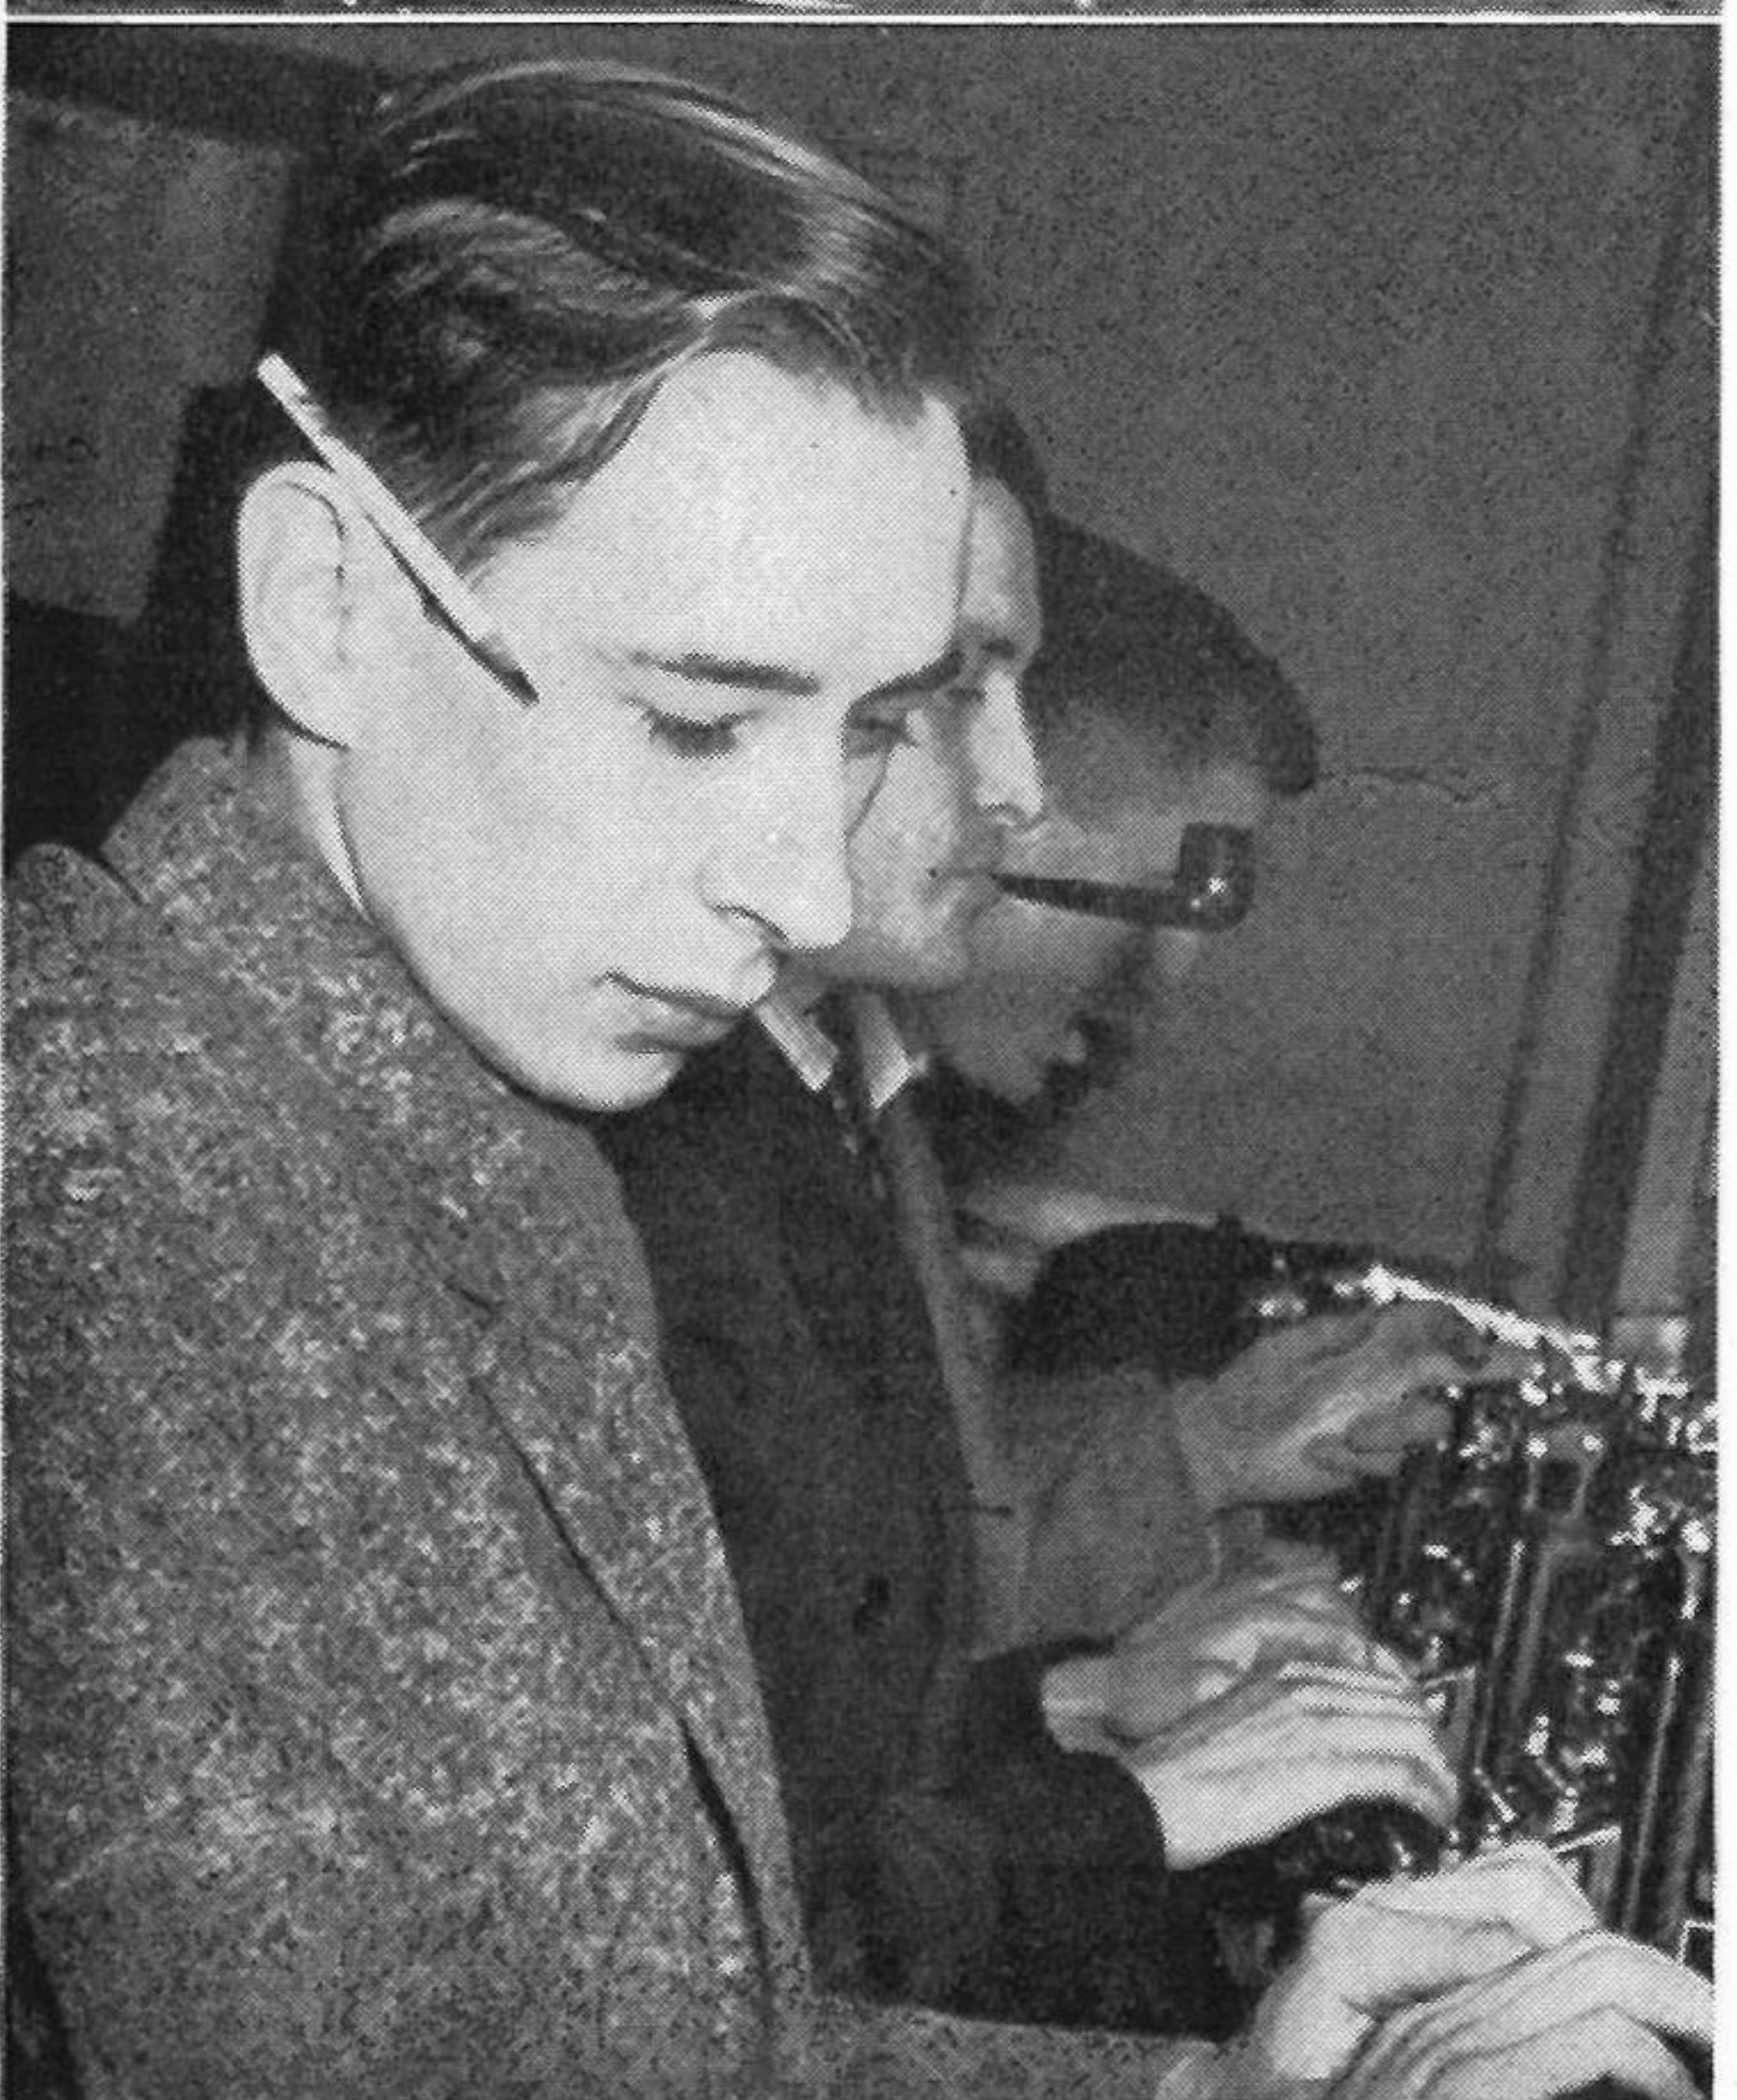

First of an unprecedentedly long list of Daily Editors was Vernon Peterson. Pete took a beating at the hands of the faculty, AWS' famous snuggle-pups and others, and did not finish his term. A Theta Xi and member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism professional, Pete found he had a loyal staff and, at the last moment, that he was "annoyed with Dr. Sieg."

Albert Malcolm Allen stepped into the breach left by Pete's abdication and served as editor for one month until the Daily reorganization was completed. His regime was noted for the period of transitional turmoil during which The Daily was buffeted about by the campus, the press and the faculty. From it arose a new staff unity, fixed responsibility of Daily editors and another editor.

Elmer Charles Vogel, third occupant of the well-worn editorial chair, was known as "the dynamic editor." He brought The Daily to life with a heterogeneous (Elmer would like that word) series of fiery editorials which disrupted the quiet doldrums of winter quarter campus life. Old timers on the campus were reminded of former Daily editors Max Miller and Tom Griffith. Nothing gave Elmer more pleasure than an argument—make that a quiet argument.

When Tyee went to press Bill Carter was still editor of The Daily with every indication he would finish his term which was to last through Spring quarter. Bill is known as "Colonel" Carter, is an independent and president of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism professional. Promising to follow precedents established by the winter quarter Daily, Bill quickly gave indication that his regime would not be a quiescent one.

Bill Duncan, outstanding sophomore night editor and columnist.

Ken Berglund, sports editor fall quarter, later night editor.

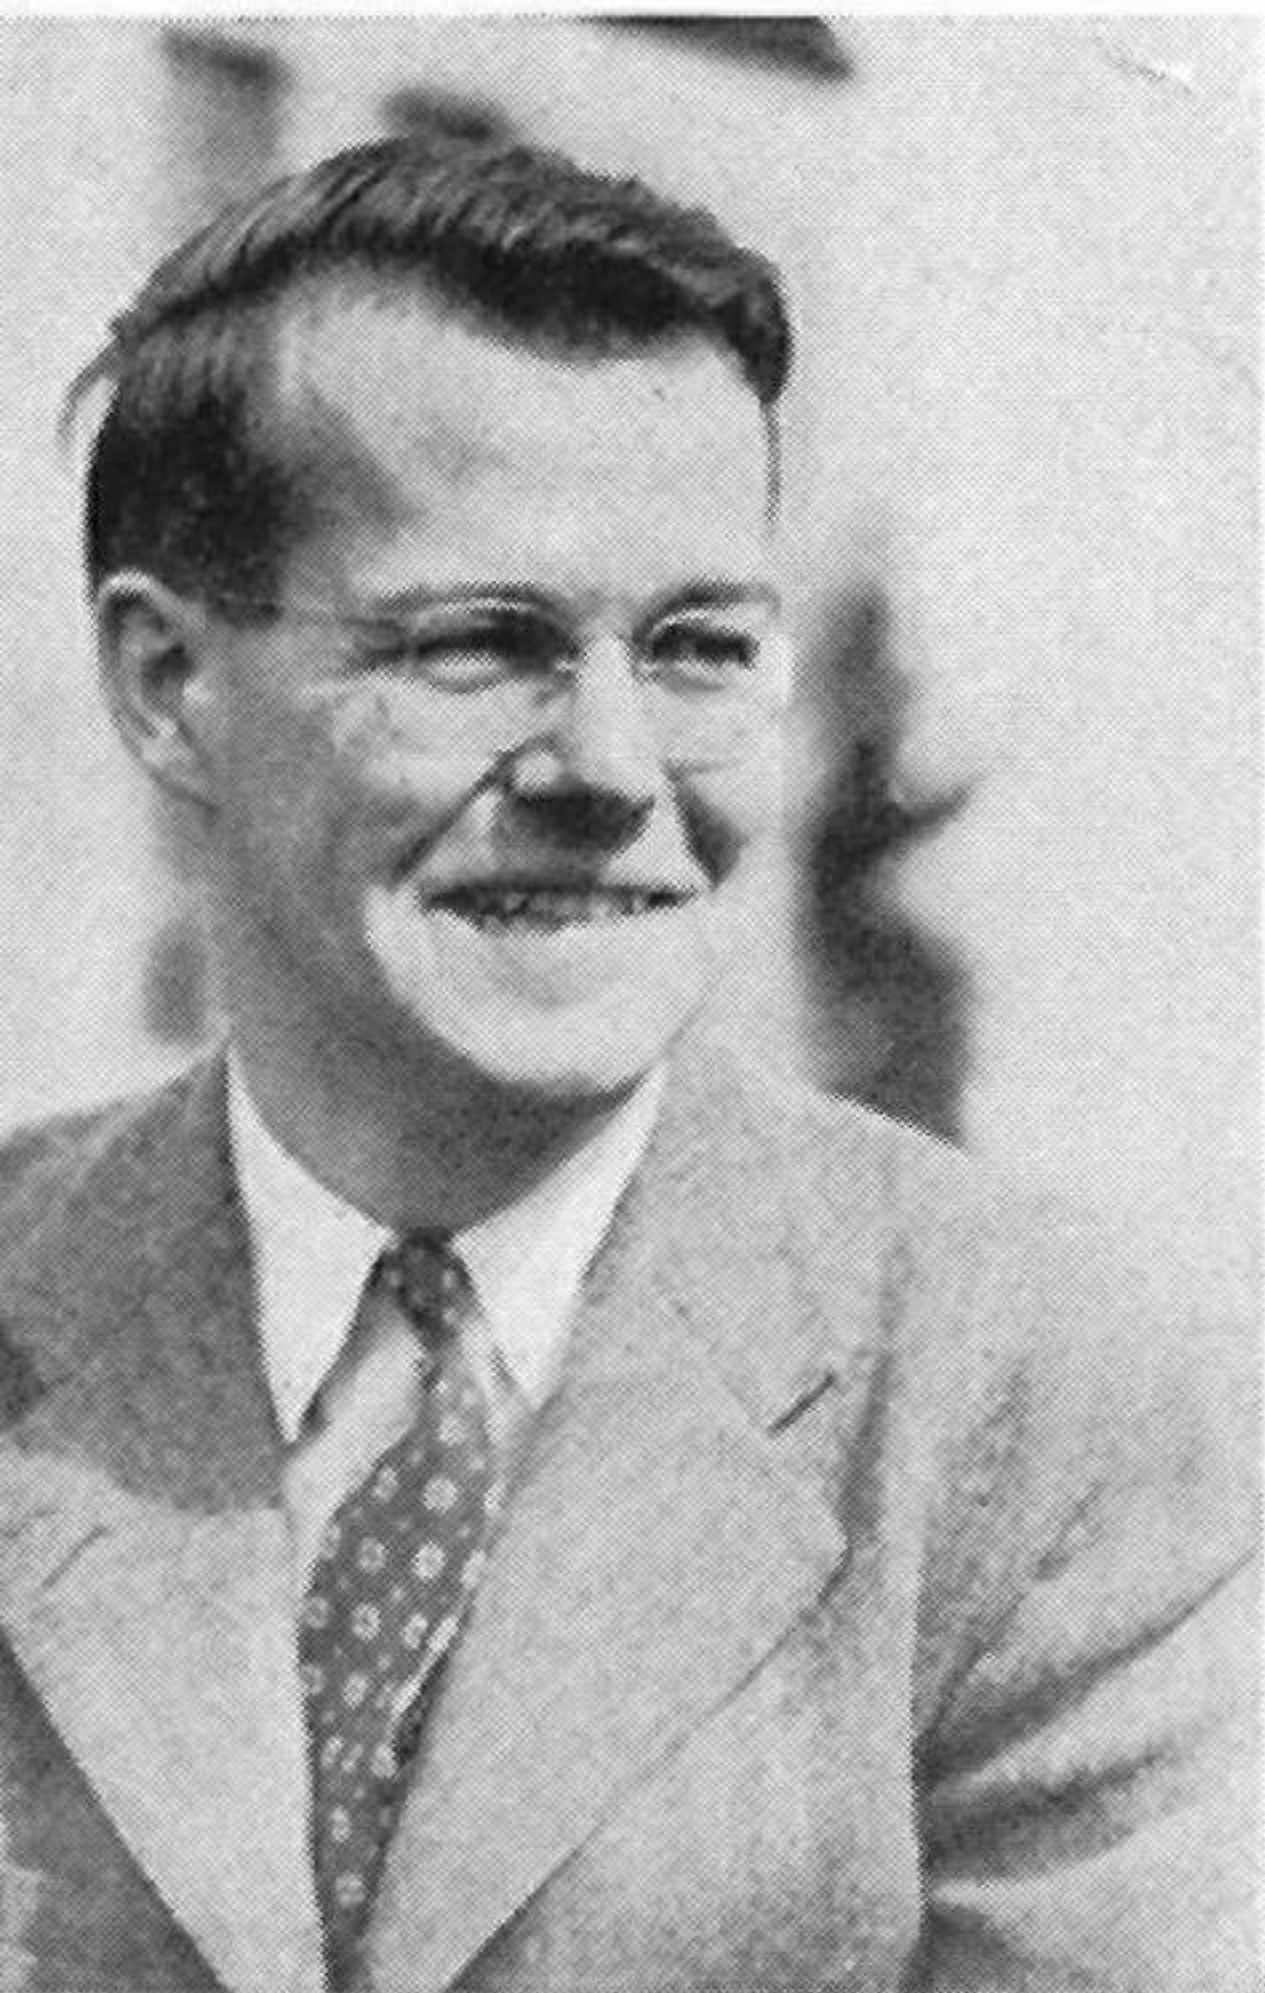

Dick Meyer, quiet, studious night editor, music critic.

Edwin (Sergiev) Guthman, AS-UW beat to managing editor.

Any attempt to follow the history of this year's Daily leads one through a maze as confusing and circuitous as any ever constructed by the psychology department. The first edition opened with a statement considered offensive by district clergymen who started a murmur which rapidly swelled into a roar—with teeth. The roar came as a by-product of errors in fact and in judgment committed by the Daily when it printed other items successively offensive to (1) AWS, (2) Dr. and Mrs. L. P. Sieg, (3) ASUW heads and (4) the journalism faculty. The faculty moved in and Editor Vernon Peterson moved out to be replaced by a faculty-selected staff headed by Malcolm Allen, chosen from the junior journalism class.

It was the staff's turn to roar—and they did, eventually forcing recapitulation, some capitulation. A Daily staff committee was elected to confer with faculty and administration representatives to consider ways and means of (1) assuring greater responsibility and accuracy of student staff members and (2) preventing recurrence of star-chamber dismissals of editors. Weeks of consultation resulted in adoption of a proposed permanent set-up by which election and dismissal of editors was prescribed in definite terms, a new executive staff was organized for consultation with faculty members and a new salary set-up arranged.

Gordy Williams — he snapped at the Daily printed.

Marjorie Solheim, cutest girl, critic, assistant women's editor.

Anne Stewart, interim women's editor fall quarter.

Ples Lee Irwin, spring quarter sports editor

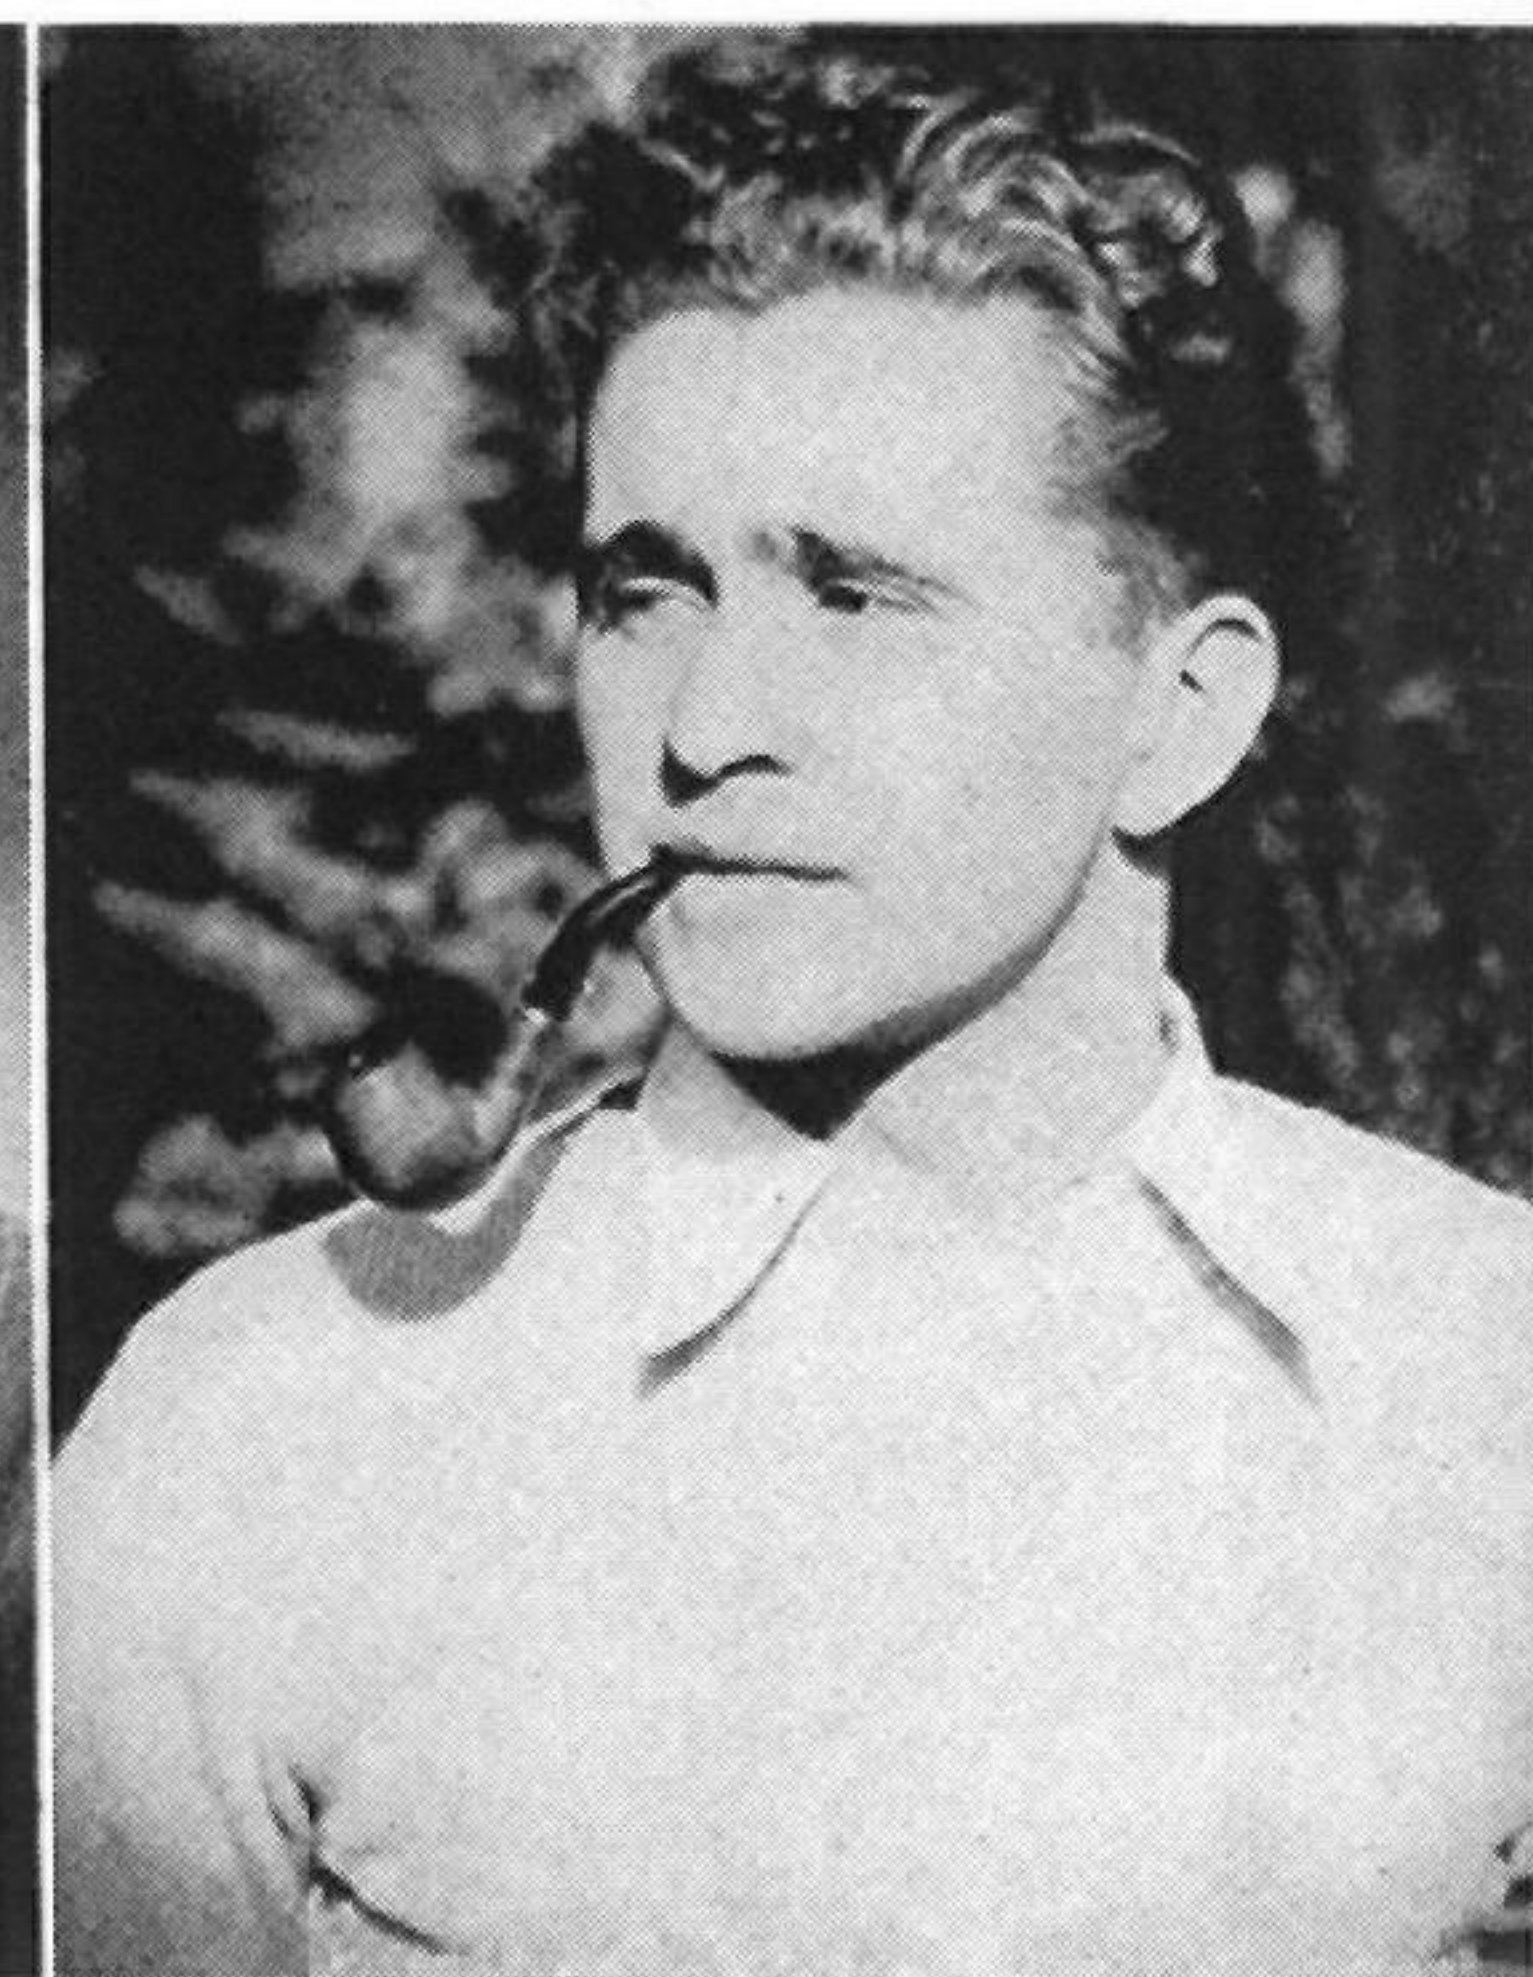

Russ Ulrich, other half of Gordy Williams' job.

Bob Bailie, assistant sports editor all year.

Lenny Anderson, funniest writer in school, best on The Daily.

Ron Bostwick, sophomore night editor and special reporter.

Winter quarter opened with Elmer Vogel as student-faculty elected editor and a new note in Daily policy being sounded. The whole staff felt the jar as seniority was ignored and expediency forced the editor to go afield for an executive staff. The fear of faculty and/or administration censorship was rapidly dispelled as The Daily waxed wroth about many subjects freely and unhampered. Freshman cabinet officers felt the scorn engendered of an attempt to bring back green hats; AWS awoke to the realization that its Town Hall speakers were unpopular, unwanted; fraternities and sororities stirred sleepily as their usefulness was questioned and downtown newspapers found the question had reached the proportions of a "serious controversy." Vogel, however, finished his regime to be first full-term editor for the school year 1939-40, with the demand that The Daily be removed completely from ASUW control and returned to the journalism school as a class-room laboratory where he felt it belonged. Events moved rapidly following this proposal and with the opening of Bill Carter's regime as editor it was announced that such steps would be taken as rapidly as possible. Consequently spring quarter Daily staff members look forward to the opening of the 1940-41 school year when a new set-up will be tried which incorporates the following features: (1) Wire service bringing in the news of the world along with campus items; (2) classroom credit will be given to staff members without excluding non-journalists; (3) a new faculty member will act as instructor to staff members, have no part in formulating Daily policy; (4) business and news staffs will be more closely coordinated, their interests made more compatible.

Those usually anonymous souls without which the best of editors are useless and no newspaper may go to press—the non-titled but hard working staff members—are here given recognition for the record. This, the women's page staff, includes from left to right, front row: Anne Stewart, Catherine Griffith, Peggy Wood, Joe Klaas, Anna Rind. Second row: Barbara Carlberg, Jack Pyle, Lorena Inglis, Charlotte Turner, Harriet Morrison, Doria McDonald, Mary Florence Bendix, and Frances McLaughlin.

Page three of The Daily reports the activities of the big-muscle boys—and girls—who usually inhabit the pavilion or the women's gymnasium. These students did the writing: Murray Coe, Mark Muin, Jerry Hoeck, Bob McCarter, Jane Brokaw, George Selvidge, Bob Bailie, Ples Lee Irwin, Donald Gerrish Brazier, Edwin (Sergiev) Guthman, and Kenneth Berglund.

Ed Murnen, business manager

From the Daily's new business office in Lewis hall, students get practical experience in the laying out and selling of display ads, merchandising a community of 10,000 people for the Daily's advertisers, learn the mechanics of newspaper work, sell classified ads over the phone, and generally get first-hand experience in advertising procedure. Open to all students, the business staff supplements classroom studies with extracurricular professional training.

Particular achievement of this year's business office staff has been efficient management of a difficult student office. With a larger group working than in former years, Daily business has been well handled by manager Ed Murnen. Outside office hours, the staff has frequent social get-togethers to encourage cooperation on the part of members. Picnics and parties interspersing professional work have aided in the development of a "business office spirit."

TEMPO

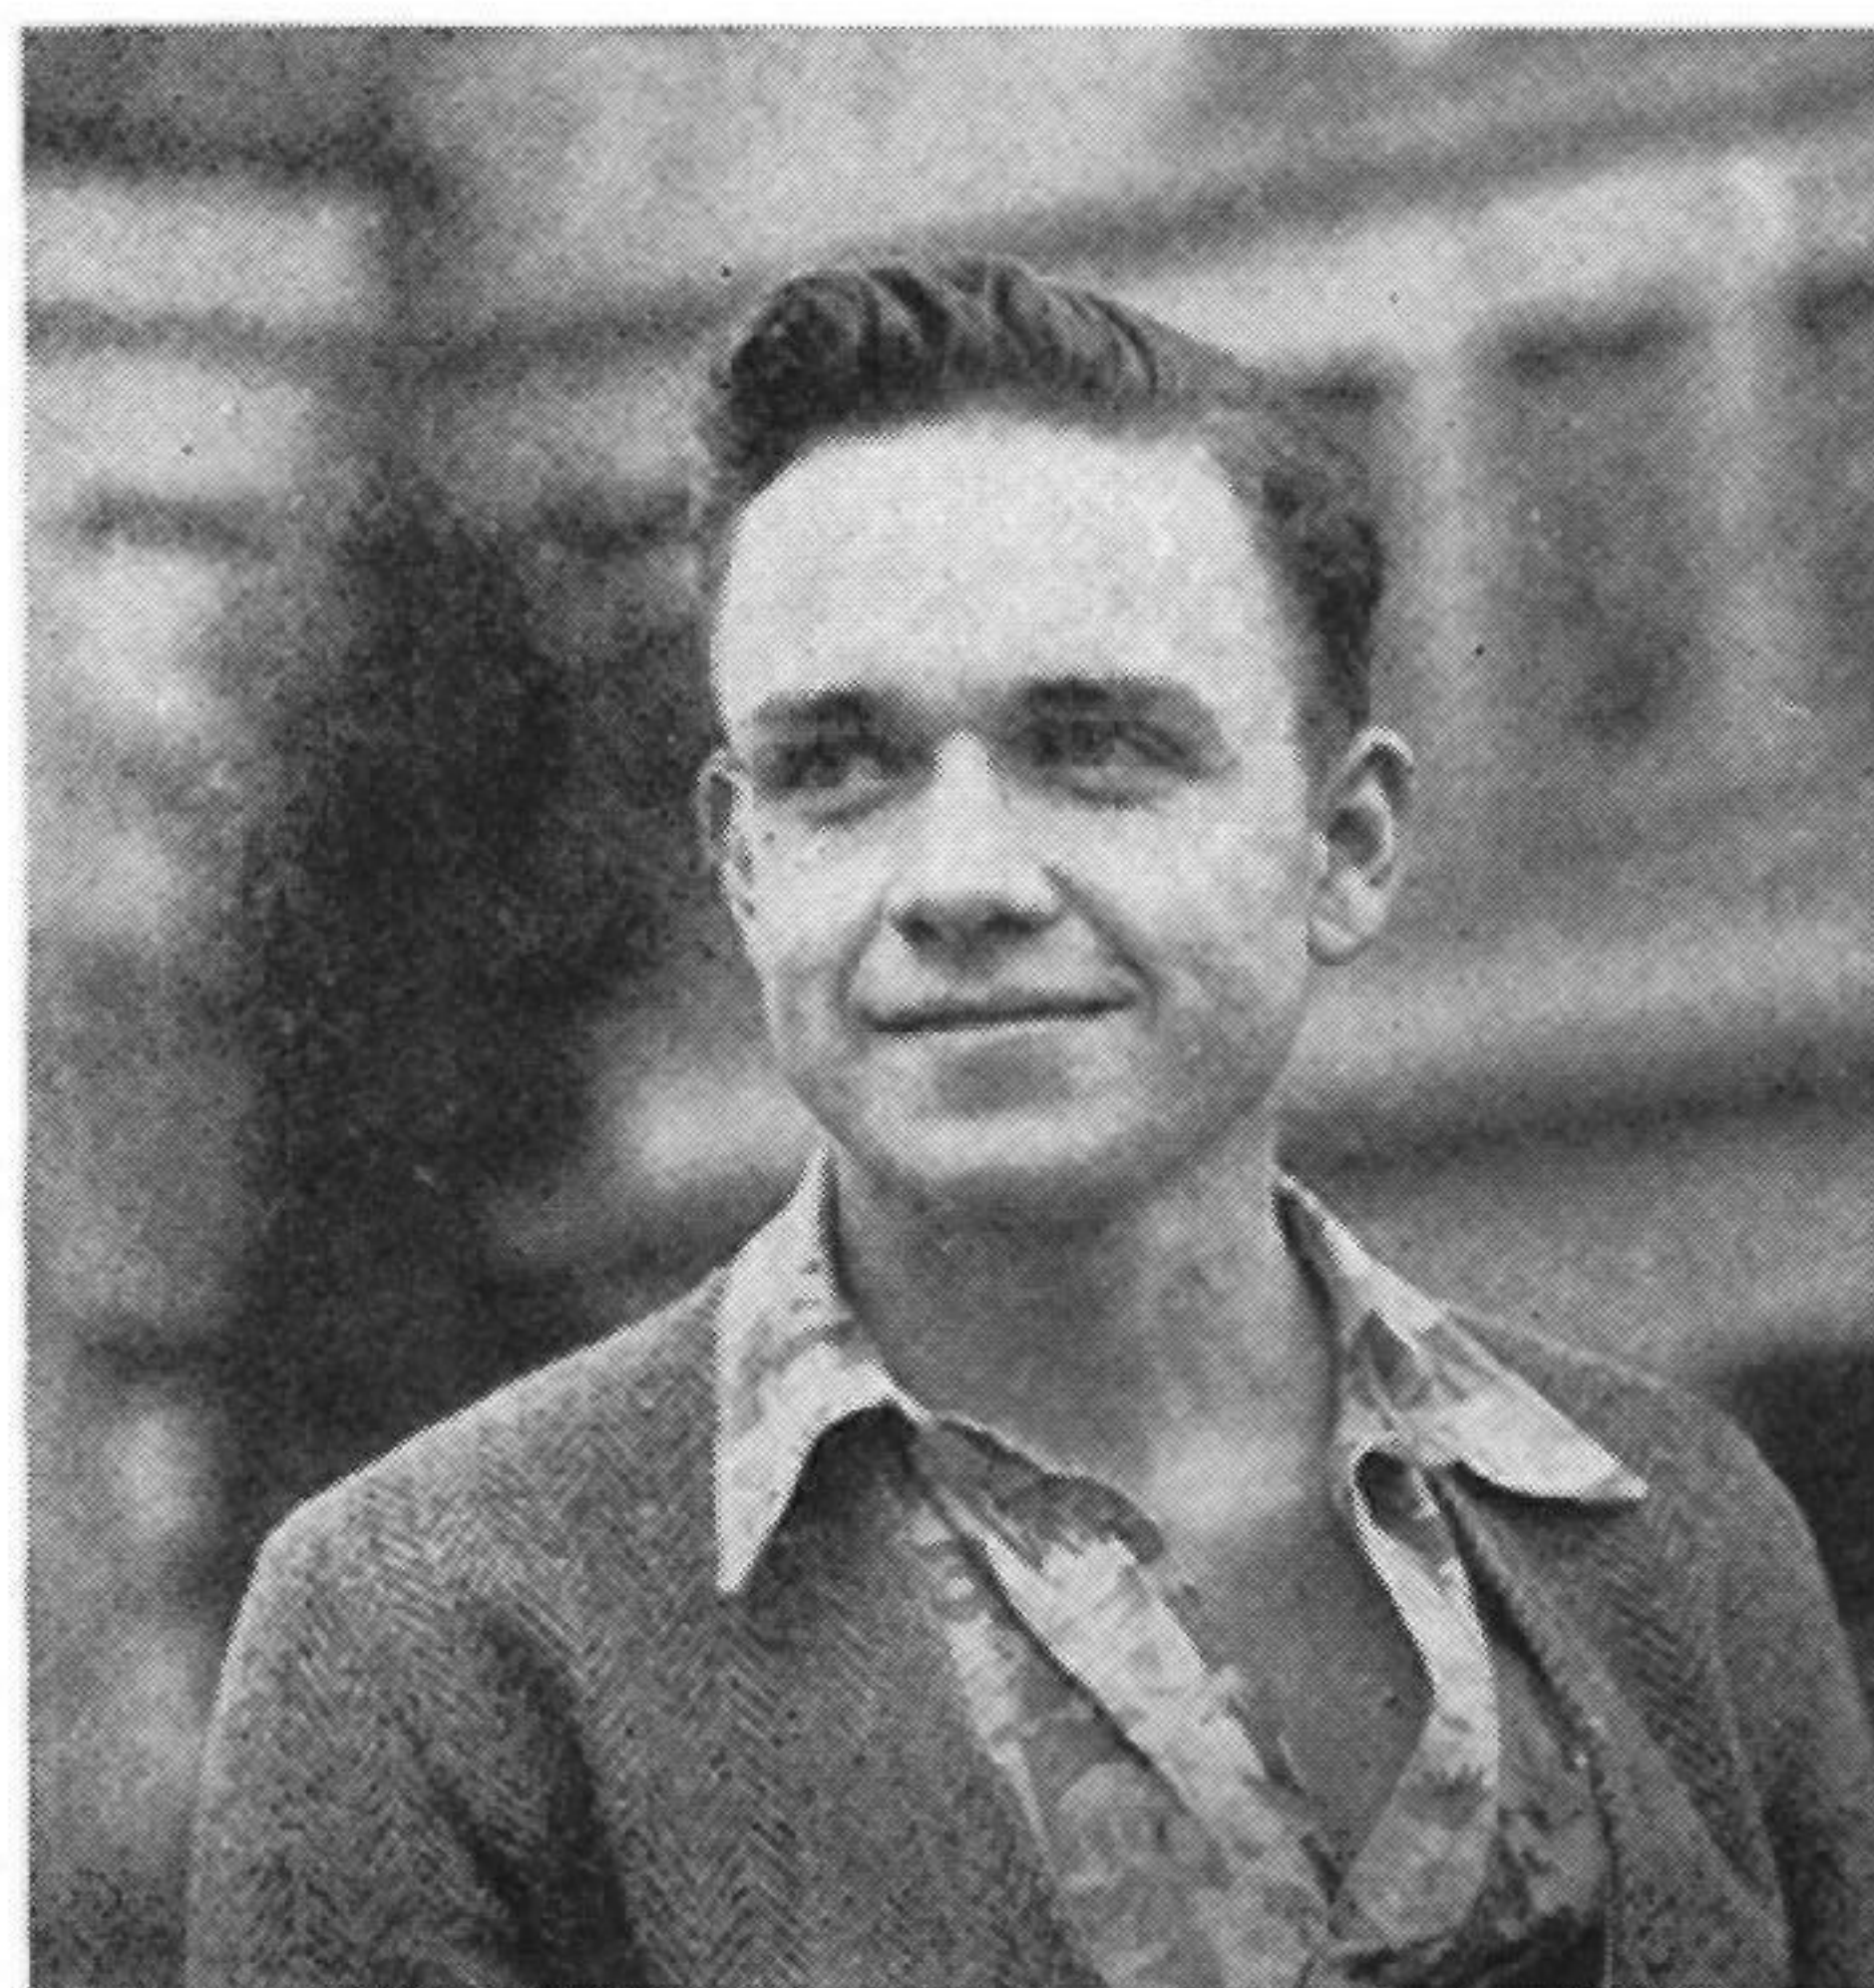

Today, when a world is seething, changing, there is a vital need for clear, free thought.

Last November there was born on the campus a new magazine—a “forum of college thought.” They called it Tempo. And now, after six issues, surprisingly enough, students and faculty realize the real need for controversial opinion, for free thought in a printed forum. Tempo has proved that education has its part to play in the bloodstream of modern humanity.

It excludes no field of human activities, no color of human ideas; it is still struggling for life, for its necessary service to a modern University.

WEAKLY inaugurating their 1939 gridiron season, the University of Washington Huskies were defeated by the strong University of Pittsburgh eleven on the Stadium turf. Losing this initial contest by a 27-6 count, the Purple and Gold contingent showed a woeful lack of adequate pass defense.

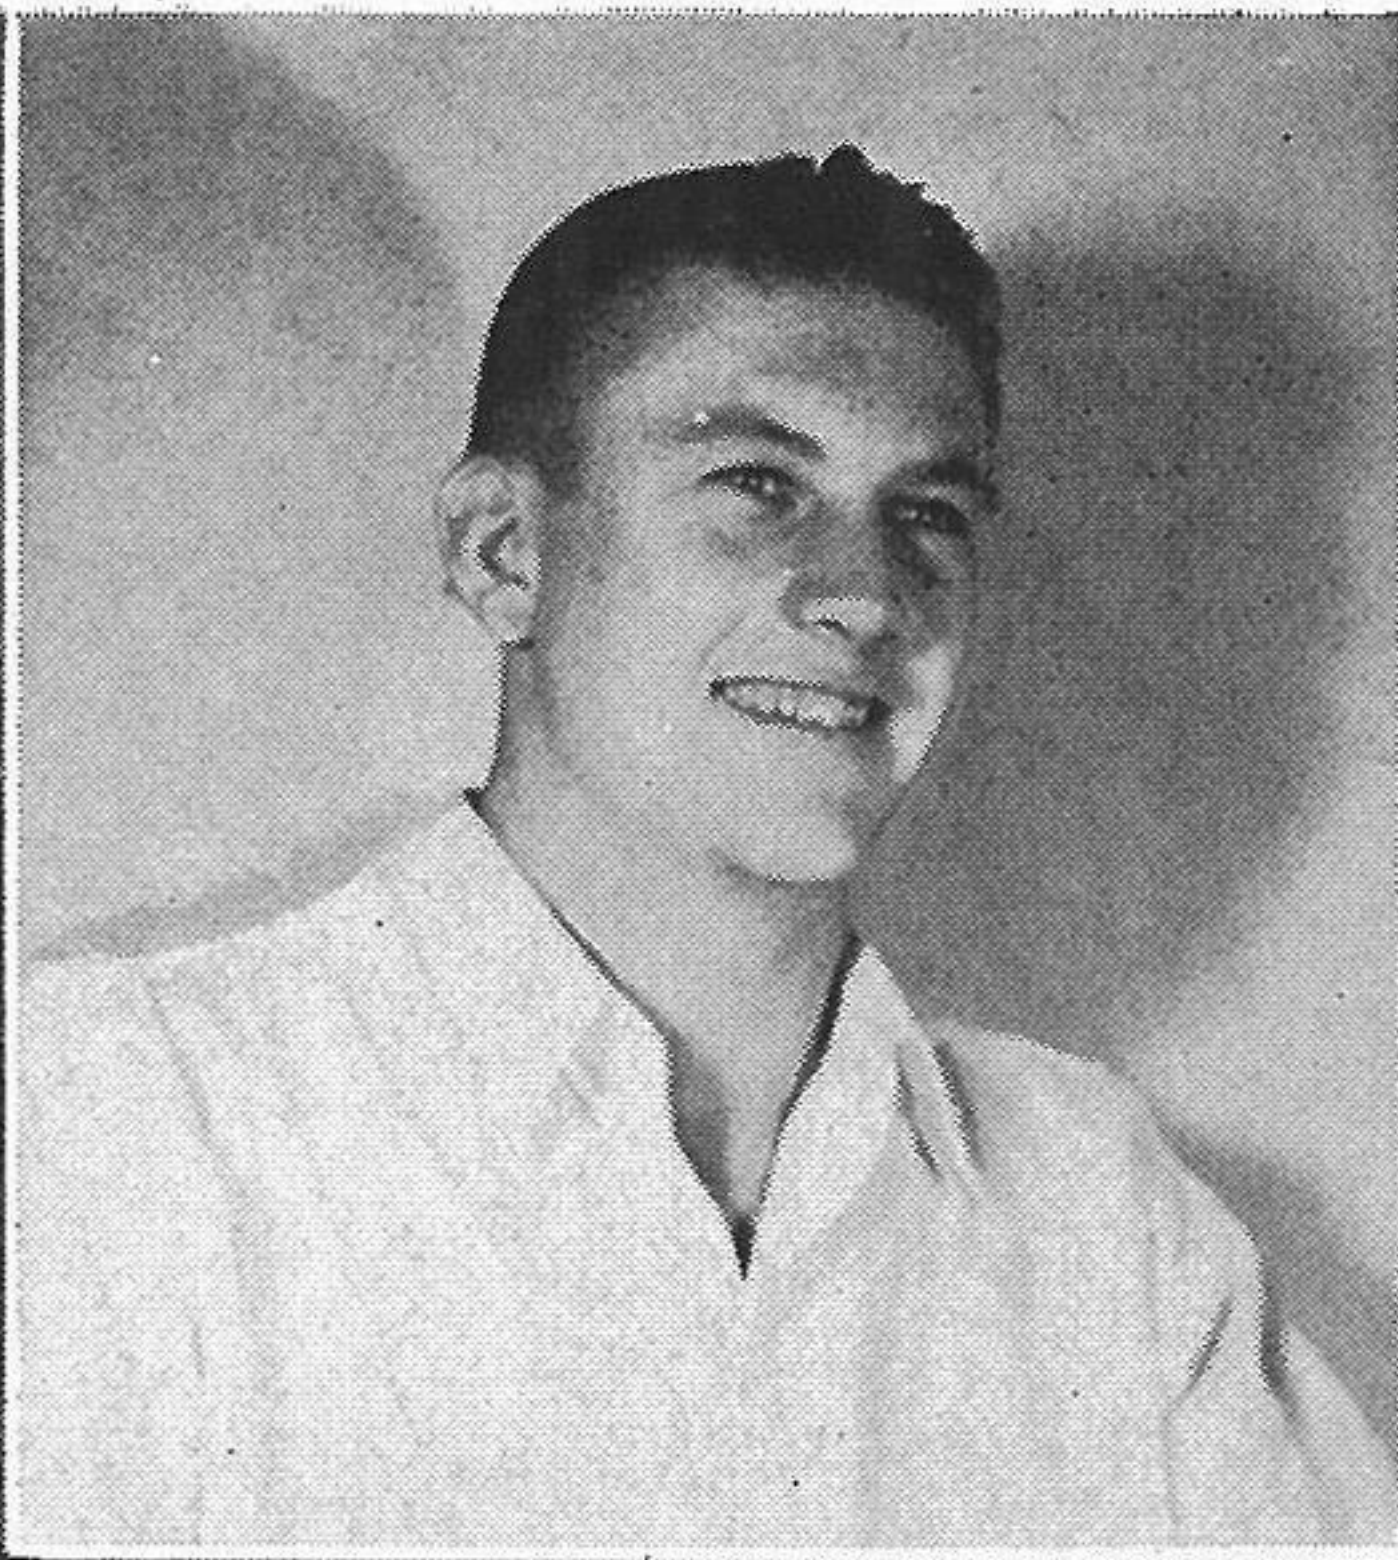

The Pitt eleven ran up a total of 27 points largely due to its deceptive formations. On each play the Eastern machine attempted to pull the defense out of position by suddenly using different shifts or single and double wingbacks. Dick Cassiano and Emil Narick were principally responsible for the brilliant passing attack unleashed by the Panthers as they completed 12 aerial tosses in 18 attempts.

The Huskies were vainly attempting to avenge the 1937 Rose Bowl defeat at the hands of the Panthers, but outside of Don Jones' lone touchdown, little was accomplished. Sore spot of the game was the loss of Chuck Bechtol, who was injured early in the game and unknowingly played until the half with a fractured arm.

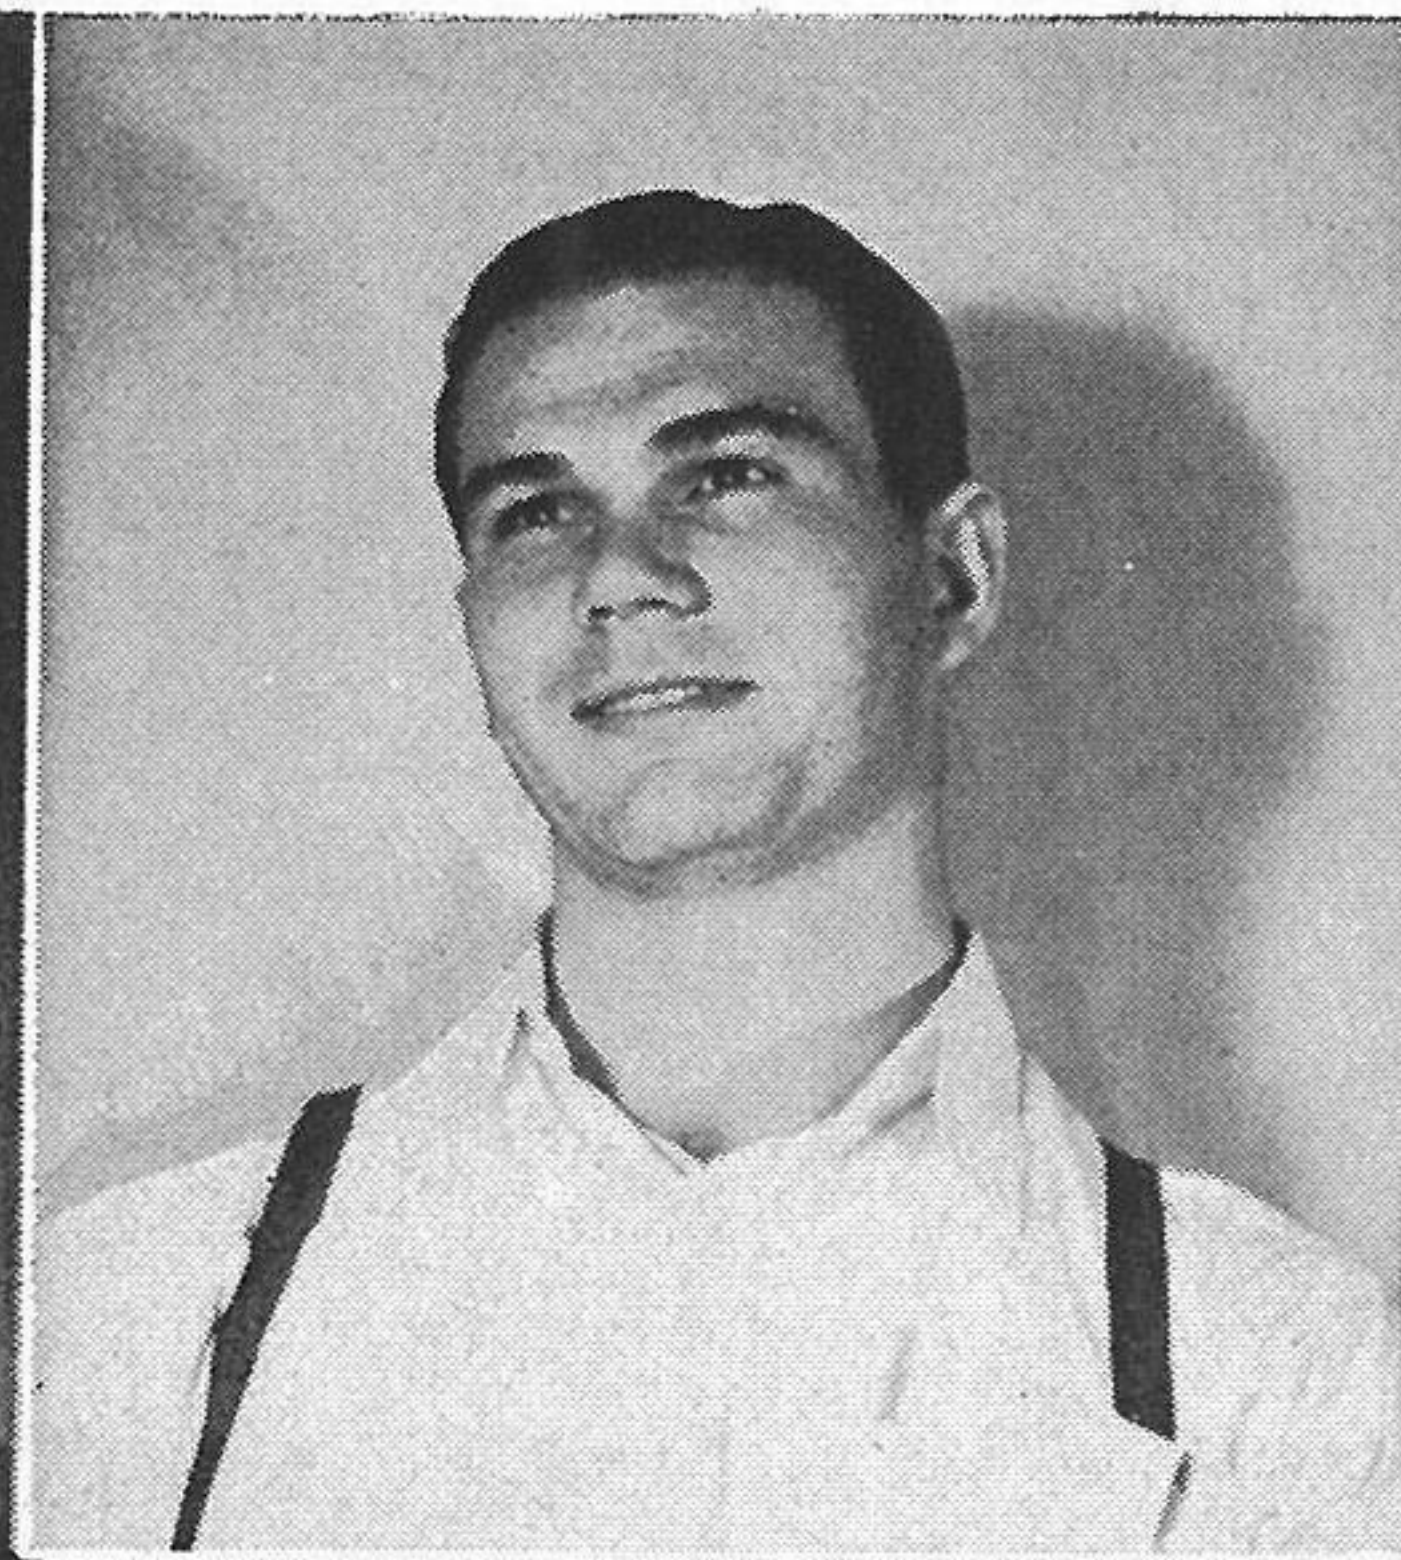

Klein, Fullerton, and Sinco played fine ball for the victors. Garretson, Frankowski, and Marx showed up well for Washington.

WANDERING Bruins from UCLA, fresh from their victory over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs, moved into Seattle seeking to duplicate their upset victory of the preceding year when they crossed the Husky goal line for the first time in gridiron history.

Bringing with them a bewildering offense, studded with deception and featuring split bucks, spinners, and fake and double reverses all originating from tricky man-in-motion formations, the Uclans fielded an eleven capable of real razzle-dazzle play.

Washington scored early in the game when Steele skirted end for the tally. Jones converted the extra point. The Huskies held this seven-point lead until the third quarter, when Kenny Washington picked up a Bruin touchdown.

Jackie Robinson, a veritable streak of gridiron lightning, leaped high for a touchdown pass, and the Bruins went into the lead, 14-7, protecting this margin for the remainder of the game.

Outstanding for the Bruins were a trio of dark-skinned gridders, Robinson, Washington, and Strode. Mucha, Marx, McAdams, and Jones shone for the Huskies.

WINNING their first tussle from Washington in five years, the WSC Cougars measured the Huskies at Pullman, 6-0. Features of the game were the breaks netted out and the belated Husky attack. Washington occupied the short end of the breaks most of the afternoon.

The Cougars scored in the first period after a terrific downfield drive. Rex Bantz annexing the six points when he reached pay dirt on a third down line play. George Roswell, Washington State's place kick specialist, missed the conversion.

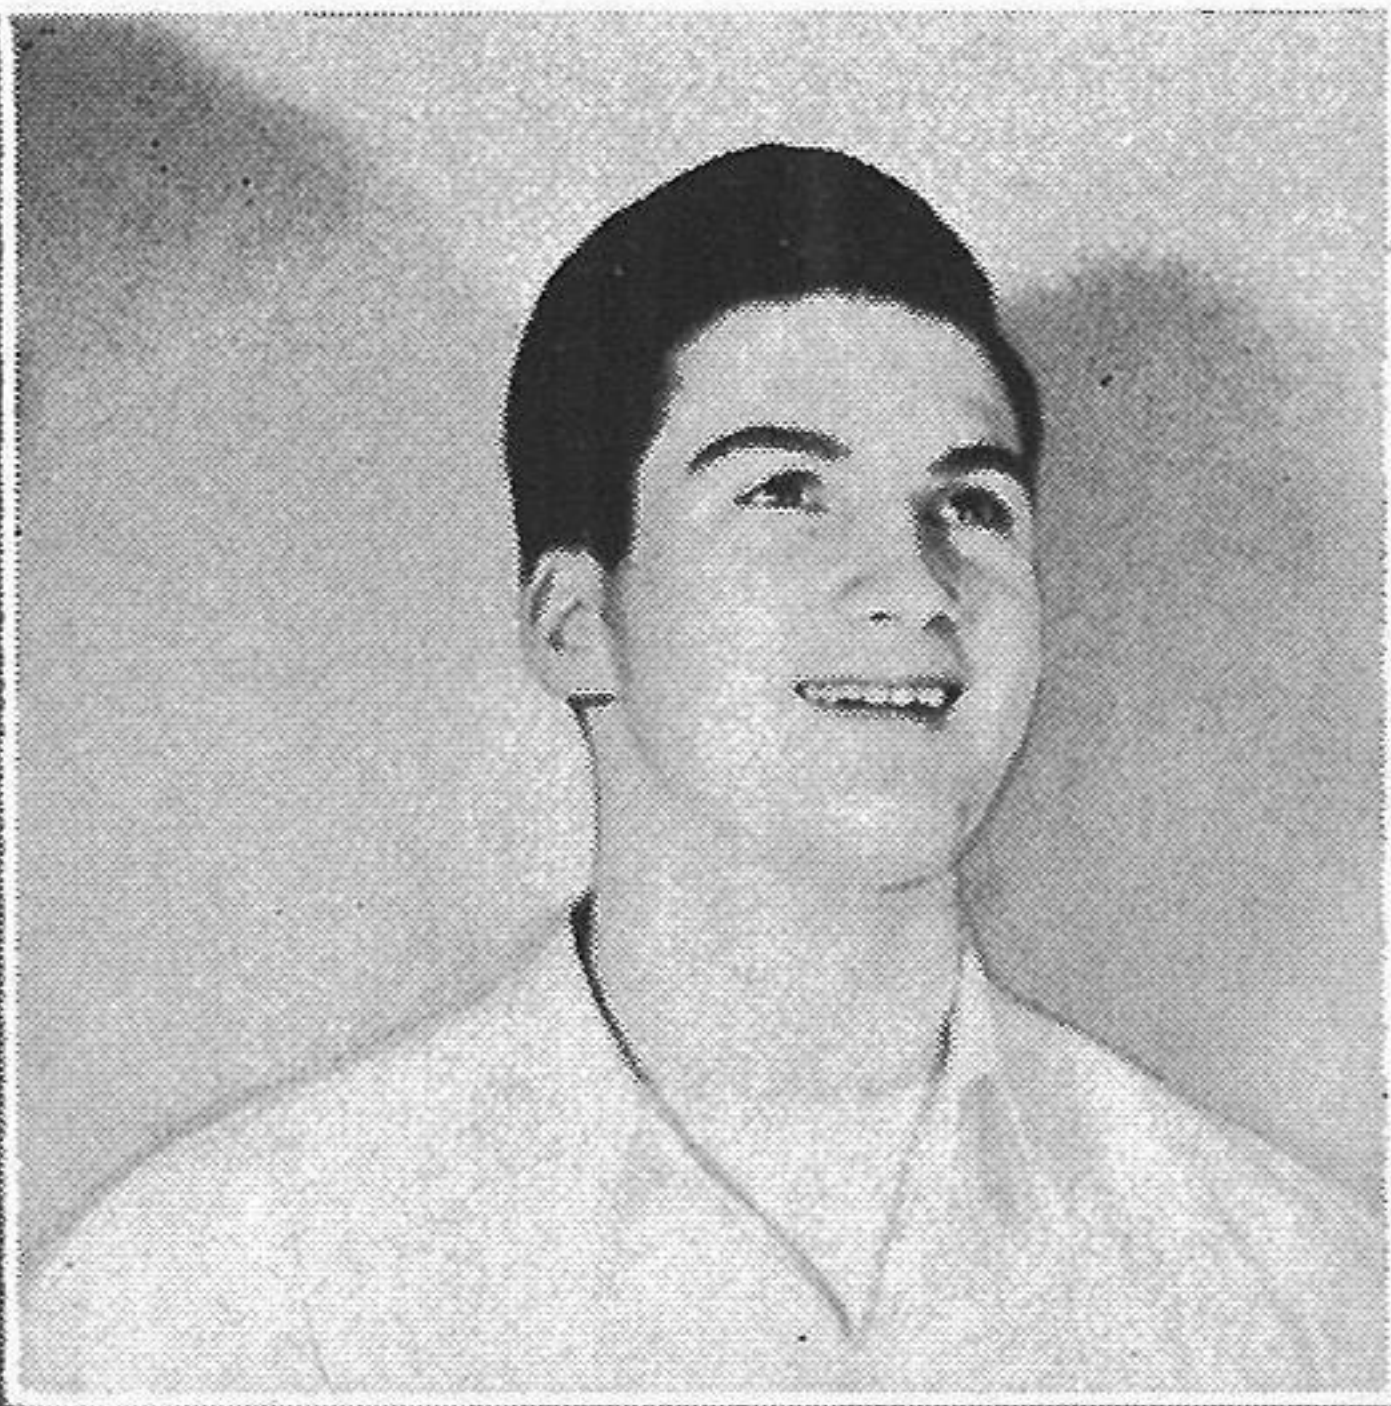

Entering scoring territory three times, the Huskies were unable to deliver the adequate scoring punch. Dean McAdams played a fine game at half and his kicking kept the Cougars at bay.

Sewell's punts were a factor in the Staters' victory, who picked up 145 yards and six first downs as compared with 269 and 14 for the Huskies.

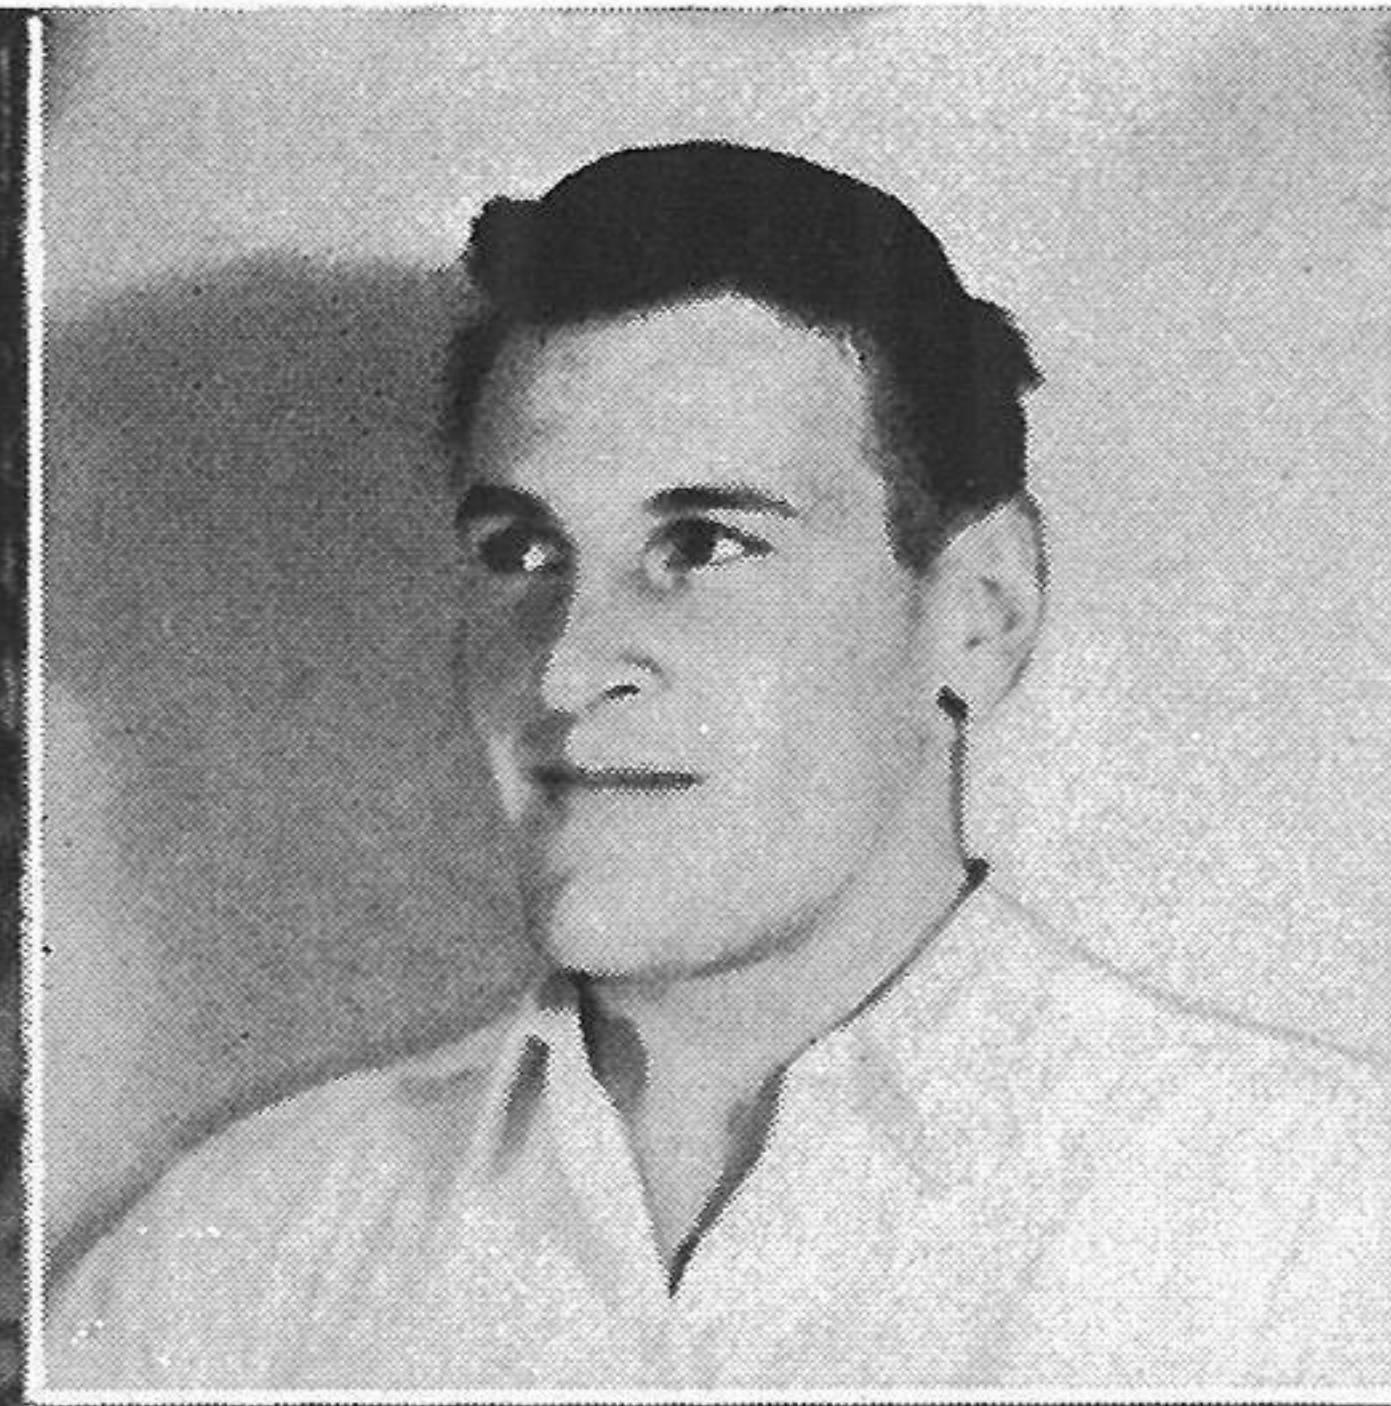

The fray was the WSC homecoming clash and Governor Martin was on hand to toss the coin for the kickoff. Half-time festivities were devoted to the observance of Washington's jubilee year.

WARILY journeying to Seattle to seek their third consecutive victory, the Oregon State Beavers dropped an inspired Husky eleven 13-7, even though the game was marred by several officiating arguments.

Washington displayed a fine passing and running attack. The Husky aerial attack with brilliant spot passes took on a dangerous aspect several times in the game. Dean McAdams, the chief Husky bombardier, connected with fifteen of his 26 shots for sizeable gains. The Purple and Gold touchdown was a fifty yard aerial toss from sophomore Roy Carlson to Jay McDowell. Johnny Mizen split the uprights for the extra point.

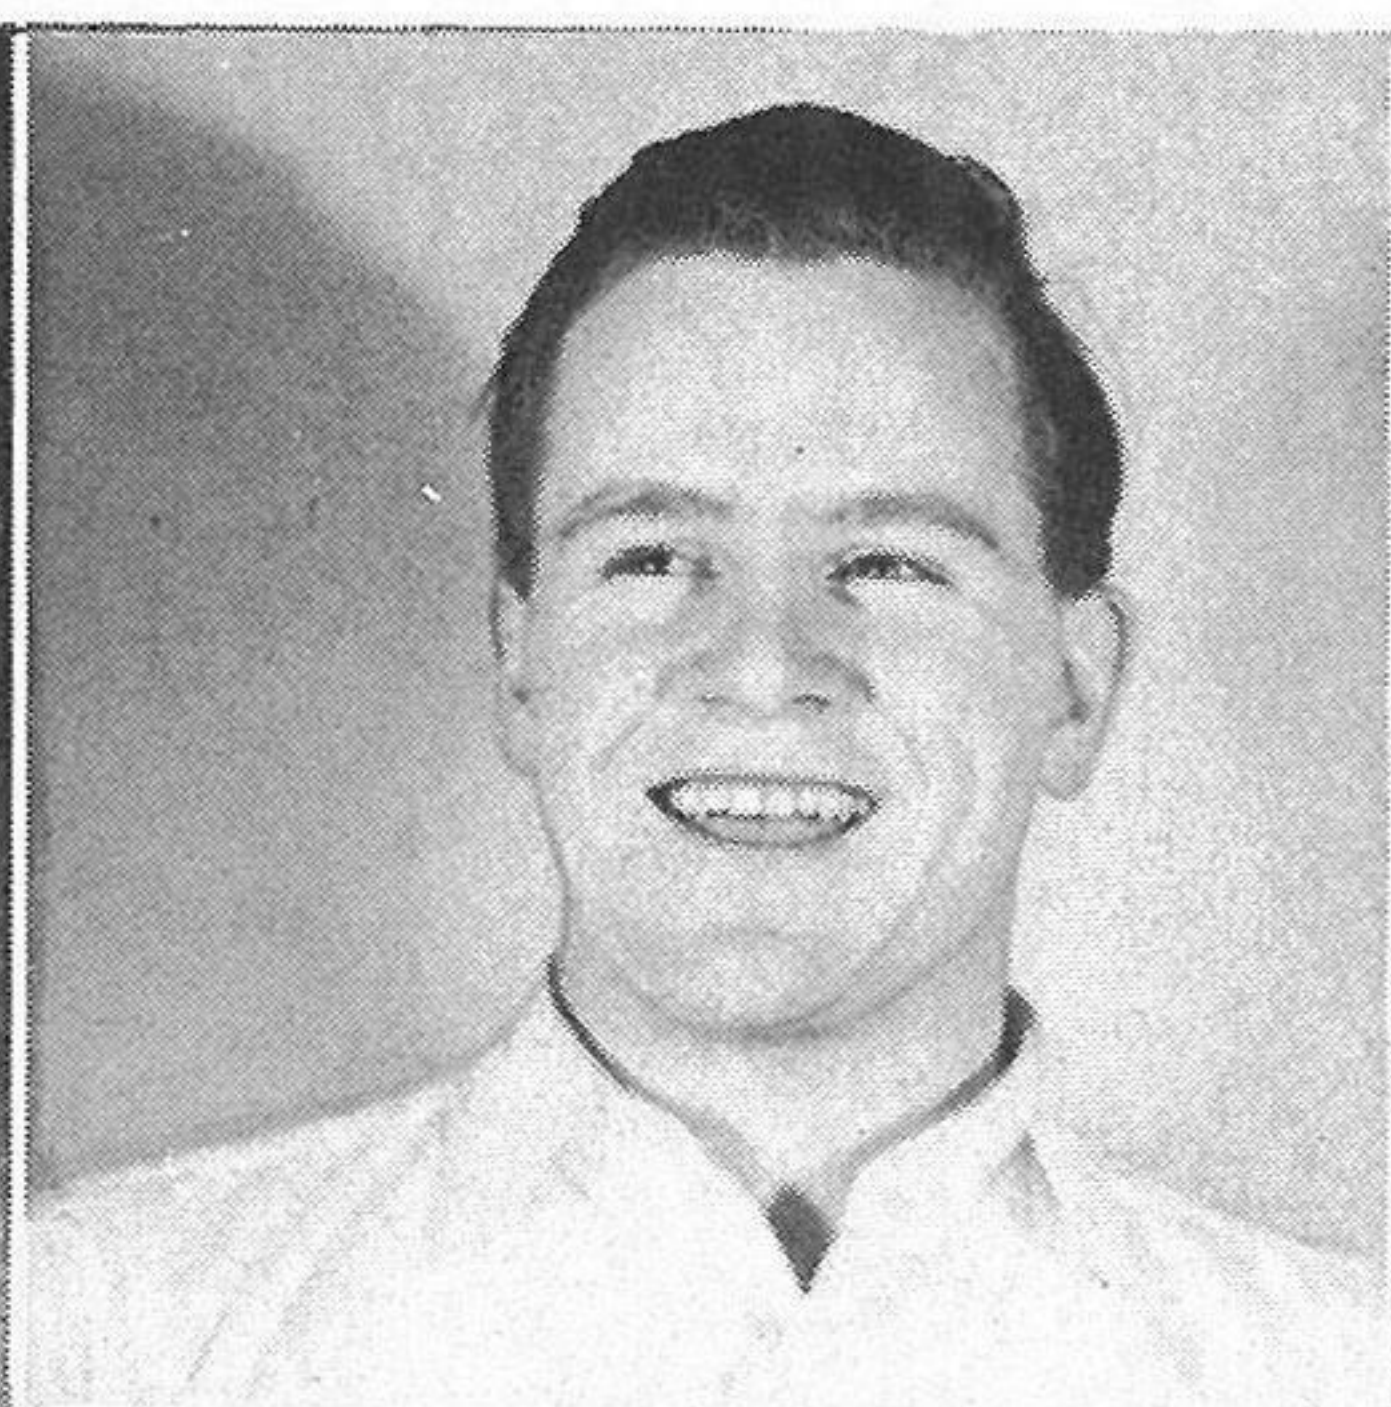

The Beaver's first score came on a line plunge after a disputed decision on a blocked kick. Morrie Kohler covered 43 yards on a reverse for the second Oregon State tally. A pass completed to sophomore wingman Hammers was good for the conversion. Younce, Jelsma, and Kissleburgh were the outstanding gridgers in the OSC lineup. The Husky forward wall played its best game of the season to date.

WHOLE-HEARTEDLY climbing onto the victory special, the Purple and Gold gridders trounced a favored Stanford eleven 8-5 before thousands of grads who had gathered for the annual observance of homecoming.

The Huskies drew first blood when they forced the Indians into their own end zone for a safety and two points. Edging ahead in the second quarter, the Redmen booted a field goal and led until the final period. Don Jones, dependable fullback, placed Washington in the lead with a goal line plunge after a continuous down-field march.

But the Cards came back strong. Receiving a poor pass from center, Dean McAdams' boot went out of bounds on the 12. Taking possession of the ball from this point, the Cards failed in four attempts to make a first down on the Husky two-yard line.

After two unsuccessful line thrusts, Husky mentor Jimmy Phelan sent in Elmer Berg, who stepped back into the end zone for an intentional safety on the next play. This removed the Stanford scoring threat and Washington's goal line wasn't endangered the remainder of the fray.

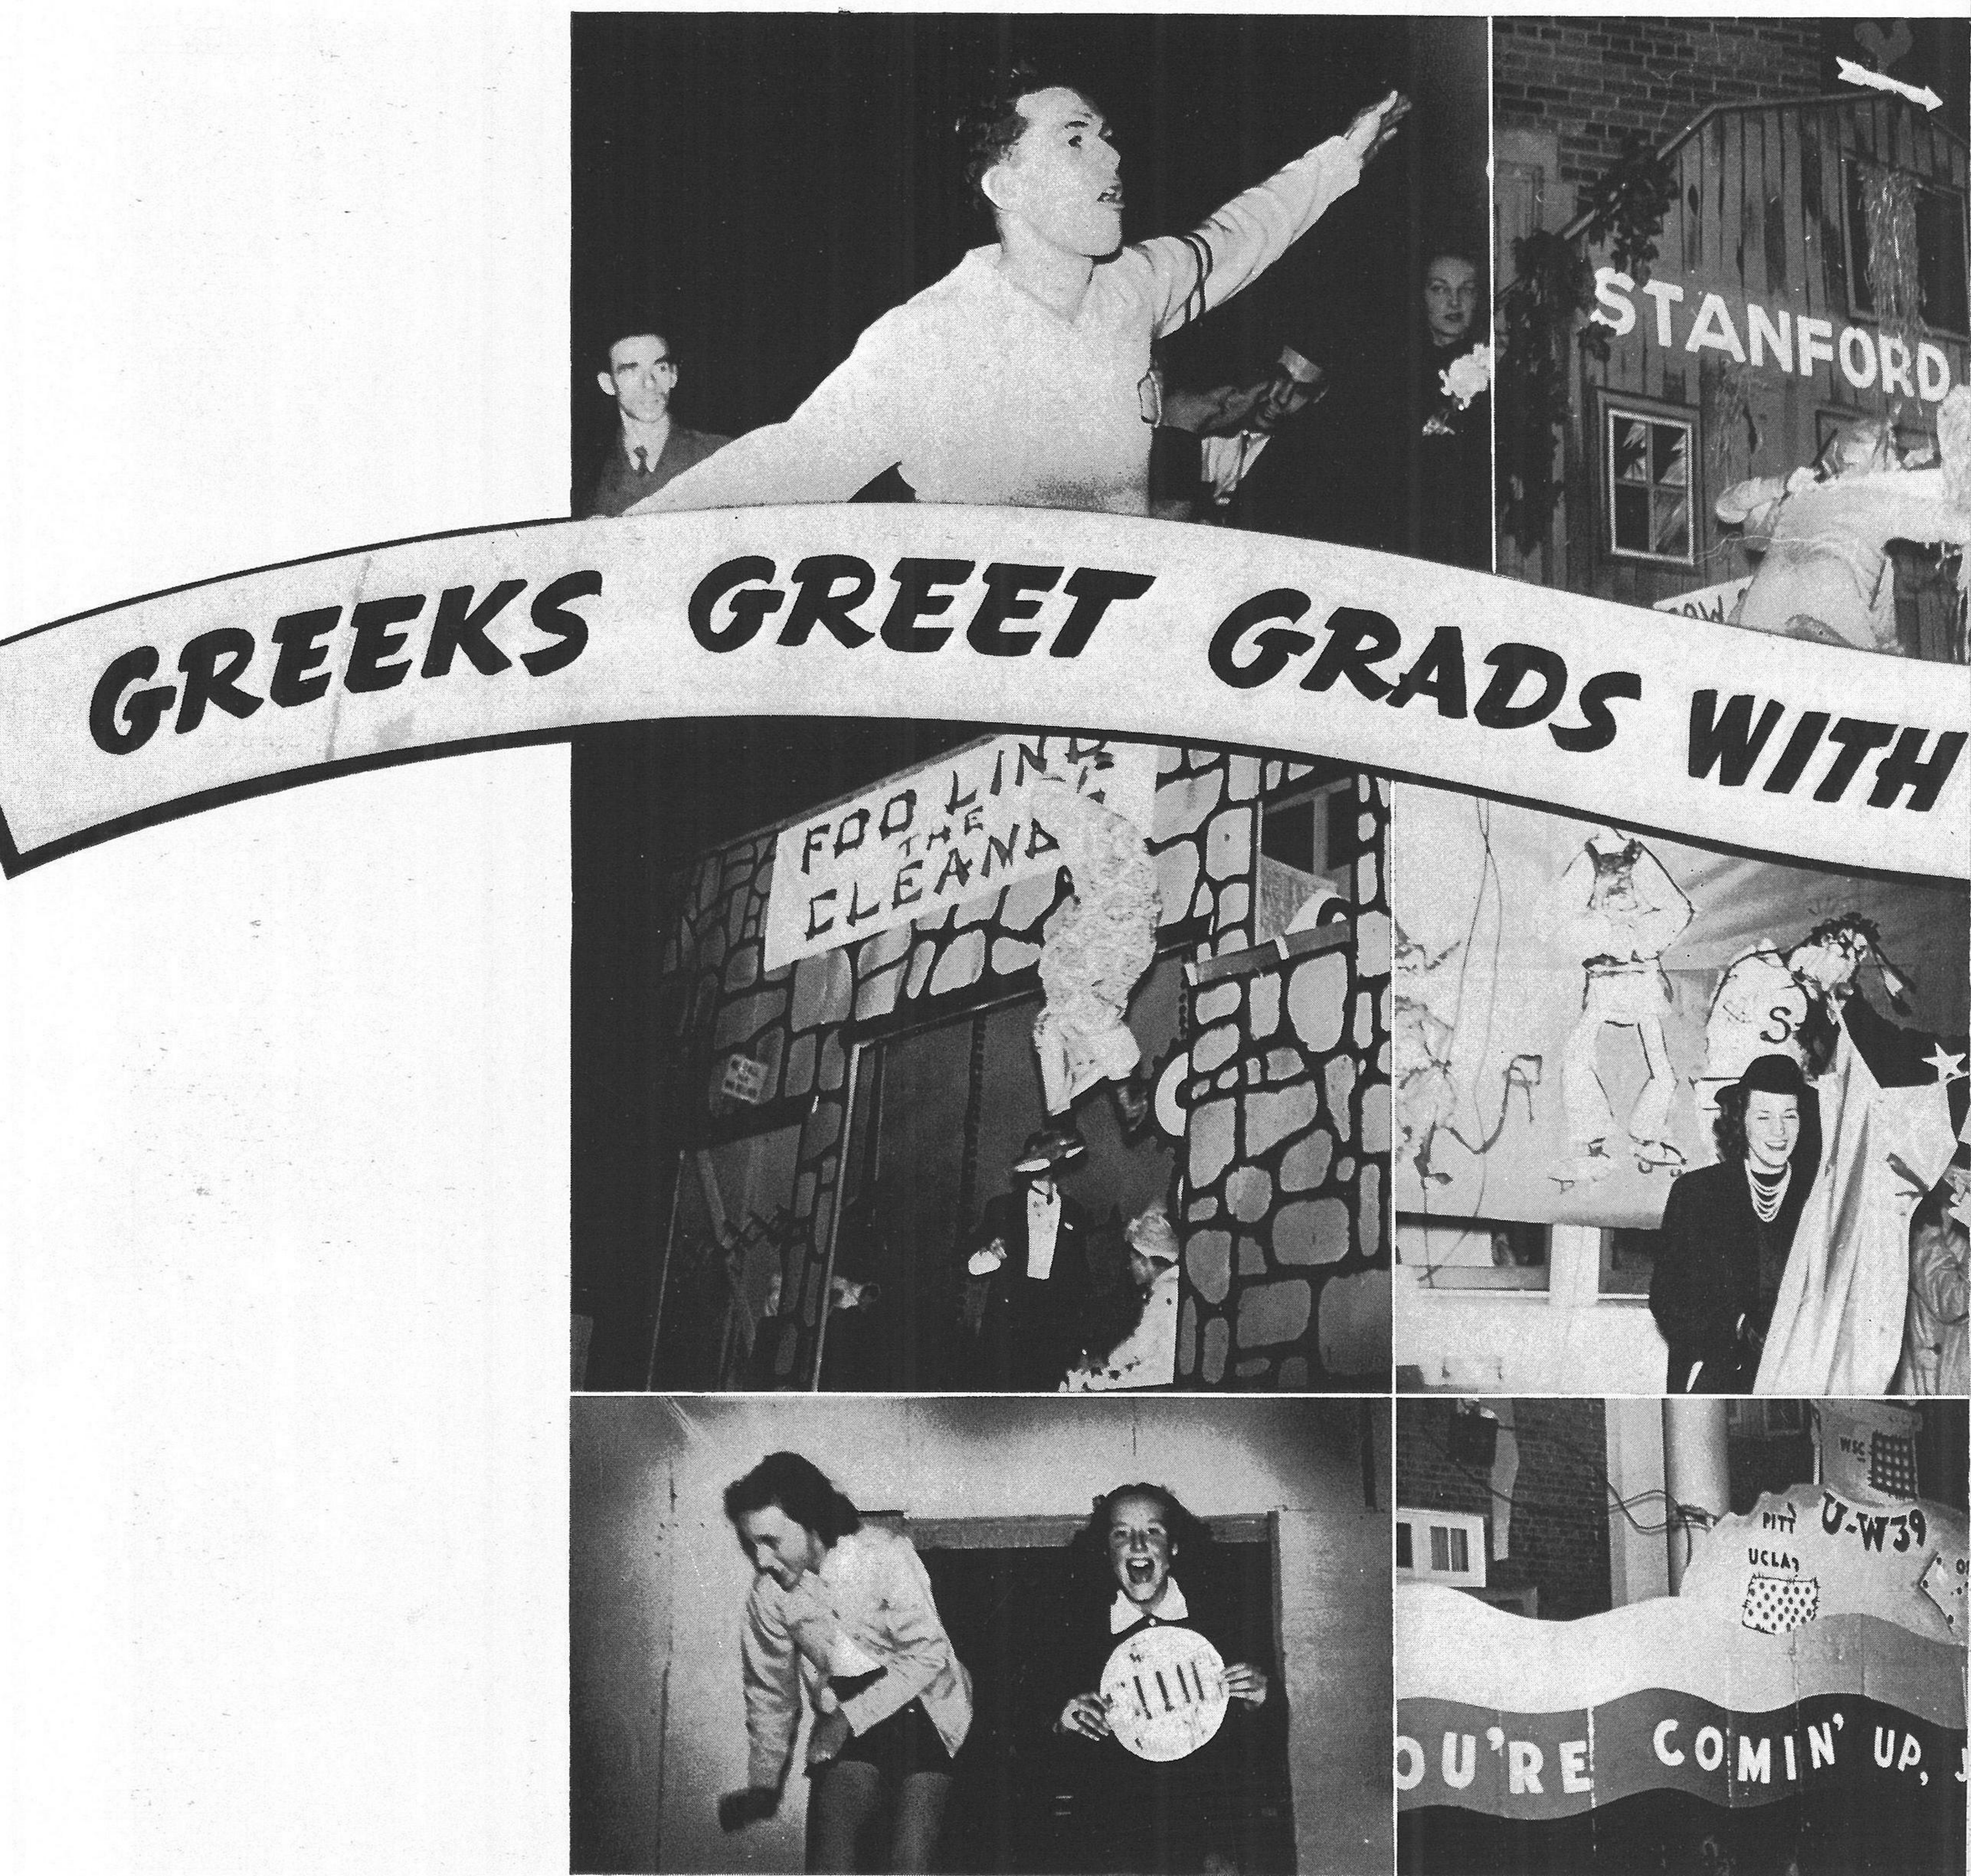

Queen Katherine Fovargue rides around the track at the half; Jim Phelan is carried off the field on the shoulders of two crew men.

WEAIVING sheer power and fine defensive play into a winning effort gave the University of Washington Huskies a hard-fought 9-0 victory over a valiant eleven from Montana. The 1939 appearance of the Grizzlies was the finest that the Missoula institution had ever displayed on the Stadium turf.

The initial Washington score came when the Husky contingent powered its way to the Montana ten-yard marker. The Grizzlies held for three downs and Elmer Berg was called upon to split the uprights for a field goal and three points.

Montana's lone scoring threat came from a clever play which saw Nugent take the ball on a double reverse, lateral it to Swarthout, who hit Vaughn with a forward on the mid-field stripe. Vaughn almost gained the remaining yards to score, but was pulled down from behind on the Husky fifteen.

Taking possession and ultimately working the ball to the Grizzly 12, the Huskies laid the stage for a deceptive shovel pass from Don Jones to Earl Younglove who accounted for the score.

WAYLAYING an emaciated Bear and turning in one of the most spectacular performances of their football campaign, the Washington gridders trimmed California 13-6 in a thrilling tussle that featured the kicking and passing of Dean McAdams and Bill Gleason, the rushing tactics of the entire Husky front trenches, and the deceptiveness of the Purple and Gold back-field attack.

California picked up the first tally but was not long controlling the lead. The Huskies broke into the scoring column shortly thereafter, when McAdams connected with an aerial to Jay McDowell, who rambled the remaining yards to a Washington tally. The final scoring play of the Huskies was a sensation.

Bill Gleason faded back and shot a pass to McAdams, who, while falling, managed to scoop up the ball one-handed and fall across into pay territory.

Washington completely outbattled the Bears in coming out on the long end of the score. The Berkeley fray was the seventh on the Husky schedule and the third consecutive win of the season.

WALKING through Tex Oliver's Oregon Ducks for three touchdowns, the Huskies measured the Webfoots in a Thanksgiving Day thriller on the Stadium turf by the count of 20-13.

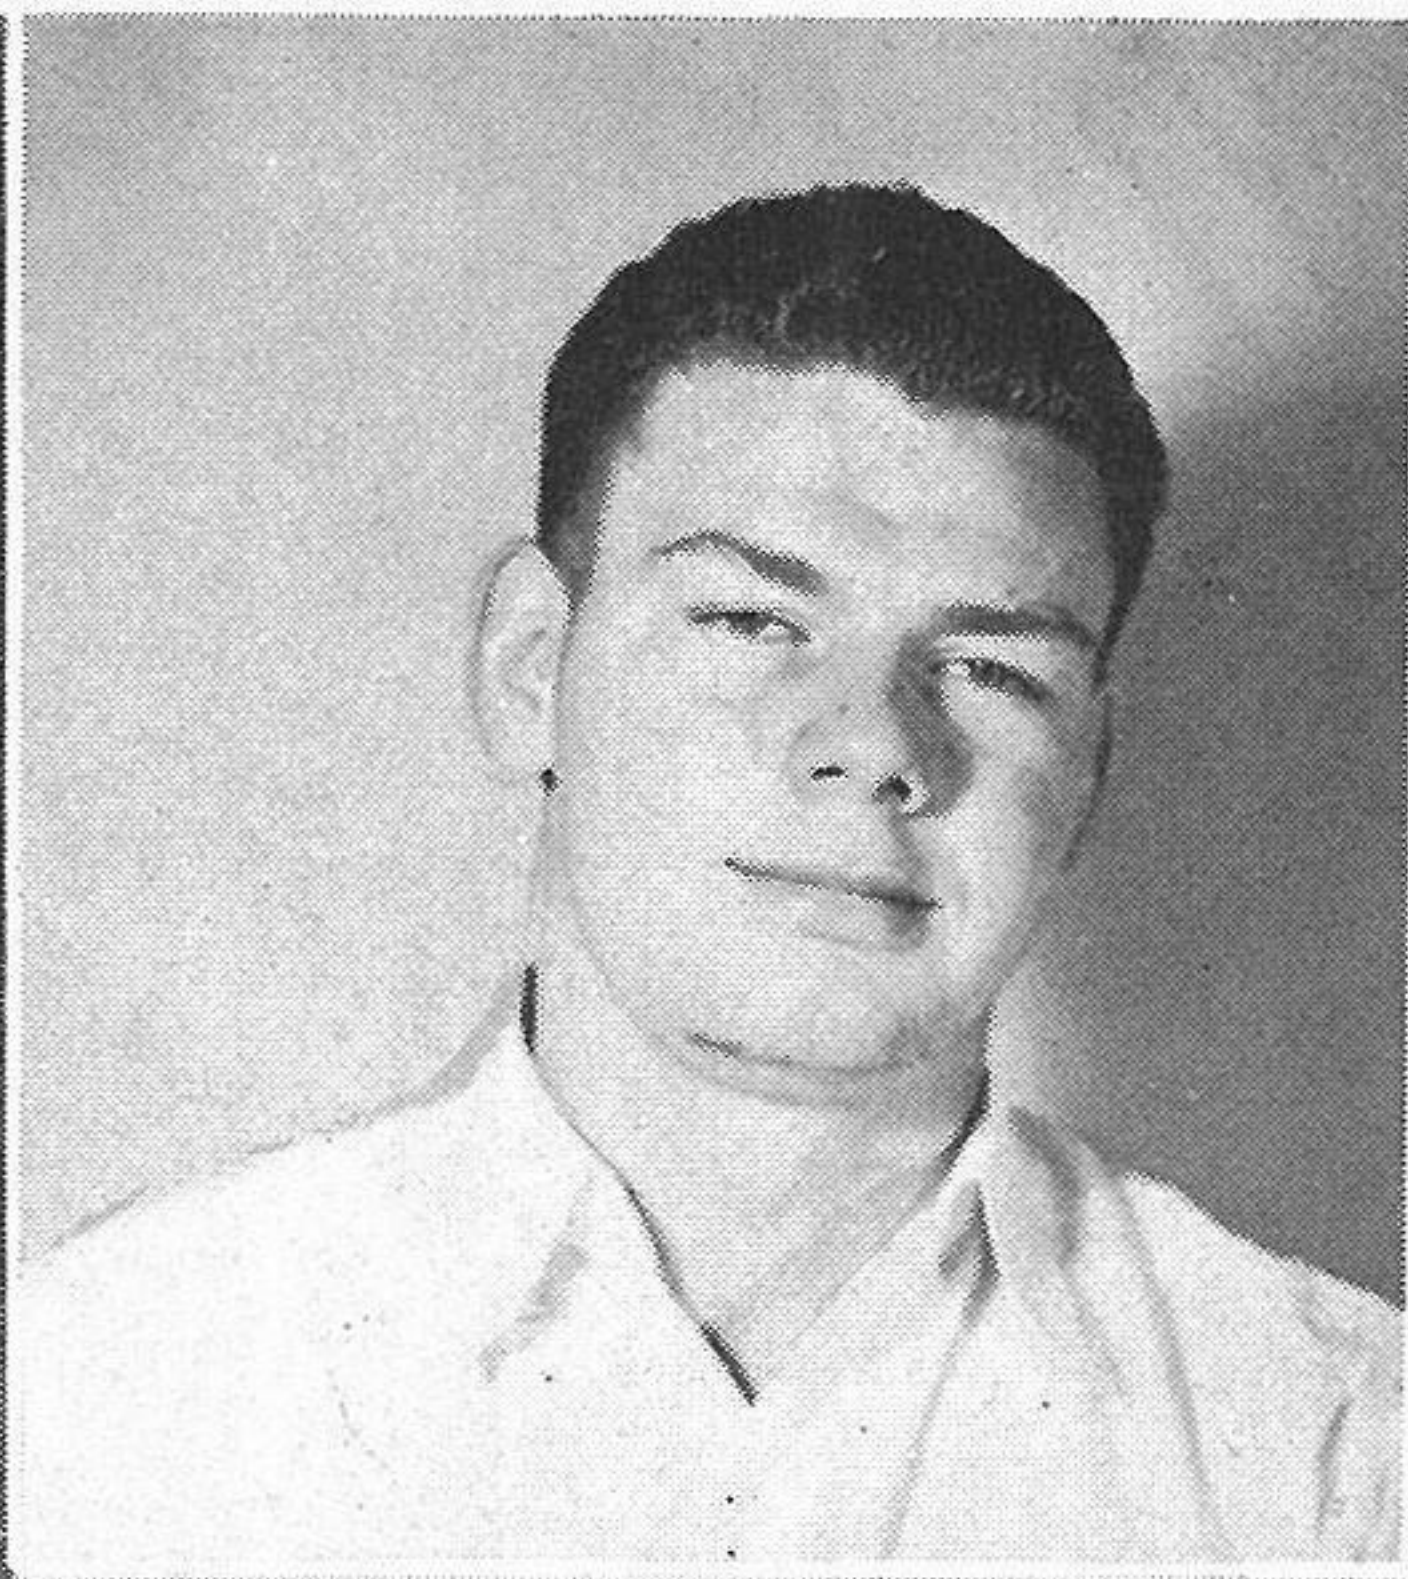

Oregon tallied first when Jay Graybeal, who scored all of the invaders' points, kicked a placement, but enjoyed only a short lead as the Huskies soon pushed over a touchdown. Washington's advantage was also short-lived as Bob Smith tossed a touchdown pass to Graybeal.

However, the Purple and Gold came back strong after the half and again went into the lead as Ernie Steele crossed the goal on a beautiful run off tackle. Graybeal soon booted his second field goal from a difficult angle to knot the count at 13-all.

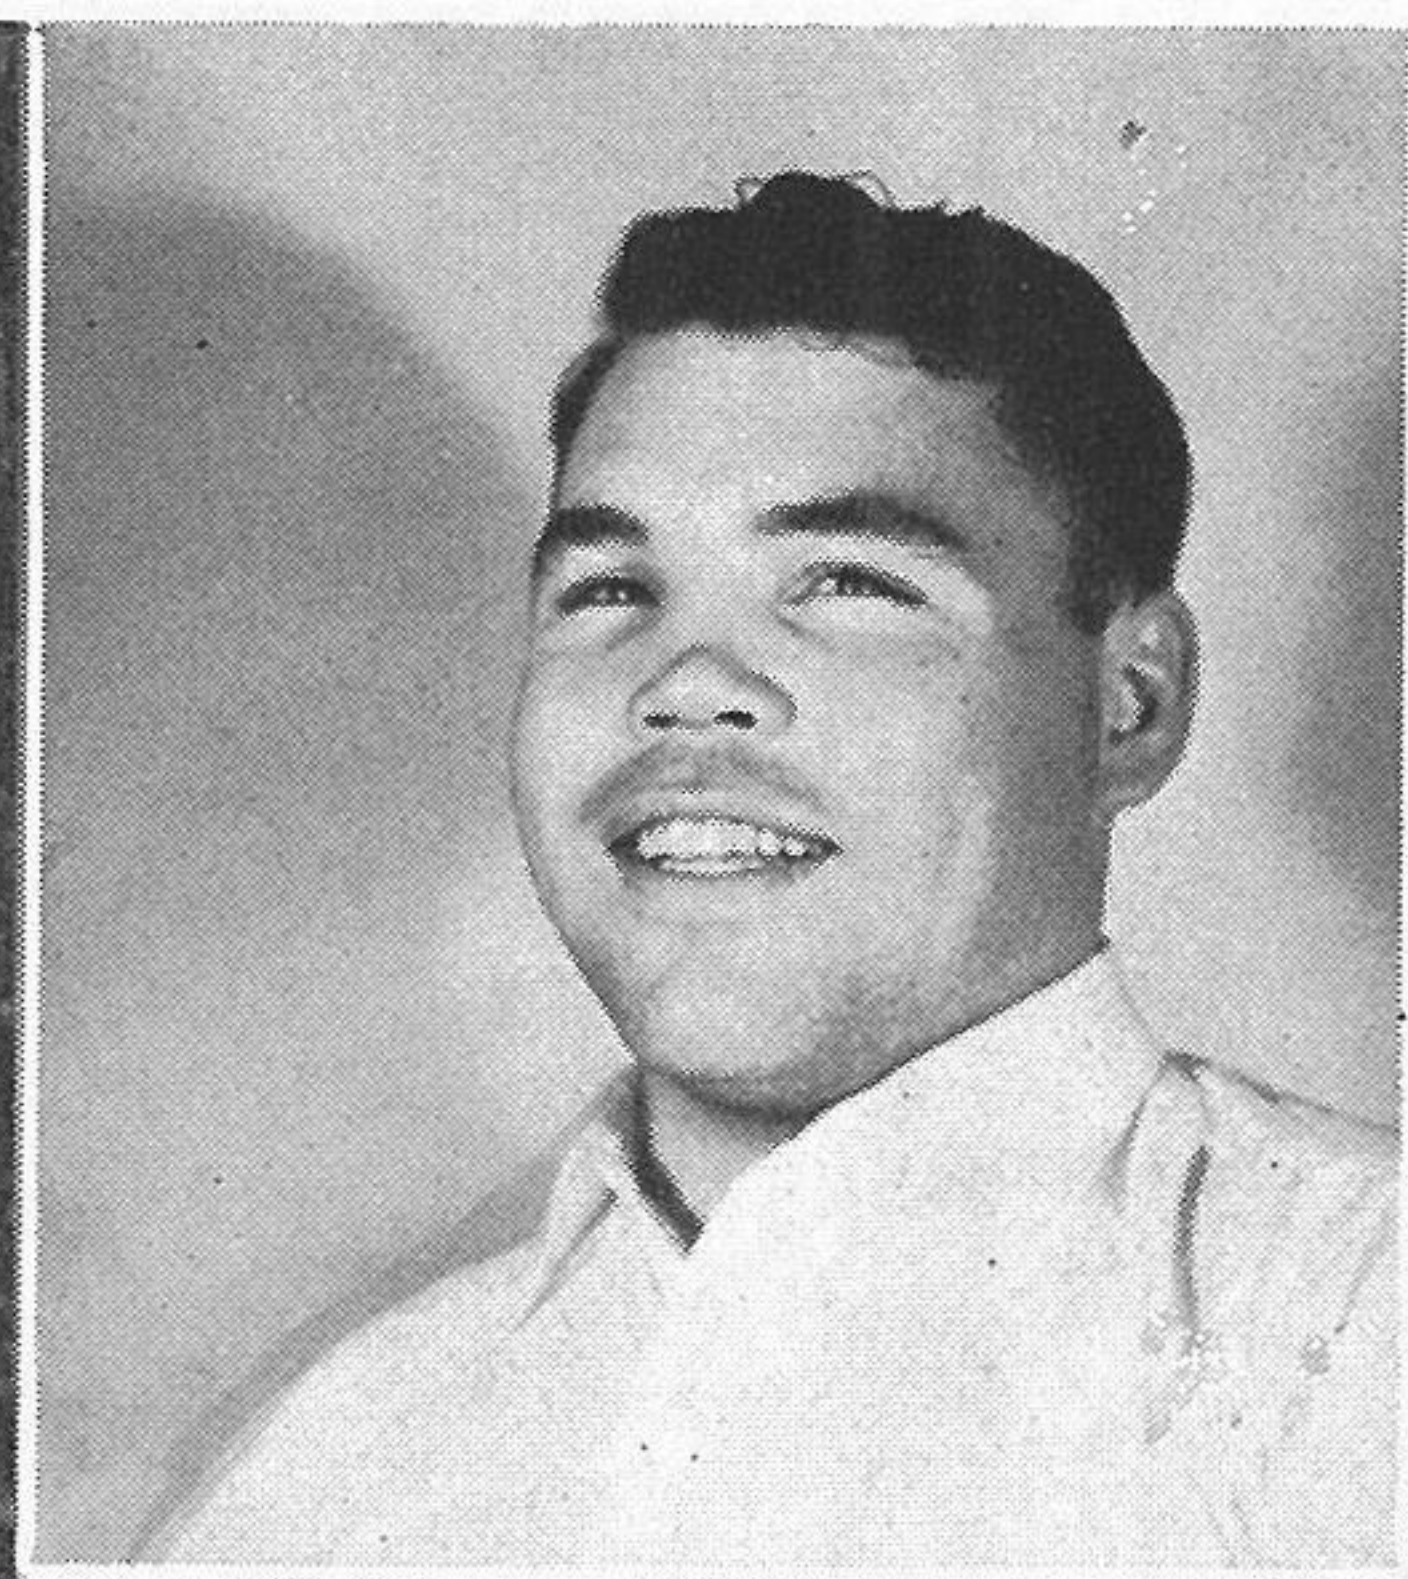

But Jack Stackpool entered the contest and proceeded to sew up the victory as he boomed through the Oregon line for the deciding tally midway in the last quarter. The Webfoots failed to threaten the Huskies again during the contest and Jimmy Phelan's team scored their fourth win of the season.

WASHINGTON'S Huskies spectacularly crowned themselves with glory in terminating their 1939 year of gridiron competition even though bowing to USC 9-7.

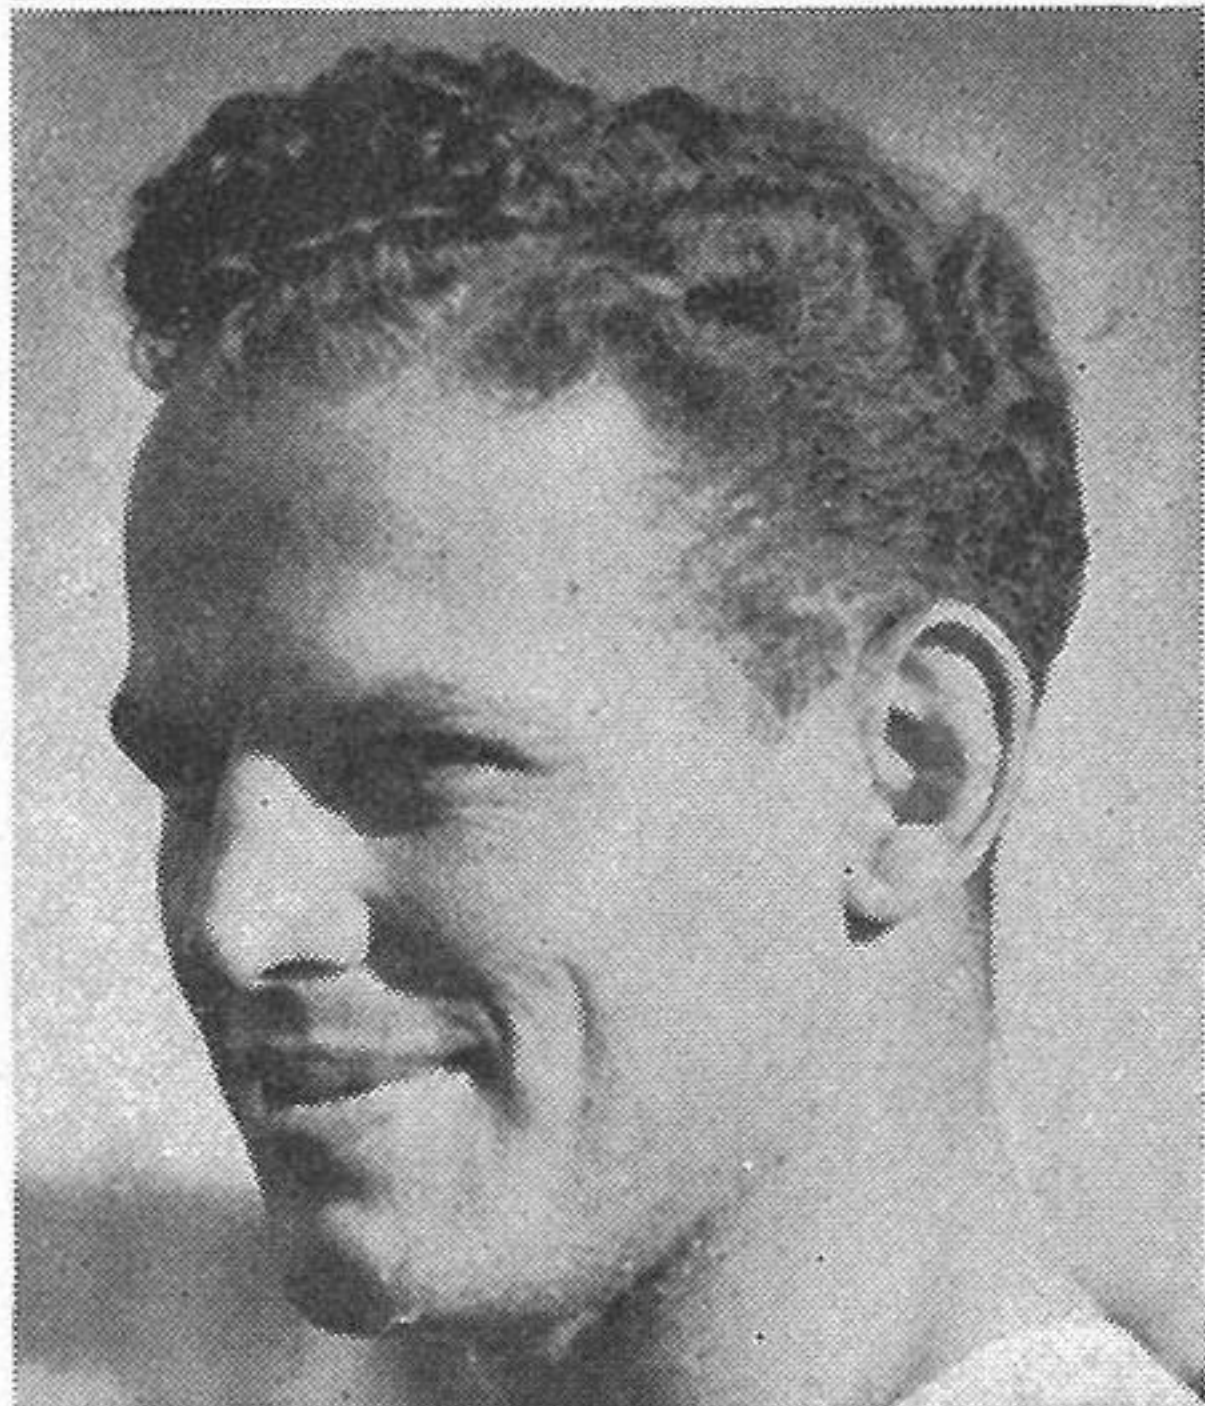

Washington scored mid-way through the first period after Ernie Steele had returned a punt to the Trojan 21. Dean McAdams and Don Jones blasted the line for consecutive first downs, and Steele scored on a beautiful leaping catch of McAdams' aerial toss. Mizen entered the game and booted the conversion.

USC received two points on a disputed safety, the officials ruling Steele's knee had touched in the end zone when the halfback attempted to carry the ball out of scoring territory.

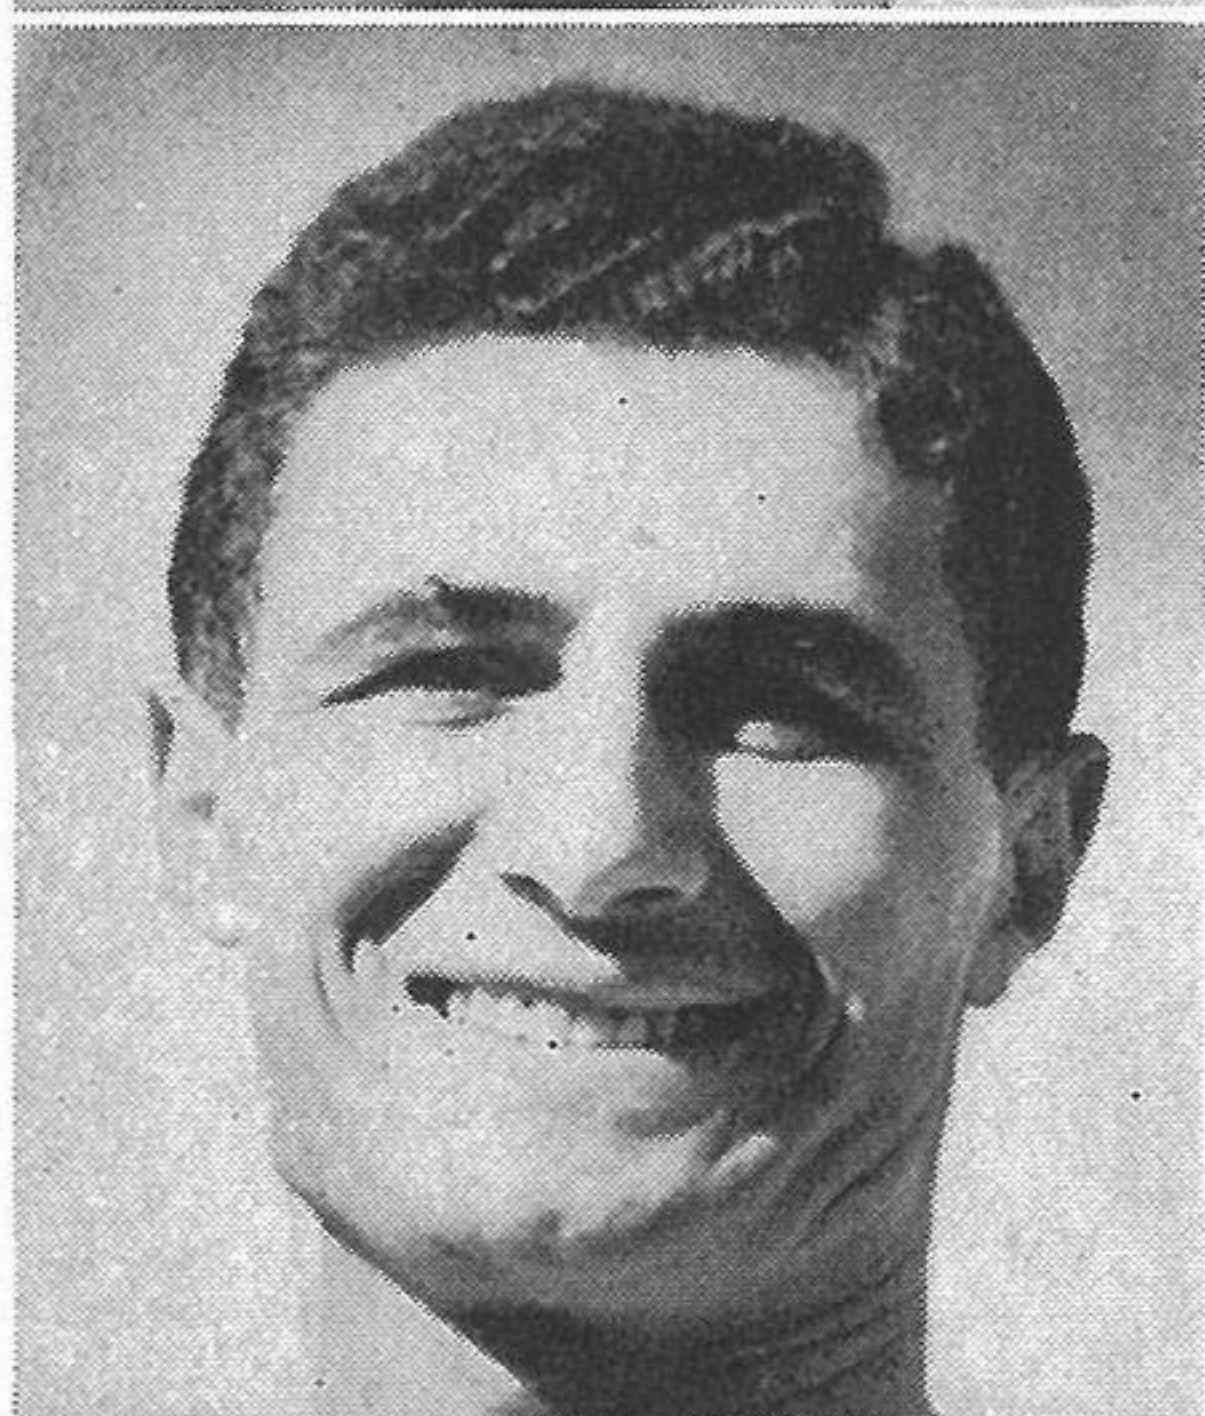

The Huskies led up until the dying moments of the final period when a kick of Dean McAdams', who averaged 47.5 yards on his punts, slithered off his foot and out of bounds on the Husky 24. Washington held but the Trojans came back and with Nave and Lansdell completing passes deep in Husky territory, the Thundering Herd finally scored. Gaspar converted and the Trojans came out on top 9-7.

Not a great team, no—but one that will be hard to forget. Not a sensational team—but one with lots of slash and drive between the tackles.

Coach Pest Welch looked over his material after the season's first practice: "They look fair, but they won't win any ball games."

But came the annual WSC frosh battle, and they forced Welch to eat his words. Inexperience had cost them their first game in Bellingham Oct. 20. They had surged up and down a soggy field, missed a touchdown by a foot, and finally succumbed to the Normal eleven 12-0.

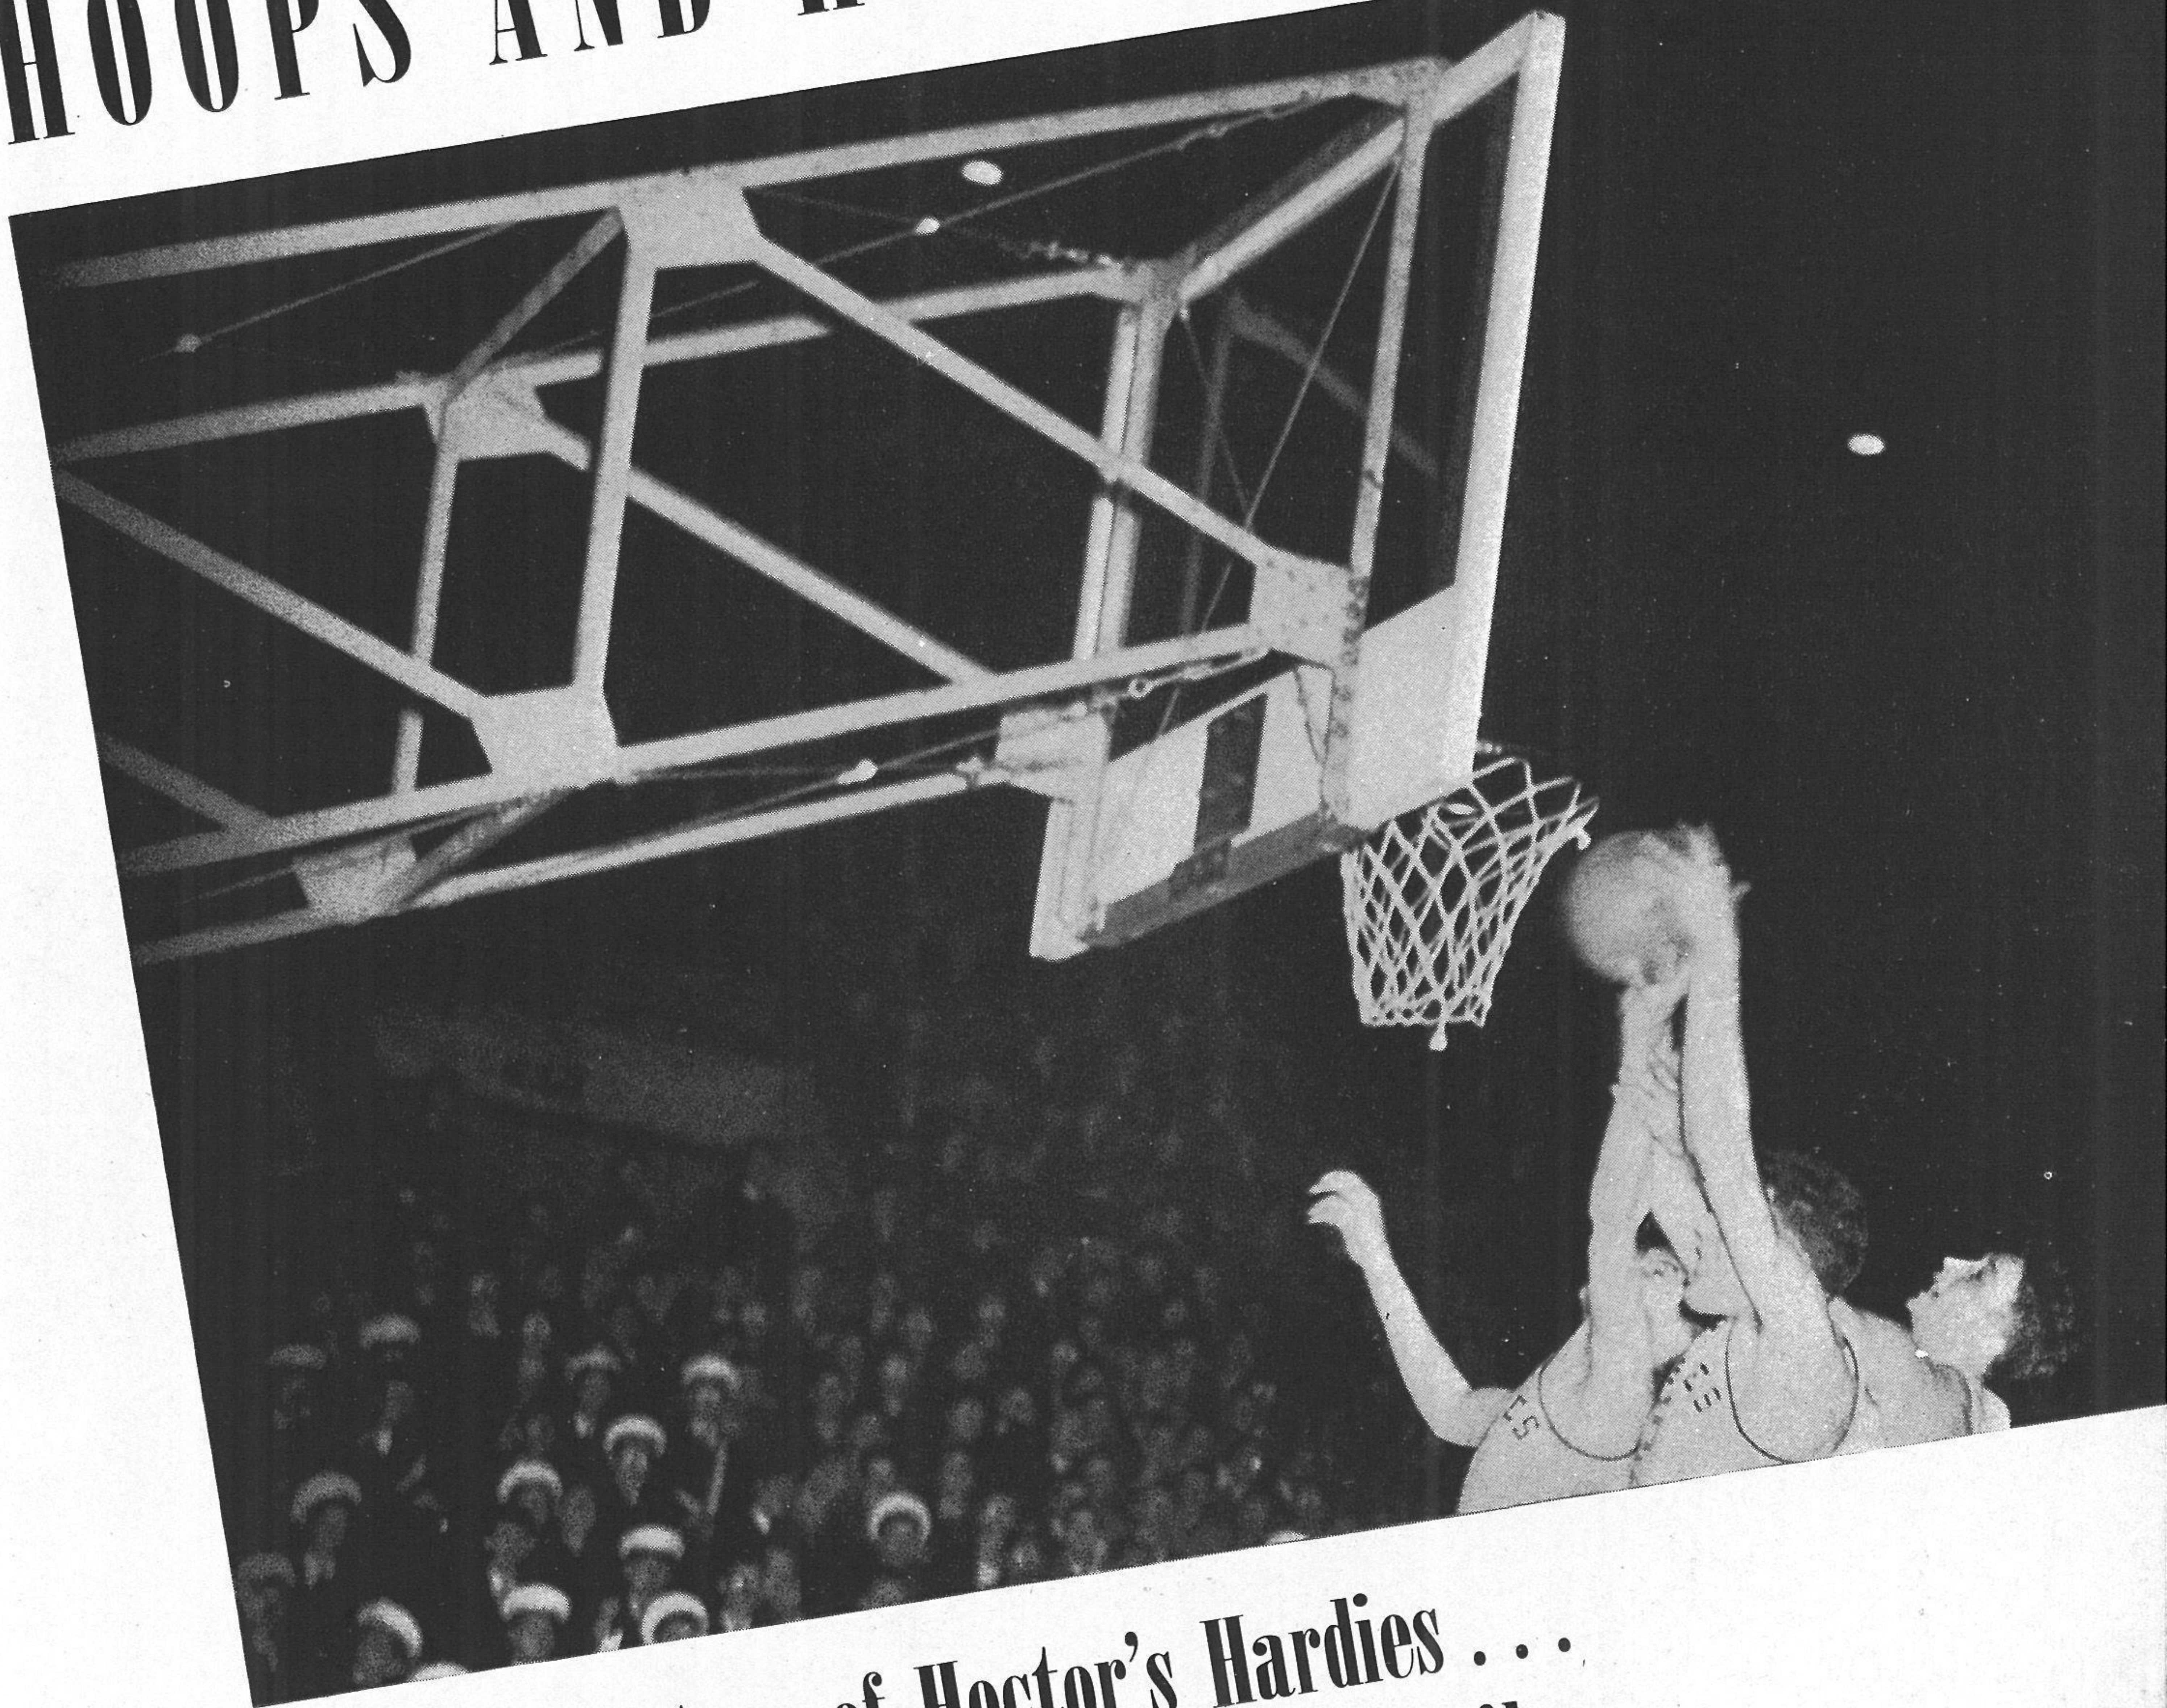

Then they had gathered their bearing a week later and spanked a big Oregon outfit 19-0 in Eugene.

On the afternoon of November 11 the yearlings took their initial stand in Washington's stadium faced with a Cougar outfit hailed as the best in many long years.

When the shadows had fallen across the field, a dynamic little halfback who runs like California's famed Vic Bottari had led his team to a well-earned victory. His name is Pete Susick, that name will be much more familiar in years to come.

But lest we forget it was one of the great lines of frosh history that opened the holes and stopped the powerful Kitten running backs. GOPHER SERIES

Washington's varsity hoopsters opened their season against the Minnesota Gophers in the Husky pavilion December 27, 28, and 29th. Dropping the first contest by a solid margin and the second by one point, the Huskies came back to defeat the Gophers in the third game of the series in one of the best contests here this season.

Minnesota displayed a much different brand of ball than had been shown here in recent years, using long spot passes for the length of the court in most of their scoring plays. Standout of the series for the Huskies was young Harry Nelson, bespectacled sophomore, who showed good scoring form in the third game.

Sophomore star Bob Voelker loops one towards the Minnesota basket as Gopher defenders close in helpless to block the blonde cager's shot.

GRIZZLY SERIES

Montana was the only team to play a non-conference series with Washington during the regular season. Playing in the Husky pavilion, the Grizzlies were downed in both games by an improving Husky ball club. Capt. Bill McDonald was out of the series with a pulled back muscle.

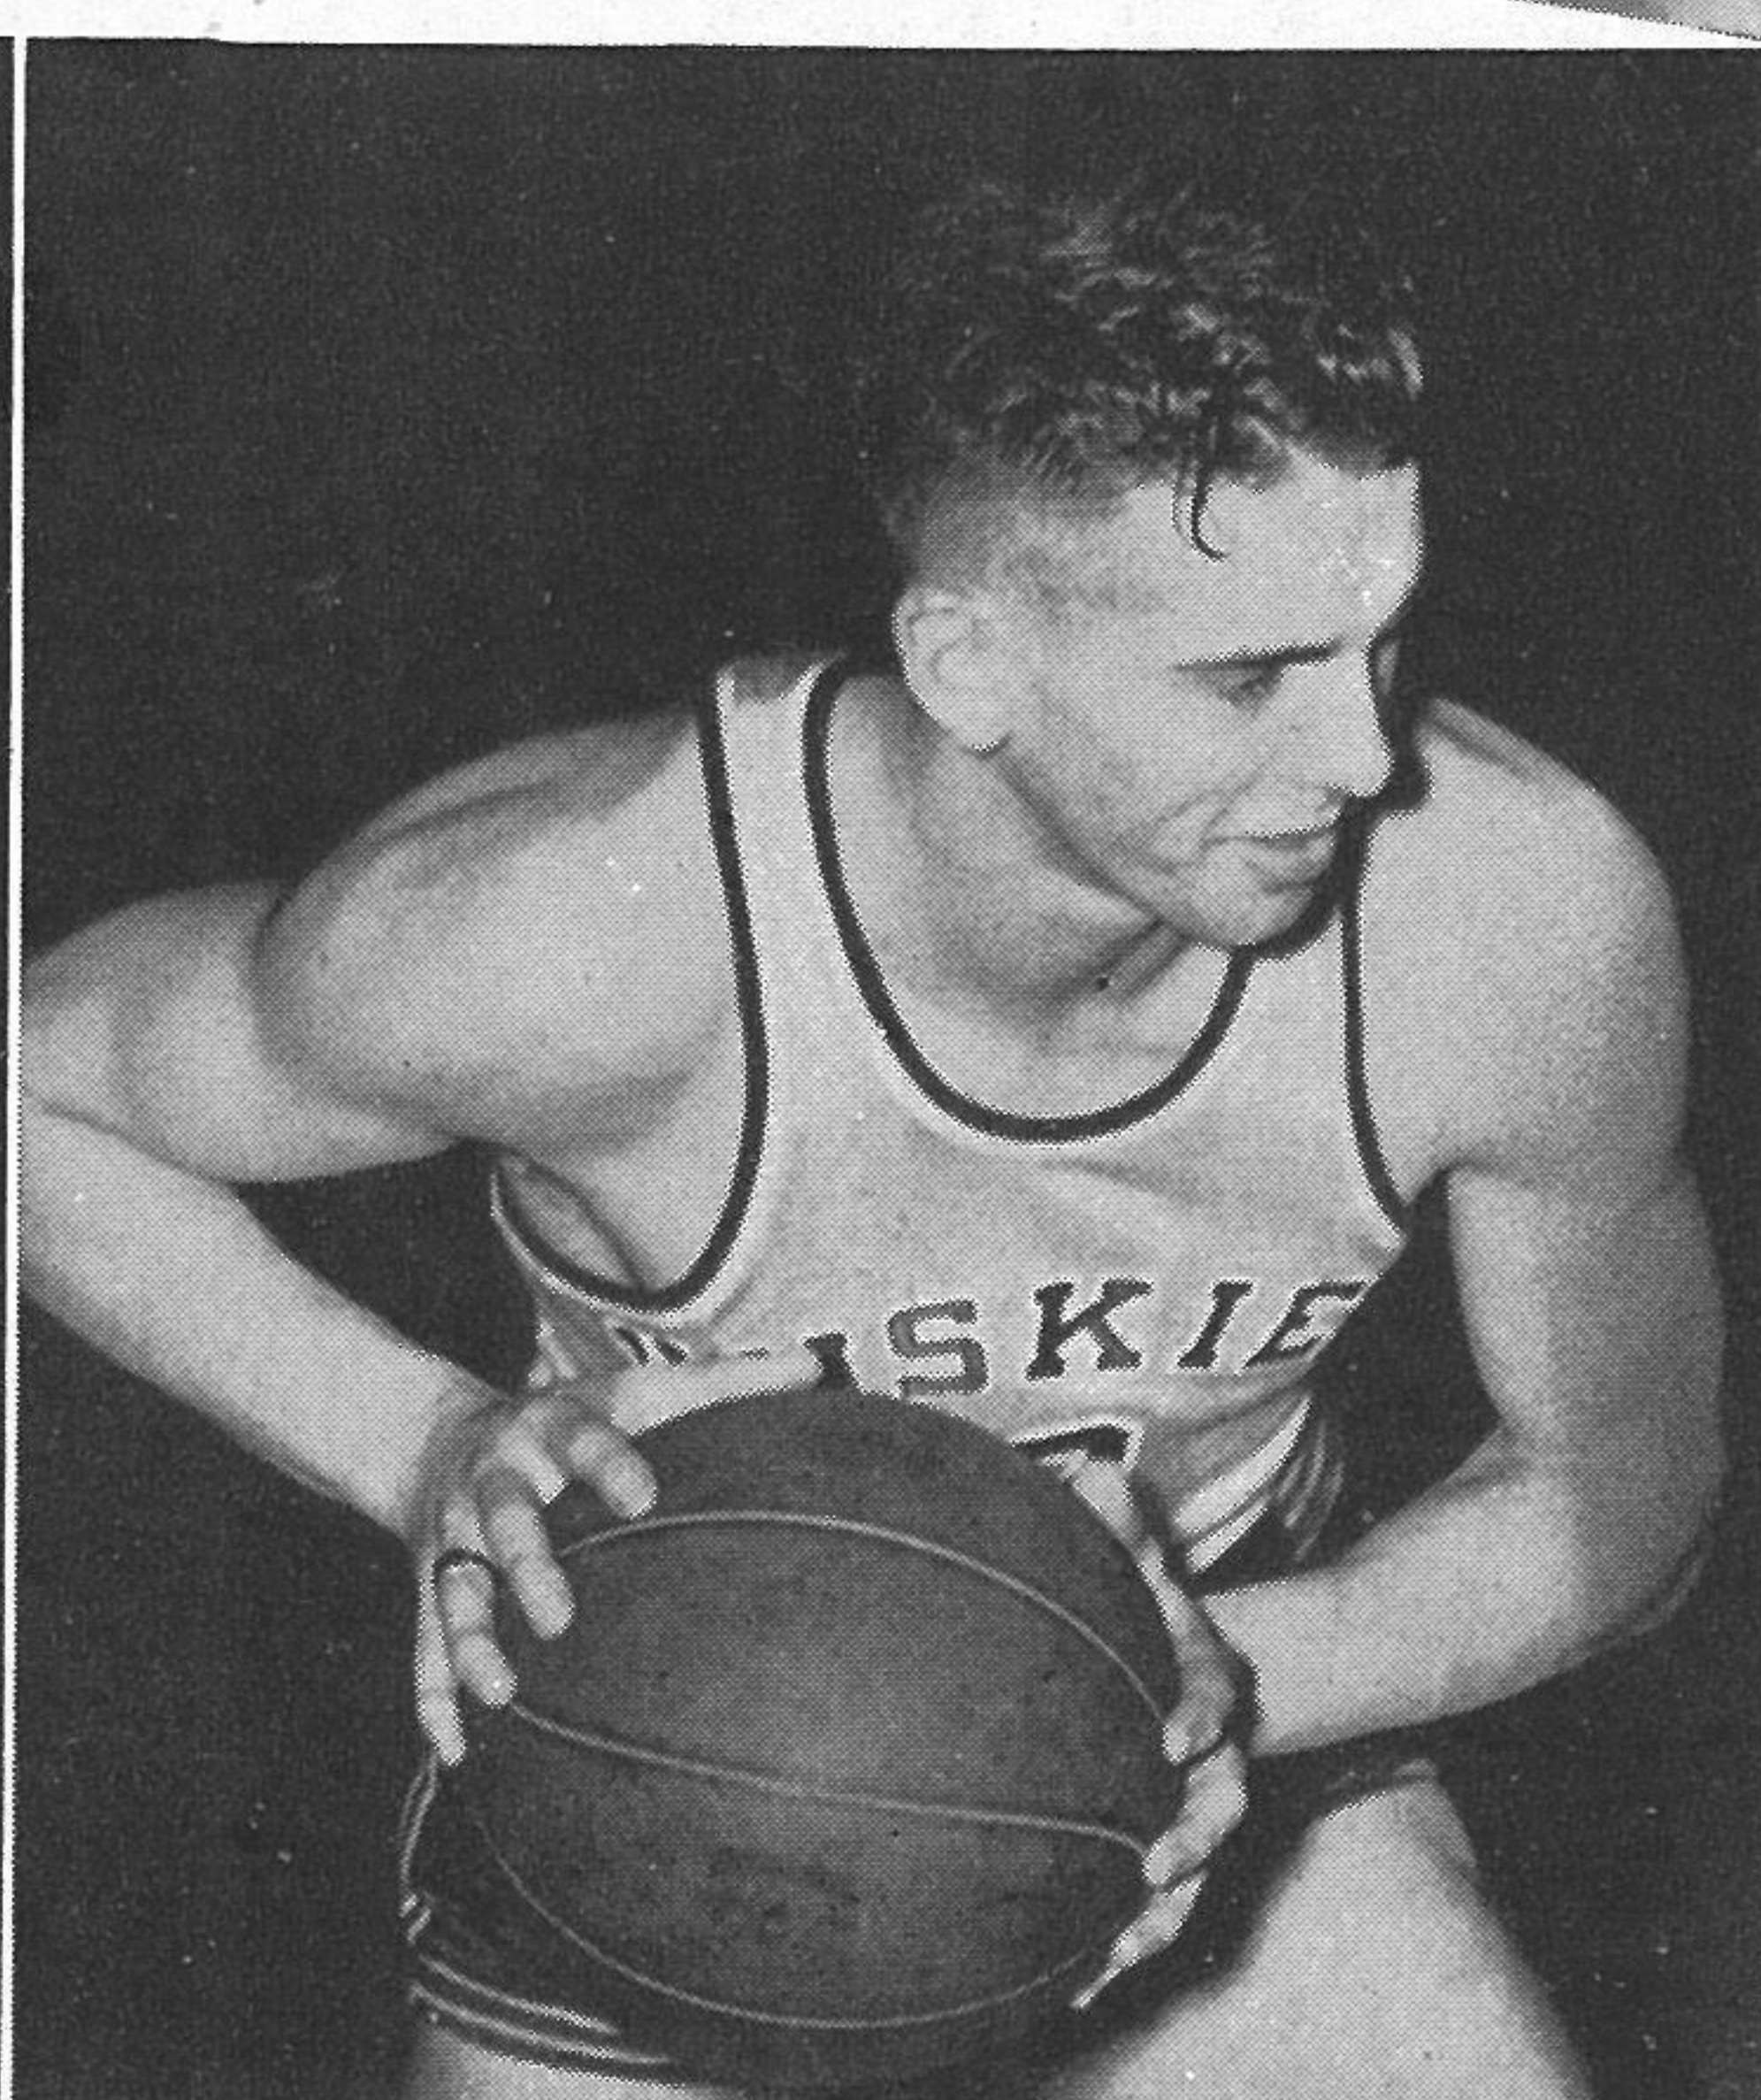

Letter winners this year were Nelson, Lindh, McDonald, Bob Voelker, Jack Voelker, Hal Schlicting, Bobby Dorr, Dick Izzard, Bill Fleming, Bob Shafer, Charlie Mitchell, and Don Thompson.

Standout player of the year was Bobby Lindh who came close to leading the Northern Division in scoring and was selected unanimously on all-conference teams. He was one of the fastest men ever to wear a Husky jersey, and among the best sophomores ever to grace the Husky roster. Whether or not he can repeat his performance is up to 1941.

COUGAR SERIES

Opening their 1940 conference season, the Huskies faced the Washington State Cougars on the Husky court, and defeated the boys from the Palouse 39-38 in an overtime curtain-raiser. In the second game here, Coach Jack Friel's Cougars got hot and completely ran over the men-o'-Edmundson 51-35 in a game wherein the Huskies showed little sparkle.

In the last end of a home-and-home series, Washington dropped the first game 49-44 in one of the last half collapses that brought the team disfavor all season. In the second game Washington came from behind at the half to win 53-52 on a last-minute foul shot by Bobby Dorr. Bob Lindh was a standout in this series and led the league in scoring at this time.

WEBFOOT SERIES

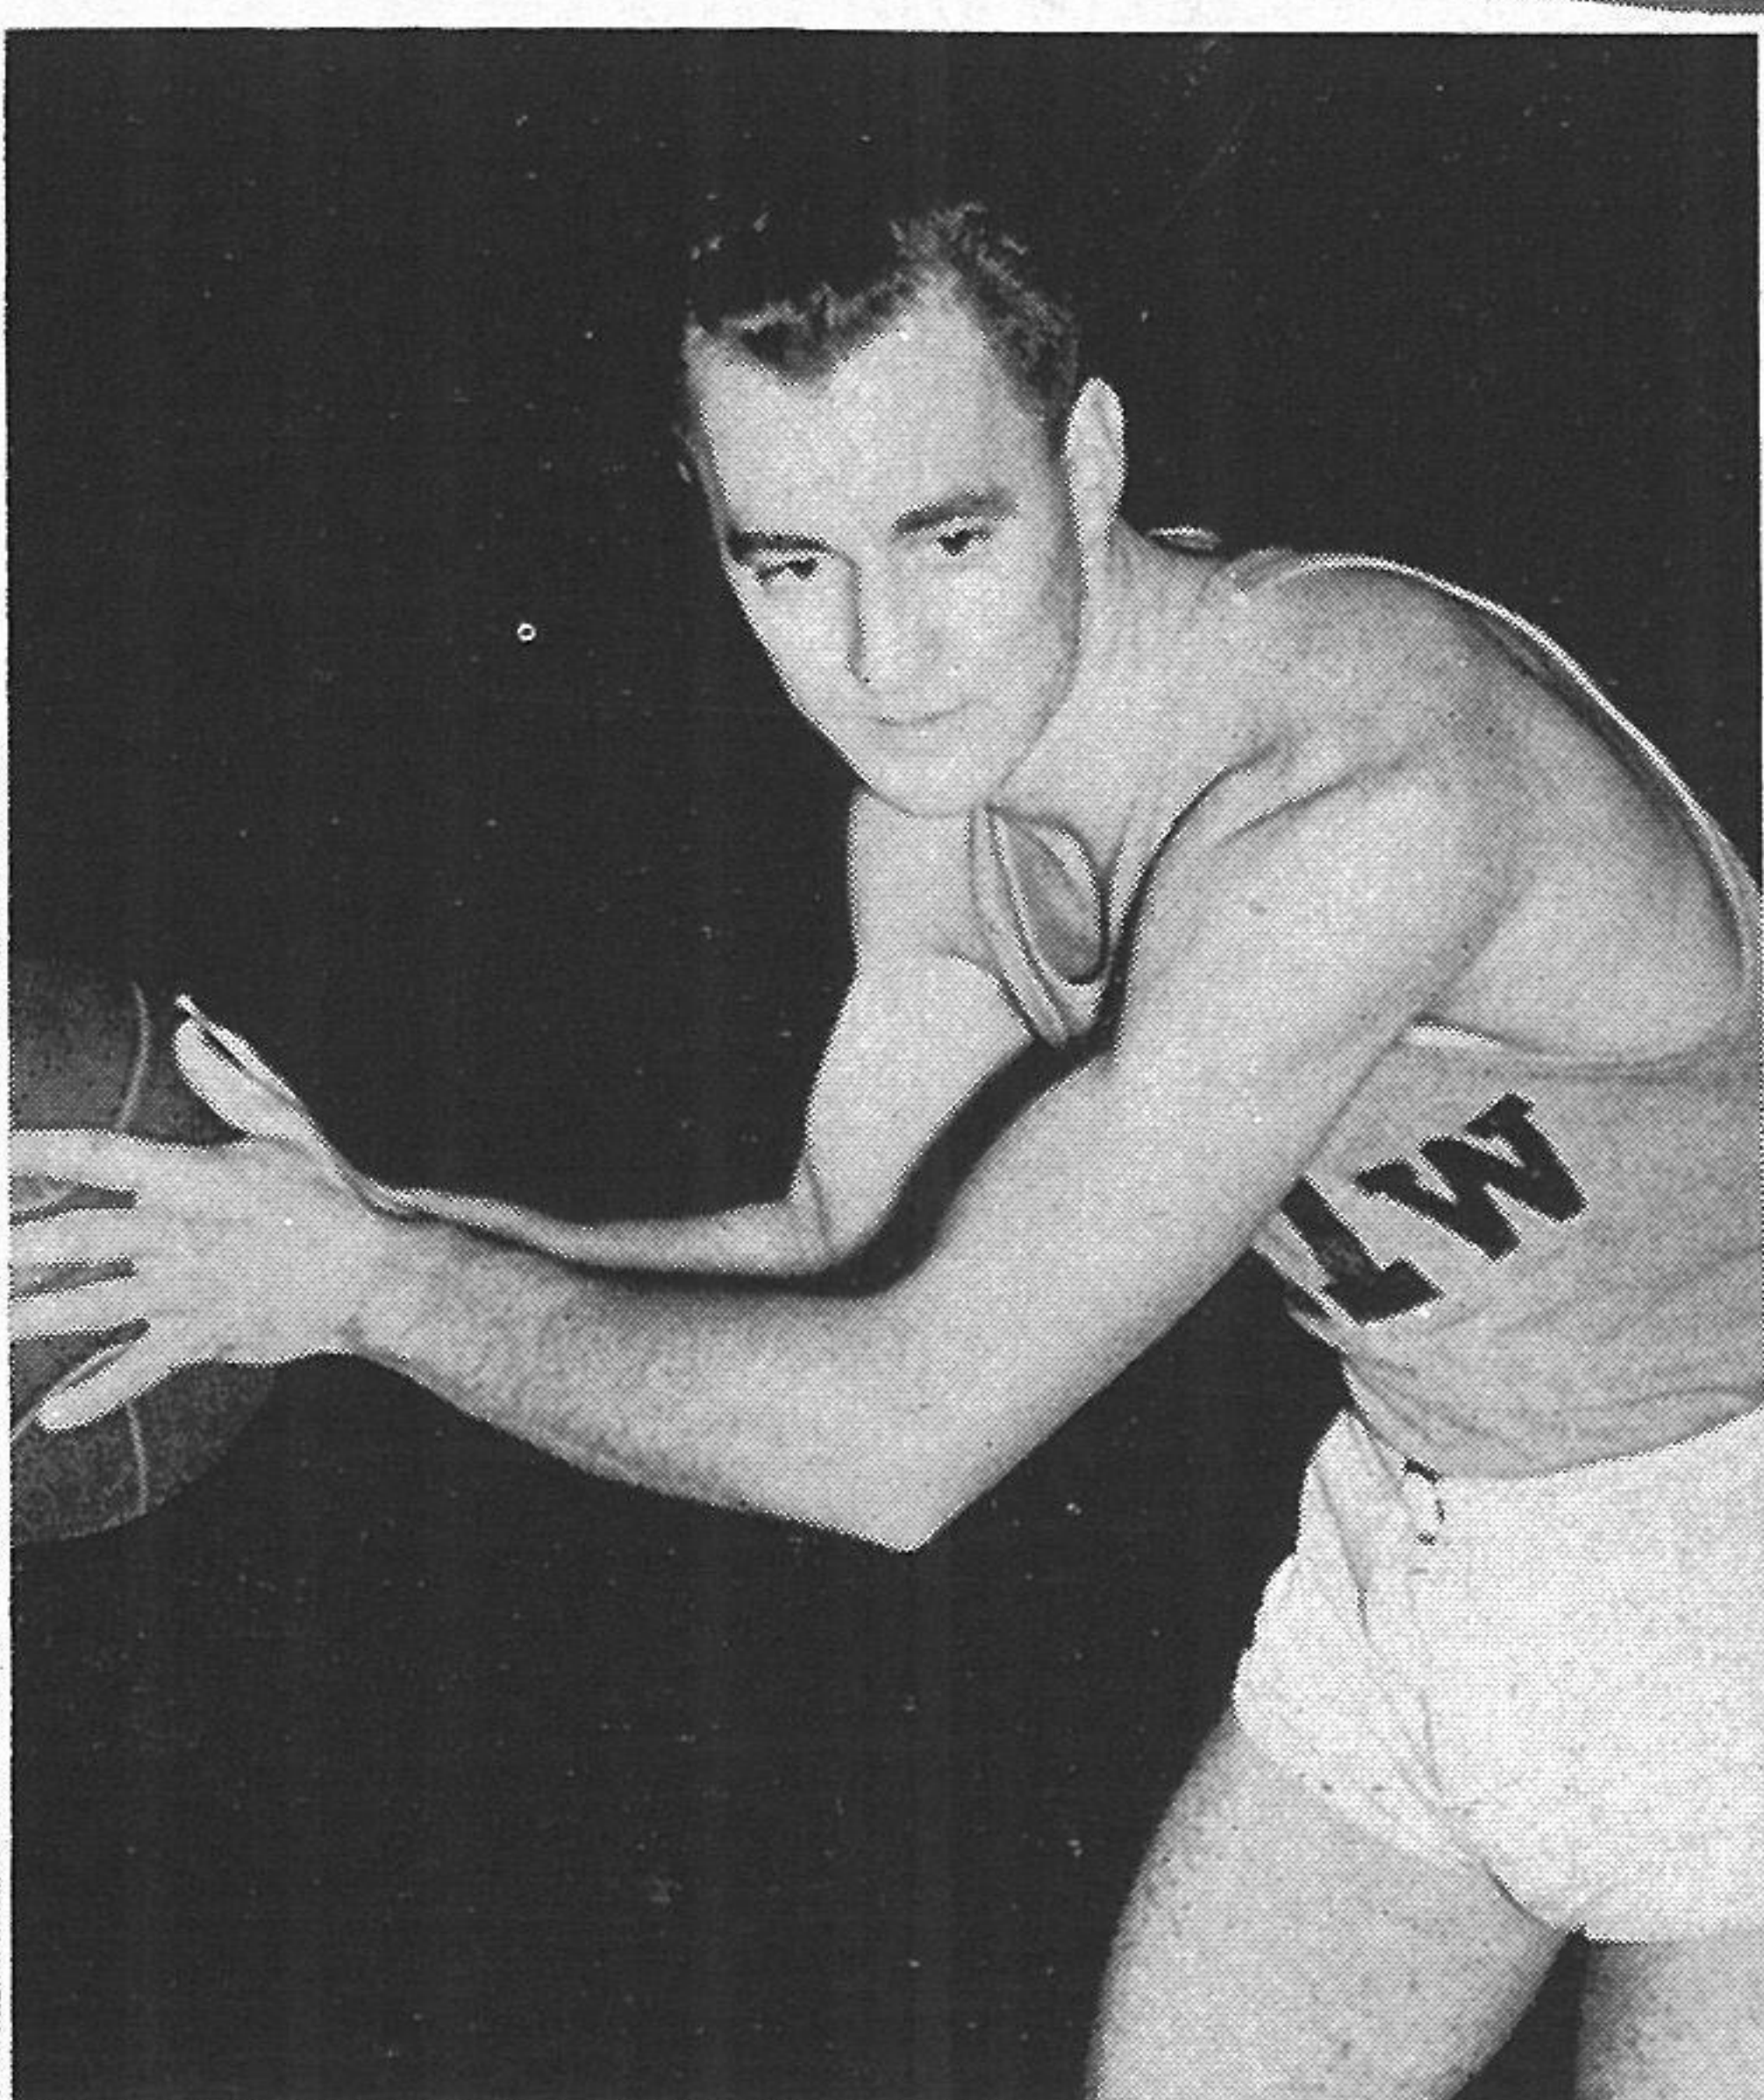

Oregon was next on the Husky schedule and split even in their first series with the Purple and Gold. Edmundson's squad came through with a 39-31 victory in the first game here, but dropped a 47-32 decision to the Webfoots in the second contest.

Traveling to Oregon on the next week and following the Webfoot series here, the Huskies were handicapped by the loss of Harry Nelson, who was out of the series with a bad cold, and were not able to pull through with a single win during the entire series, two games with Oregon and two with Oregon State. Oregon won 47-32 and 50-43 at McArthur Court. Oregon's great John Dick, league-leading scorer, was a standout against the Huskies.

VANDAL SERIES

Idaho's surprising Vandals, who wound up at the bottom of the league, came through with a 47-37 victory over the Huskies in the first game of their series here, but even with two 6'8" centers were unable to cop the second game, which the Huskies won 56-48.

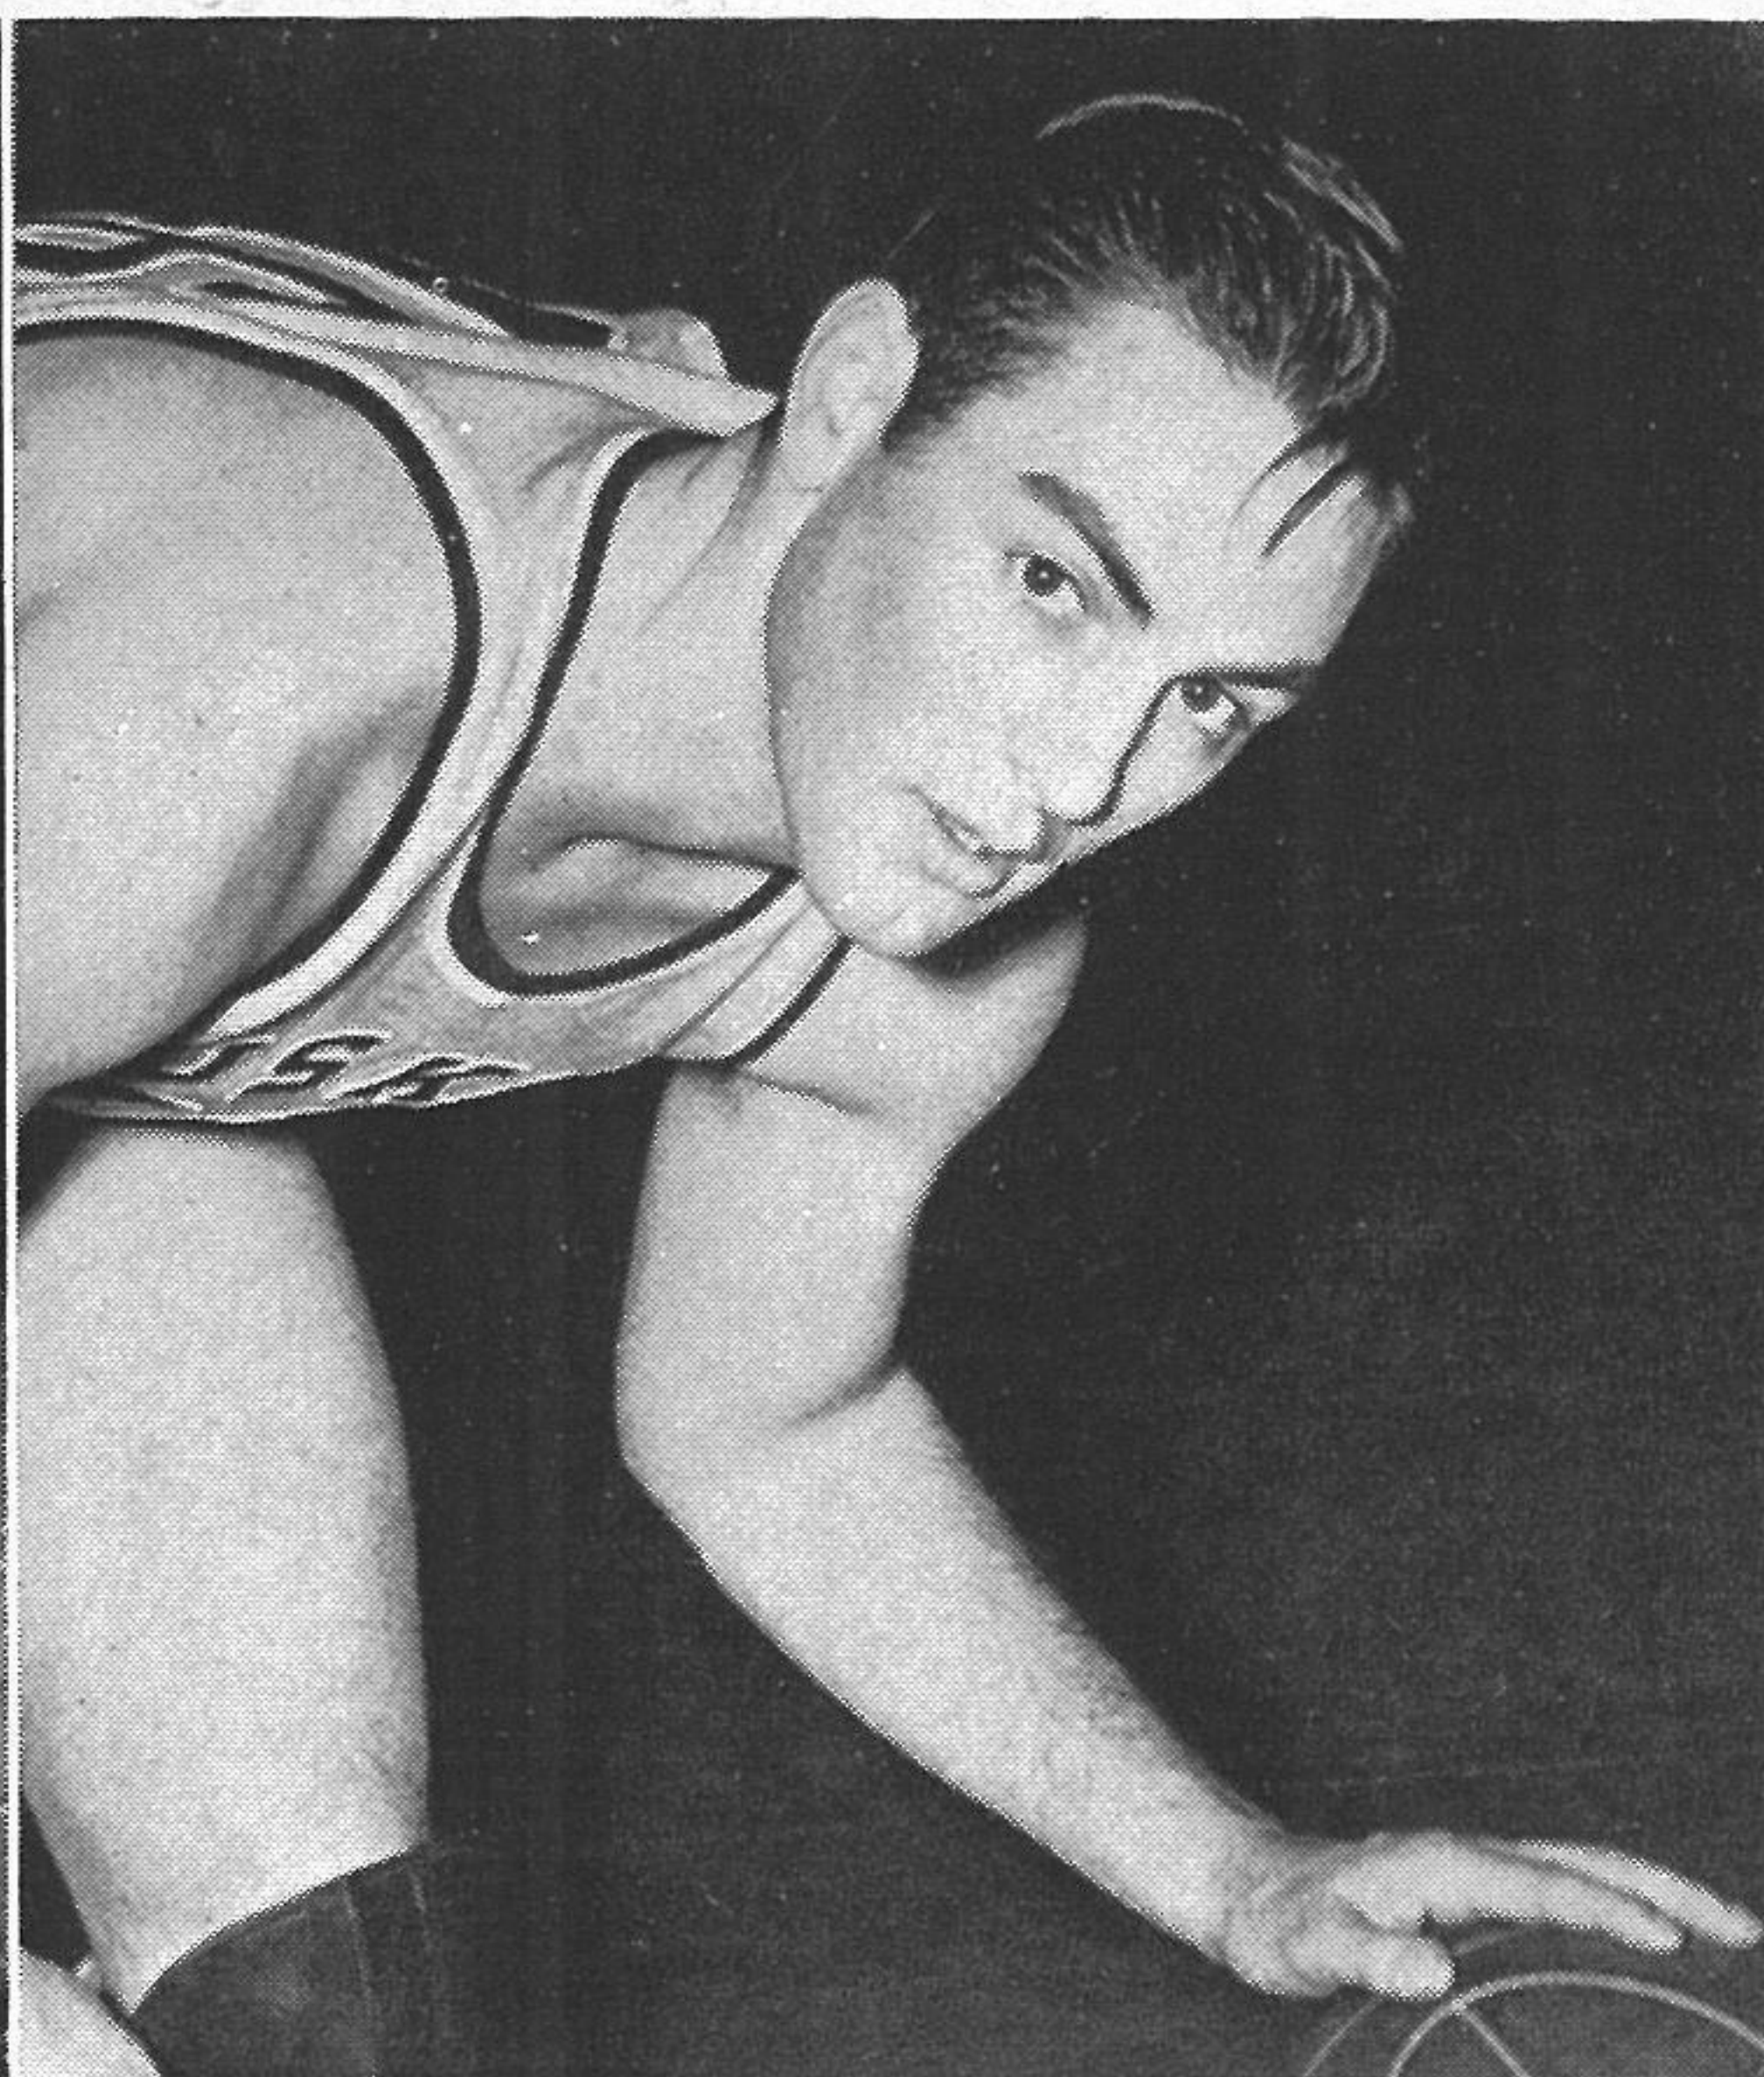

At Moscow, Washington came through with a 45-40 victory in the first game, but dropped the second contest 40-31. The Huskies held a six-point lead at the half, but scored only one field goal and two free throws in the entire second period.

BEAVER SERIES

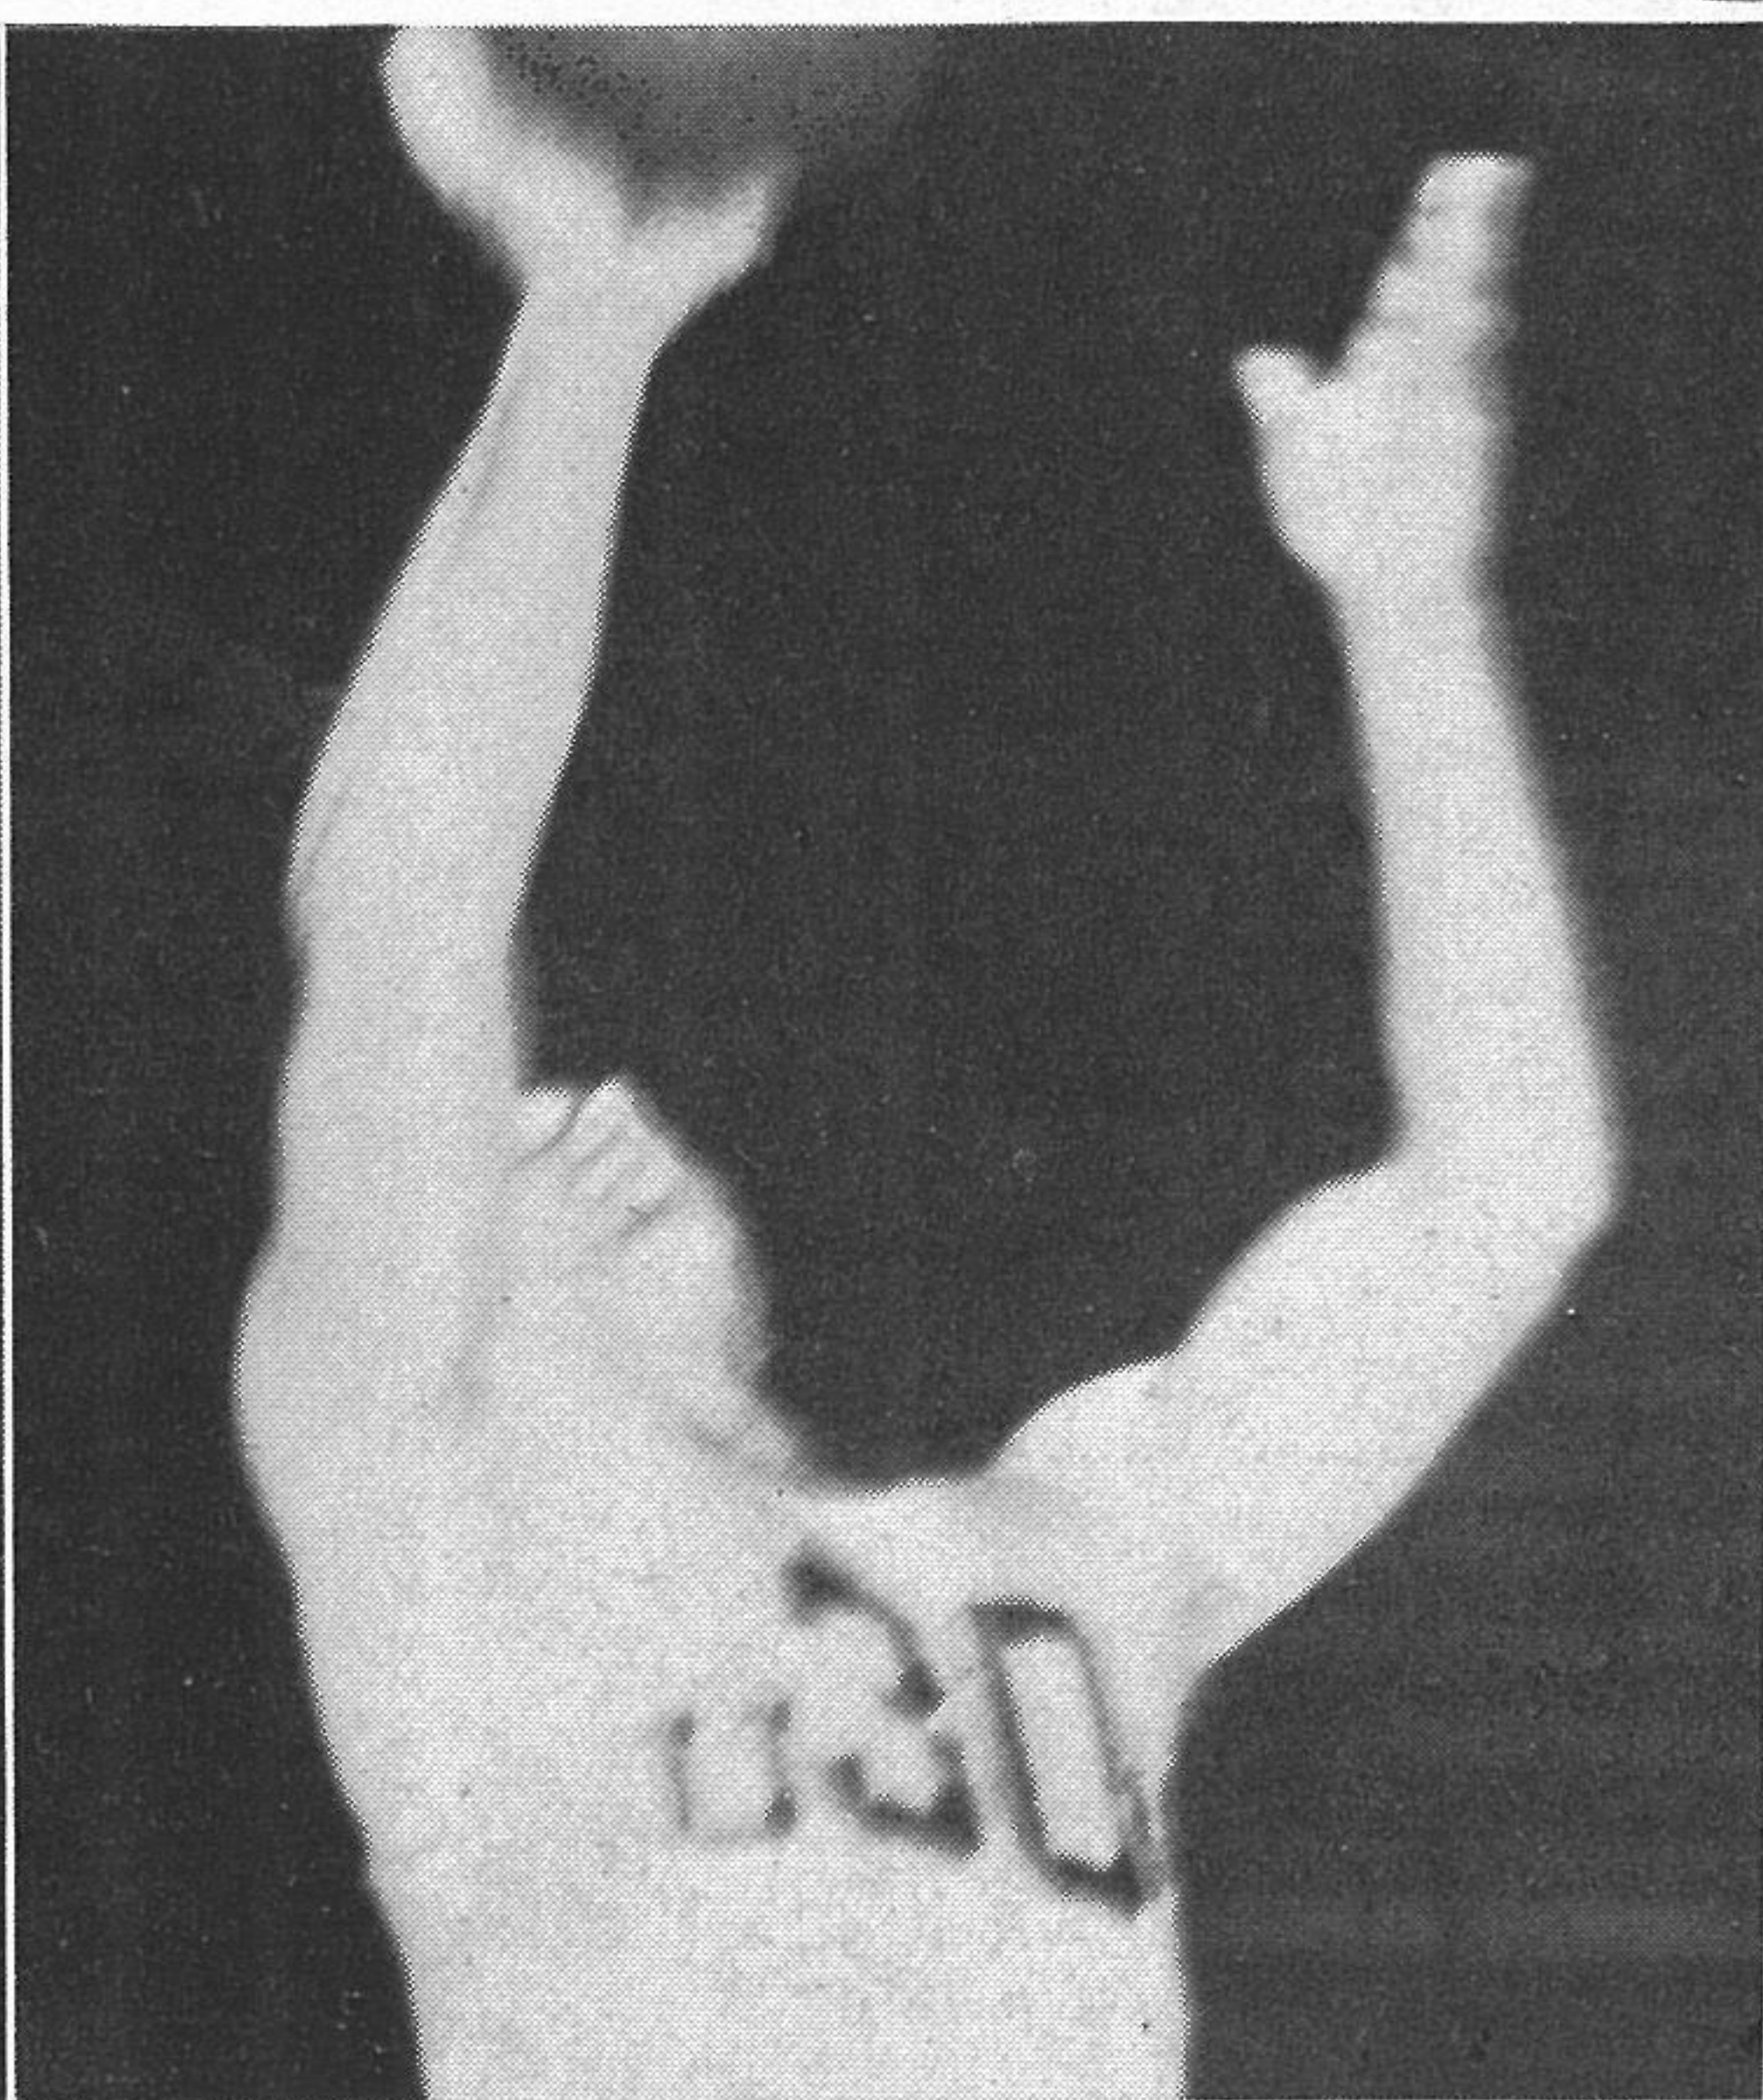

Oregon State, the team that won the Northern Division championship, only to lose two straight games in the Pacific Coast playoff to Southern California, proved another stumbling block for Washington and in the first two games, played away from home, the Huskies were defeated twice, 45-26 and 49-32. In the second game Washington pulled another last-half collapse and allowed the Beavers to pull away.

In the last home series for Capt. Bill McDonald and Bobby Dorr, who graduated this year, Washington split with the highly touted Beaver quintet. Oregon State won the first game and the Northern Division crown 46-31. The Huskies came through in the second contest 41-35 with Bobby Lindh scoring 17 points, but it was not enough to place him above John Dick of Oregon for the scoring title of 1940.

Fourteen frosh basketball players, representing some of the best young shooting talent seen around the Pavilion in recent years, were awarded numerals this season. Tubby Graves' yearling outfit was not big but it out-shot every team it played—with the exception of the Seattle Savidges who later placed fourth in the national AAU meet.

Fast and foxy, the frosh piled up 1,113 points during the 1940 season as compared with 540 scored against them. With Norm Dalthorp and Webb Brown in the saddle, they once rode over the Anacortes town team 93-15. Besides dropping a close contest to the Savidges, the Husky Babes lost one game each to the varsity reserves and the super varsity. But both of these teams were later knocked over by Tubby Graves' gang of ball hawks.

The starting five in nearly every contest consisted of Dalthorp and Brown at forwards, Chuck Gilmur at center, with Bill Morris and Wally Leask at guards. Gilmur's flashy ball handling ability caused considerable comment while Morris' speed and aggressiveness was the high-spot of many contests. Leask was the outstanding defensive man on the squad according to Graves.

Other freshmen winning numerals were Dean McKay, Freddie Hallin, Pete Susick, Don Strand, Jack McIntyre, Bob Roe, Bill Olson, Bobby Winslow, and Ernie Jacobs.

PACIFIC COAST CREW

Husky Varsity winners by almost two lengths: Bracken, Capt. Soules Grunbock, Keely, Jackson, Yantis, Duppenenthaler, Garhart, Colbert, coxswain.

VARSITY

Once again Purple and Gold colors were raised as a token of rowing supremacy over the Golden Bears of California as a powerful Husky crew socked its way to a convincing two-length victory over the invaders on the Sheridan Beach course. Stroked by a smooth-working sophomore, Ted Garhart, the Washington varsity couldn't be denied, and after trailing for the first mile their superior power pushed them in front of the blue-tipped oars of the California shell and the Huskies swept to an easy triumph.

Sickness almost wrecked the varsity shell as veteran oarsman Bob Grunbock was sent to the hospital only a few days before the regatta. But Coach Ulbrickson moved Al Erickson, sophomore sweepster, from the jayvee boat into the varsity, and the powerful North Dakota lad played an important part in the Purple and Gold victory.

Sophomores played an important part in the Husky boat, for along with Garhart and Erickson, long Johnny Bracken and powerful Dick Yantis made their first race with the varsity a winning one.

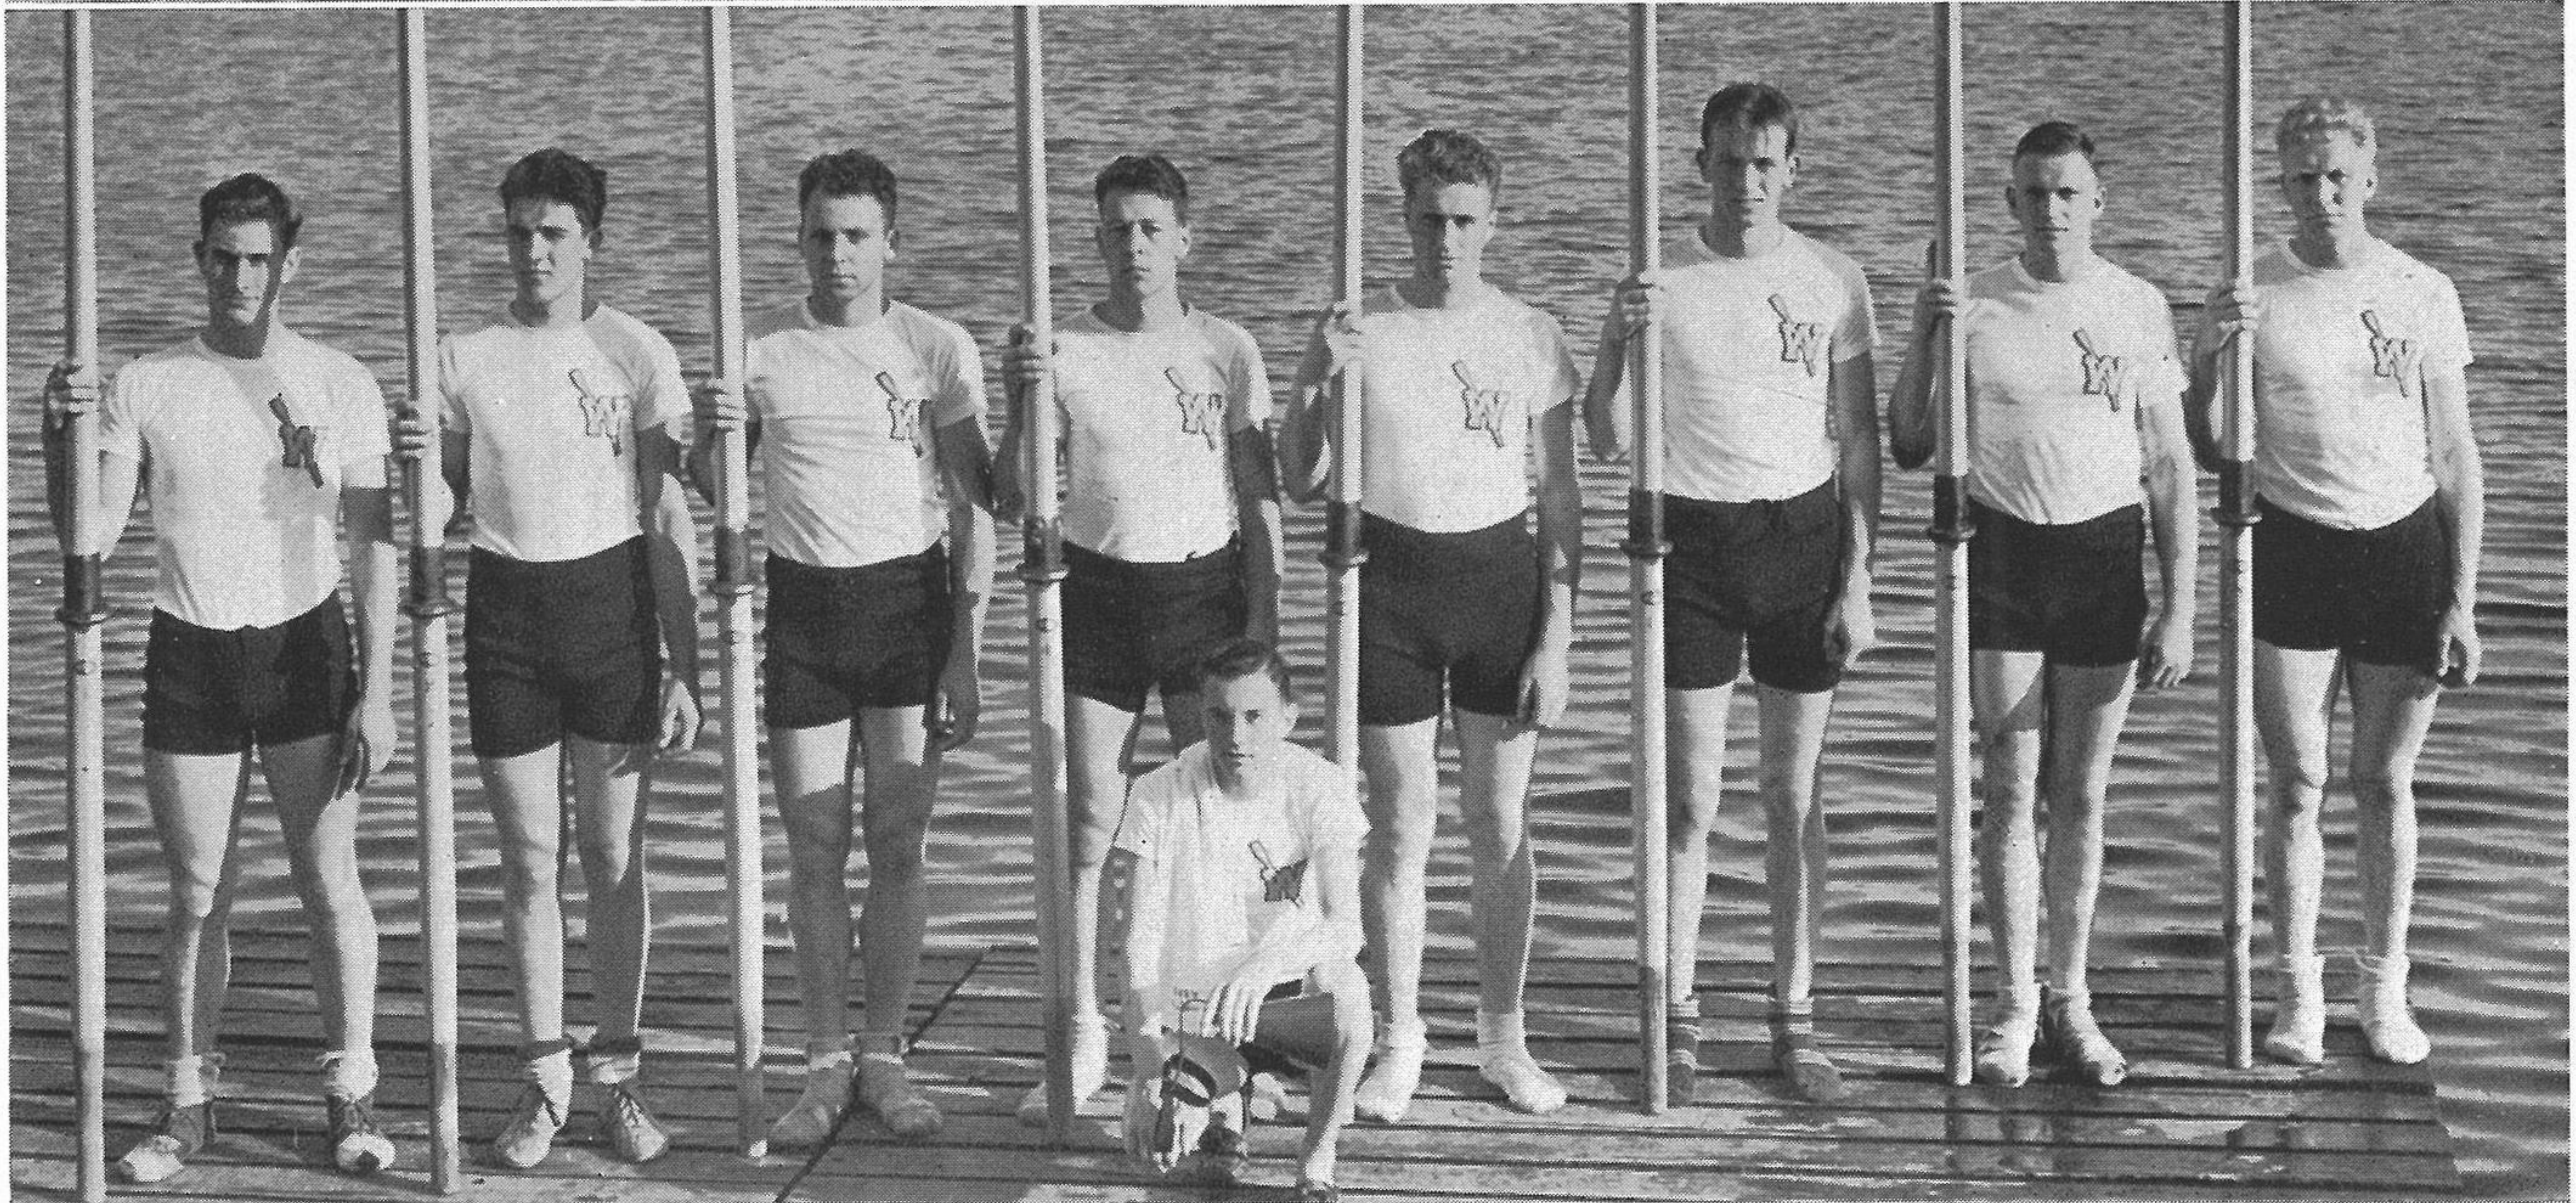

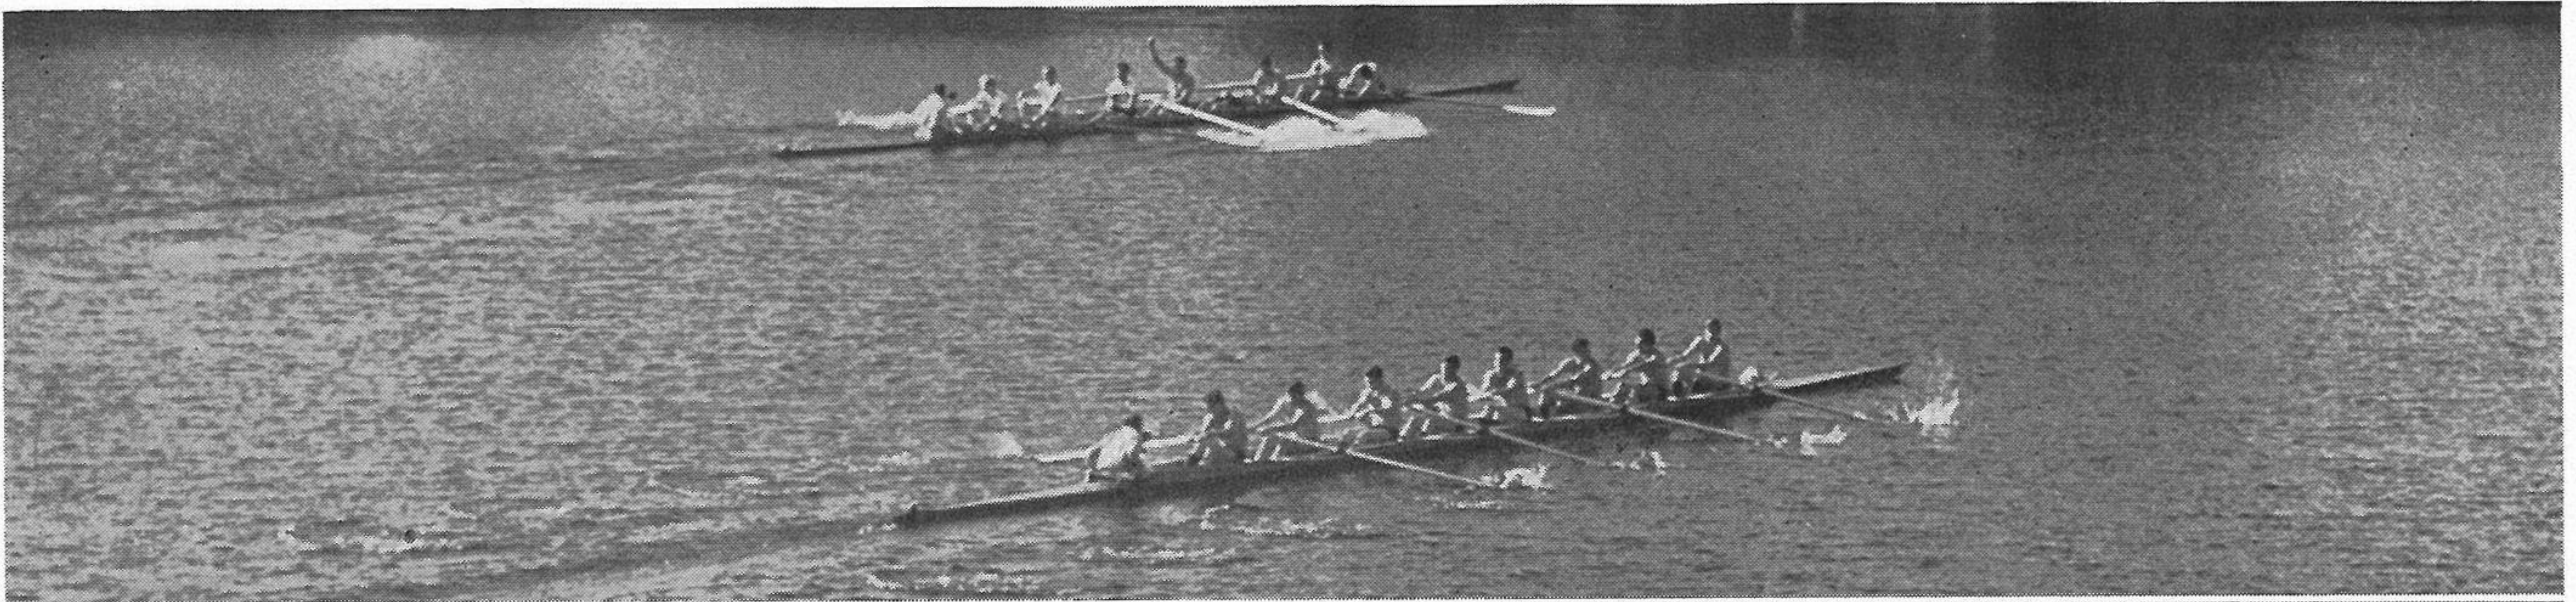

Other men who helped bring the Huskies back to their long-accustomed position at the top of the rowing heap, included Capt. Paul Soules, a truly fine oarsmen, junior powerhouses Jerry Keely, Paul Jackson, and Dallas Duppenenthaler, and senior cox Fred Colbert.

The time of the winning Husky crew was 17:15.8.

After 1,000 students boarded Chippewa at the Oceanographic dock, it left for its berth at the finish line . . .

CHAMPIONS FOR '40

Washington Jayvee comes home a length and a half in front: Thompson, Simdars, Thomas, Gordon, Erickson, Vincent, Douglas, Michalson, Fomo, cox.

JUNIOR VARSITY

So-called "experts" picked them to lose by at least four lengths—probably six . . . but the Husky jayvees showed them all that they too were truly a fine boat.

Racing against what was supposedly the best Cal boat, the jayvees got off to a fine start . . . held the lead from the beginning . . . and ended up on top by a length and a half.

Paced by Vic Michalson, the jayvees rowed an exceptional race and covered the tough three miles in 17:38.1. Rough waters slowed down both crews, but superior oarsmanship brought the white-tipped Husky oars over the finish line first.

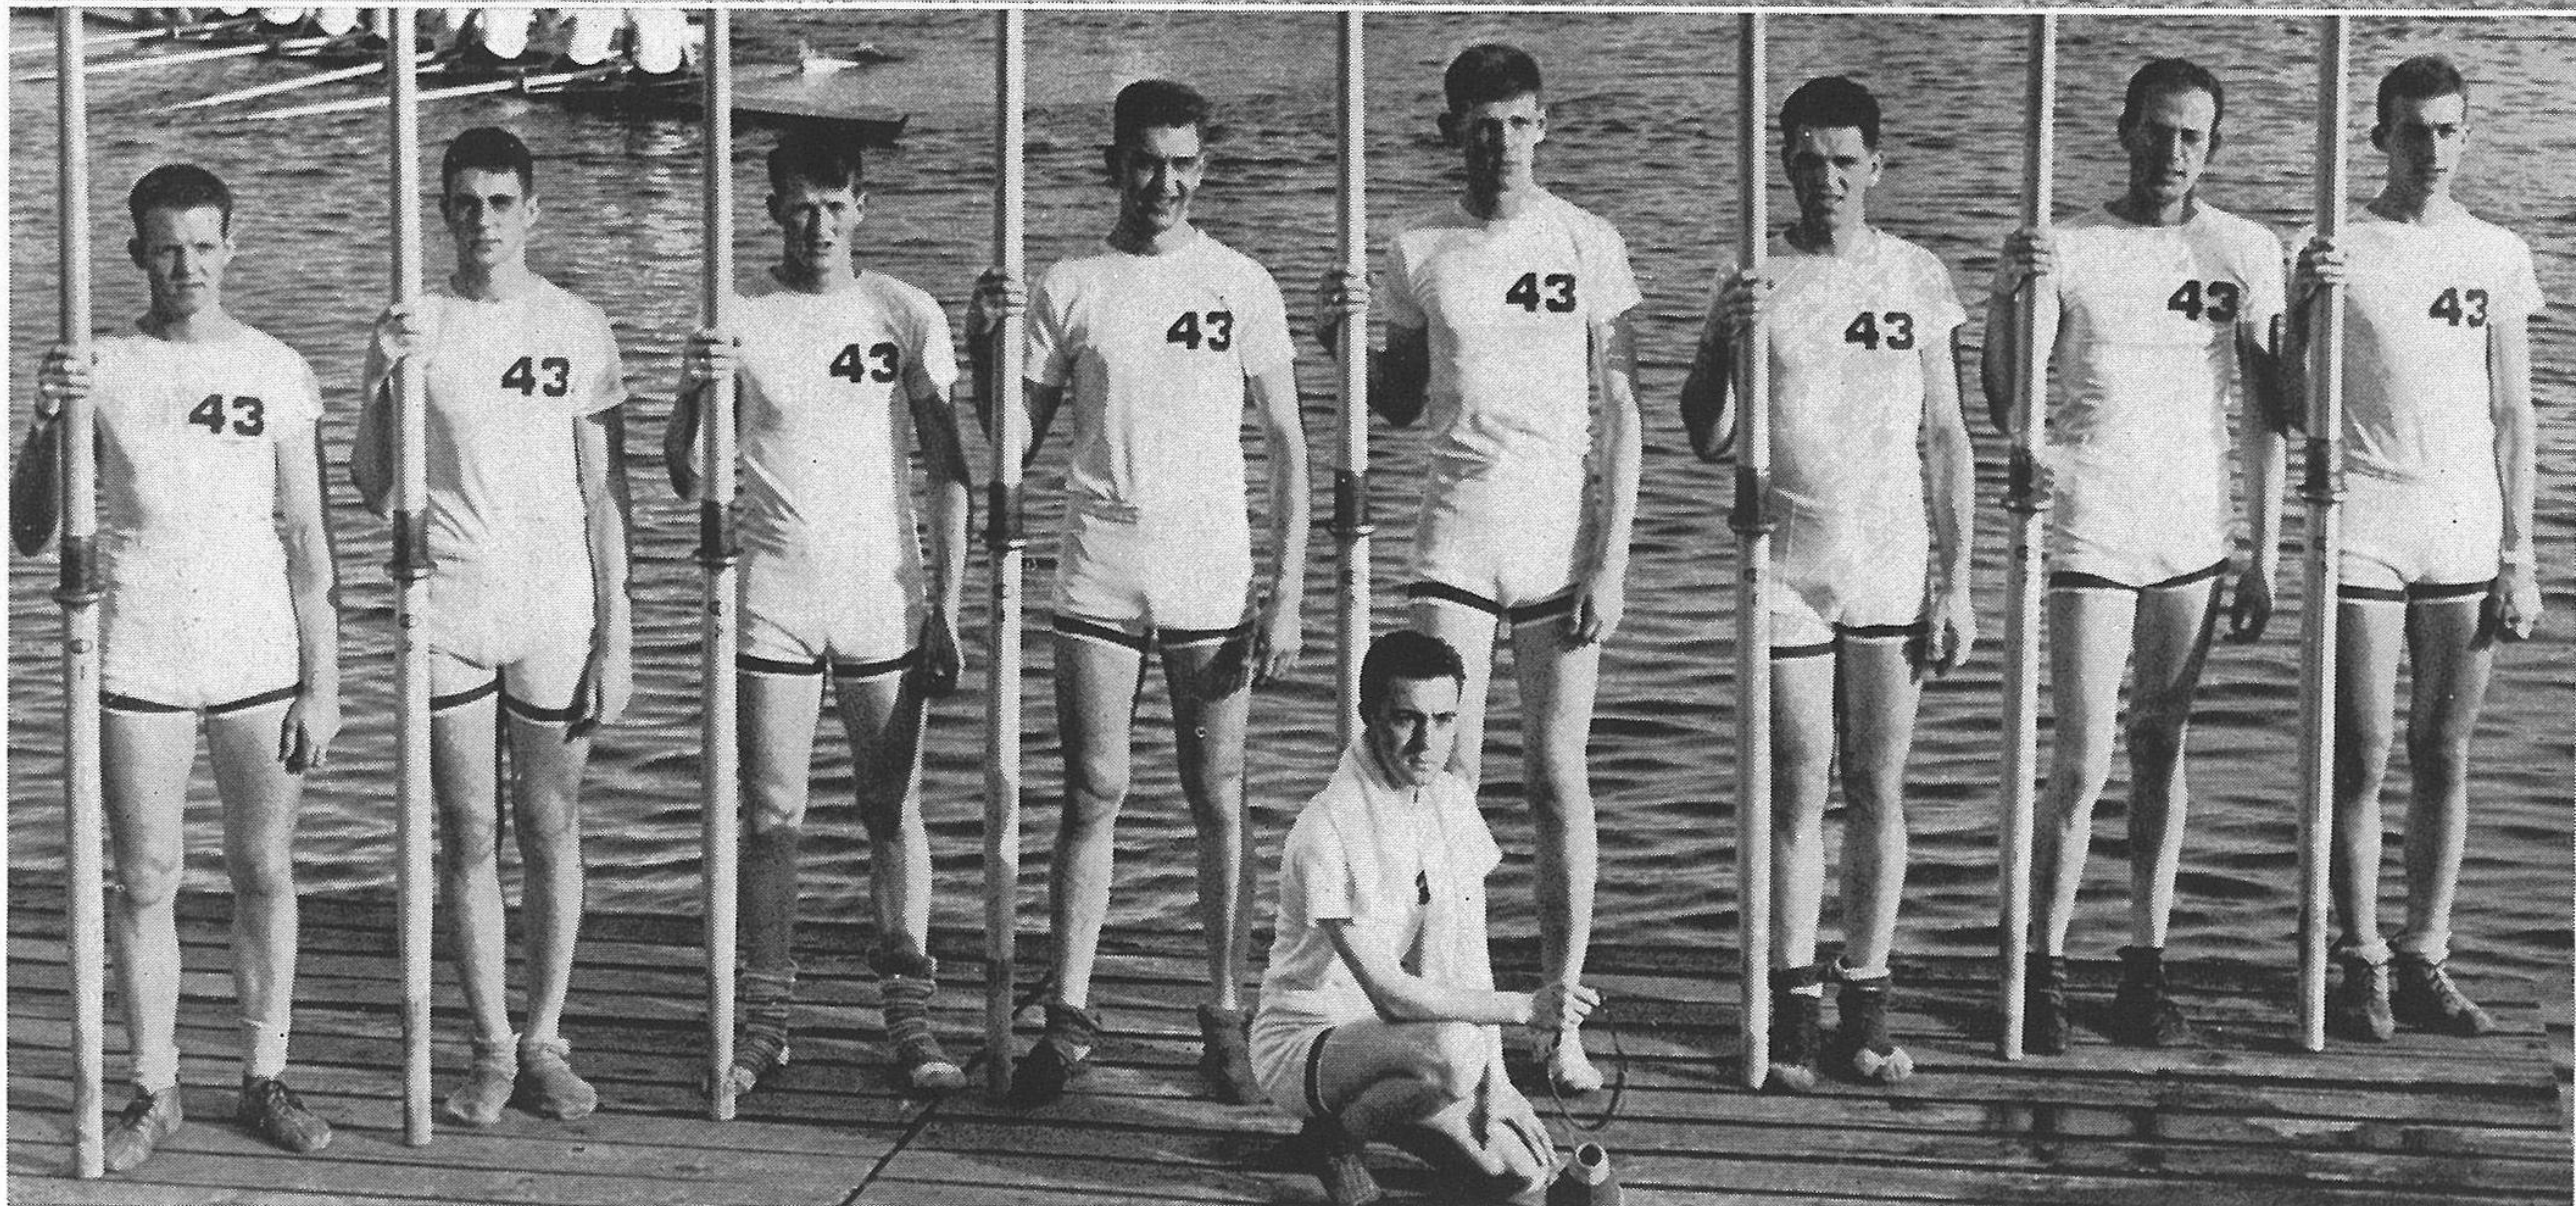

With the shifting of Al Erickson to the varsity, Coach Ulbrickson moved red-haired Jerry Connelly into the jayvees, and the Auburn lad proceeded to row a fine race in the bow position.

Peppery little Vic Fomo coxed the winning Husky shell to the victory over the Golden Bears' boat. Other sophs were powerful Bart Douglas and smooth sylist Bob Vincent. Supplying the sock in the middle of the boat were Orwin Thomas, Don Thompson, and Wayne Gordon. Thompson was shifted from the bow position when Erickson was moved into the varsity. Paul Simdars filled the number two spot.

Thousands of spectators watched . . . and Ellis Coder was the first Chippewa passenger to congratulate the J. V. boys. . . .

FIRST TIME IN 11 YEARS

The Bear Frosh win the only Cal victory: Capt. Ward, Galbraith, Willits, Sauer, English, Kuhn, Dingwall, Christofferson, Brown, cox.

FRESHMAN

Moving out to a big lead at the very outset, the Cal frosh were the only winning Bear crew as they took a one-length decision over the Husky yearlings in the fair time of 11:08.6. The Cubs beat the Husky pups by four seconds.

The Purple and Gold boatload were in the rear of the Cal boat from the beginning as the yearling sweepsters caught two crabs within the first 100 yards. But the Husky pups fought back and almost nipped the Bears.

However, the Blue and Gold California yearlings were a fine crew and proved one of the best Berkeley frosh crews to row against the Huskies in years. This race marked the first time that a Cal first-year boat had beaten a Purple and Gold outfit in Seattle.

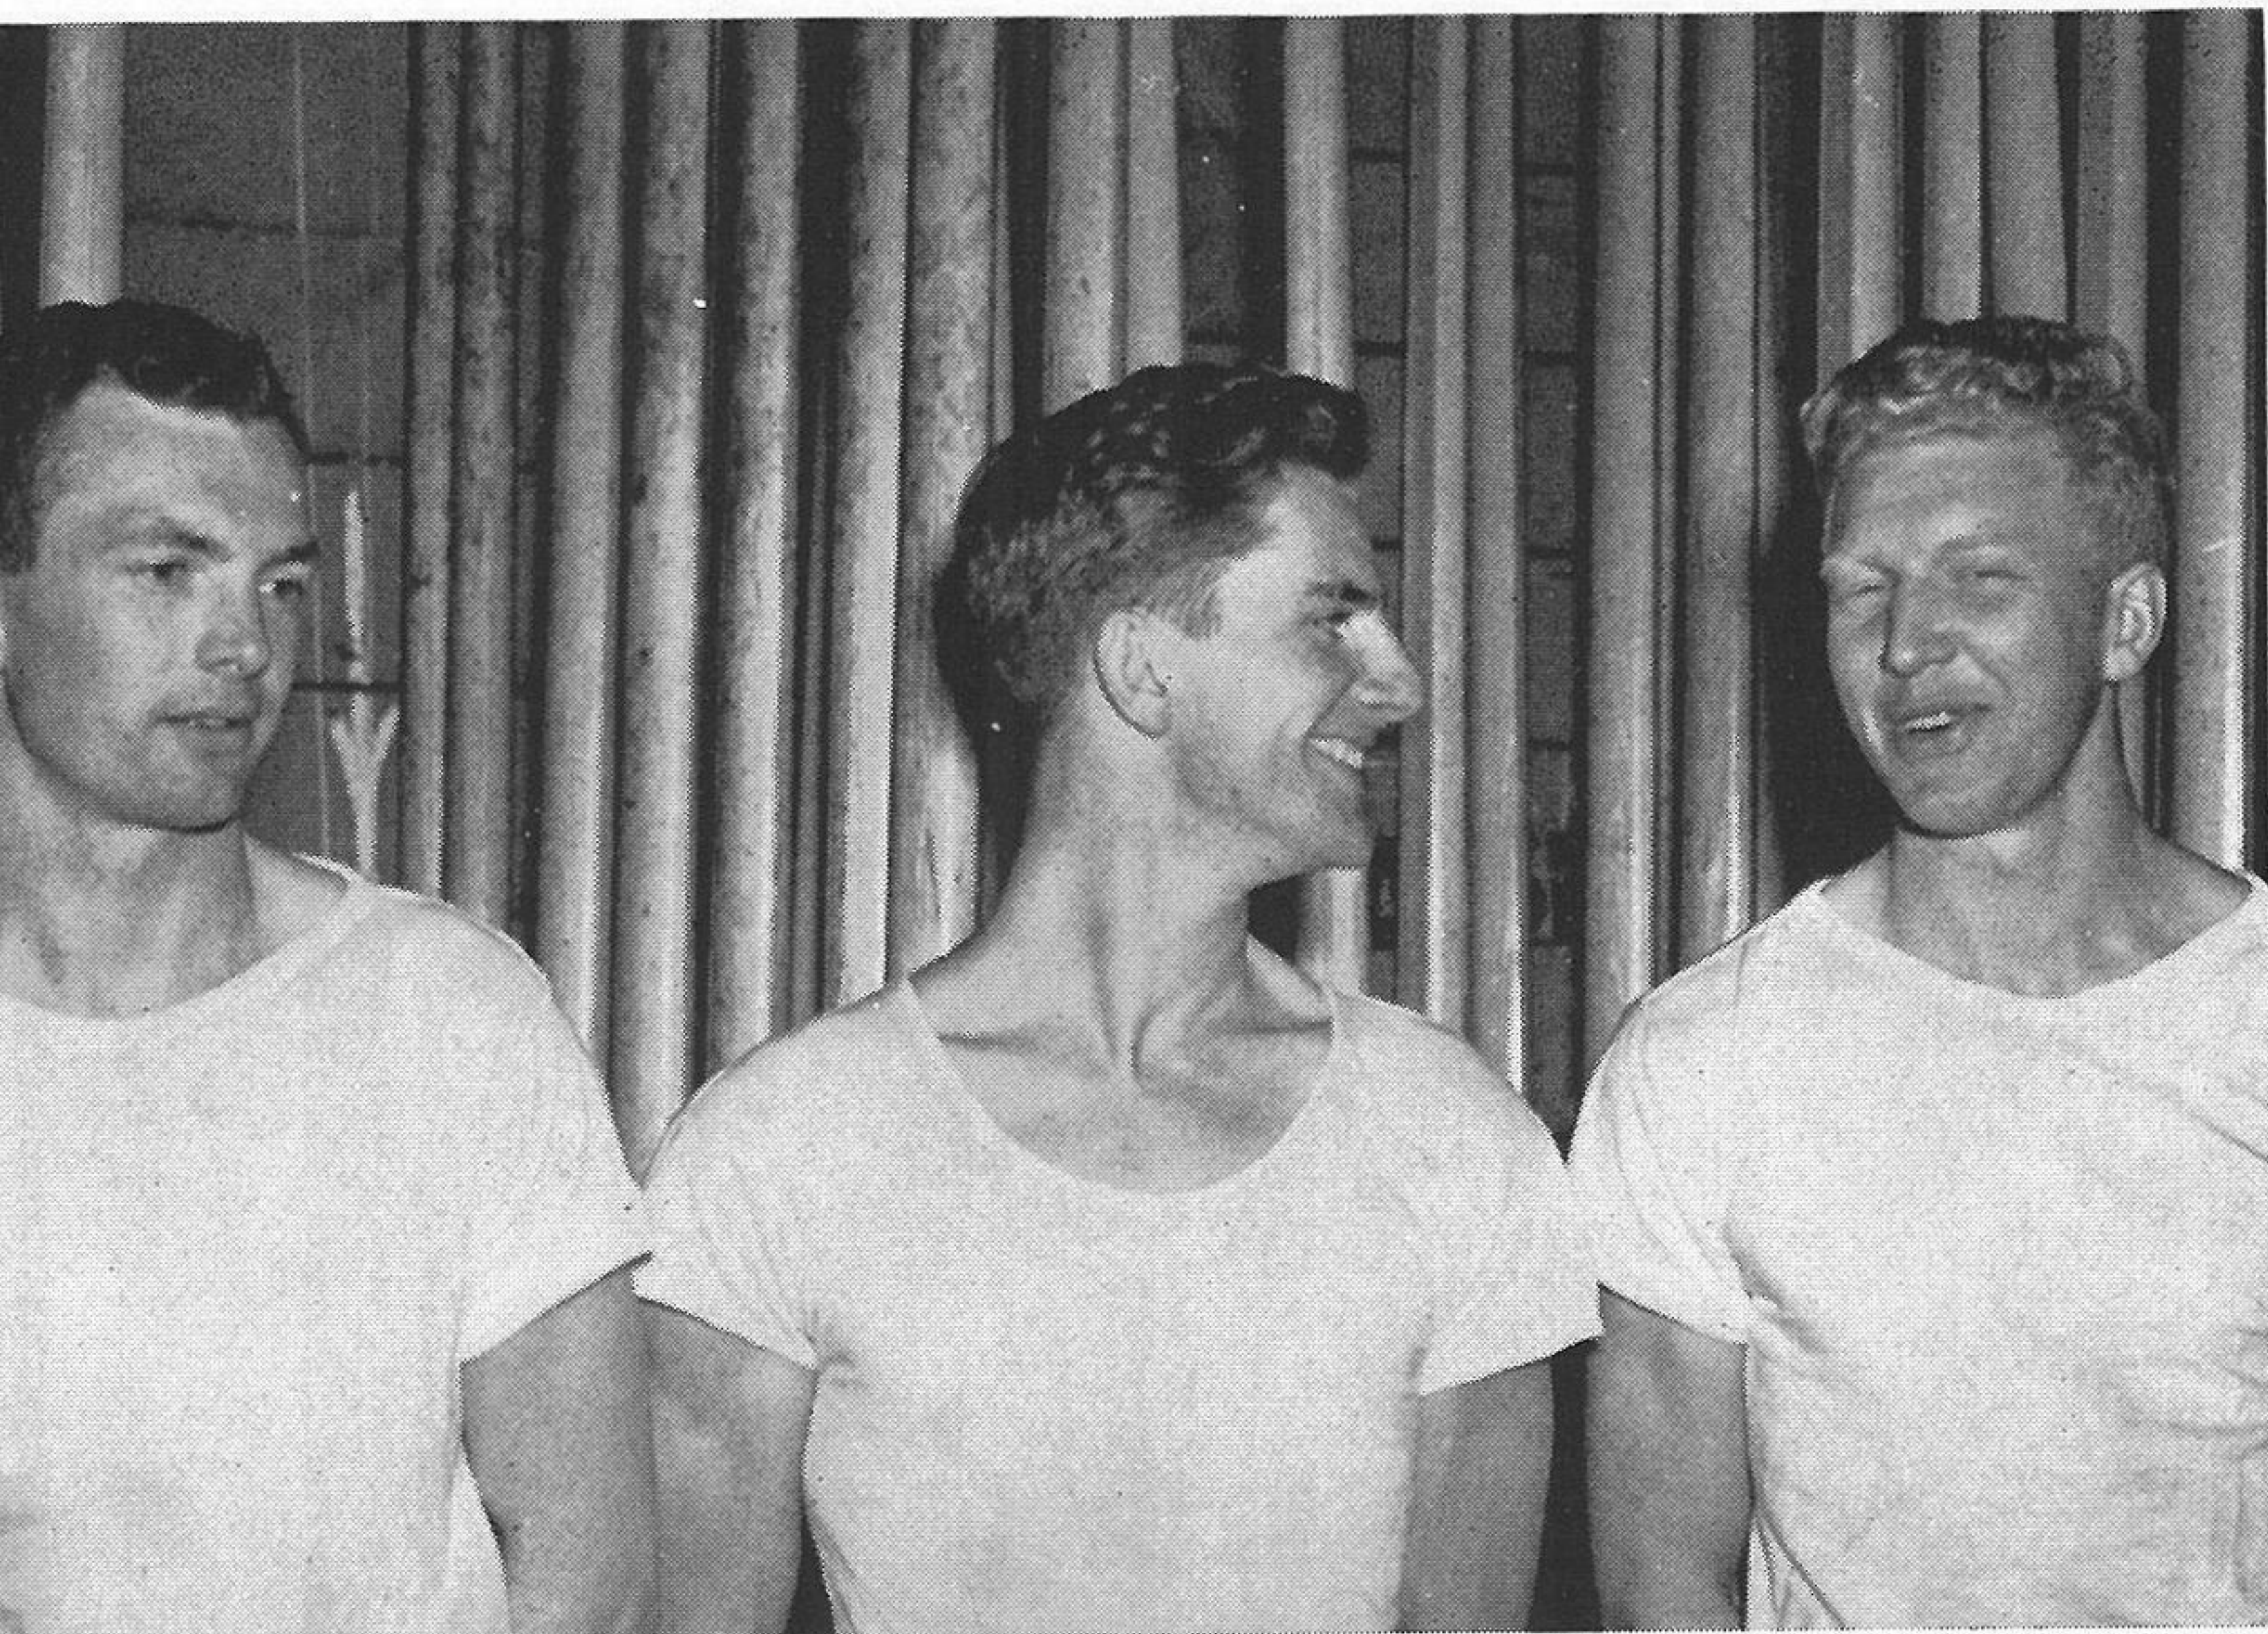

Bow man Jim Ward was the captain of the Husky frosh boat. Hailing from Ridgefield, New Jersey, Ward was one of the few out-of-state men in the Purple and Gold crews this year. He is considered a fine varsity prospect. Biggest man on the squad, Frank English, came from Snoqualmie to row in the number five spot for the yearlings. Only other man not from Seattle was coxswain Keith Brown from Pasco.

Other men included stroke Holman Christofferson, Harry Dingwall, Grant Kuhn, Bill Sauer, Hal Willits, and Andy Galbraith.

Ski Queen Eleanor Nielsen and Captain were introduced to the crowd which played bridge and pulled publicity stunts between races.

GRADUATING SENIORS

COACH AL ULBRICKSON

Not for long can Al Ulbrickson be denied. The capable Husky mentor once again has put the Huskies on top in inter-collegiate rowing circles. Probably one of the most successful coaches in the business, Ulbrickson may produce another national champion this June at Poughkeepsie.

After the big victory, boats left their moorings, students danced on the Chippewa, and shells and oars were stacked on the finish barge.

Coder, Duppenhalter, Keely, Jackson, Colbert, Gordon, Grunbock, Soules, Canfield

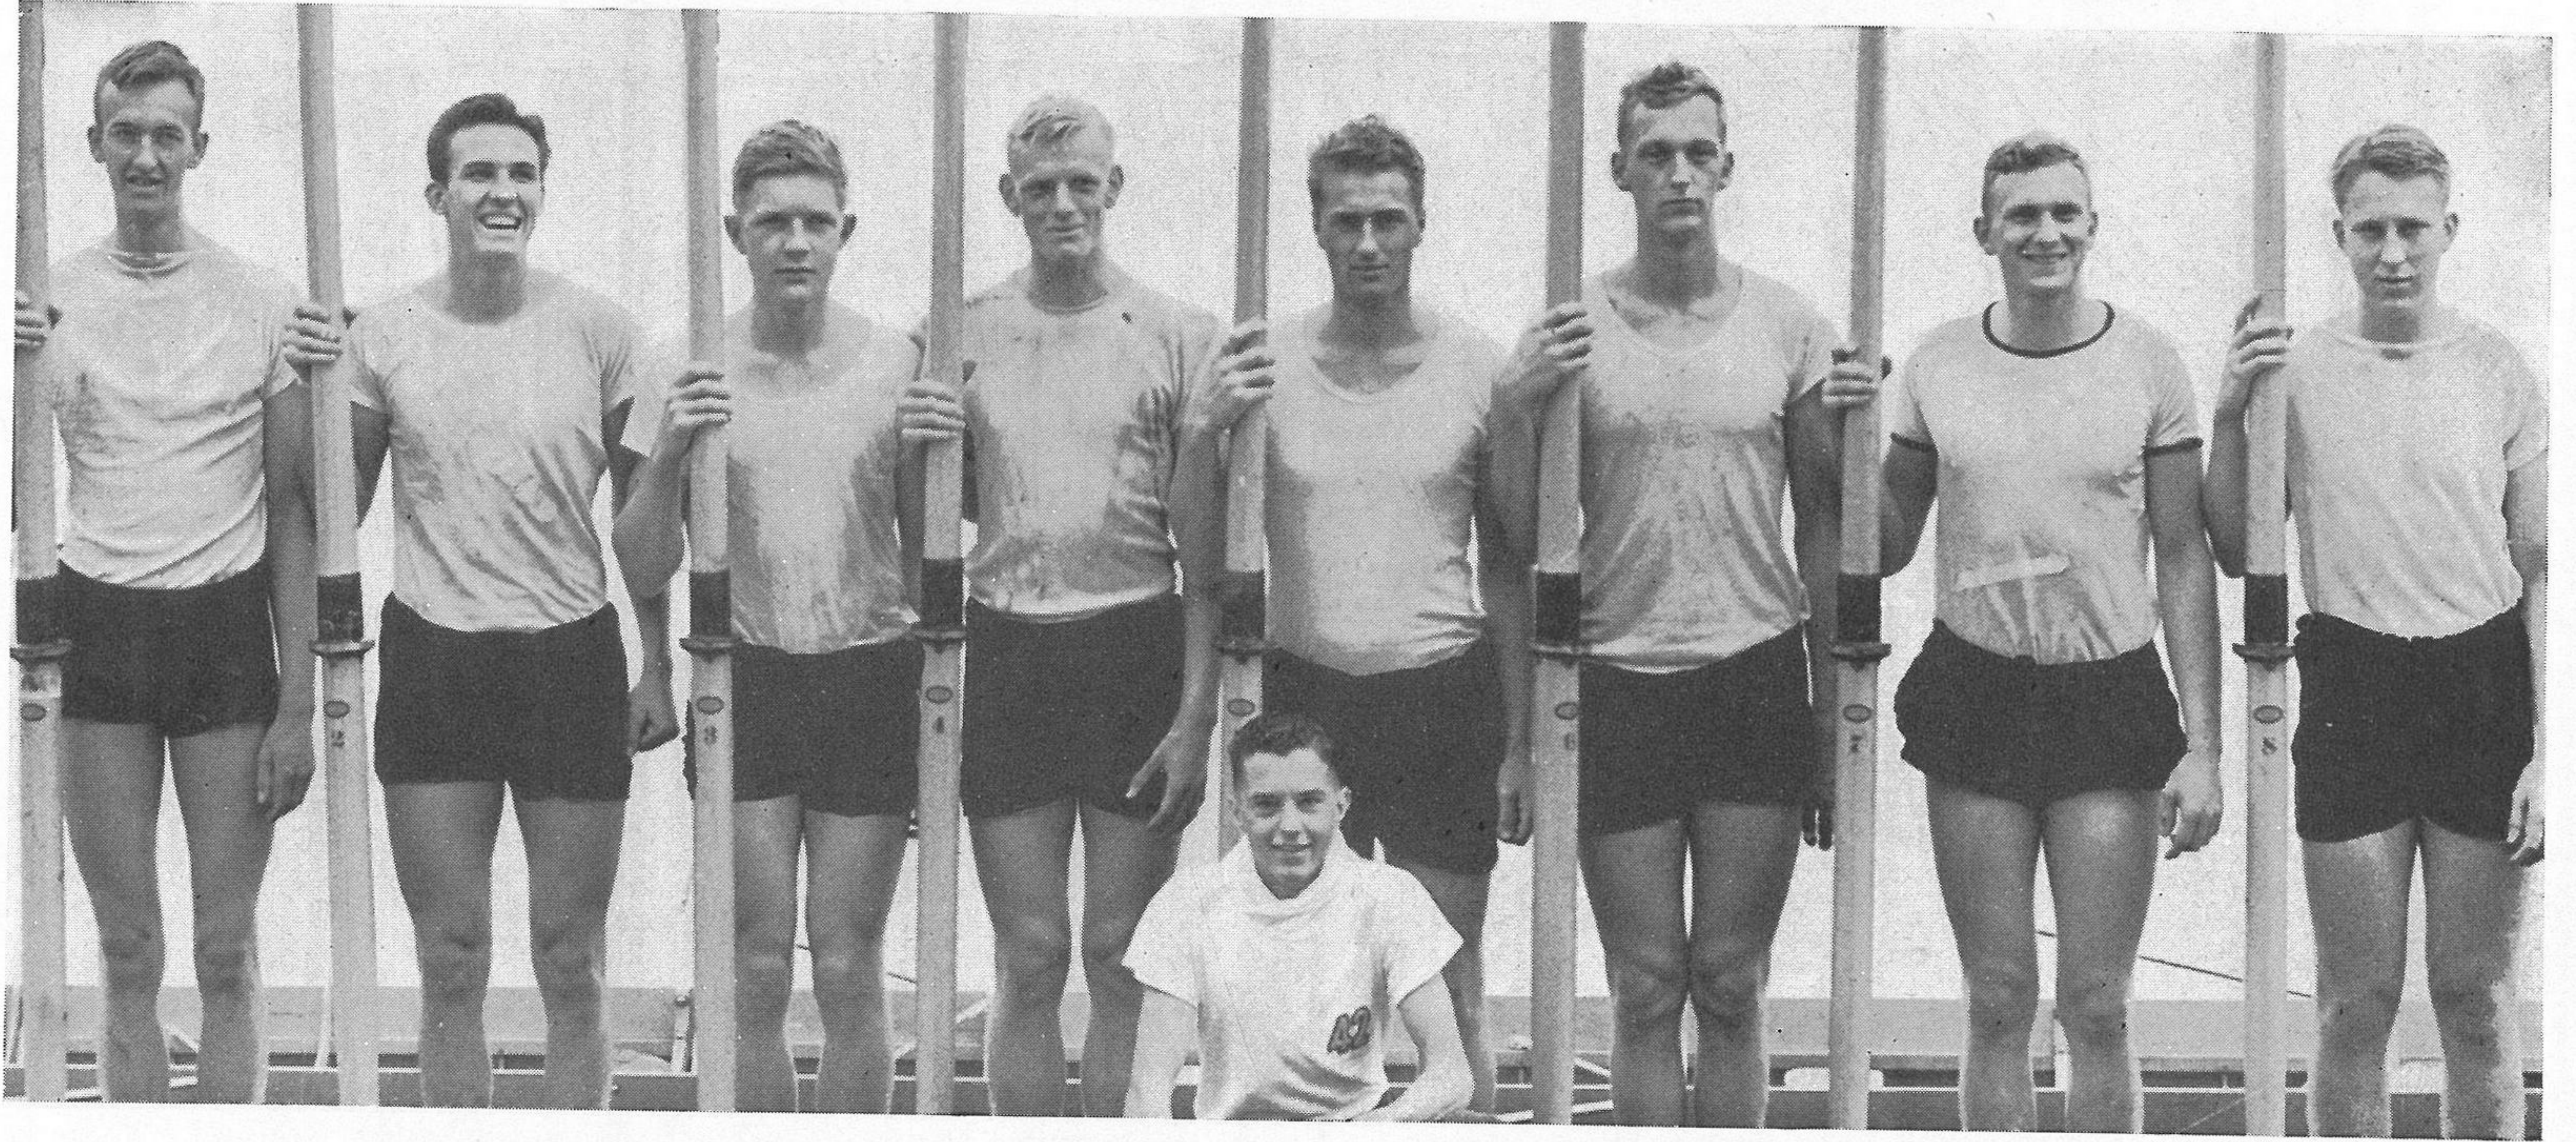

VARSITY After one of the most thrilling stretch drives ever put on at Poughkeepsie by a Husky crew, the '39 varsity lost to California's Golden Bears by a scant quarter length in a spectacular windup to the blue-ribbon rowing classic. Stroked by sensational soph Ellis Coder, the youngest crew Al Ulbrickson ever put on the Hudson smashed the course record by five full seconds even though bowing to the California armada.

Eriksen, Graybeal, Caldwell, Murray, Hokenstad, Hartman, Thompson, Michalson, Alderson

JUNIOR VARSITY In another breath-taking finish, Washington's luckless JV crew was edged out by the Syracuse boatload only after a see-saw, nip-and-tuck battle over the whole course. Only six feet separated the winning crew and the Purple and Gold outfit at the finish line. Veteran Gus Eriksen stroked a magnificent race in his final appearance in a Husky shell. Rough water slowed up the times turned in by both crews.

FRESHMEN

Again in 1939 Washington's colors rode the crest at the end of the freshman race at Poughkeepsie. For the fifth time in six years, the Husky yearlings paced the rest of the field to walk off with another victory. Stocky Bob Anderson stroked the winning crew who fought off a determined challenge by the Columbia freshmen to win in fair time by one-third of a length.

Ellis Coder, Stroke

Johnny Evans, Senior Manager

Ellis Coder, one of the most promising strokes in years and the man who had been counted upon to lead the Huskies straight to the rowing heights, had his crew career come to an untimely end in the sageland of eastern Oregon last summer in an automobile accident. Sustaining a severe back injury, Coder will never row again.

Energetic Johnny Evans was the major-domo in the Husky crew managerial set-up last spring. Caring for the various needs of the brawny crewmen, Evans led the oarsmen to Berkeley and the Cal races, and to their Eastern Poughkeepsie invasion. Jim Eagleson was senior frosh manager.

LIGHTWEIGHTS The Lightweight Crew consists of crew men who have a maximum weight of 160 lbs. The crew is coached by Ted Alderson and captained by Tom Turner, and has a heavier competition schedule than the varsity. The boys competed this year as follows: April 19, Sacramento Junior College at Seattle; April 27, Oregon State College at Seattle; May 4, Vancouver Rowing Club at Vancouver, B. C.; May 6, University of British Columbia at Seattle; May 16, Portland Rowing Club at Portland; May 18, Oregon State College at Corvallis. The crew was invited to the National Lightweight Rowing Regatta on the Charles River Basin near Boston, Mass., to be held May 18, 1940, but it was impossible to make the trip.

The Lightweight Boat Club is composed of members of the Varsity Boat Club who are on the Lightweight crew. Its officers are Tom Turner, Commodore; Hugh Miller, Steward; Medford Schwarz, Keeper of the Log.

Coach Jack Torney and Diving Coach Bob Buckley

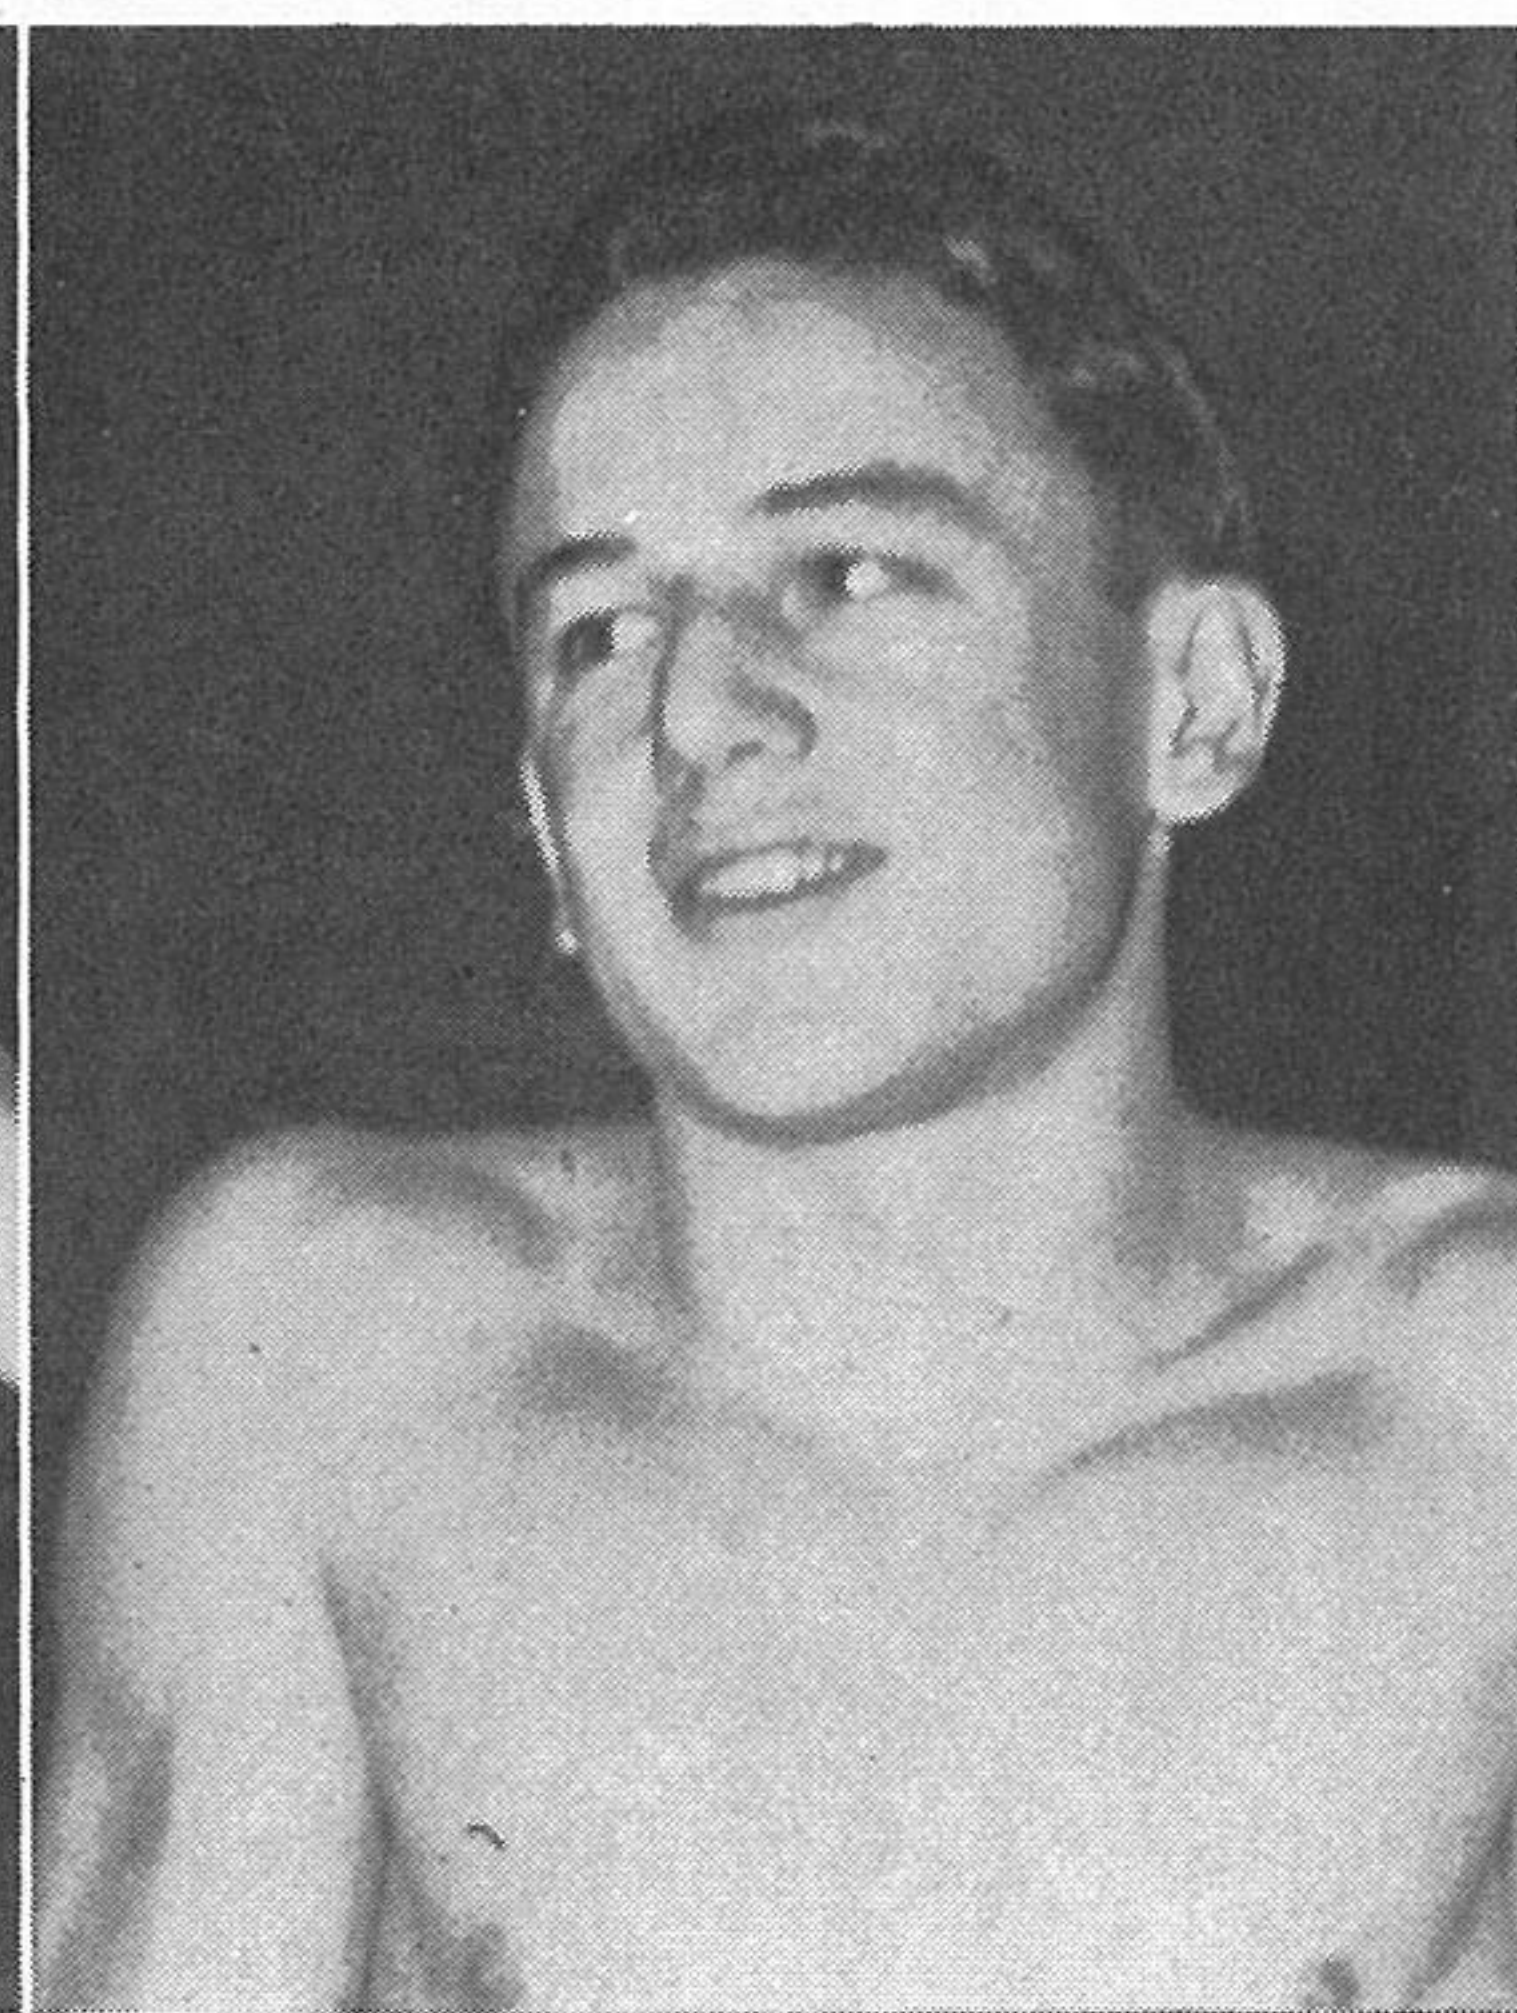

THE Husky mermen came back from an early season defeat by the Oregon Webfeet to nose out their favored rivals at the Northwest conference meet held March 2. The battle was nip and tuck all the way with the 440 deciding the outcome of the meet. When Bockman took first, Goldberg nosed out his opponent for second, and Sheehan placed fifth, it sewed up the meet. The final tally was: Washington 72, Oregon 71, WSC 14, OSC 7, Montana 6, Idaho 2. Thus the Huskies have retained the Northern division crown for two years in succession.

In their series of dual meets, they fell victim to the Oregon Webfeet at a 43-32 trouncing. Coming back the following two weeks on the road, they polished off Oregon State 55-18, Idaho 48-17, and Washington State 51-23. The Huskies showed a wealth of material in the sprints, distances, and diving, and are losing only two men via graduation—namely, Captain Fred Hoeppner and Bill Yake.

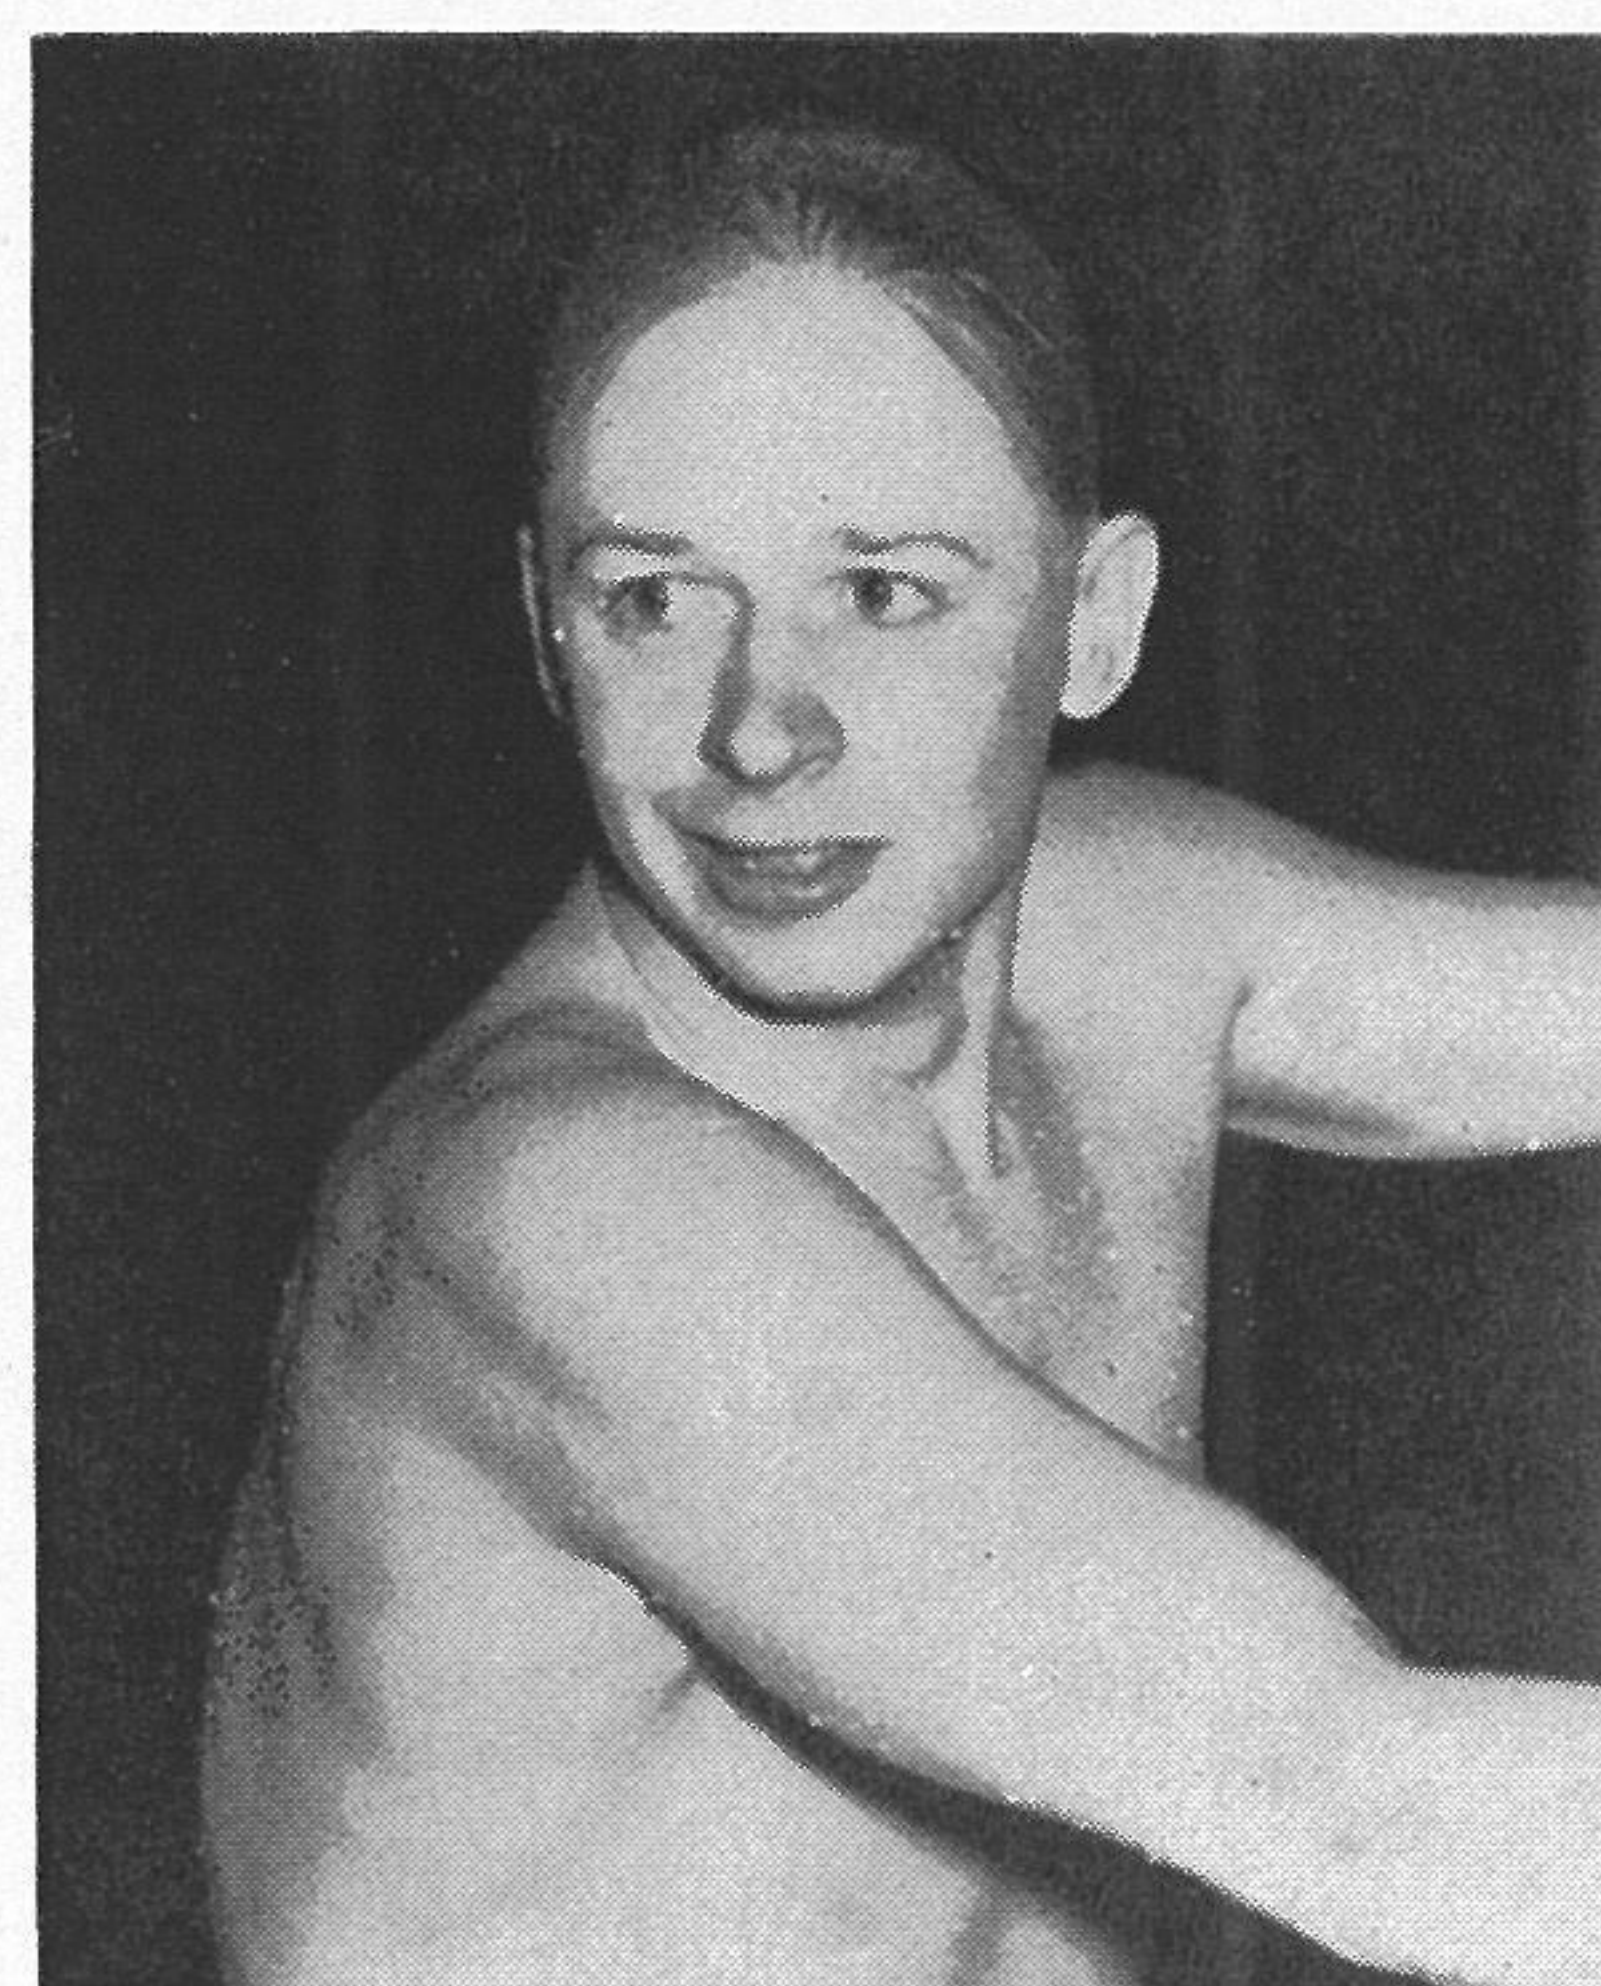

Big W's were presented to Captain Fred Hoeppner, Bill Yake, Mack Bockman, Pete Goldberg, Wally Holden, Leonard Koke, Dick Becker, Ray Hyatt, Bob Eckdahl, Leo Sheehan, Bud Schwarz, George Athans, Ralph Nipper, and Bryant Russell. An honor W was given to Floyd Loomis for four years' turning out. Reserves who competed but did not make their letters were Barry Rogers and Vic Curran.

The Husky pups swam through an up and down season with six wins, two second places in triangular meets, and two losses. Crippled by sickness and ineligibility, they bowed both times to Lincoln High of Tacoma and were beaten in triangular meets by Everett and the Aero club of Portland. Numerals were awarded to the following: Dick Margerum, Chris Barr, Bill Odman, Doug Bankson, Larry Thomas, Bob Rounds, Oren Rabin, Bob McNeel, George Hill, Paul Hurd, Jack Henderson, Kristi Arnason. Reserves who competed but did not make their numerals because of illness were Bob Paisley and Bill Landrum.

WINNING only six games but bouncing back during the last few weeks after being kicked around by almost every team in the conference during the early stages of the campaign, the '39 Husky baseball team wound up its season with a victory streak that rocketed them from the cellar and labeled them as one of the most dangerous clubs in the league.

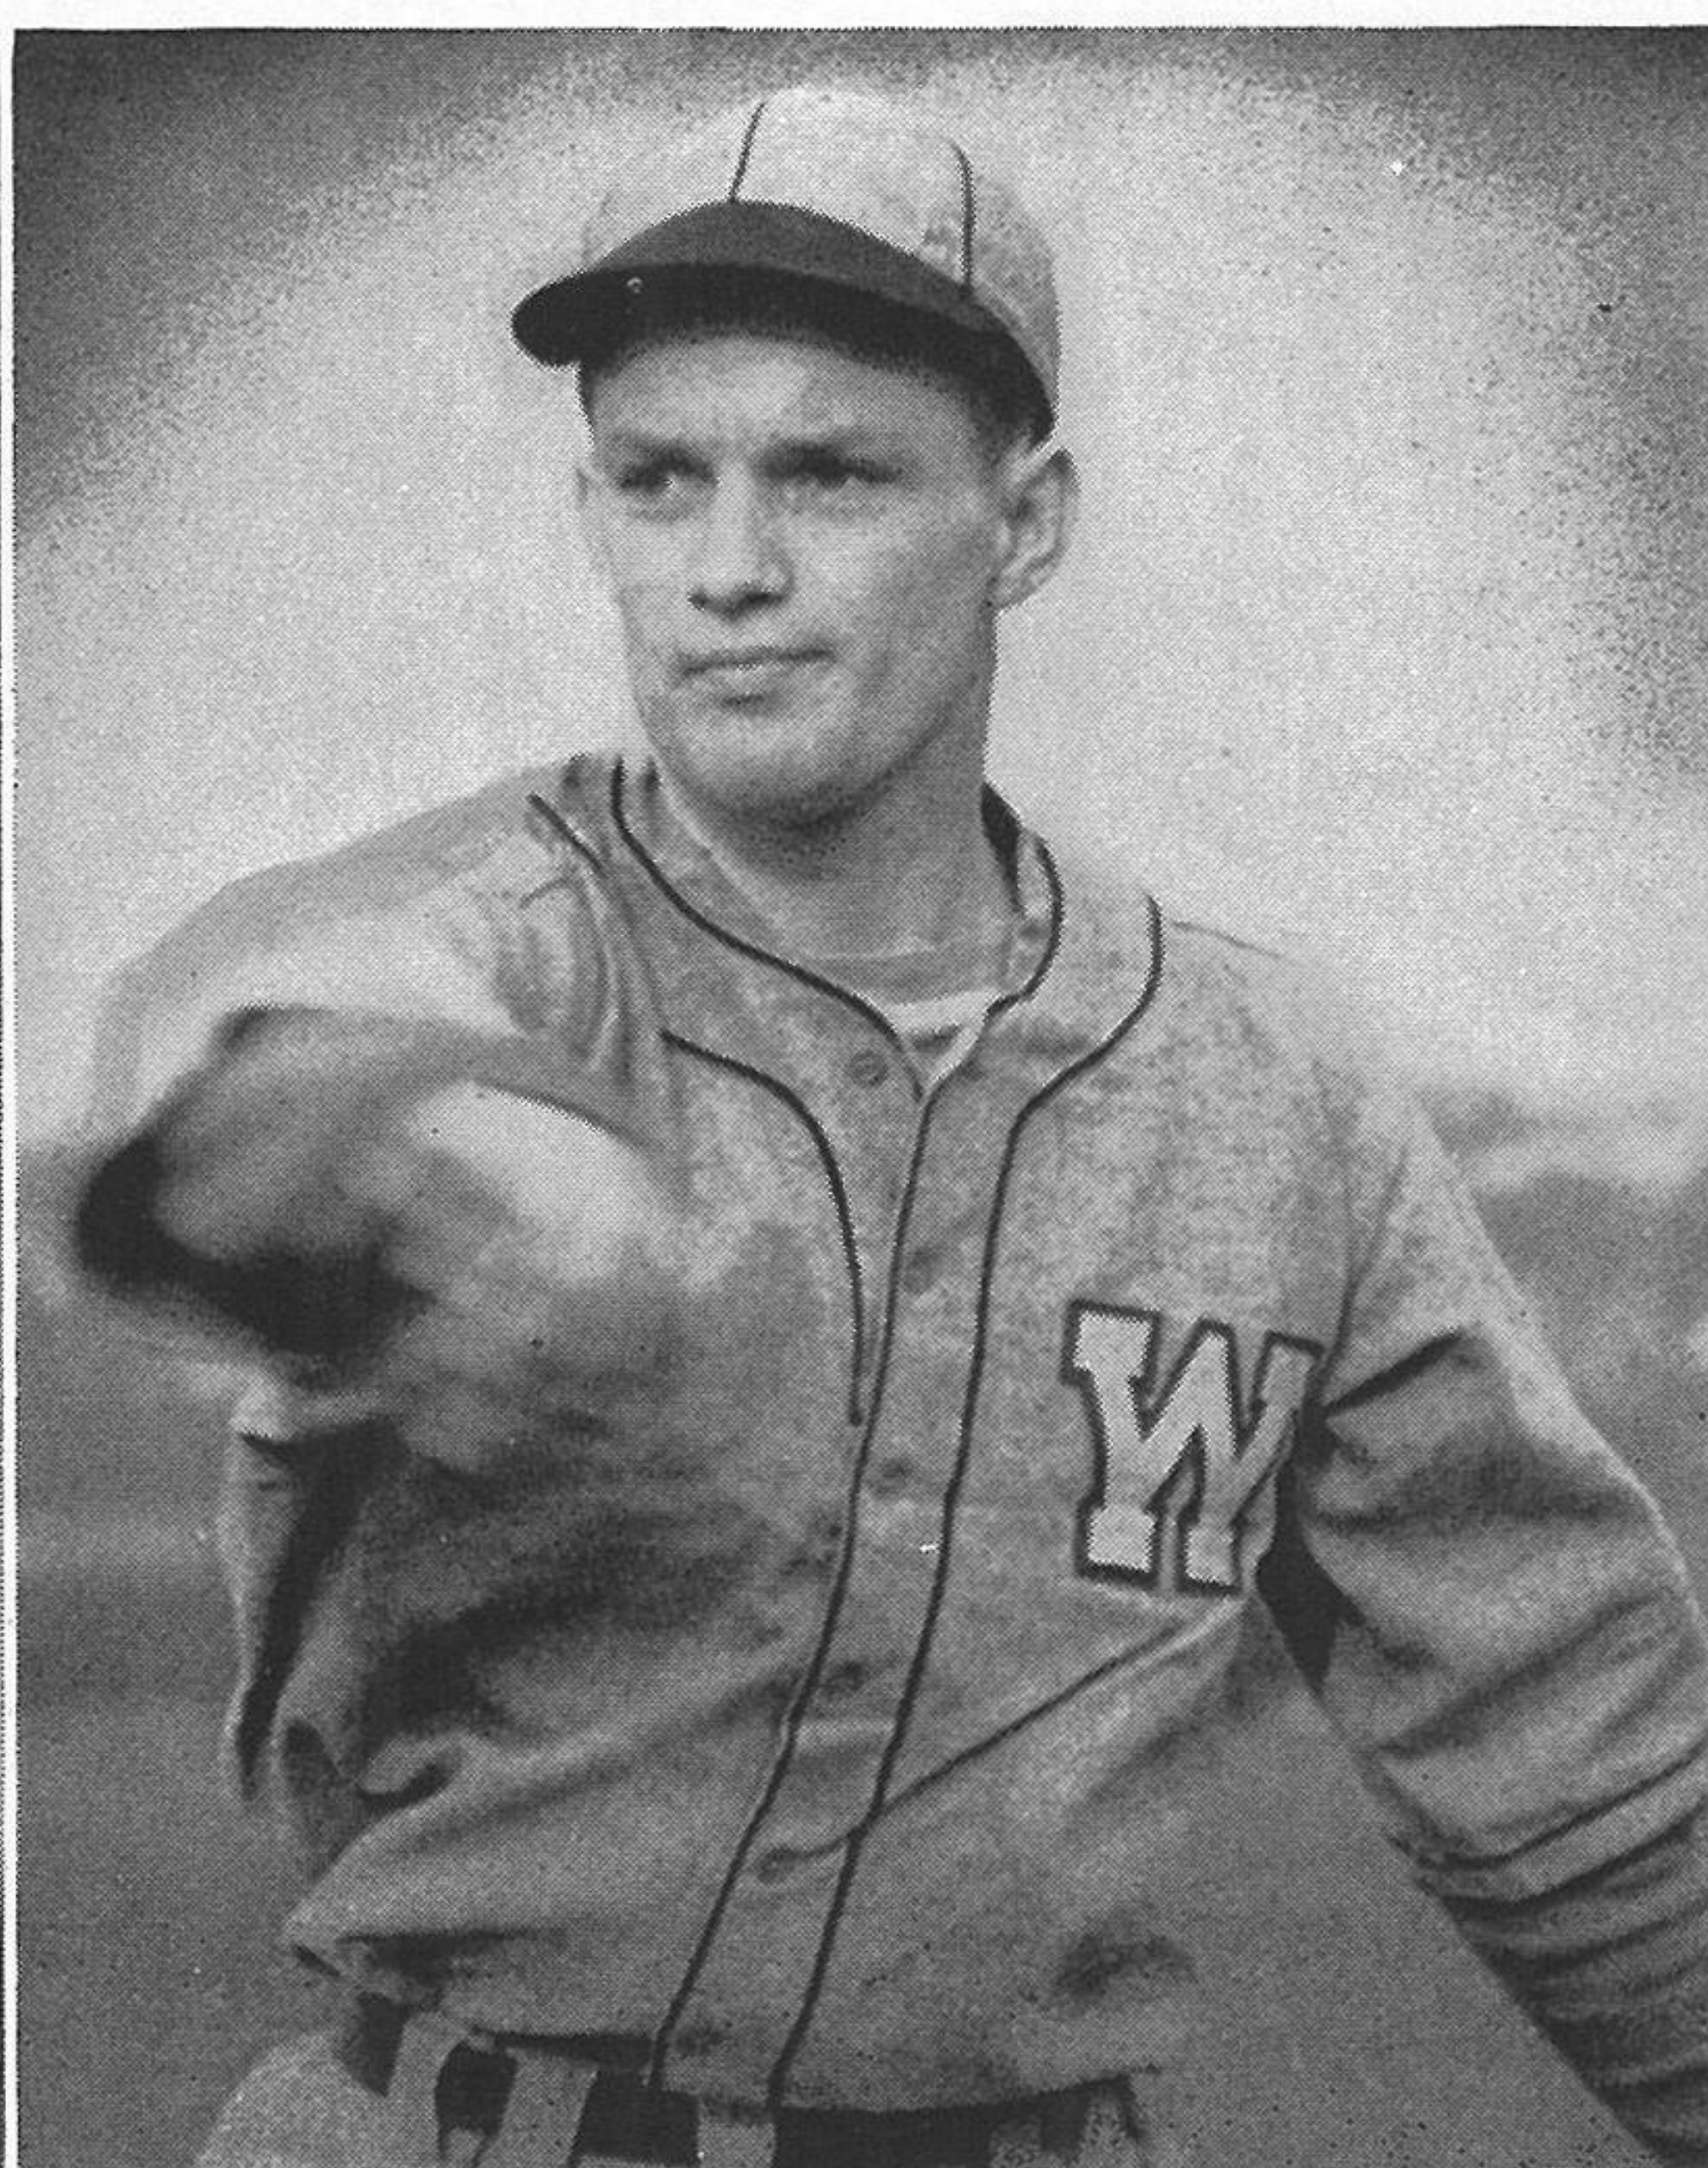

Injuries, ineligibilities, and sickness wrecked what otherwise might have been a pennant-contending ball club, but once Coach Tubby Graves got his inexperienced outfit running more smoothly the Huskies became a match for any team in the circuit.

Sam Baker, southpaw hurler, and soph outfielder Bob Larson proved to be the most spectacular performers for the diamond stars. Baker came back after an unimpressive early season record to pace the revived Husky pitching staff. Larson didn't even crack the line-up until mid-season, but once he became a regular he pounded the horsehide to all corners and ended up the season leading the squad with a .386 batting average.

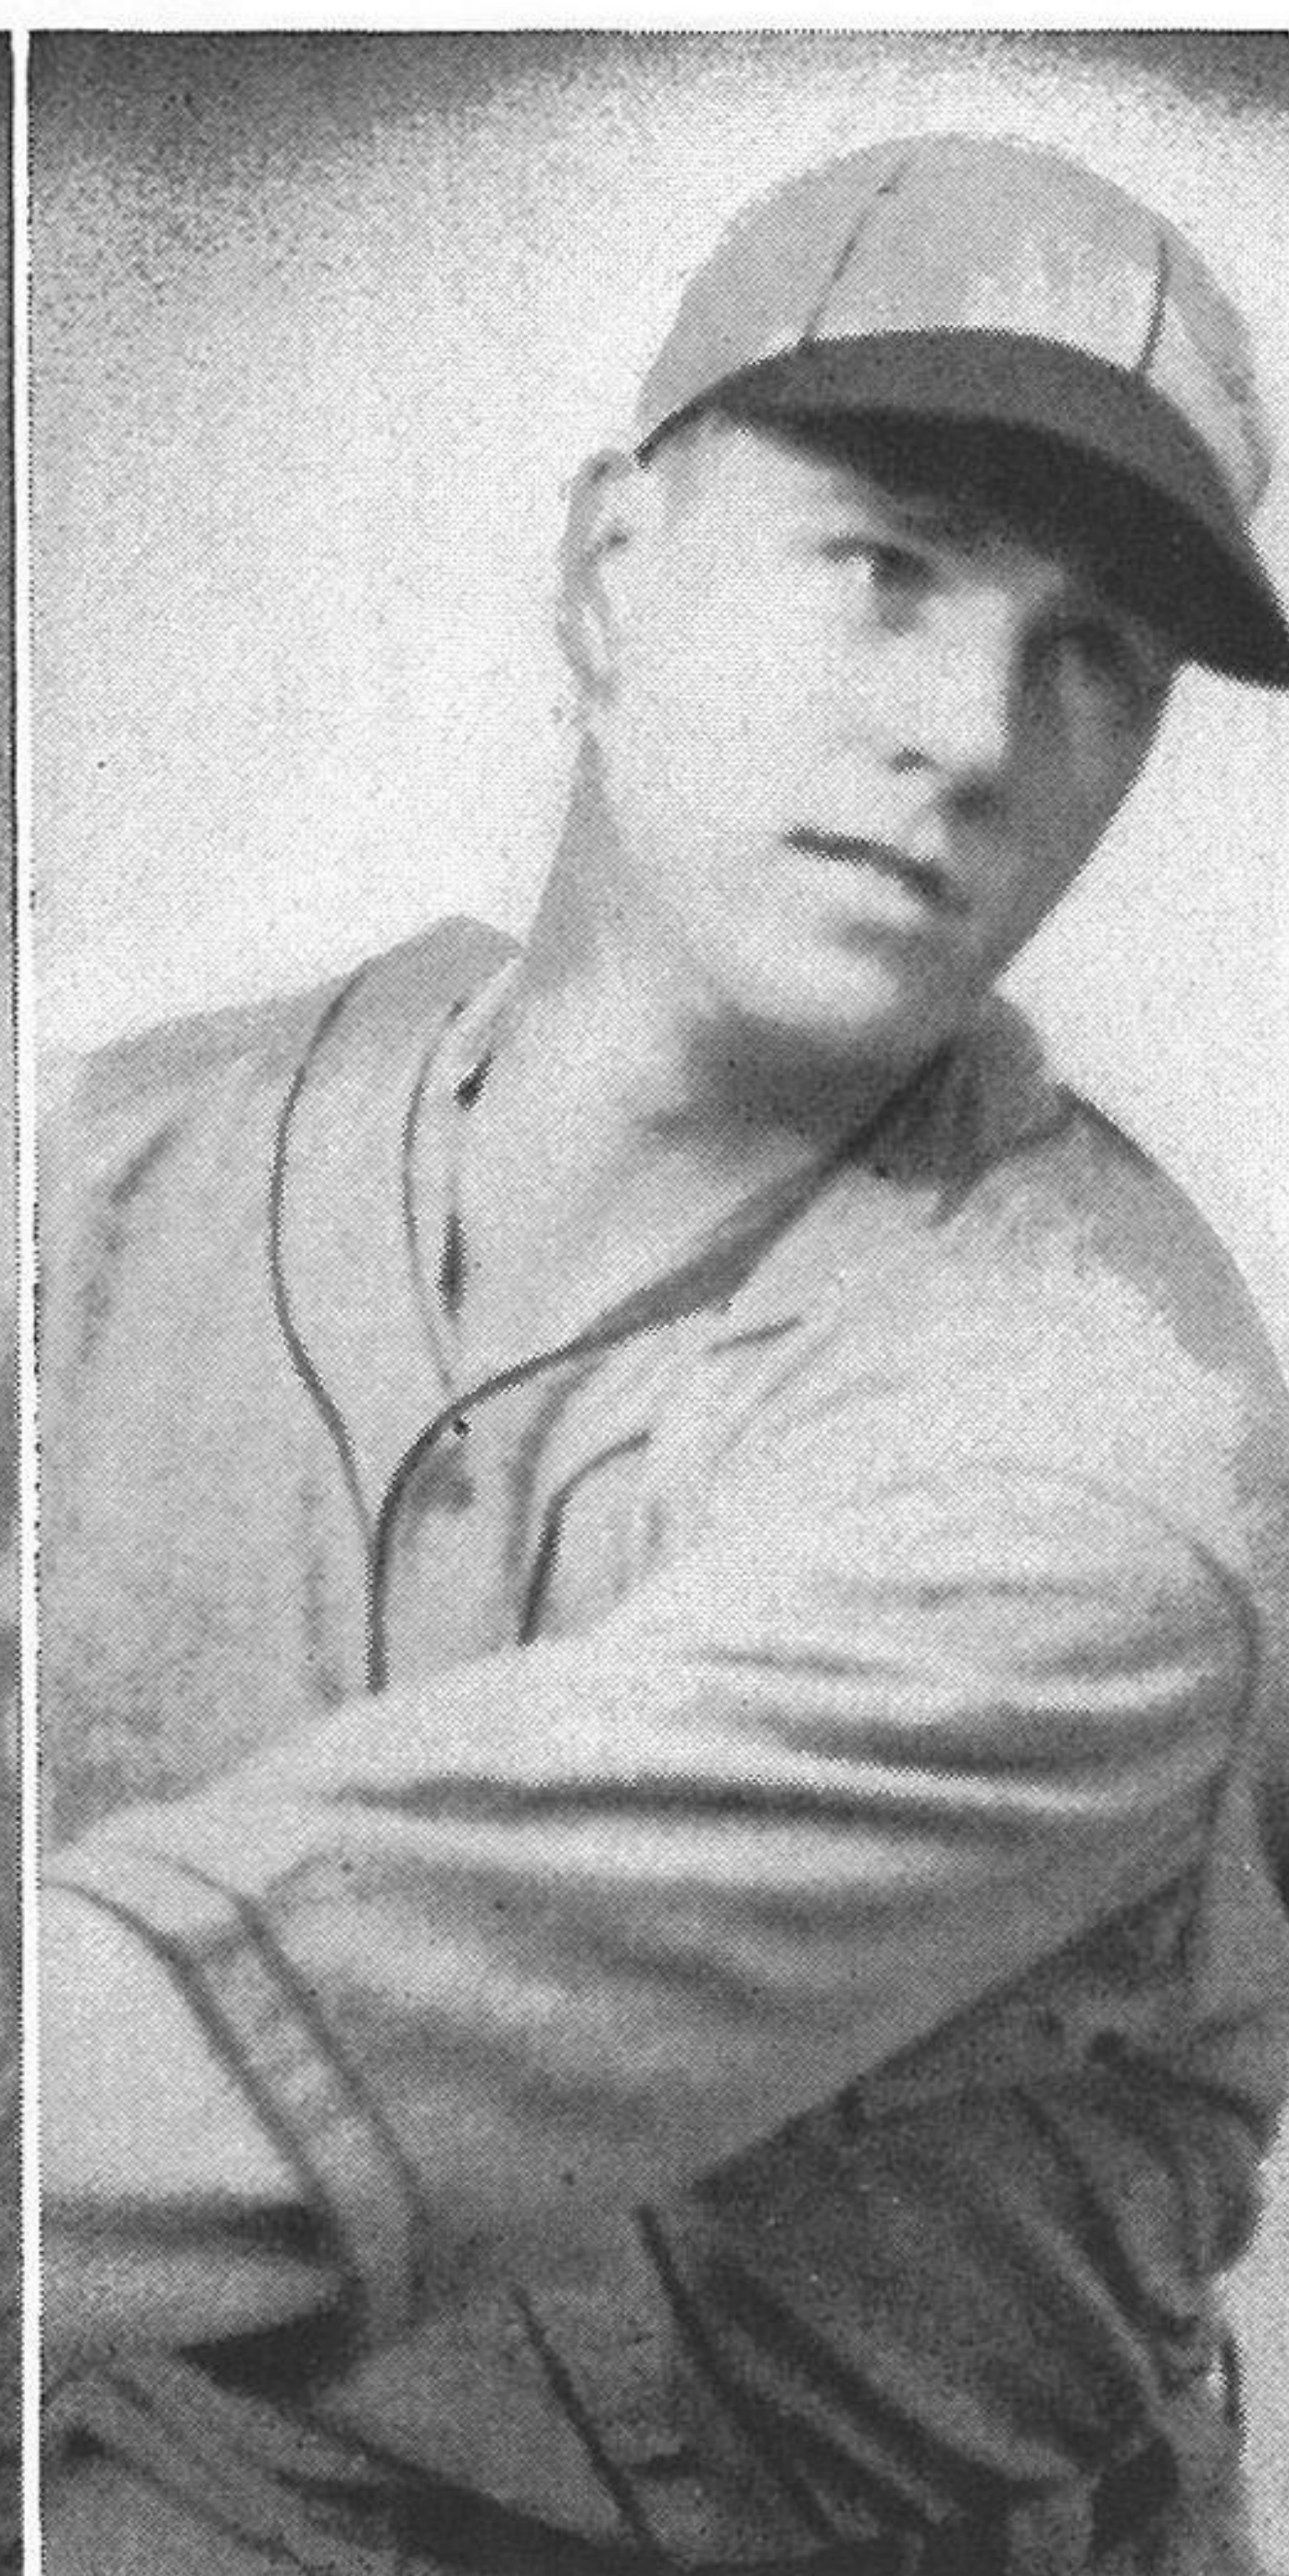

Other outstanding performers were hurlers Chet Johnson and Warren Sierer, and outfielder Dave Dobson. Johnson pitched fine ball throughout the year and lost several very close decisions besides taking his share of games.

Sierer pulled several battles out of the fire with excellent chucking and even filled in as an outfielder in one contest. Dobson was one of the most consistent offensive threats on the Husky club.

The Husky season opened in thrilling fashion when Graves' crew defeated the WSC Cougars in a tense 5-4 clash in the conference curtain-raiser. Slim Warren Sierer occupied the starring role as twice his sweeping curves choked off threatening WSC rallies. However, the heavy-hitting Pullman-ites came back to win the next tussle by a wide margin.

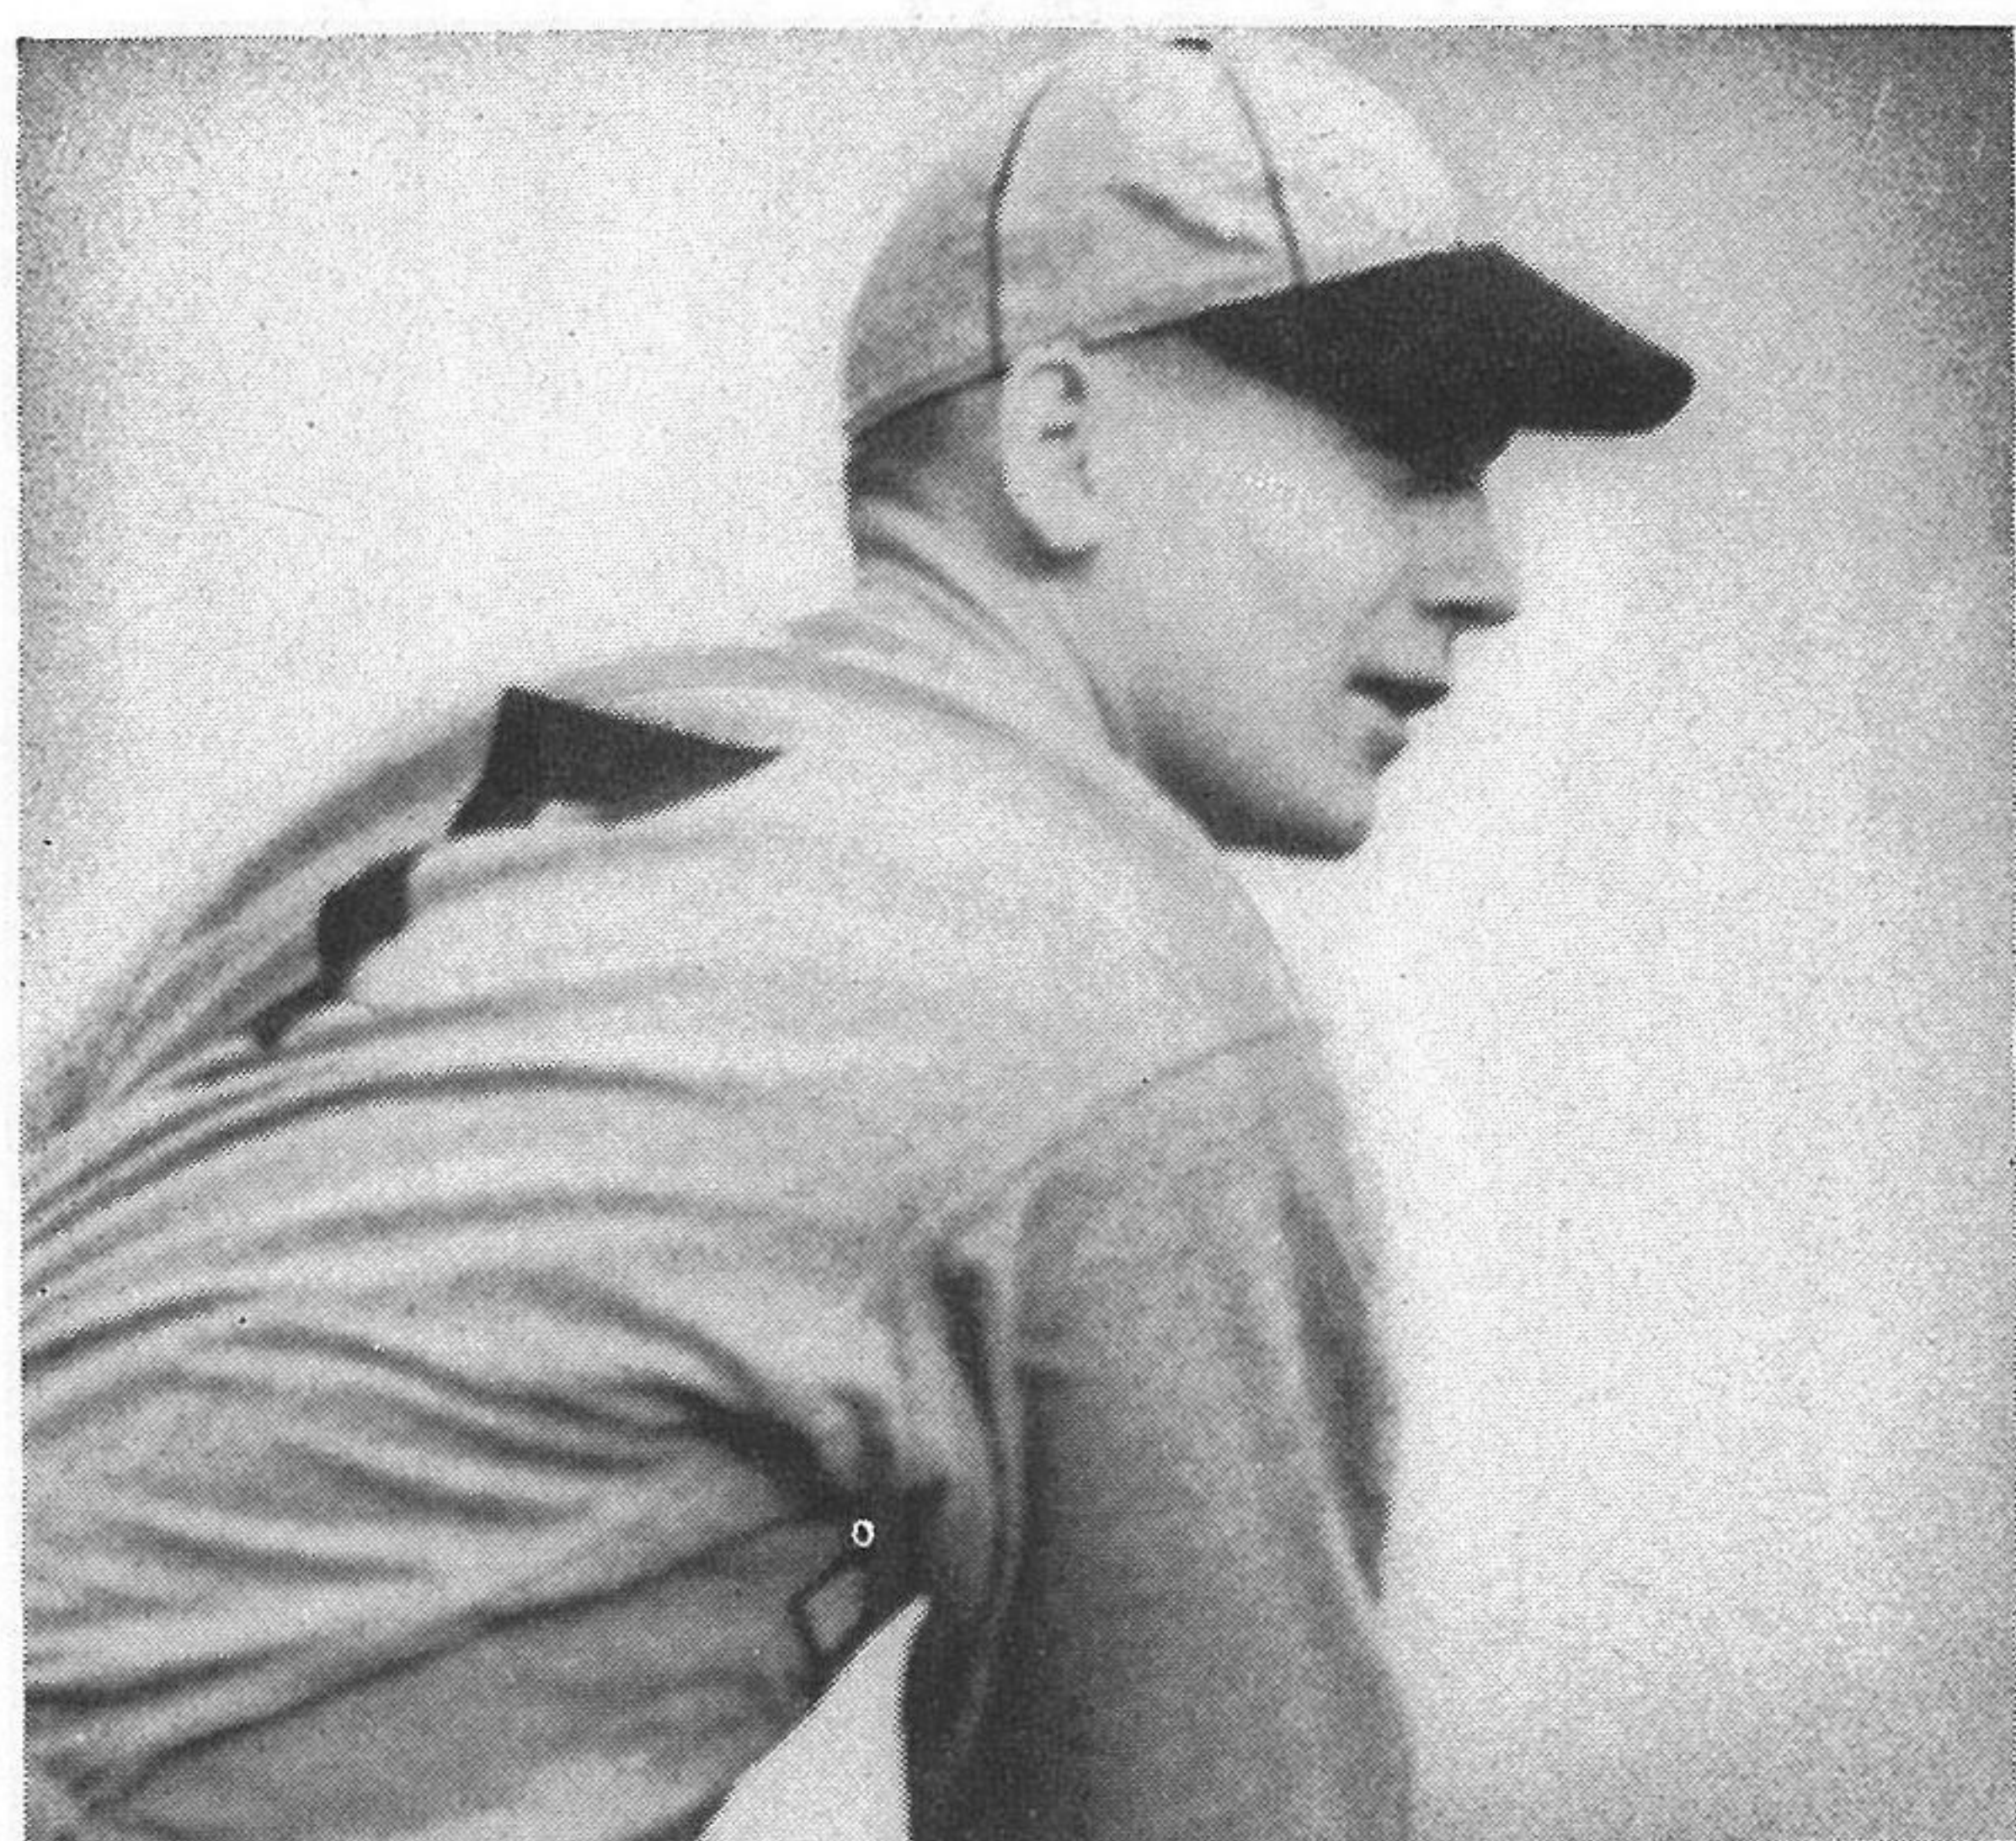

The Idaho Vandals next invaded the Washington bailiwick and took two hard-fought decisions to send Graves' team tumbling into the cellar. The Huskies played good ball but the Idaho offense, paced by towering first sacker Rook Hilton, pounded out close victories.

The local contingent then hit the road and split a series with the Oregon State Beavers at Corvallis. Sierer again hurled the Huskies to their lone victory as Graves' outfit pounded two Orange chuckers from the hill. However, the road trip ended disastrously when the Oregon Ducks took two decisions from the injury-riddled Huskies to send the Purple and Gold deep into last place.

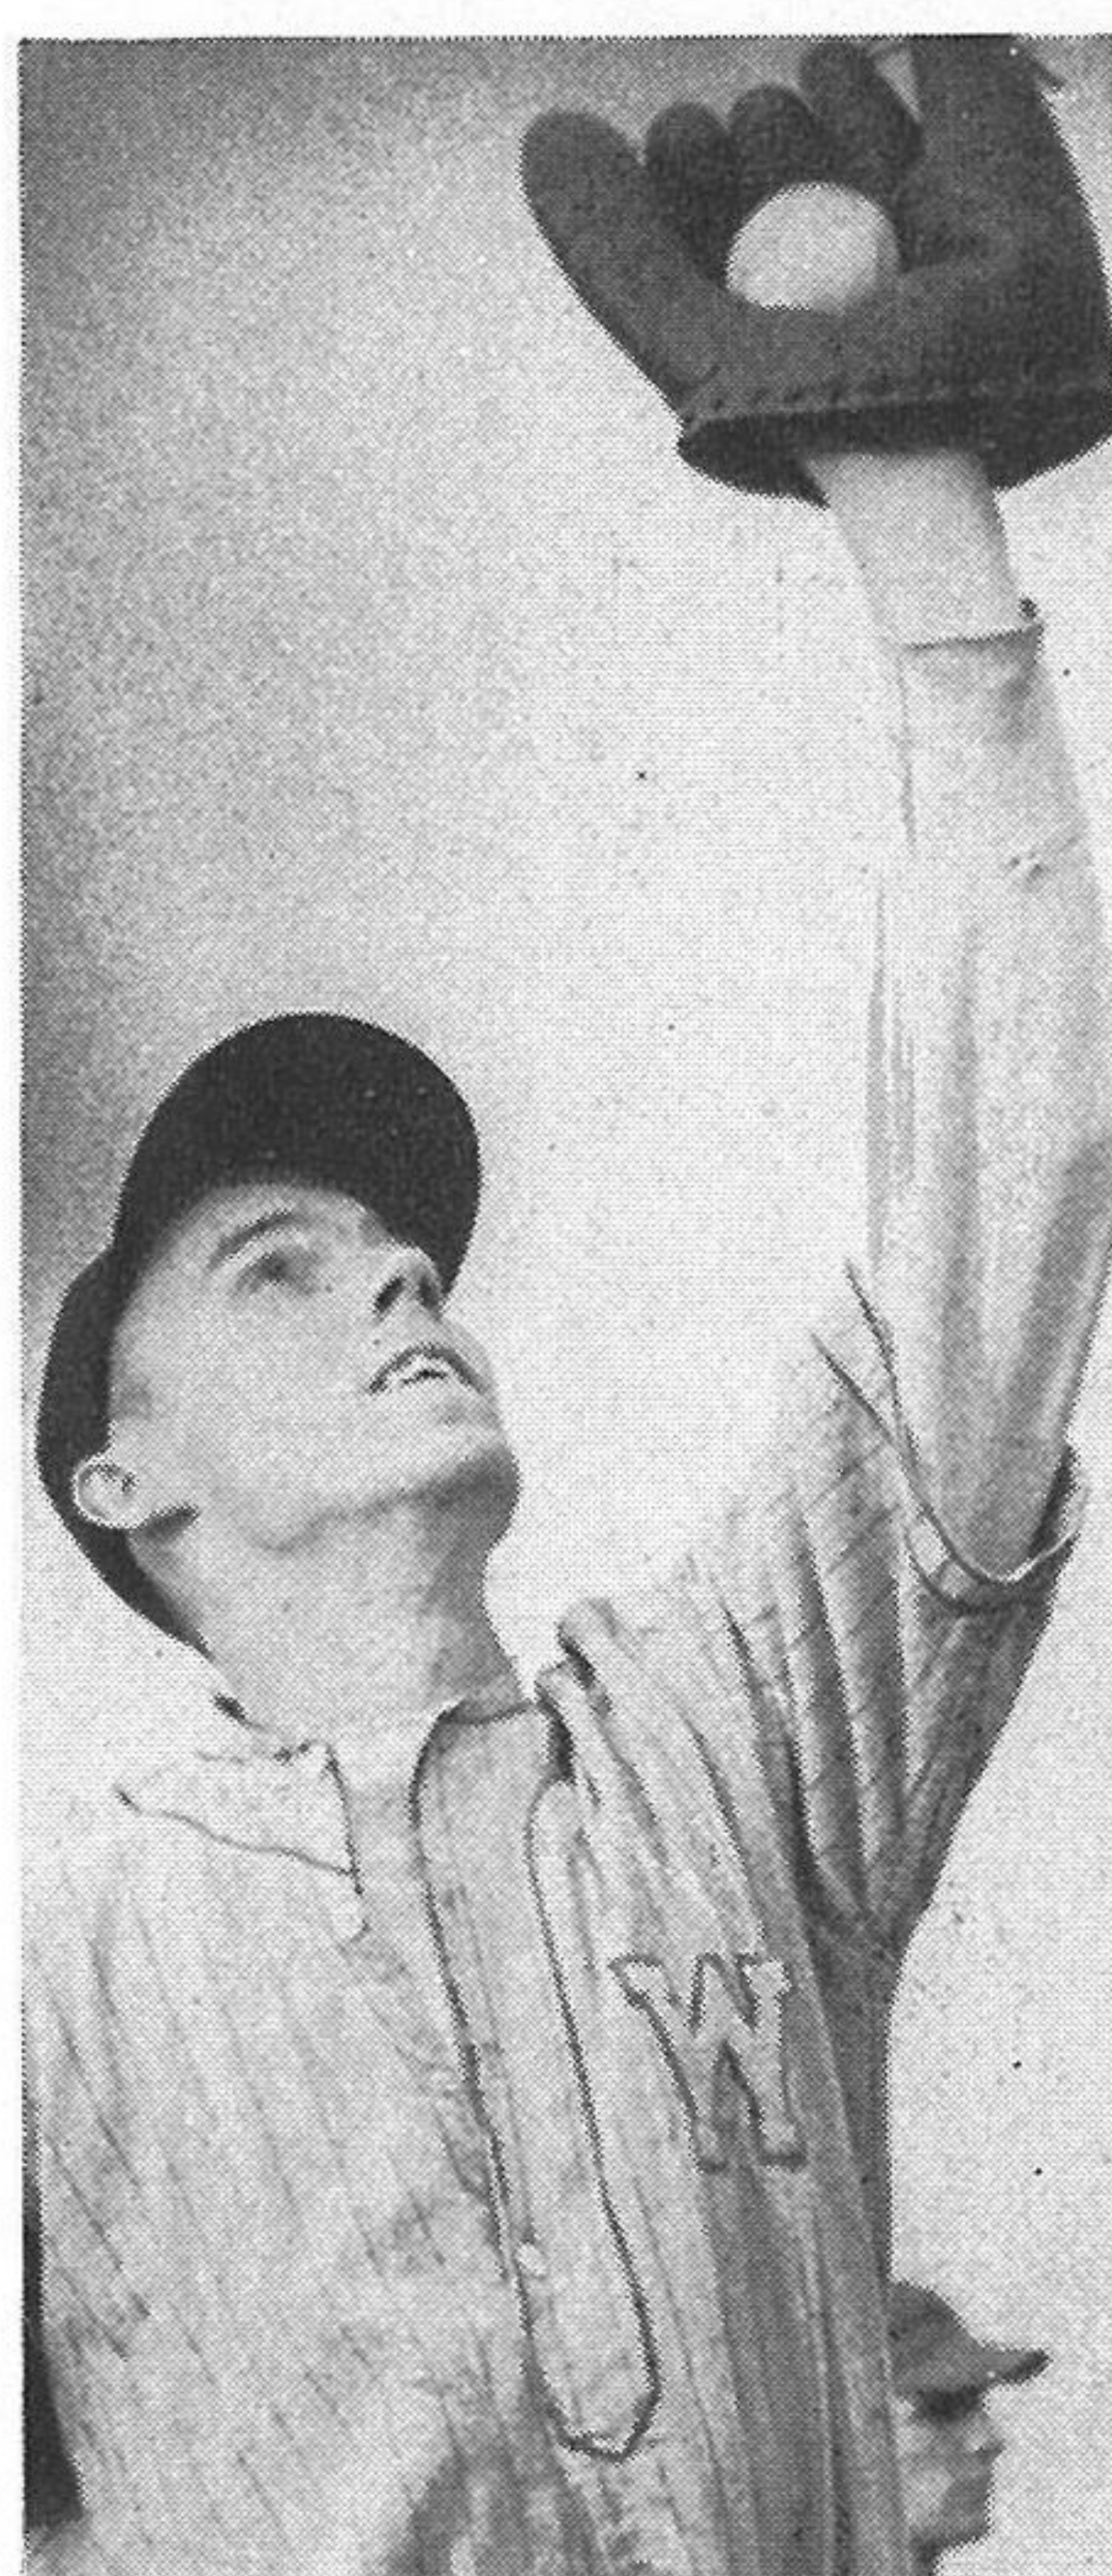

The Huskies returned home and Howard Hobson's Oregonians returned their visit to Eugene by taking two more games from Graves' team on the local diamond. The Ducks practically cinched first place in the conference standings by their double victory.

But then the Washington machine began hitting on all cylinders. With superlative hurling jobs from Sam Baker and another southpaw, Chet Johnson, the Huskies proceeded to spank the Oregon State team twice and to begin an upward swing.

Hitting the road for the tough Palouse invasion, the Huskies were determined to better their conference standing before the season's close. And they did it—beating the Idaho Vandals twice at Moscow to send Forrest Twogood's club into the cellar spot. Then with a chance to climb into third place, the horsehidors moved to Pullman, but fumbled their chance when they lost two heart-breaking contests to the second-place Cougars.

Co-Capt. George Ziegenfuss received the Torrance Inspirational award at the close of the season. Left-handed hurler Chet Johnson was the only Husky to go into professional ball and the capable portsider signed with the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League soon after graduation. Other seniors were Co-Capt. Bud Pripp and Johnny Pyfer.

Lettermen included Sam Baker, Bob Larson, Dave Dobson, Warren Sierer, George Ziegenfuss, Joe Kesamaru, Bobbie Shafer, John Pyfer, Tony Gasparovich, Bud Pripp, Jack Frost, Cal Jorgensen, Walt Peltola, Homer Spencer, Ed Milliken, Chet Johnson and Joe Wittman.

FROSH BASEBALL

Winning eleven games handily, while dropping two thrillers, Len Stevens' frosh baseball nine showed they had the stuff to go under the big tent this year.

Three freshmen hit above the .400 mark, with the combined squad pounding the ball hard and overpowering opponents. Art King, third-baseman, rattled enemy fences to the tune of .511. Chasing him for batting honors were Emmett Watson, catcher, .465, and Lou Monti, centerfielder, .425. A burst of late season singles clinched the lead for King, a converted outfielder who seemed to like his new station.

Blond Ted Ford, a second transferred outfielder, won four games from the pitching slab with his jitterbug curves. Ford's highlight moment of play came in the last week of play, when after throwing a nine-inning victory on Saturday against Everett, cross state champions, he shot back on the following Monday with a three-hit winning performance against Franklin, Seattle city titlists.

Ralph Cummings, a tall Montana boy, and Bob Harris, a Bellingham speed ball artist, grabbed two victories apiece.

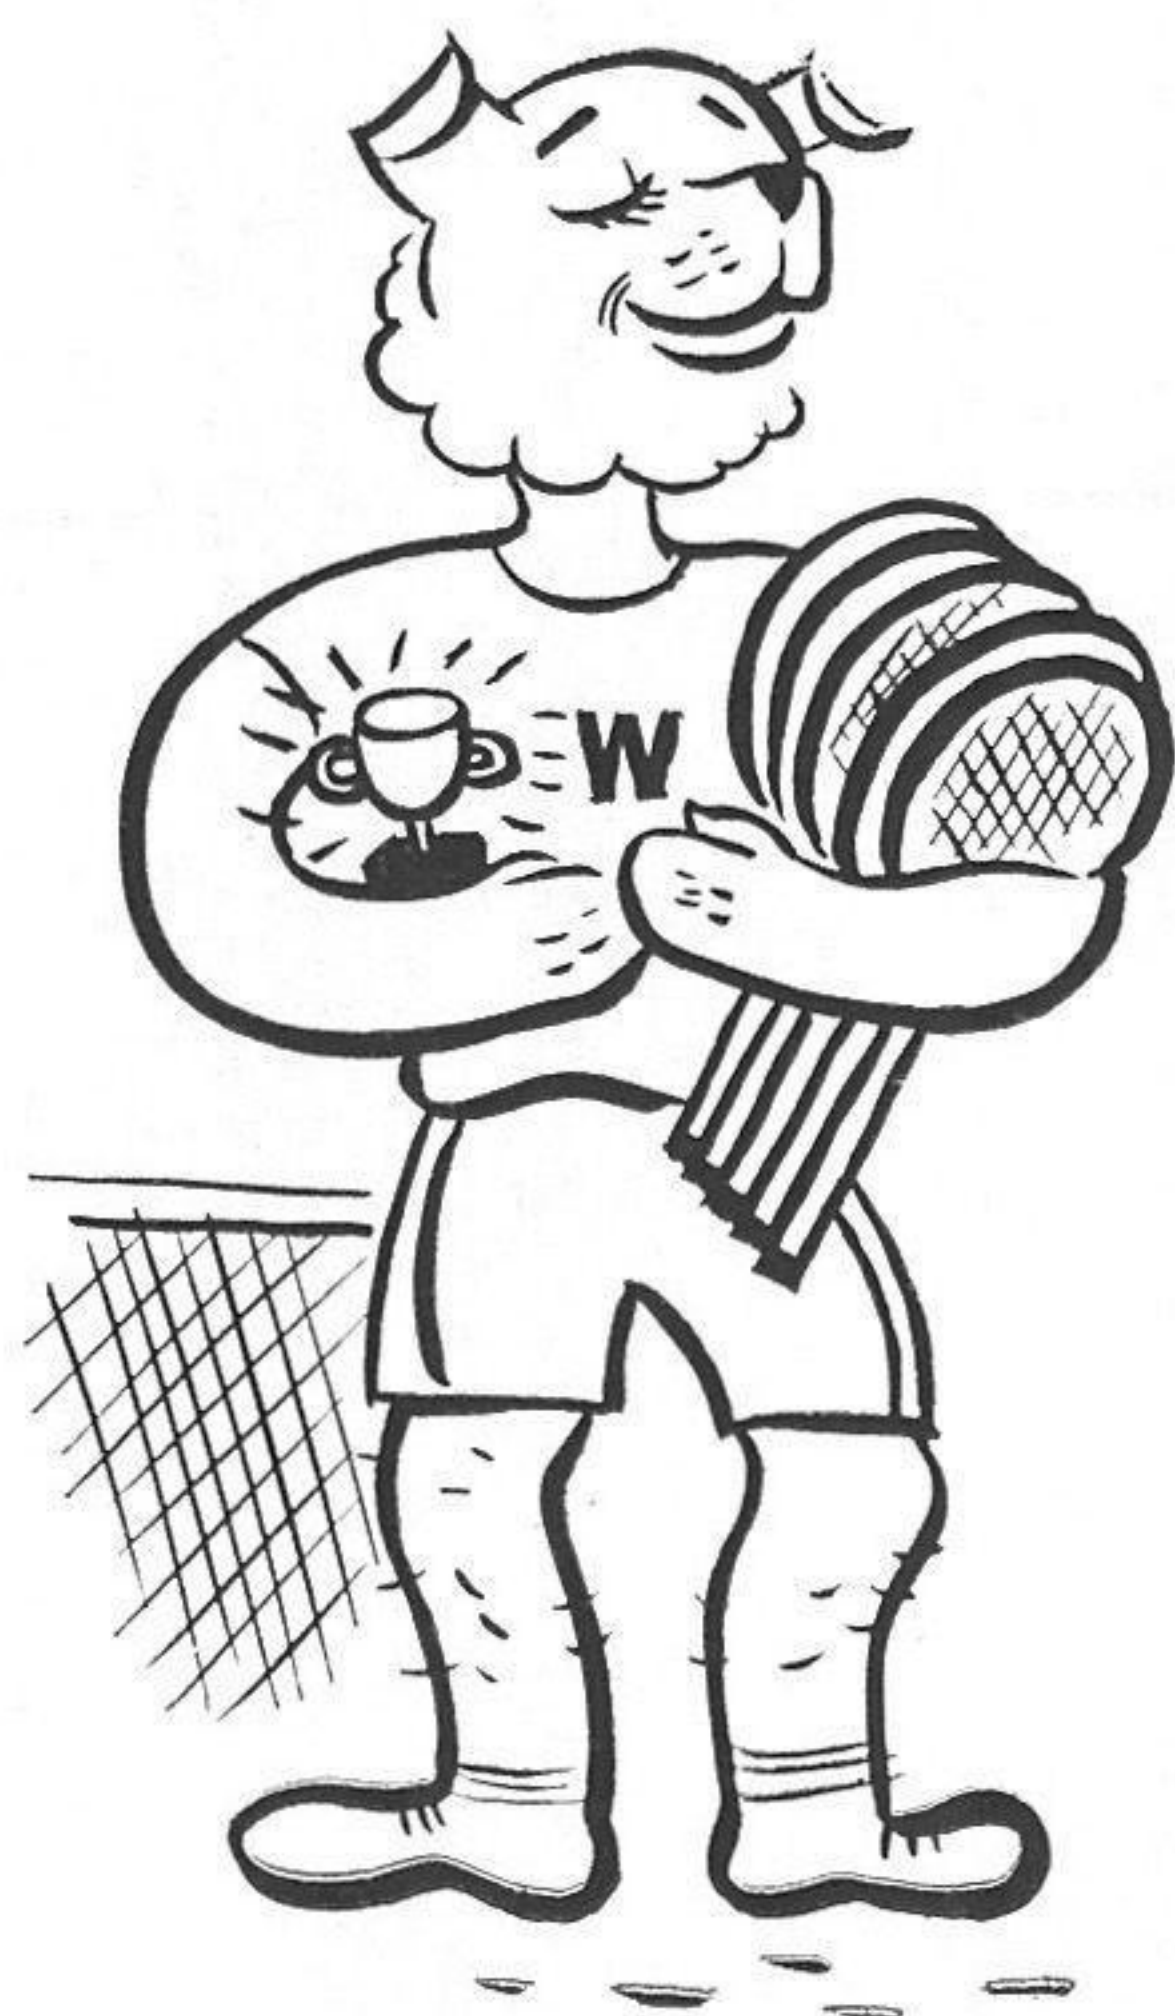

Defensively, the whole team played a wide-awake brand of ball. Bottle-built Walt Milroy at first base and peppery Cy Stephens at second gave Len Stevens one of the strongest right-side infields he has coached. Back of the plate, Emmett Watson had a shotgun arm, while all three outfielders were fleet and dependable.

Top wins of the 1939 campaign were triumphs over the strong Franklin team, the hustling Everett aggregation, and their rival of the first water, St. Martin's college, down in Lacey, Washington.

FOR the second straight year, Coach Jack Torney's varsity tennis squad won the Northern Division net crown from Oregon State.

The squad went through an undefeated season, but classy Byron Page, the Northern Division singles champion of 1938, lost his first match since he began competing for the University of Washington.

Archie LeRoux, a transfer from Whitman College, was the big surprise package of the Husky tennis team. The tall transfer, playing top notch tennis, copped the Northern Division singles crown from teammate Page, 6-3, 6-0, 6-0, at Pullman in the final conference meet.

Big W winners included Byron Page, George Ravenscroft, Archie LeRoux, Bill Killingsworth, Curtis Coons, Bill Cate, and Dick Betts. LeRoux and Cate, who were both transfers, graduated.

LeRoux and Ravenscroft were the mainstays of the squad during the season. LeRoux's steady playing was responsible for wins during an important Oregon invasion; and Ravenscroft, the "mighty atom" also turned in a heady game all season.

During the season, the Huskies beat Oregon State four matches to three, Oregon University four matches to three, WSC seven matches to love and Idaho seven matches to love.

In the Northern Division finals at Pullman, Washington scored eleven points, Oregon State eight points, Oregon seven, Idaho four, and WSC only two.

Coach "Genial Jack" Torney's teams are picked out as the teams to beat at the beginning of each season by other coaches and the Huskies usually bear out their predictions. Torney took over the coaching reins seven years ago and has produced a championship outfit every year except 1937 when the title traveled to Corvallis with the Oregon State Beavers.

FRESHMAN TENNIS CHAMPS

Undefeated in 14 matches, one of the strongest frosh tennis teams in recent years compiled an imposing record during the '39 campaign.

Coach Jack Torney boasted such a powerful outfit that on several occasions he was able to split his team, play two high schools at the same time, and still overwhelm all opposition.

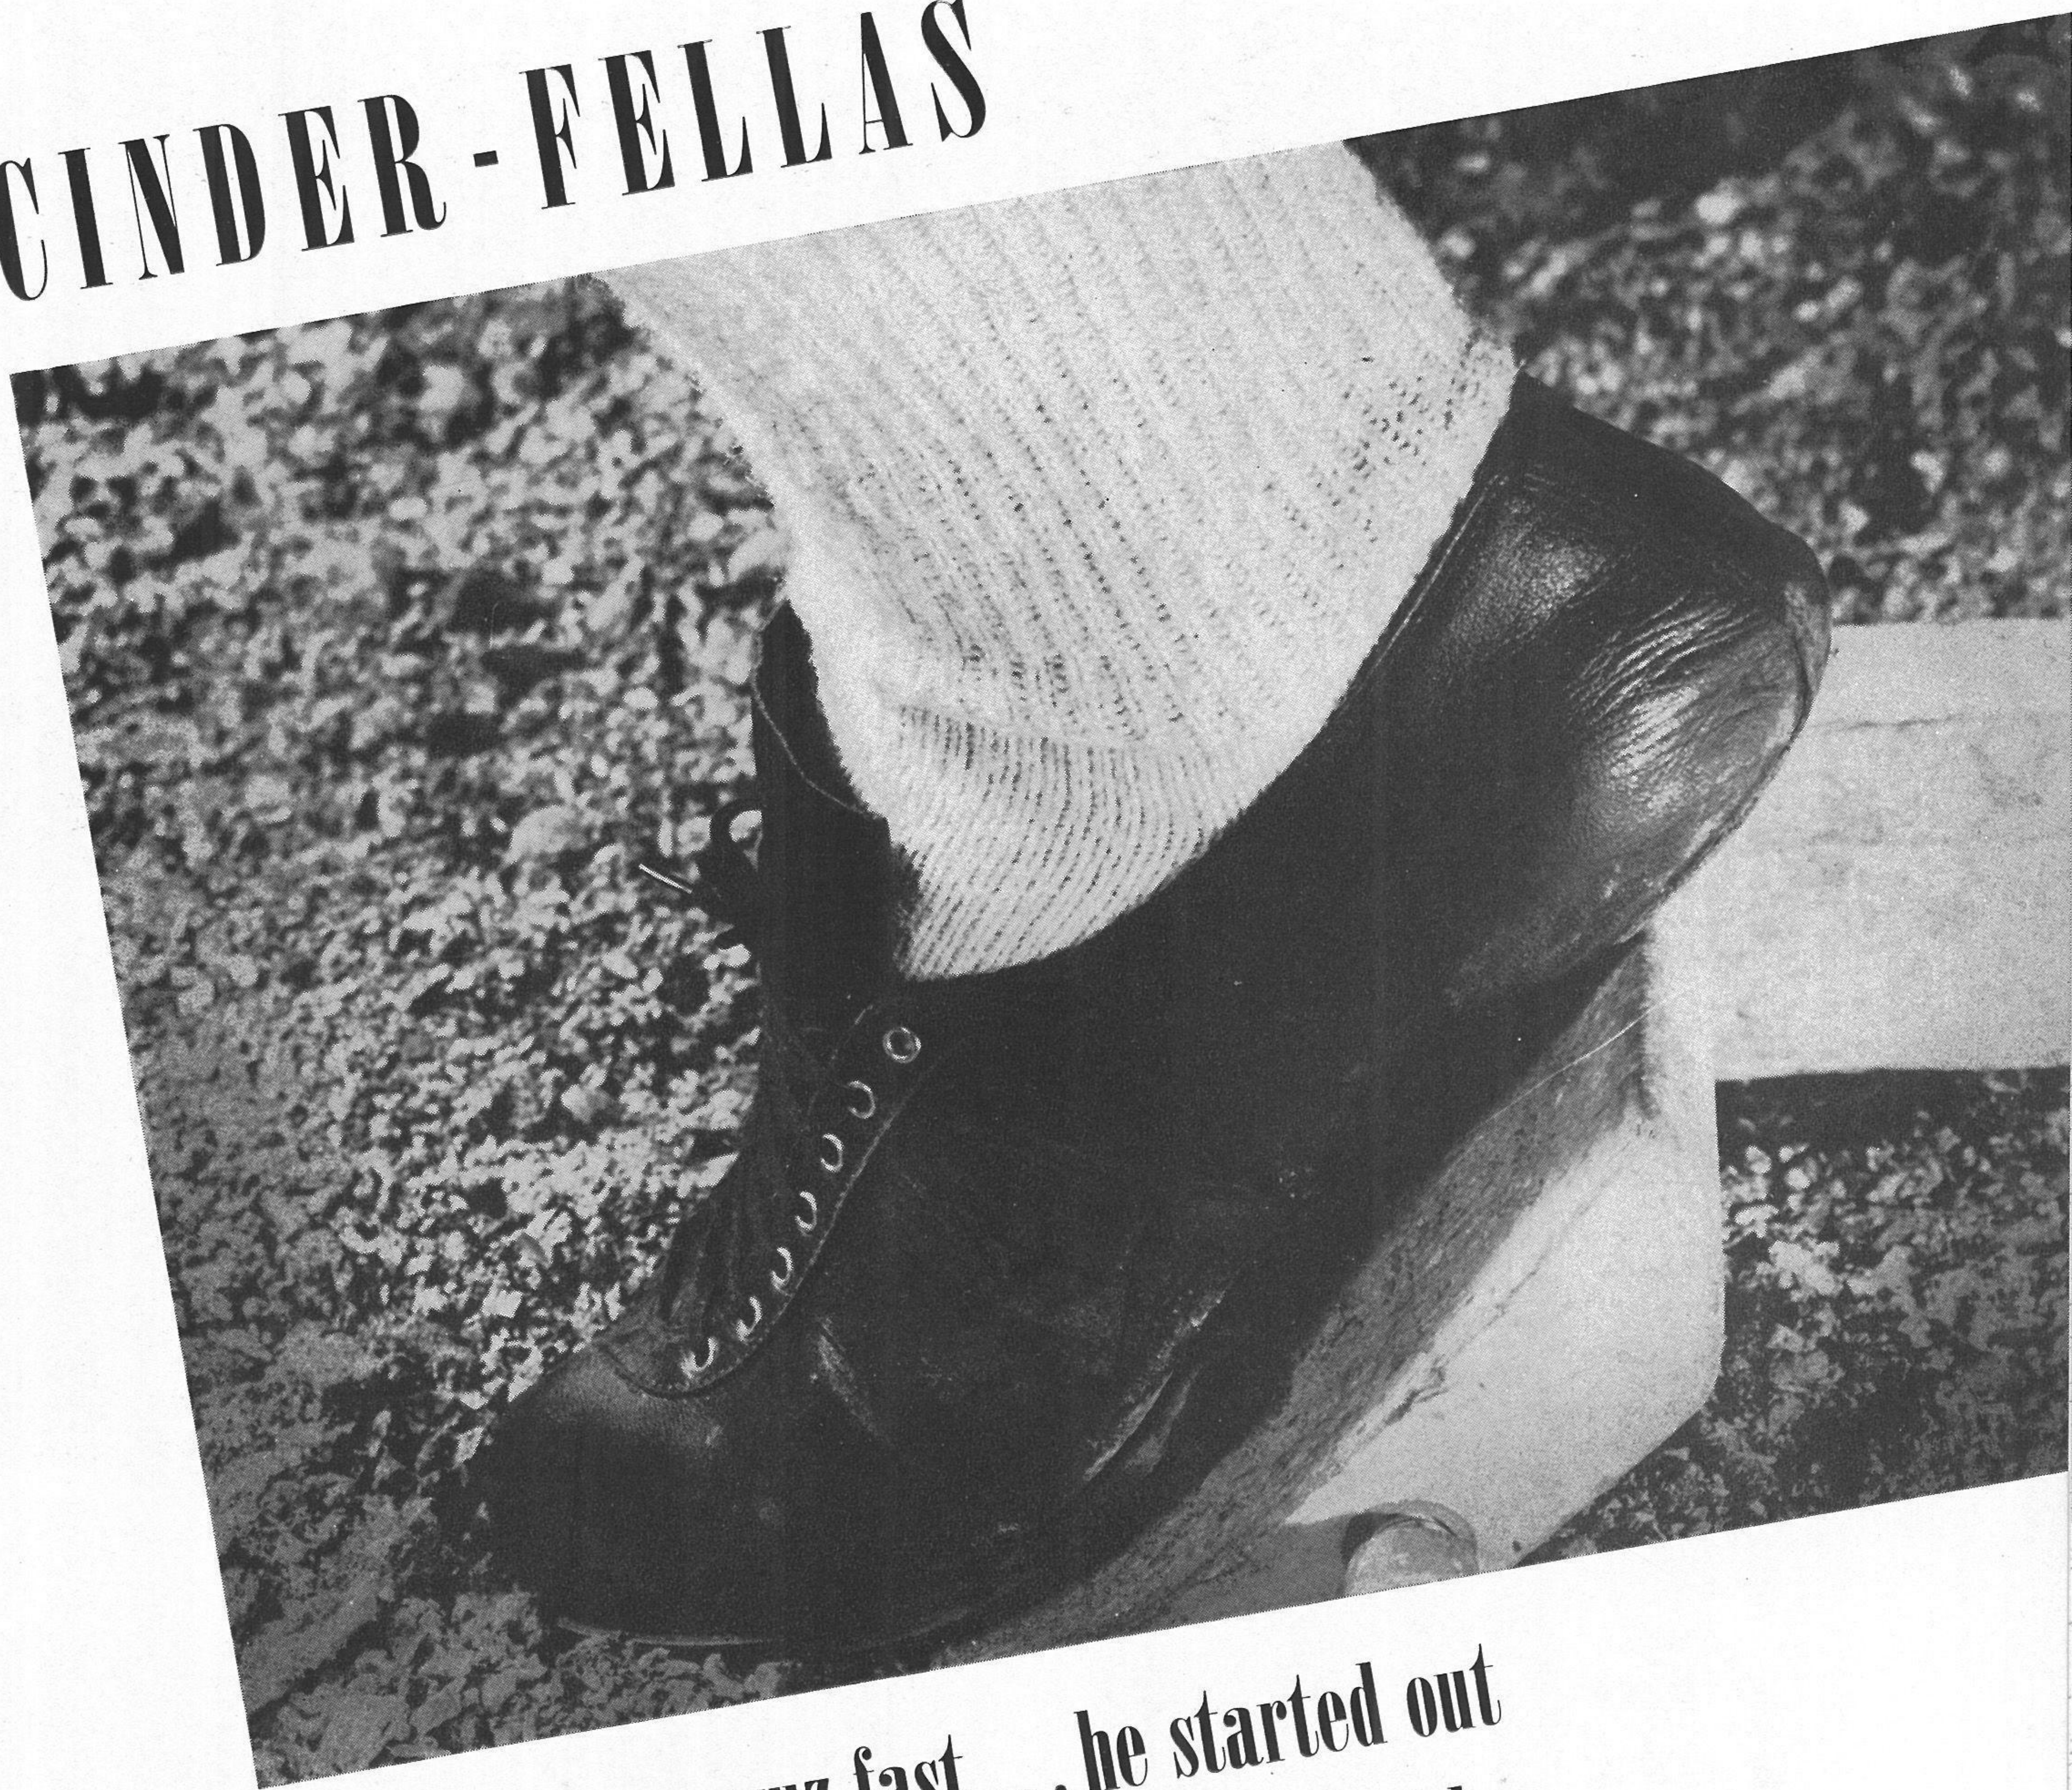

Leading racquetteer was Haller Peterson, former Broadway star. Torney labels Peterson as a cinch for a varsity berth this spring. Other aces who may fit into the regular lineup after posting fine records as frosh are Mel Forde and Art Holbrook.

Other numeral winners included Kirby Coryell, Jim Burgett, Roland Carey, Gene Kirsten, Ken Hilton, Henry Tallmadge, and Phil McBride. Several of these men also will make very definite bids for varsity berths this spring.

Included in the outfits that fell before the powerful yearling aggregation were Stadium and Lincoln from Tacoma and the strong team from Central Washington College of Education at Ellensburg. Stadium's Tigers were walloped twice.

Other prep teams that were defeated included Garfield, Roosevelt, Lincoln, Franklin, and Broadway, all of Seattle, and the Everett Seagull netsters.

Coach Hec Edmundson

WITH all title hopes dampened by a disheartening string of illnesses and injuries that struck almost every letterwinner on the squad at least once, the 1939 Husky track and field teams succumbed to the worst thinclad season ever endured at Washington in the 20-year reign of Coach Hec Edmundson.

For the first time since Edmundson took over the coaching of Purple and Gold tracksters in 1920 a Washington team failed to finish the year with a victory—for the first time in the same span the Husky lost to Oregon State's Beavers.

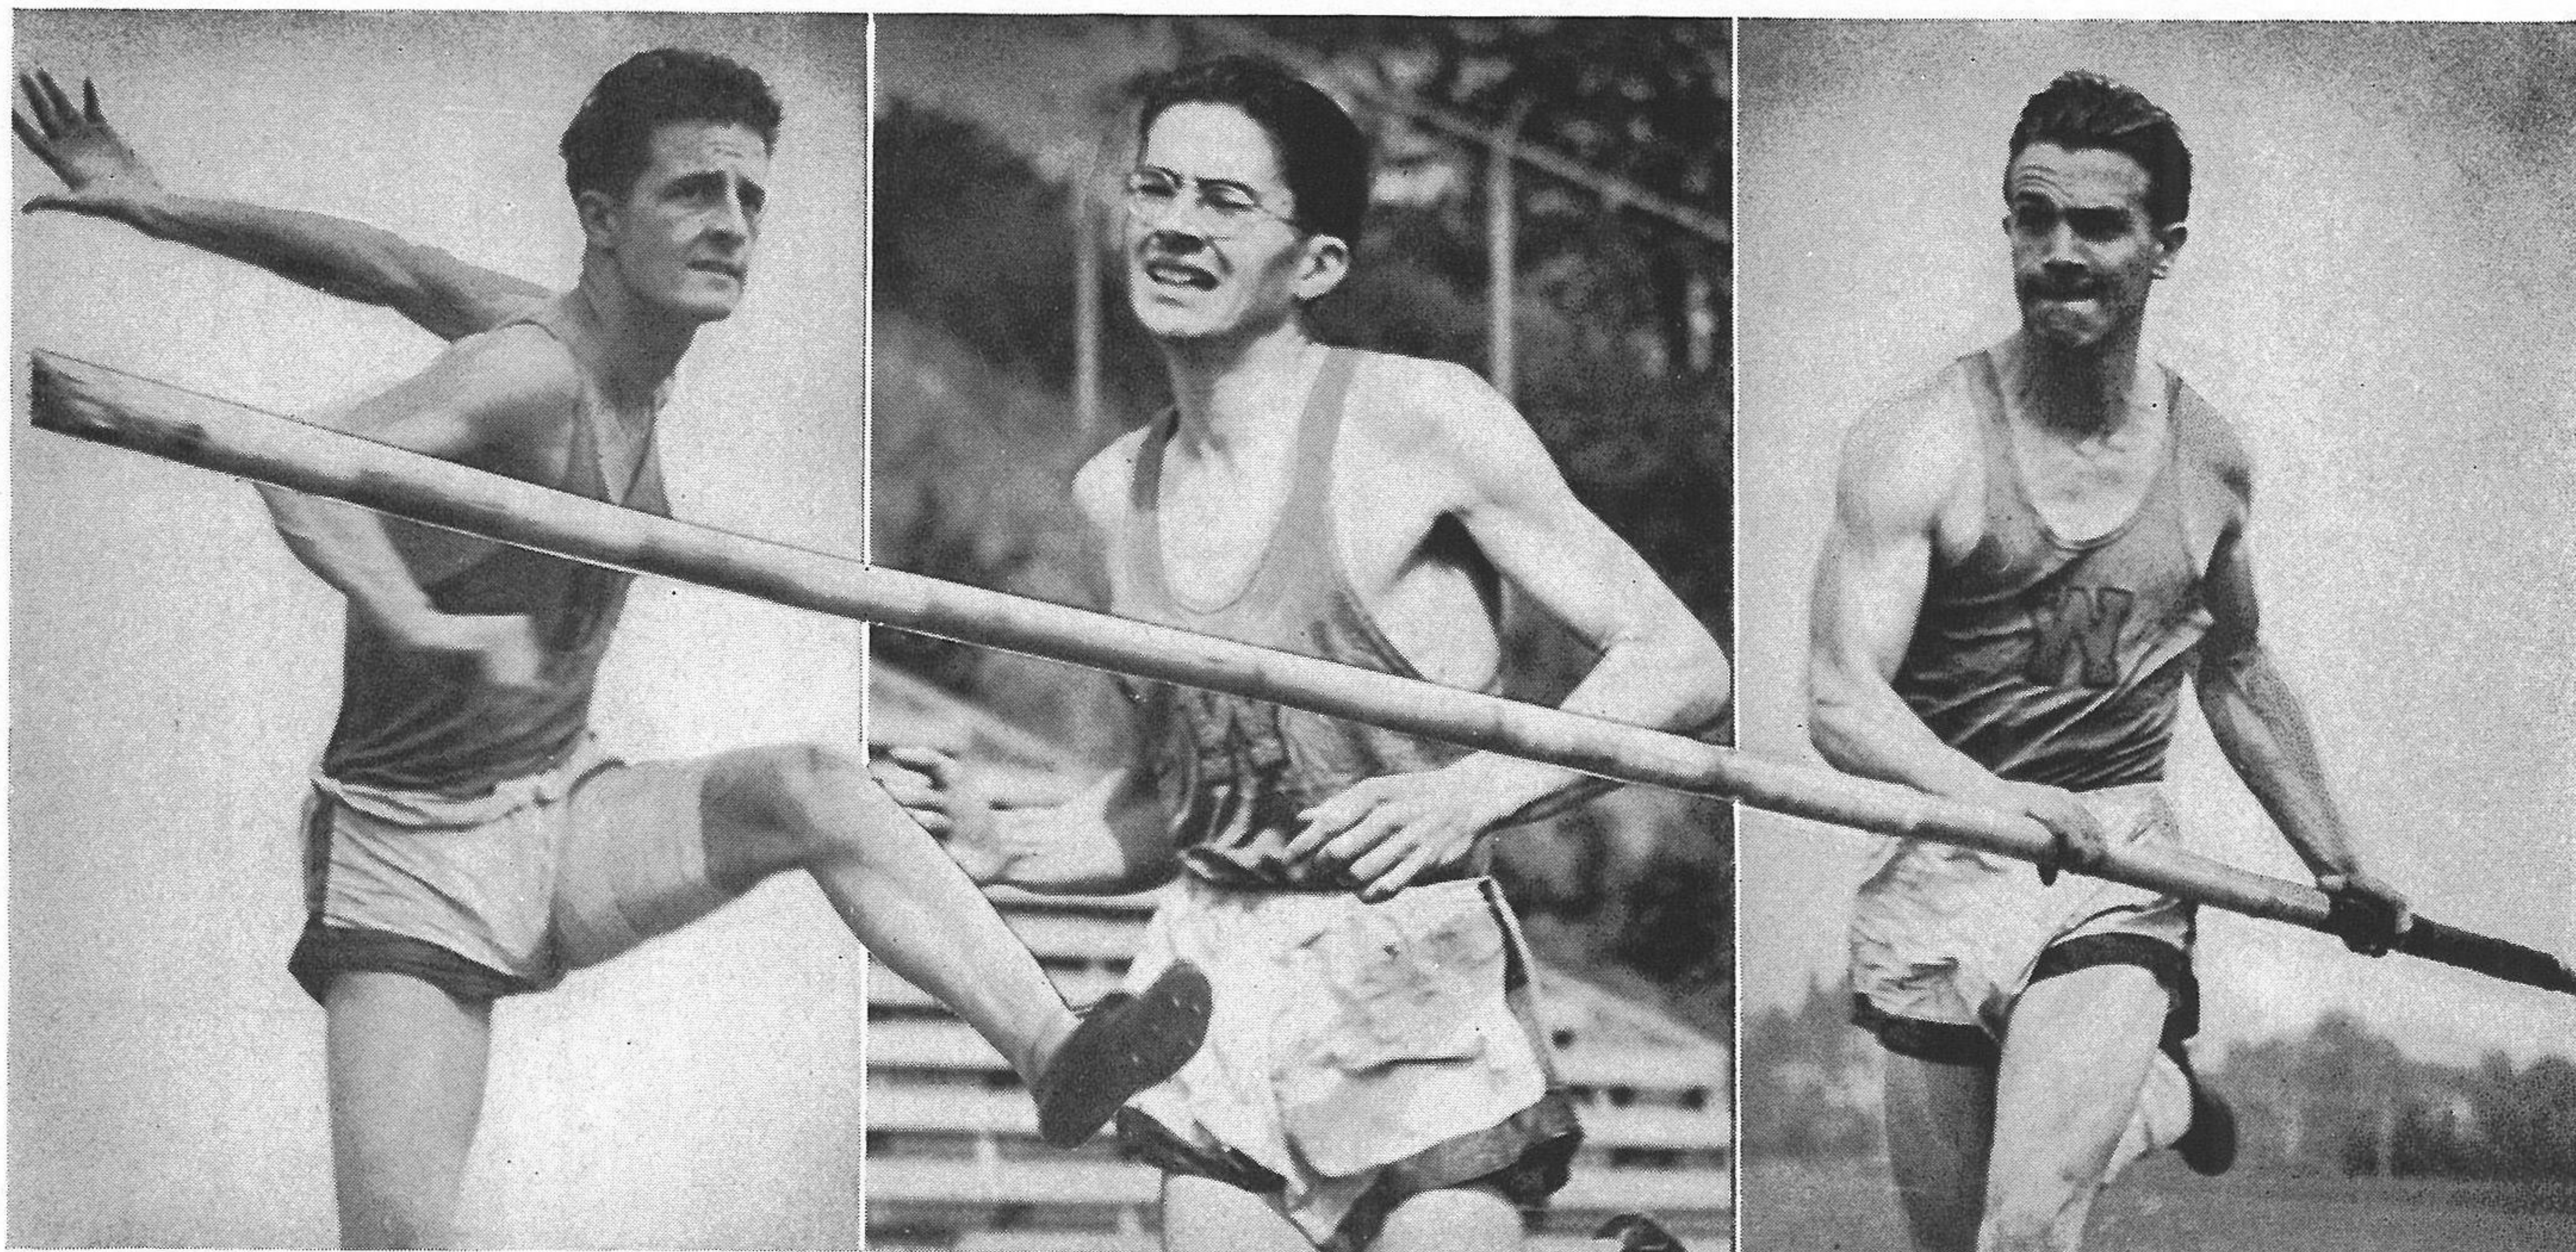

As fate would have it, Edmundson realized one of his dreams during a year when his thinclads were least fit to uphold Washington standards. On the afternoon of Saturday, May 20, the greatest collection of track and field stars ever to assemble in Seattle met in the annual Pacific Coast Conference Championships. Running true to form, USC easily defeated the field, with Washington finishing ninth, $\frac{1}{2}$ point ahead of Idaho.

The dismal season began on March 25 when California invaded the pavilion to run over the Purple and Gold 95-36. On April 7 and 8 the University of Washington was host to over 300 athletes in the inaugural Northern Division Relay Carnival. No official score was kept in these relays.

With only a week of outdoor training behind them the Husky squad absorbed the worst beating ever administered a Washington track team when Stanford ran up an 110 $\frac{1}{6}$ -20 $\frac{5}{6}$ victory in Palo Alto April 15.

Inaugurating their Northern Division season April 29 in the stadium, the Huskies fell before Oregon 73-58, and a week later traveled to Corvallis where they succumbed to OSC, 76 $\frac{1}{2}$ -54 $\frac{1}{2}$, for the first Beaver victory since 1919.

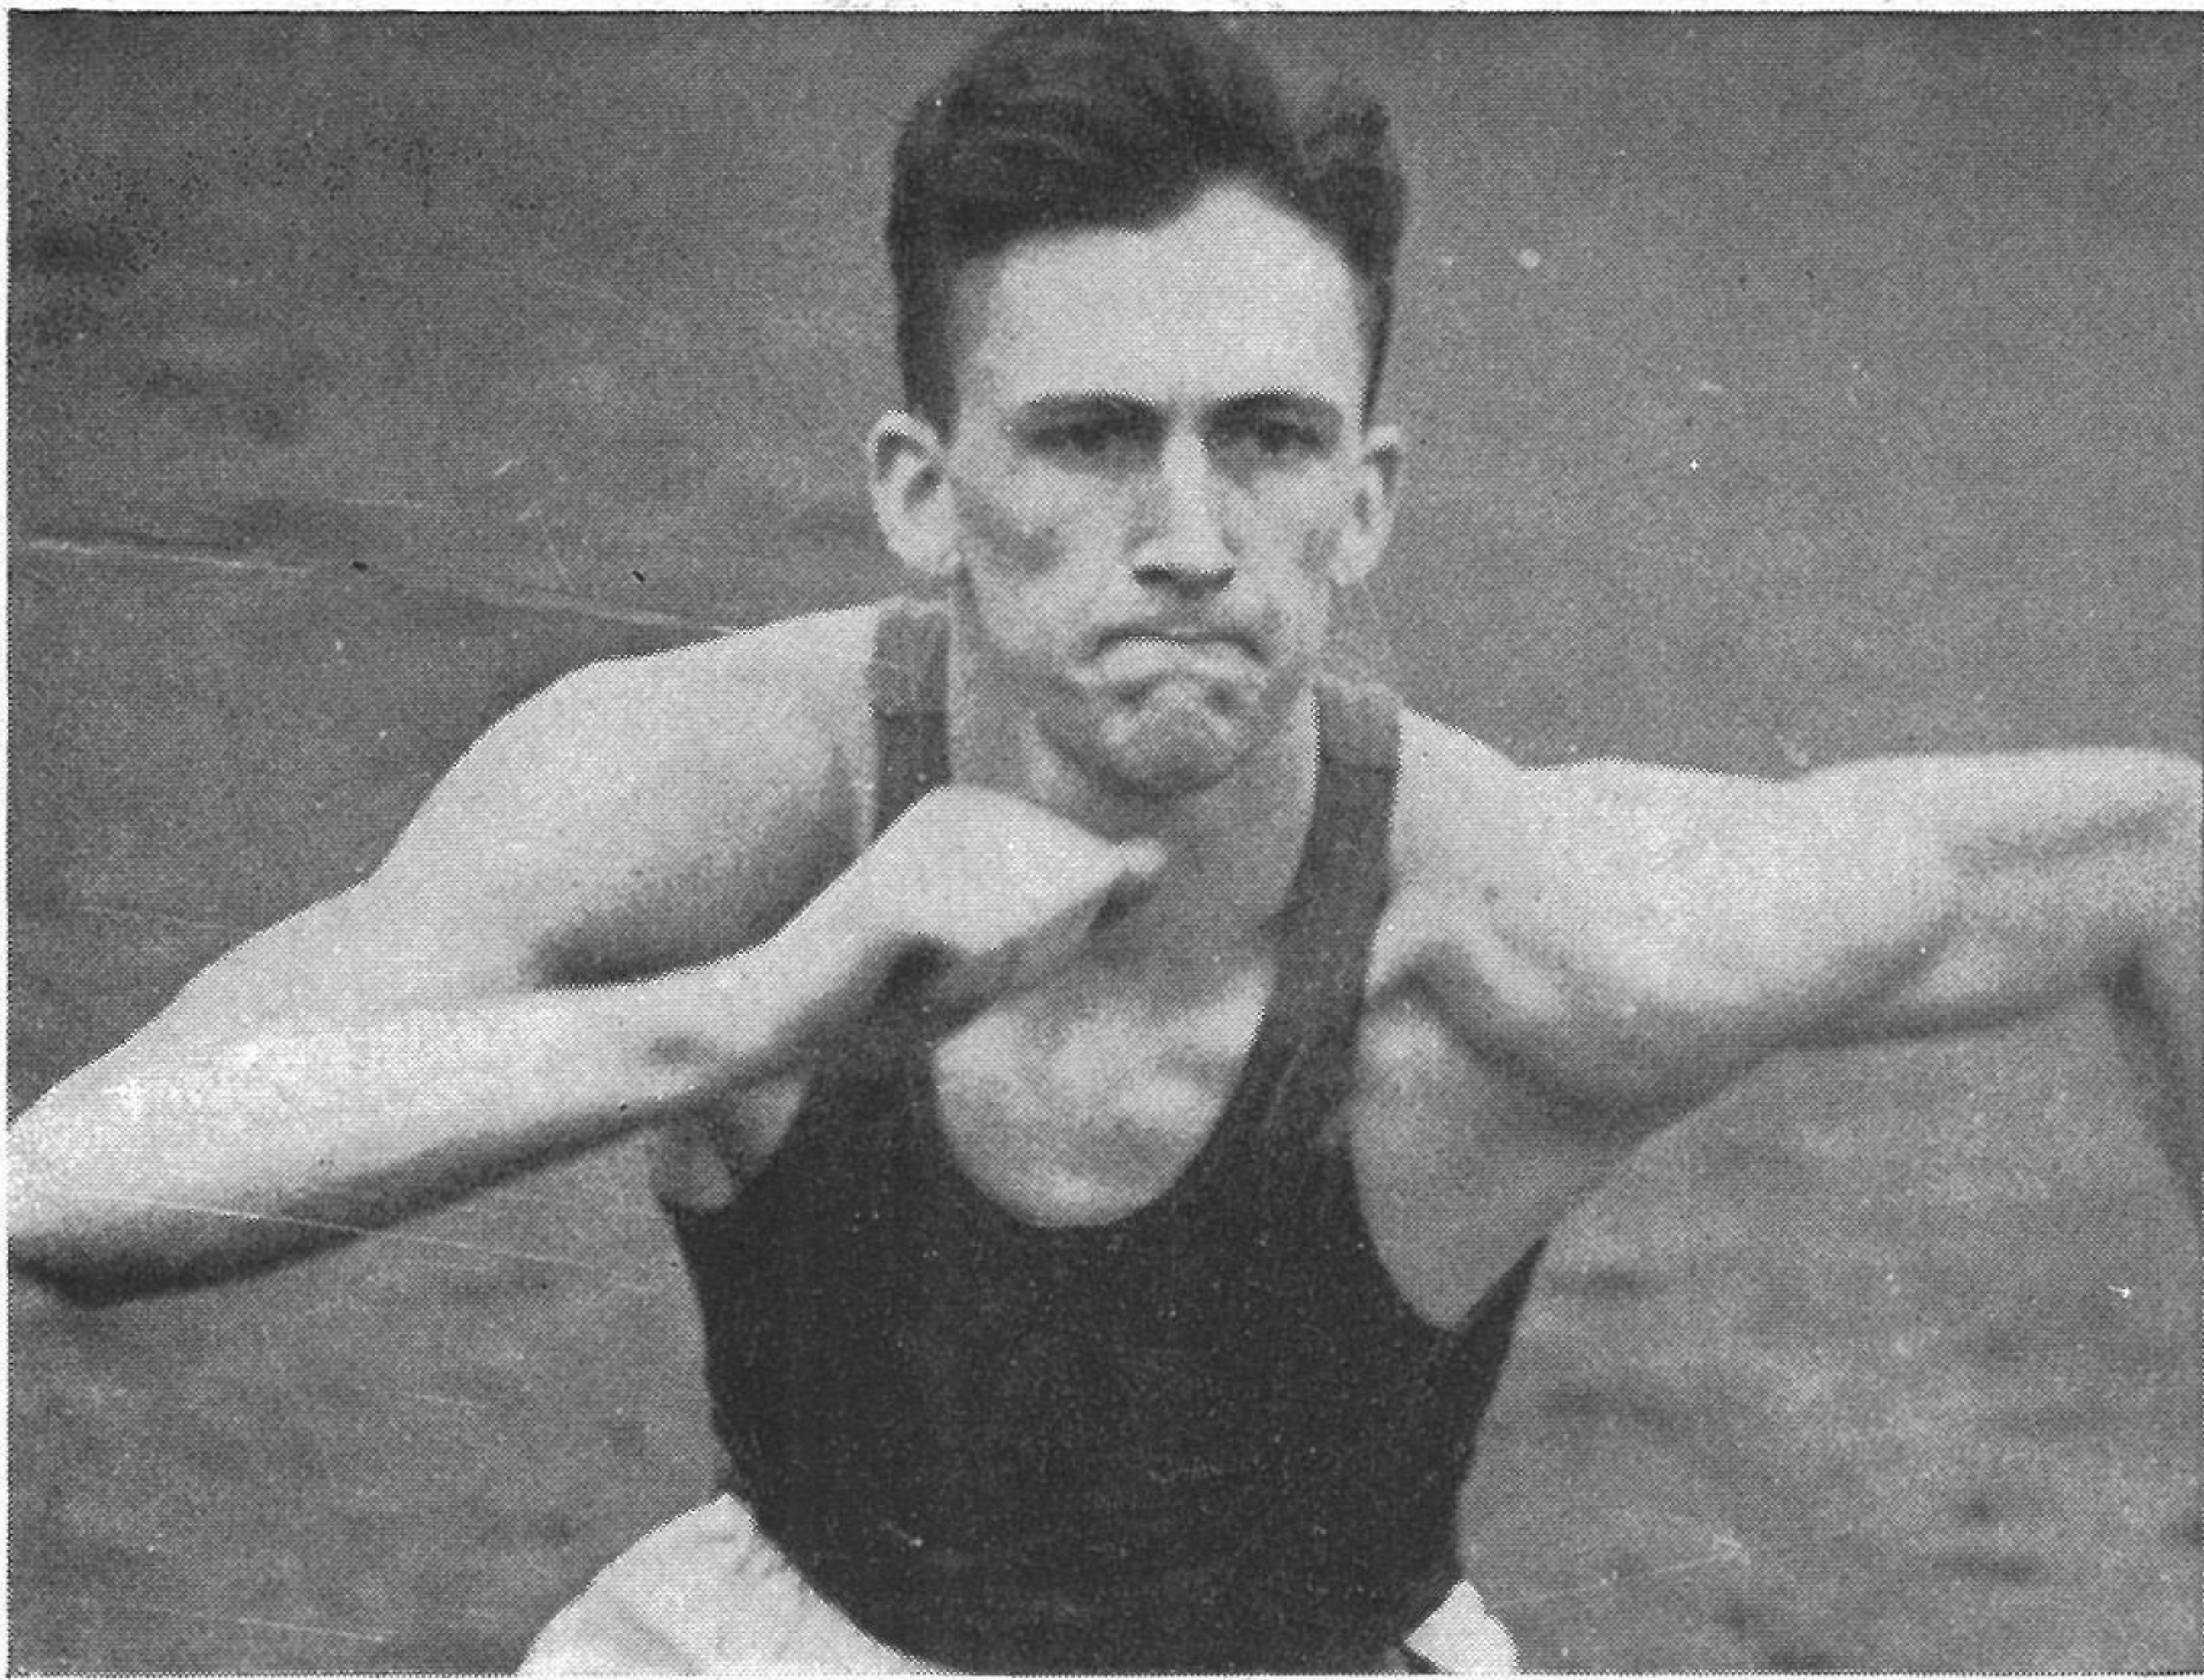

Then followed a poor 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ point showing in the Northern Division meet at Pullman

May 13, good enough for last place. On May 27 as an anti-climax to the previously related PCC meet, WSC reentered the stadium and proved their Northwest superiority by trouncing the downtrodden Huskies, 87-44, the largest score ever run up against Washington by the Pullmanites. Capt. Jack Flagg and Dick Montgomery represented the team in the NCA meet in June but went scoreless.

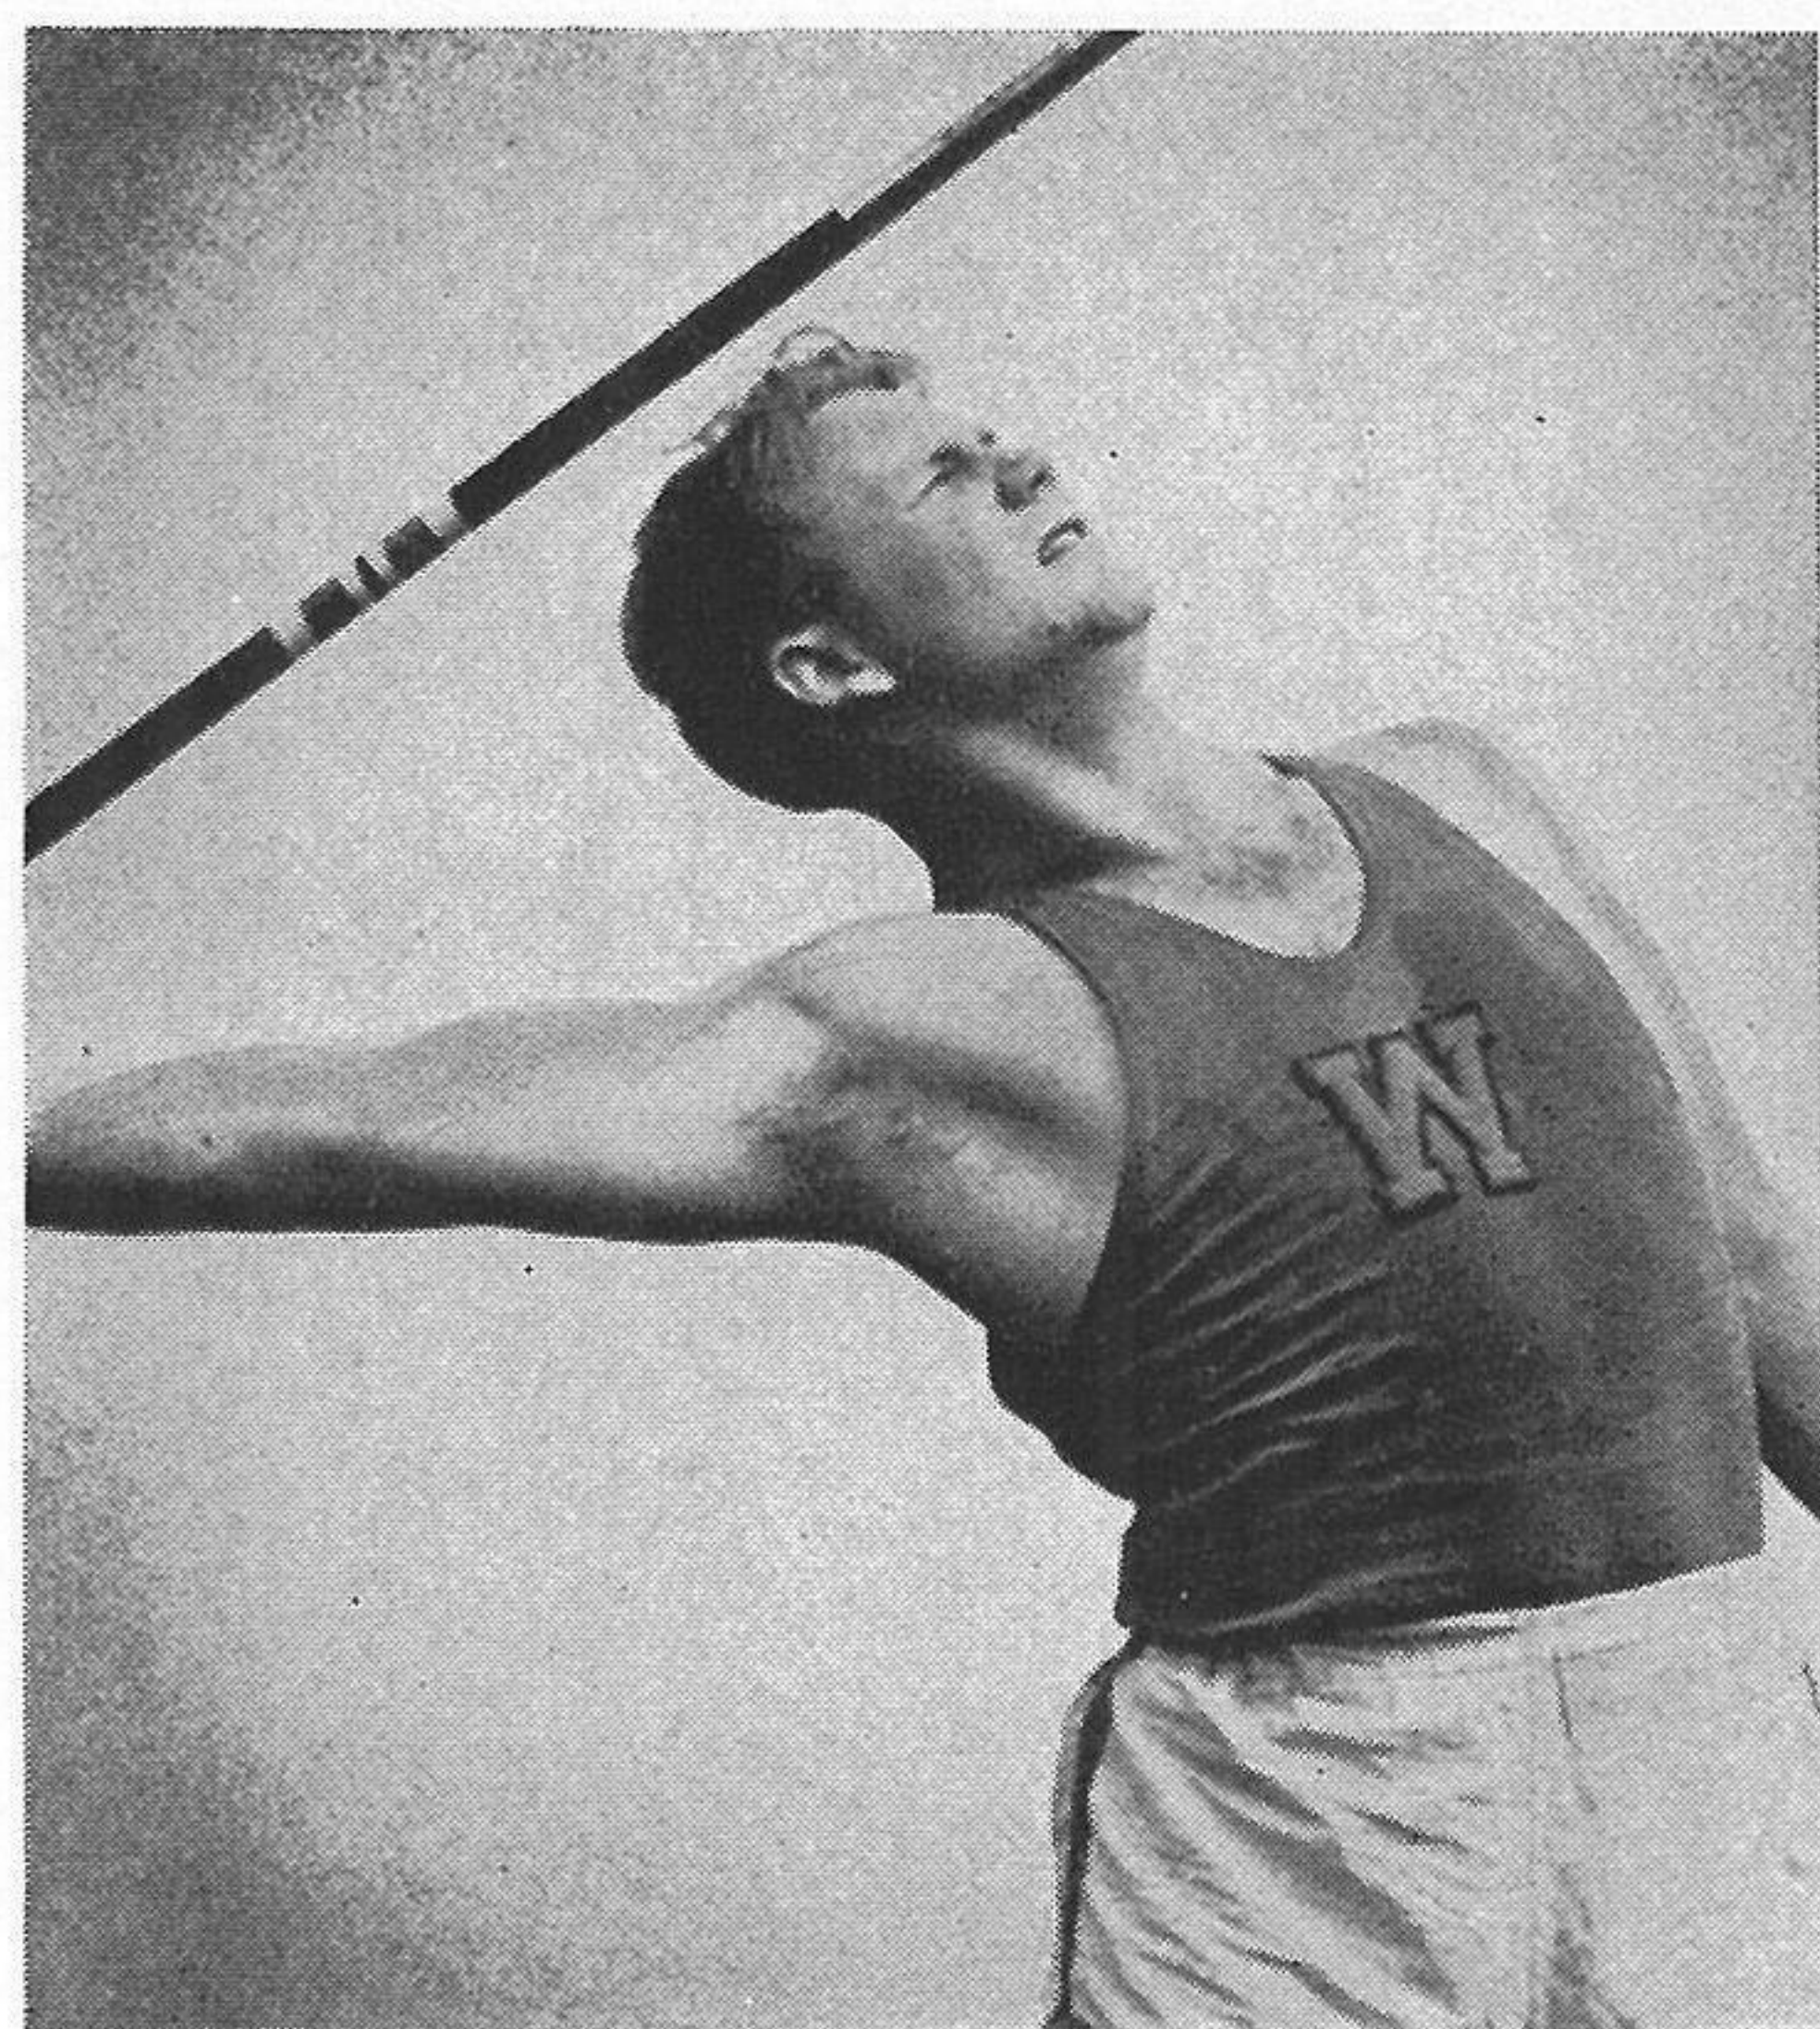

At the annual track banquet Jimmie McGoldrick, the midget hurdler, was elected 1940 track captain to succeed Jack Flagg, who proved to be one of the finest leaders ever to churn the stadium cinders despite his team's dismal showing.

Letterwinners for the 1939 season were: Captain Jack Flagg, Dick Montgomery, Dwight Kipp, Bob Lockhart, Harley O'Neil, Gene Avey, Bob Anderson, Tom Murphy, Art Taylor, Willard Smith, Ed Courtwright, Sam Coleman, Ken Wright, Harry Bingham, Jack Arthaud, Dick Eriksen, Don Thompson, Chuck Bell, Leon Bjorklund, Archie Heaton, Jim McGoldrick, Jesse Wilkins, Harry Hubbard, Bob Hage, and Chuck Bechtol.

FROSH TRACK

While their big brothers were absorbing beating after beating, the 1939 Husky frosh track team gave signs of putting Washington back in the track wars in years to come.

Led by Corky Cornwall, javelin hurler and hurdler, the yearlings won two out of three meets. Besides Cornwall, Kjell Qvale and Warren Badraun in the sprints, Jim Scott in the 440, and Paul Martin in the 880 established themselves as better than average prospects.

NATIONAL INTER-COLLEGIATE CHAMPIONS

The Husky ski team is the National Intercollegiate champion as the result of the National Collegiate Ski meet held at Sun Valley during Christmas vacation. They swept aside all opposition there as well as in the Northwest Ski Union meet held at Mt. Hood the early part of spring vacation. Despite opposition from WSC, OSC, and several California schools, the Huskies swept the coast for the fifth consecutive time. Letter winners are Carl Neu, Paul Sceva, Captain Bob Barto, Harold Gjolme, Reider Gjolme, and Jack Schneider.

FENCING

The Husky fencers fought their way through another undefeated season and their 12th consecutive conference championship by defeating OSC, WSC, and Idaho twice each. The foil men more than evened the count against OSC, who upset the Huskies in a dual meet last year, by scoring a 7-2 win over the Orangemen. At the Conference meet March 2nd, the Huskies swept through all opposition to retain their crown for another year. Minor W's were presented to Captain Don Ide, Bob Jamison, Henry Winsor, Kurt Messmer, and an honor W was given to Charles Cox.

In one of the most discussed, most exciting, and most unpredictable seasons in years the boxing finals afforded a first class fighting exhibition for a capacity crowd. Perhaps the best match was between Husky grid-ders Casimir Pomianek and Wayne Sterling in the finals of the unlimited division. The bulky tackle won a hair-line decision over Pomianek, but only after the crowd was on its feet most of the battle.

Individual winners besides Sterling were Dick O'Neill in the heavy-weight division, Jack Ford in the light-heavy, Mike Zivic in the middle-weight group, Arnold Thumlert at 145 pounds, Robert Goodwin at 135, Charlie Warner in the featherweight division, and Ken Braniff in the bantamweight division.

After losing close dual meets to WSC and OSC and defeating Idaho, the Husky matmen made history when they tied WSC in the Northwest Wrestling finals and out-fought all other competition. The final score was Washington and WSC 30, OSC 19, Idaho 7, and Oregon 0.

Huskies who are conference champions include Harold Maddock at 124 lbs., Murray Gilbert at 131 lbs., Gene Caddey at 148 lbs., and George Esveltd in the unlimited division. Tak Tsuchiya was unable to defend his championship due to an injury.

Minor W's were presented to Gene Caddey, Roy Carlson, Oliver Callson, Dick Crowder, Capt. George Esveltd, Murray Gilbert, Hiroshi Kanazawa, Fred Kaseburg, Hal Maddock, Al North, Gordon Shields, Tom Summers, Tak Tsuchiya, and Ray Frankowski.

By defeating Reed College in the Northwest Intercollegiate Volleyball playoffs, the Husky volley men won the title for the fourth consecutive year, and placed second in the Northwest AAU meet.

Portland YMCA measured the Huskies but the volleyball team made a clean sweep on their road trip to Pullman and Moscow by defeating WSC, Idaho, and the Moscow Townies. To add to their laurels, they won the city championship for the third consecutive year.

Minor W's were presented to Captain Harold Thornquist, Paul Shaffrath, Jim Moscrip, Rod Townsend, Ernie Frolund, Roger Condon, Eugene Mattila, Jim Robinson, Howie Waldron and George Whitmore.

Washington's cross-country harriers took third place honors in their only competition of the year at the Annual Northwest Conference meet held at Reed College in Portland on November 22nd. The Purple and Gold outfit was nosed out by Idaho's Vandals and the Oregon State Beavers. The '39 race was covered by the winning combination in record breaking time.

Minor W's for their work in cross-country were presented to Chuck Croasdill, Gene Wood, Jim Ayer, Willard Smith, Don Kurtzer, and Eugene Torget.

University of Washington's mashie wielders finished their 1939 season with eight wins, two defeats, one tie, and second place in the Northern Division intercollegiate race. Arch foes of the Huskies, the Oregon Web-foot golfers were able to eke out a close win in the conference championships, thus avenging a defeat by Washington, earlier in the season, and earning the title.

Long driving Palmer Smith, sophomore, was the most consistent point winner for the Huskies.

Dynamic Doug Dean, junior, was the Huskies' playing team manager. Dean, seldom brilliant, always dangerously near par, was probably one of the most valuable men to the Washington team in recent years.

Others earning their letters were: Erwin Slade, Ward Wortman, Lee Lewis, Bob Philip, Arnie Groth, Al Berry, Bob Meyer, Johnny Brottem, Ernie Jonson, Ed Bashaw, and Neil Richardson.

Defeated but once in eleven matches, the University of Washington rifle team wound up a successful season by finishing third out of 26 teams in the Hearst trophy competition for the Ninth Corps Area.

For the third consecutive year, the Husky riflemen captured the William O. McKay trophy, emblematic of the Seattle city title. Other high spots in the season for the Purple and Gold outfit were matches with Oregon and WSC. Both were taken by the home forces, the Oregon contest by an overwhelming margin.

The only defeat suffered by the varsity came from the UCLA Bruins who outscored the Huskies in another telegraphic meet.

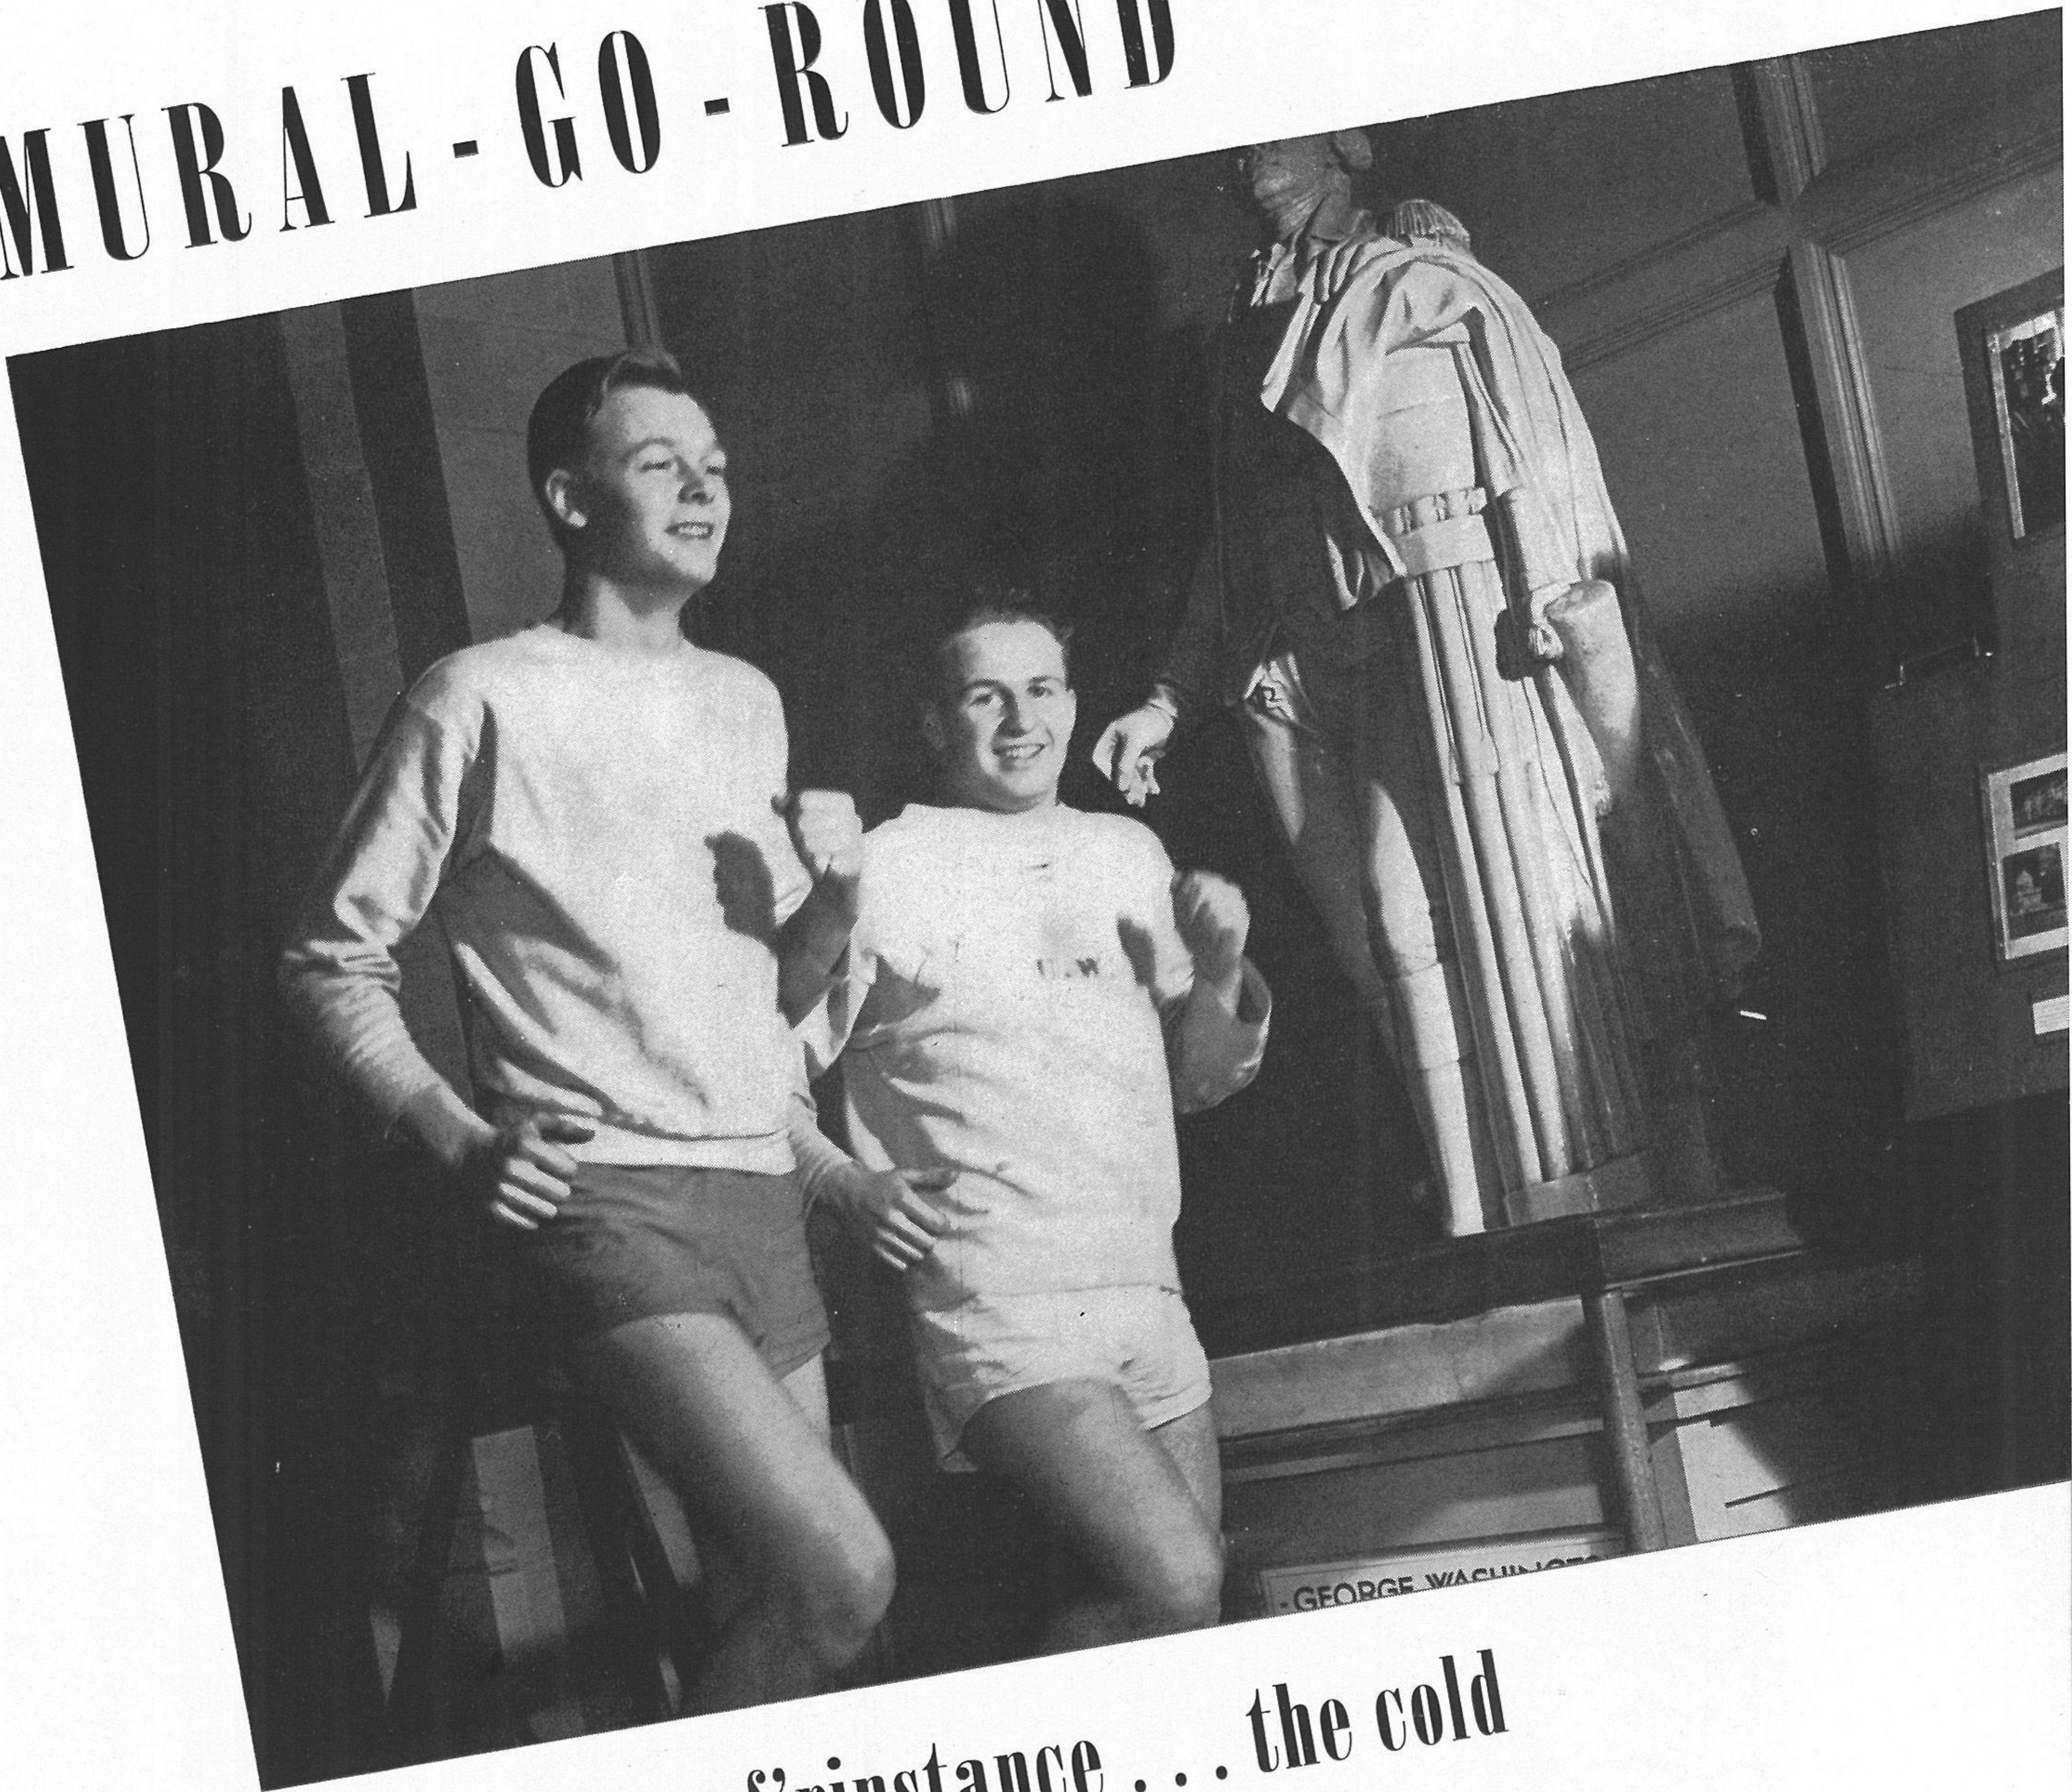

Minor W winners were George Lown, Alfred McCorkle, H. C. Medvedeff, E. H. Berg, Robert Stratton, R. D. Rosmond, David Shepard, Frank Fodge, A. O. Hudler, and Robert Bailey.

By winning baseball and finishing as runner-up in track, touch football, and tennis during spring quarter, Delta Upsilon won the coveted Garhart trophy for the years 1938-1939 by amassing a total of 1337½ points. Next was Kappa Sigma with 1250, followed by the Fijis with 1177½. The Phi Delts filled the fourth spot with 1125, and Chi Psi was fifth with 1087½. Next in line were the Betas, then Alpha Sigs, Compass and Chart, Zetes, and ATO in tenth place.

In the intramural track meet, Phi Delta Theta won first place honors, closely followed by Delta Upsilon and ATO. Individual scoring honors went to Jimmy Todd of the Phi Delts who garnered 10½ points.

The Forest Club put on its best to beat out SCA 18th in horseshoes while Tau Phi Delta captured the third slot.

Beta Theta Pi went out to win tennis over the Sigma Chis while the DU's finished in third place. Zeta Psi's Thompson and Burns swept the links for the third year in succession to capture first place in golf as second honors went to the Betas and third to Phi Kappa Tau.

Kappa Sig's powerhouse outfit took the honors in touch football with the DU's second and the TKE's garnering third place points. The DU's battled their way into first place in baseball by overpowering Kappa Sigma and Finish Club respectively. Forrest Chandler, sensational frosh, hurled the DU's to the championship and the Garhart trophy in muffling the Kappa Sigs in the final contest.

FALL QUARTER

The fall quarter intramural program started off with the Newman Club again taking swimming honors from the Finish Club and the Alpha Delts. They also hung up two new records.

In basketball, the Delta Chis stormed their way to the top with the Betas taking the second slot over the Newman Club. The Kappa Sig harriers again took the cross country crown with the DU's in second and Pi Kappa Phi third.

Beta That Pi slugged their way to a softball win and Sigma Alpha Mu won runner's up points over the Newman Club. Fencing through all opposition, Compass and Chart emerged victor with Chi Phi and Chi Psi battling it out for second and third respectively.

With superior co-ordination and manpower, the Betas won their way to first place in soccer while Lambda Chi Alpha nosed out Sigma Chi for second place.

INTRAMURALS

The DU grapplers outdid their opposition in wrestling, while the Fijis drew second place. Compass and Chart and Kappa Sigma were deadlocked in a third place tie.

WINTER QUARTER

The Beta cindermen swept through all opposition in the series of intramural track meets with Sigma Chi holding down the second slot and Pi Kappa Phi taking third honors. This was the first year of dual meets and proved highly successful.

The Sigma Chi foul shooters successfully defended their title by beating Phi Gamma Delta and Theta Chi who finished in that order. Showing superior teamwork, Compass and Chart volleyball men bested all opposition, while Tau Phi Delta maintained their runner's up position for the second year with Phi Kappa Sigma in third place.

In boxing, Psi Upsilon and Beta Theta Pi tied for first place while Compass and Chart and the Fijis were deadlocked in the third spot. It was a rough season ending with the thrilling final events in all weights. The most discussed one was the unlimited weight fight with big Wayne Sterling as the final winner.

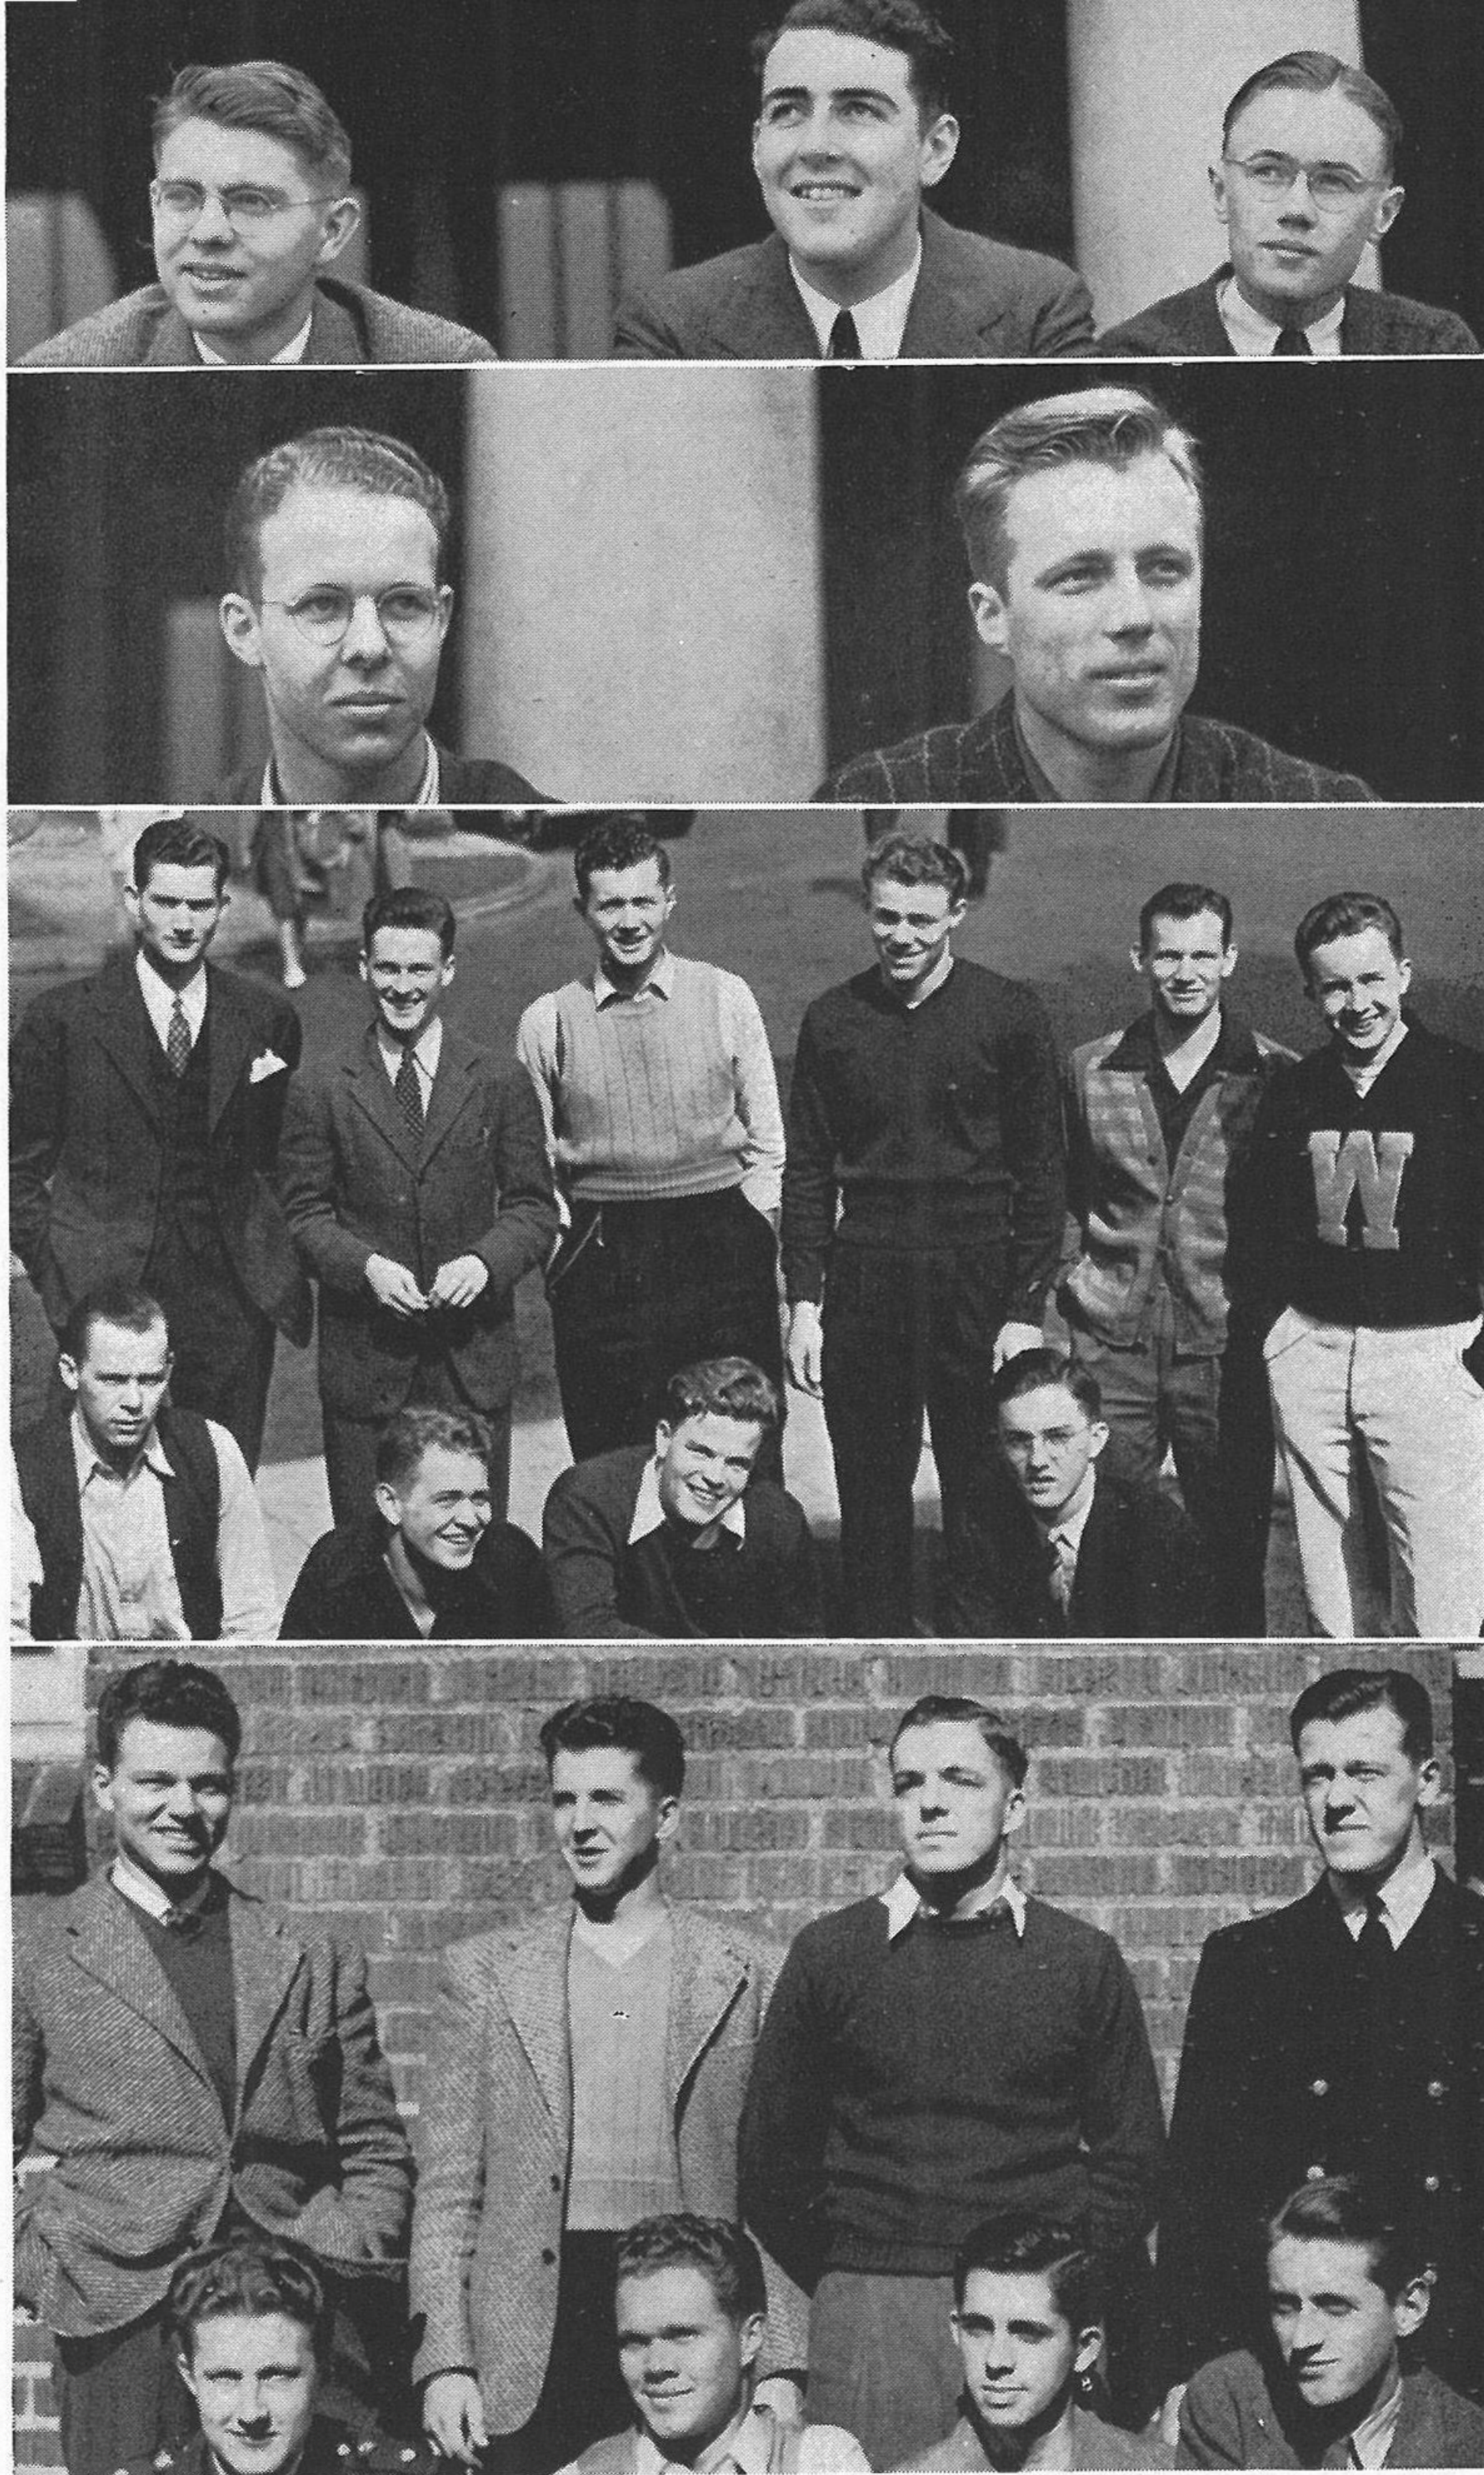

Battling their way through in an uphill battle, the Fisheries handballers took top honors away from Compass and Chart while Pi Kappa Phi took third honors in the finals.

INTRAMURALS

The Brooklyn Student's co-op ping pongers battled their way to victory over the Sigma Alpha Mu's 2-1 for the University championship while the University Christian Union ended in the third slot.

Showing their wares in "racquet-eering," Compass and Chart outplayed Delta Chi in the finals for the badminton championship of Washington.

In the Garhart trophy race, as the Tyee goes to press, we find Beta Theta Pi leading with Compass and Chart in second place while the title defending DU's are in third slot. The Fijis are fourth and are closely followed by Sigma Chi and Kappa Sigma. Alpha Sigma Phi is in seventh place with Pi Kappa Phi in eighth. Theta Chi nosed out Delta Chi for ninth place by a close margin that leaves the latter in tenth.

MANAGERIAL COUNCIL

The managerial council is composed of all senior and senior frosh managers of all sports. It has as its purpose the unification of the managerial system as a whole. It strives to solve problems of the managers in the attempt to promote a smooth-working, efficient organization.

Most managerial systems on the coast are patterned after the Washington plan which was inaugurated here more than ten years ago. It is an honor to reach the top spot as a manager. It means the expenditure of much hard work.

This year the managerial council took a new step in managerial get-togethers by throwing a get-acquainted dance. The dance was held at the Olympic Golf Club on February 21, with all managers present. Coaches of all Varsity sports served as patrons and the result was a swell party which will probably be duplicated in future years.

SPORTS COUNCIL

Headed by Chairman Barbara McCurdy, the Women's Sports Council has become a well organized body which governs intramural athletics and sets standards of sportsmanship, and qualifications for participation in all women's sports events.

To acquaint freshmen girls with the athletic program, the Sports Council and the Women's "W" Club sponsored an open house in the women's gymnasium the second week in October.

In the spring, the council holds a banquet for all girls who have participated in sports throughout the year. New council members are announced, and "W" blazers and the Garhart trophy are presented.

Miss Dorothy MacLean of the Physical Education department is faculty advisor for the council.

SWIMMING

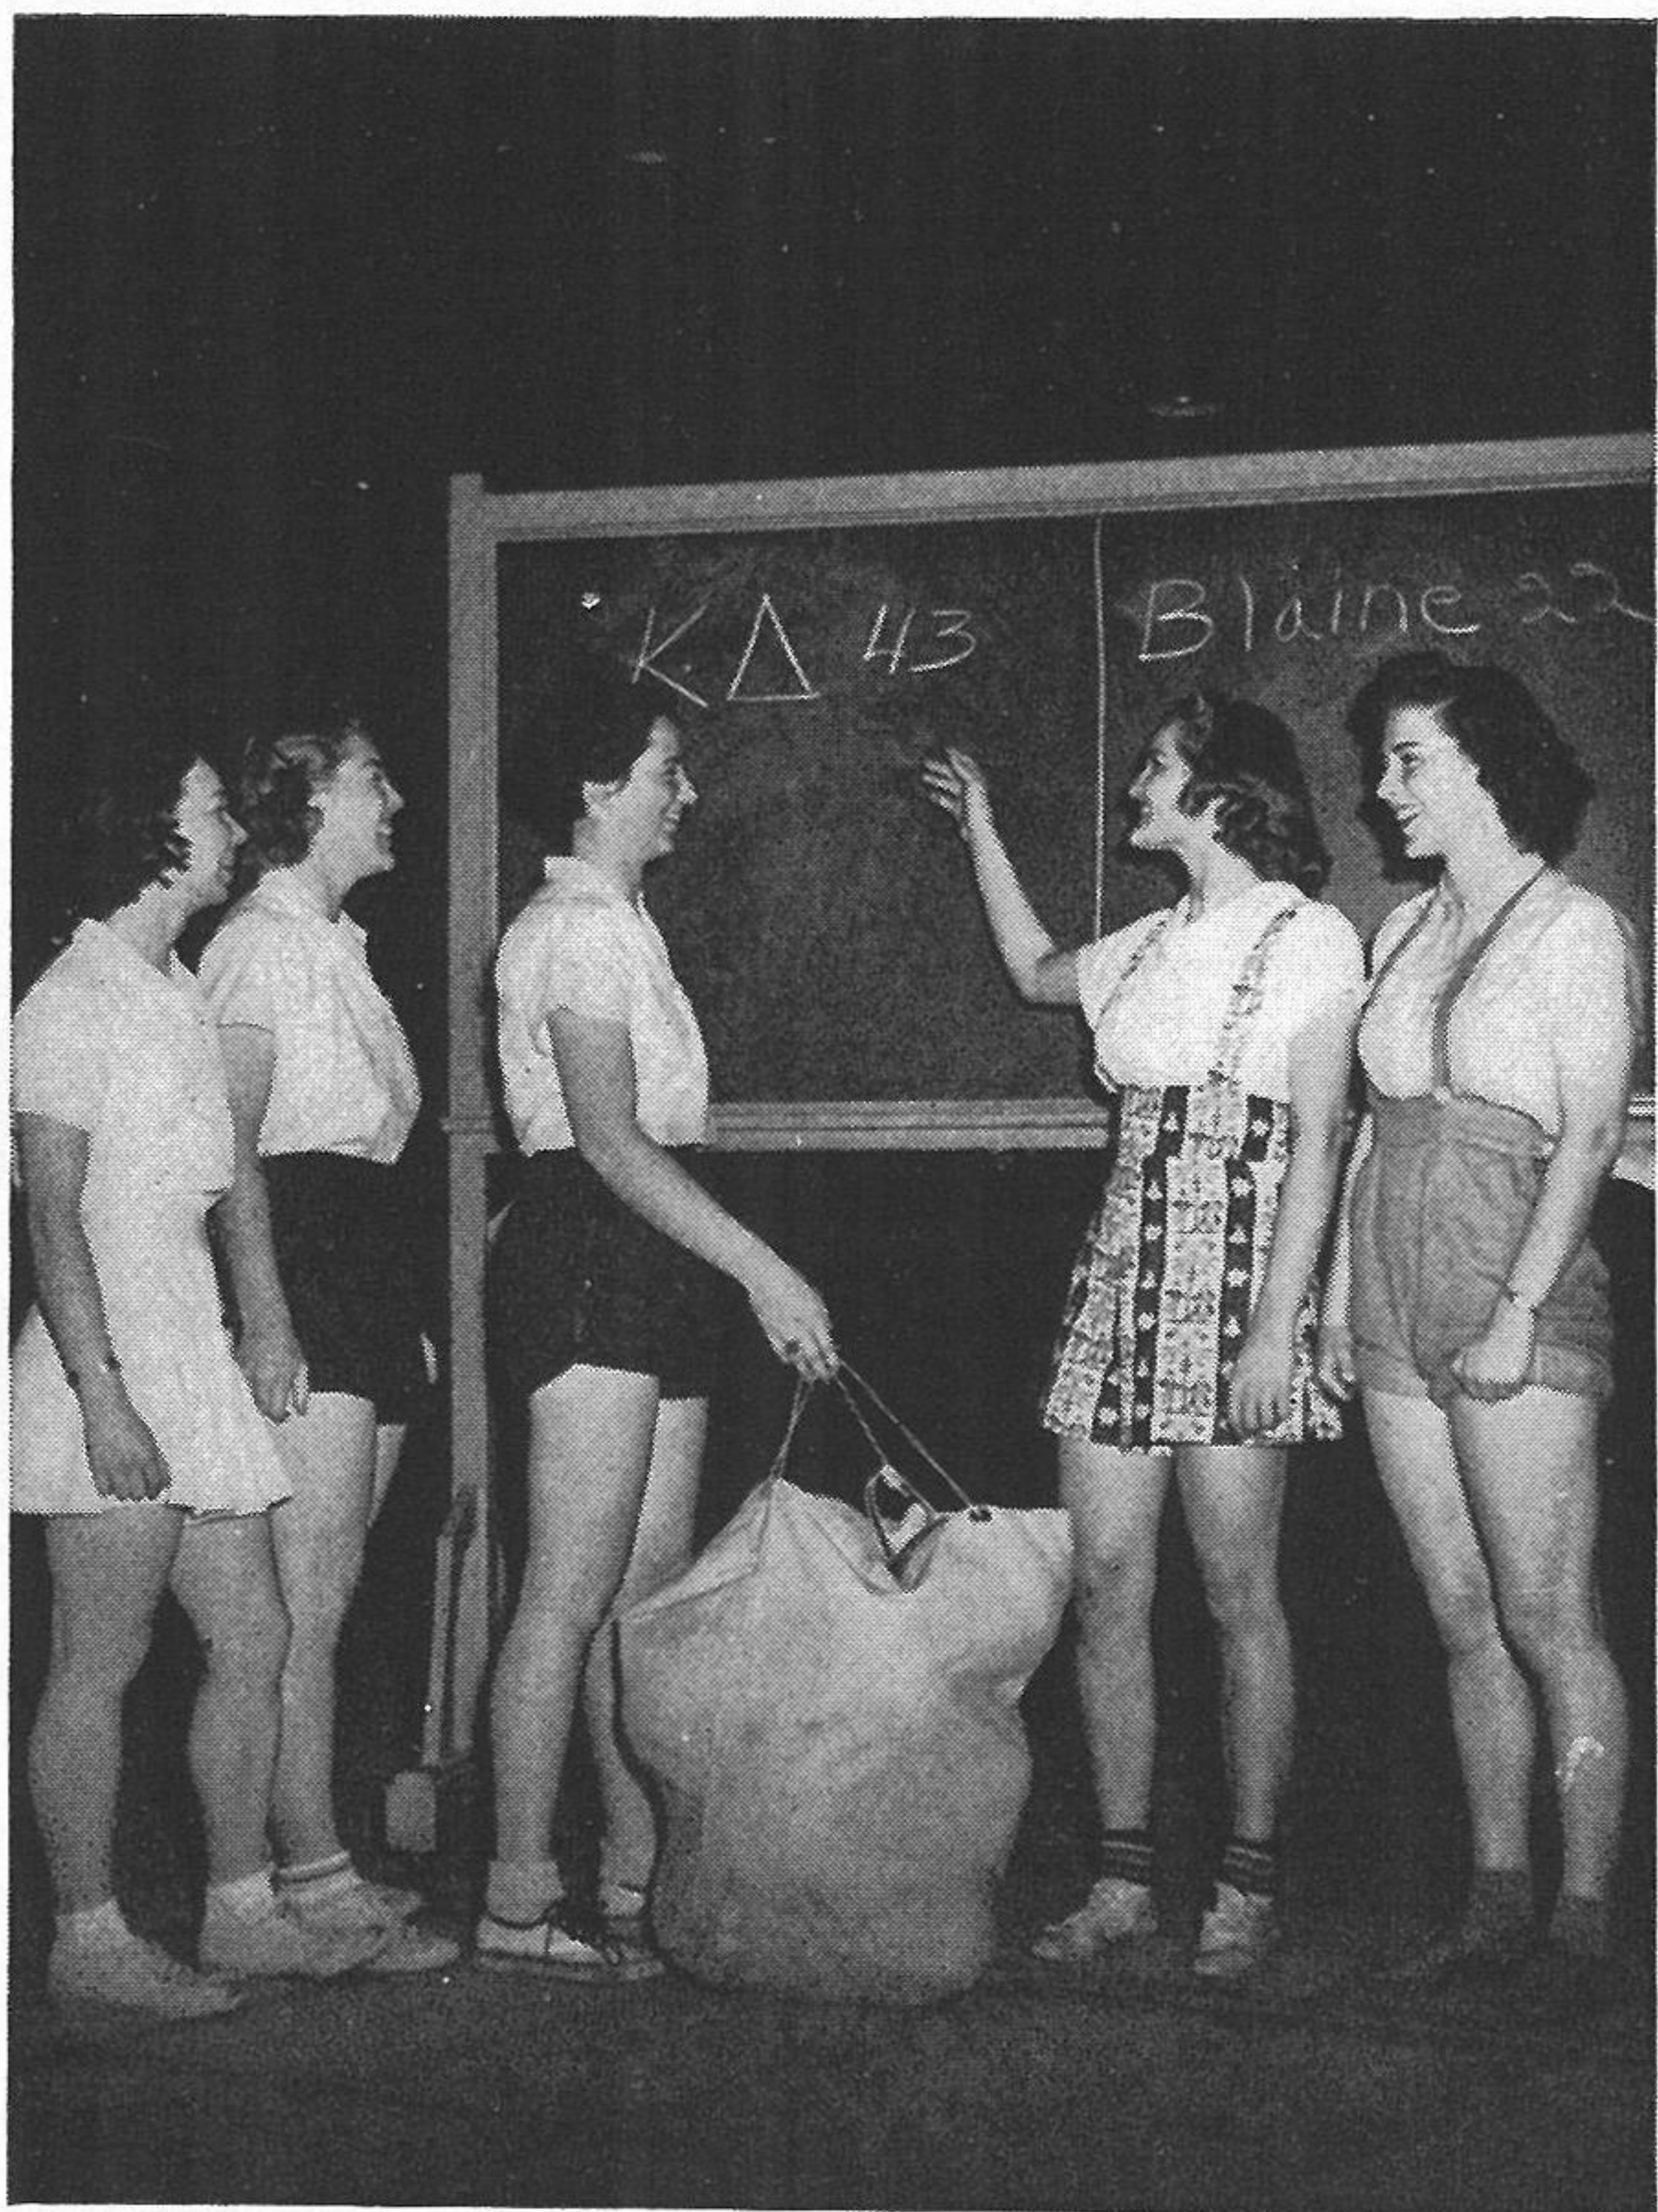

A large splash opened the swimming season for coeds on October 2. Directed by Chairman Jean Kolinski, 294 girls practiced three weeks for the season's climax, the intramural swimming meet October 24.

Paced by Vada May Lawrence, Kappa Delta won 28 points, and top honors in the meet. Jean Kolinski's 17 points made her individual high scorer, and placed Austin hall second. Jean was first in the breast stroke contests, second in the 25-yard race, and tied for first in the crawl exhibition.

Vada May Lawrence was second highest scorer, winning the diving, and 25-yard contests, and tying for first in the crawl exhibition. Dorothy Dupar swam around the pool 320 times to win the marathon. Delta Gamma placed third.

Kappa Deltas Vada May Lawrence, Mary Jane Gilkey, Dorsey Reed, Kathleen Kirkpatrick and Beth Chisholm grin at the score which gave them the volleyball championship.

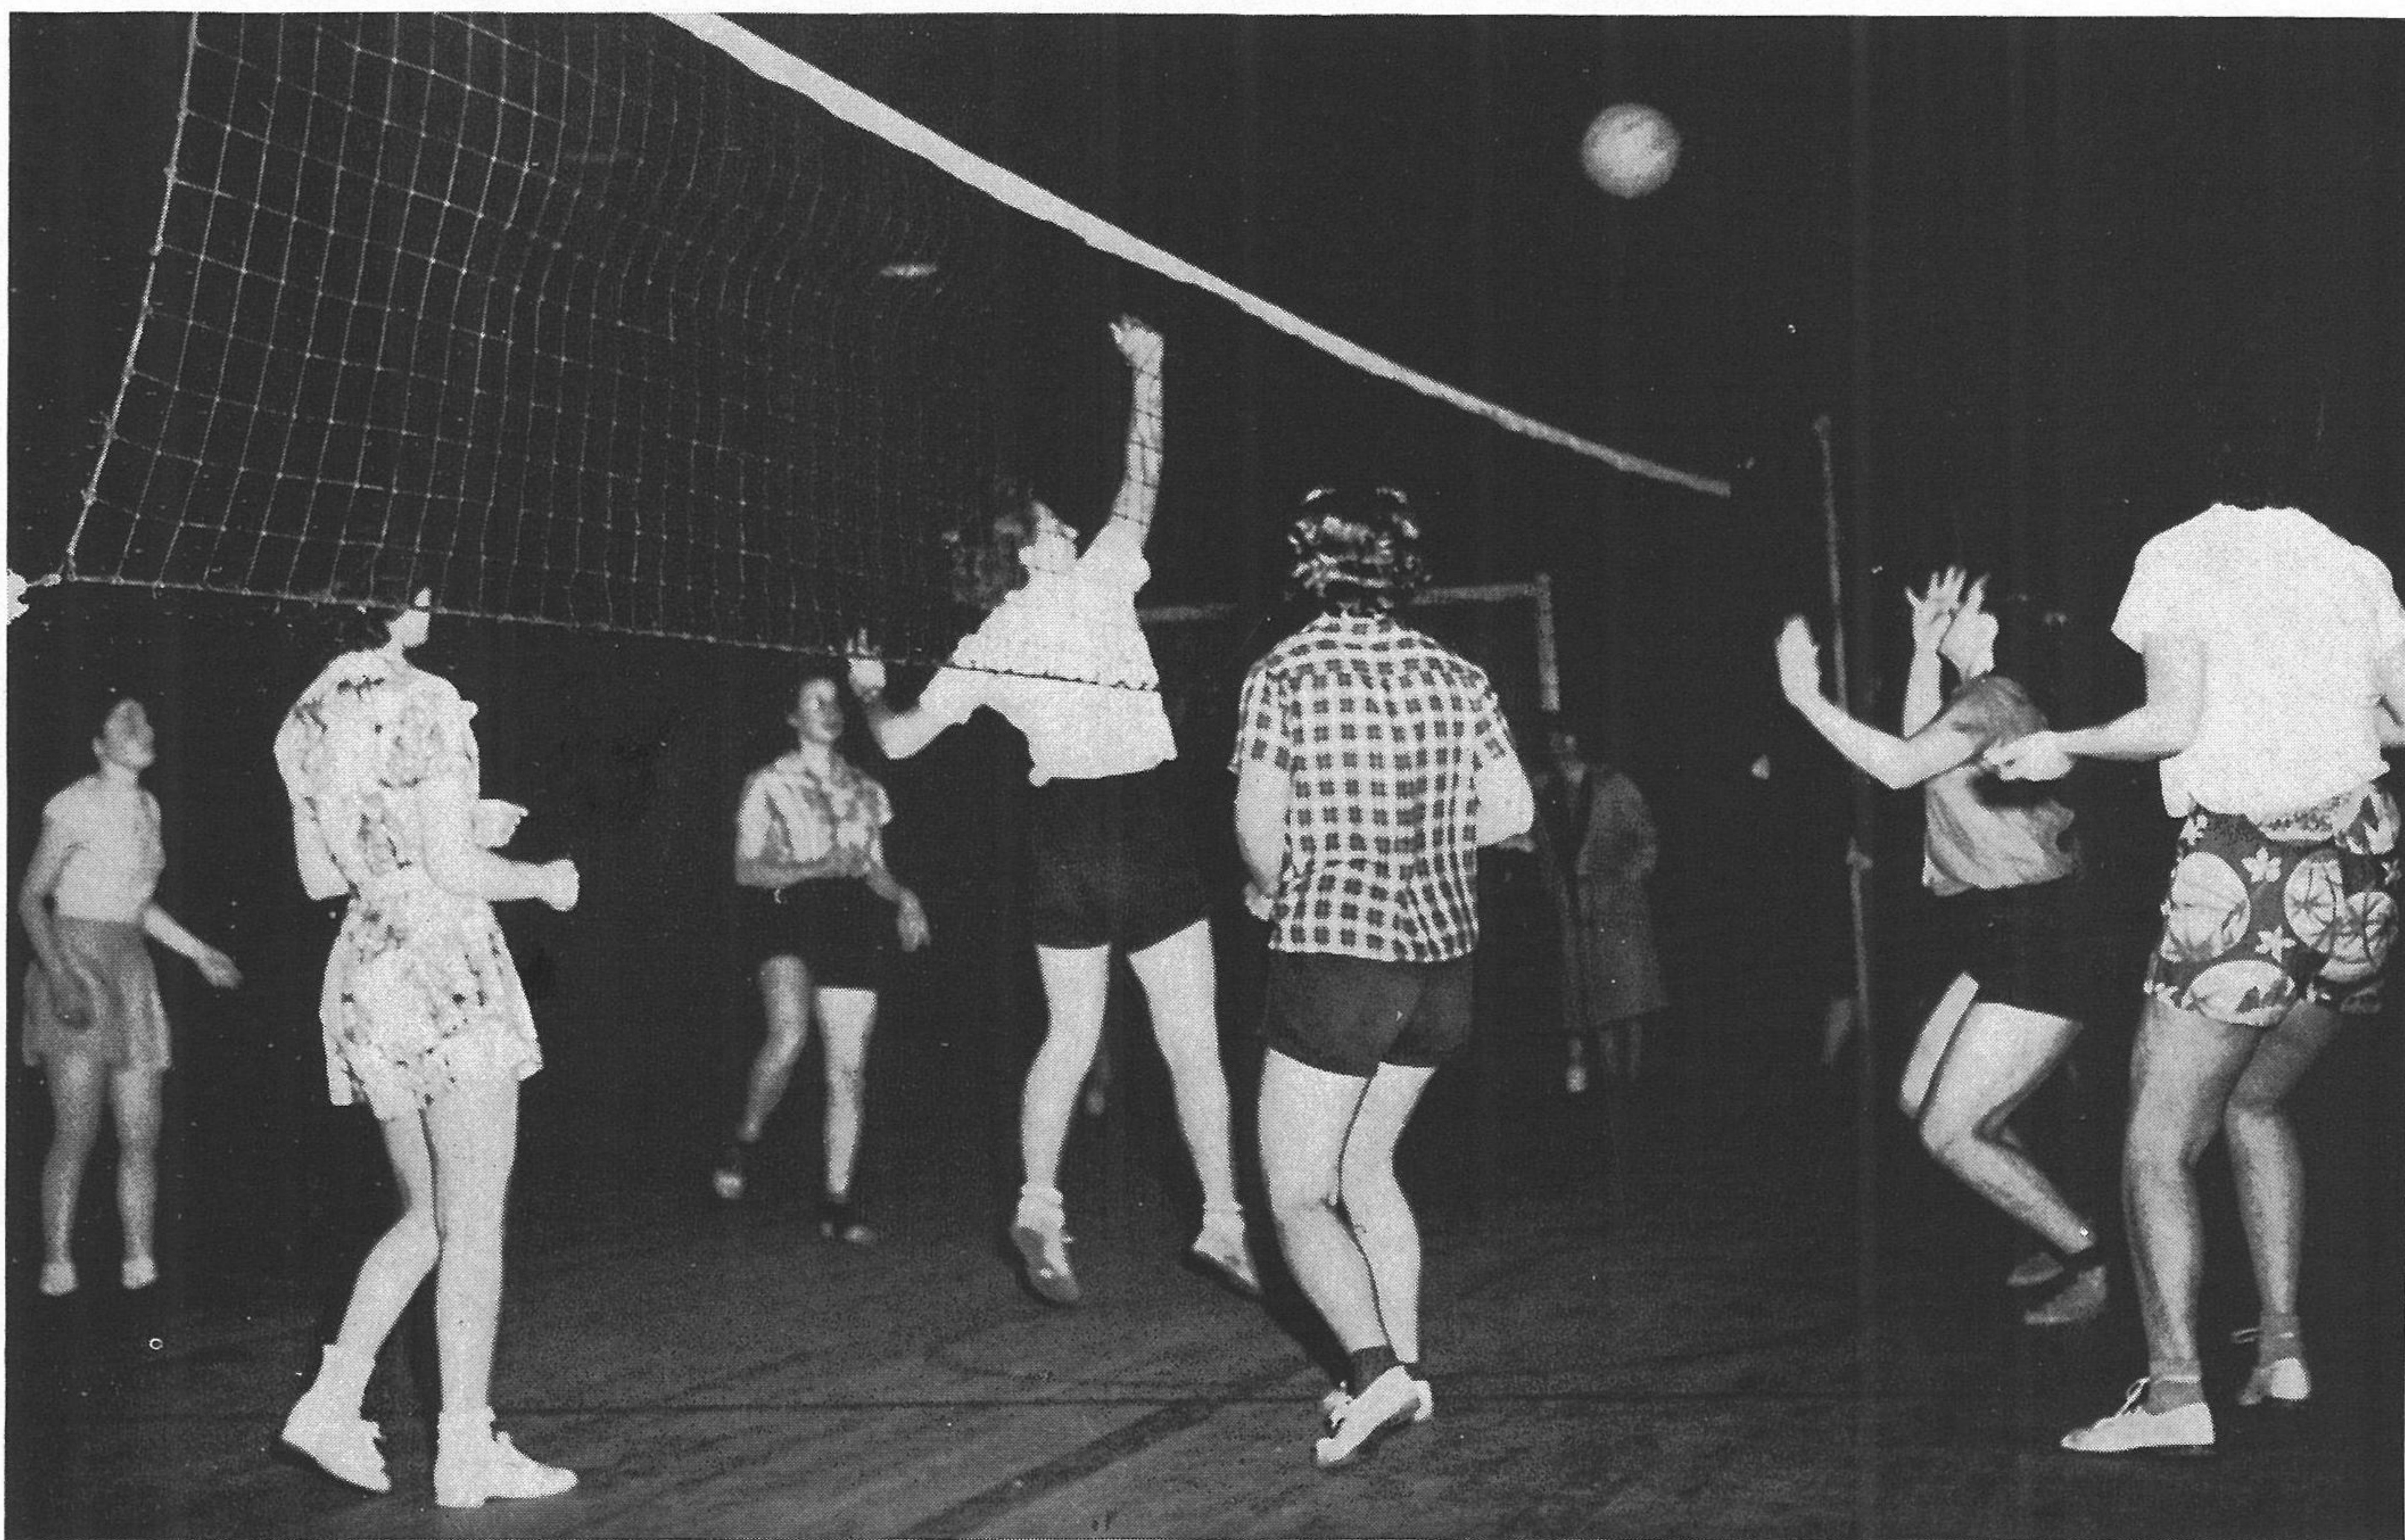

VOLLEYBALL

Kappa Deltas added another accomplishment to their string of athletic laurels, when a victory over Blaine gave them the 1939 volleyball championship, and a wide margin in the Garhart trophy contest. This was the second consecutive major tournament captured by the Kappa Deltas.

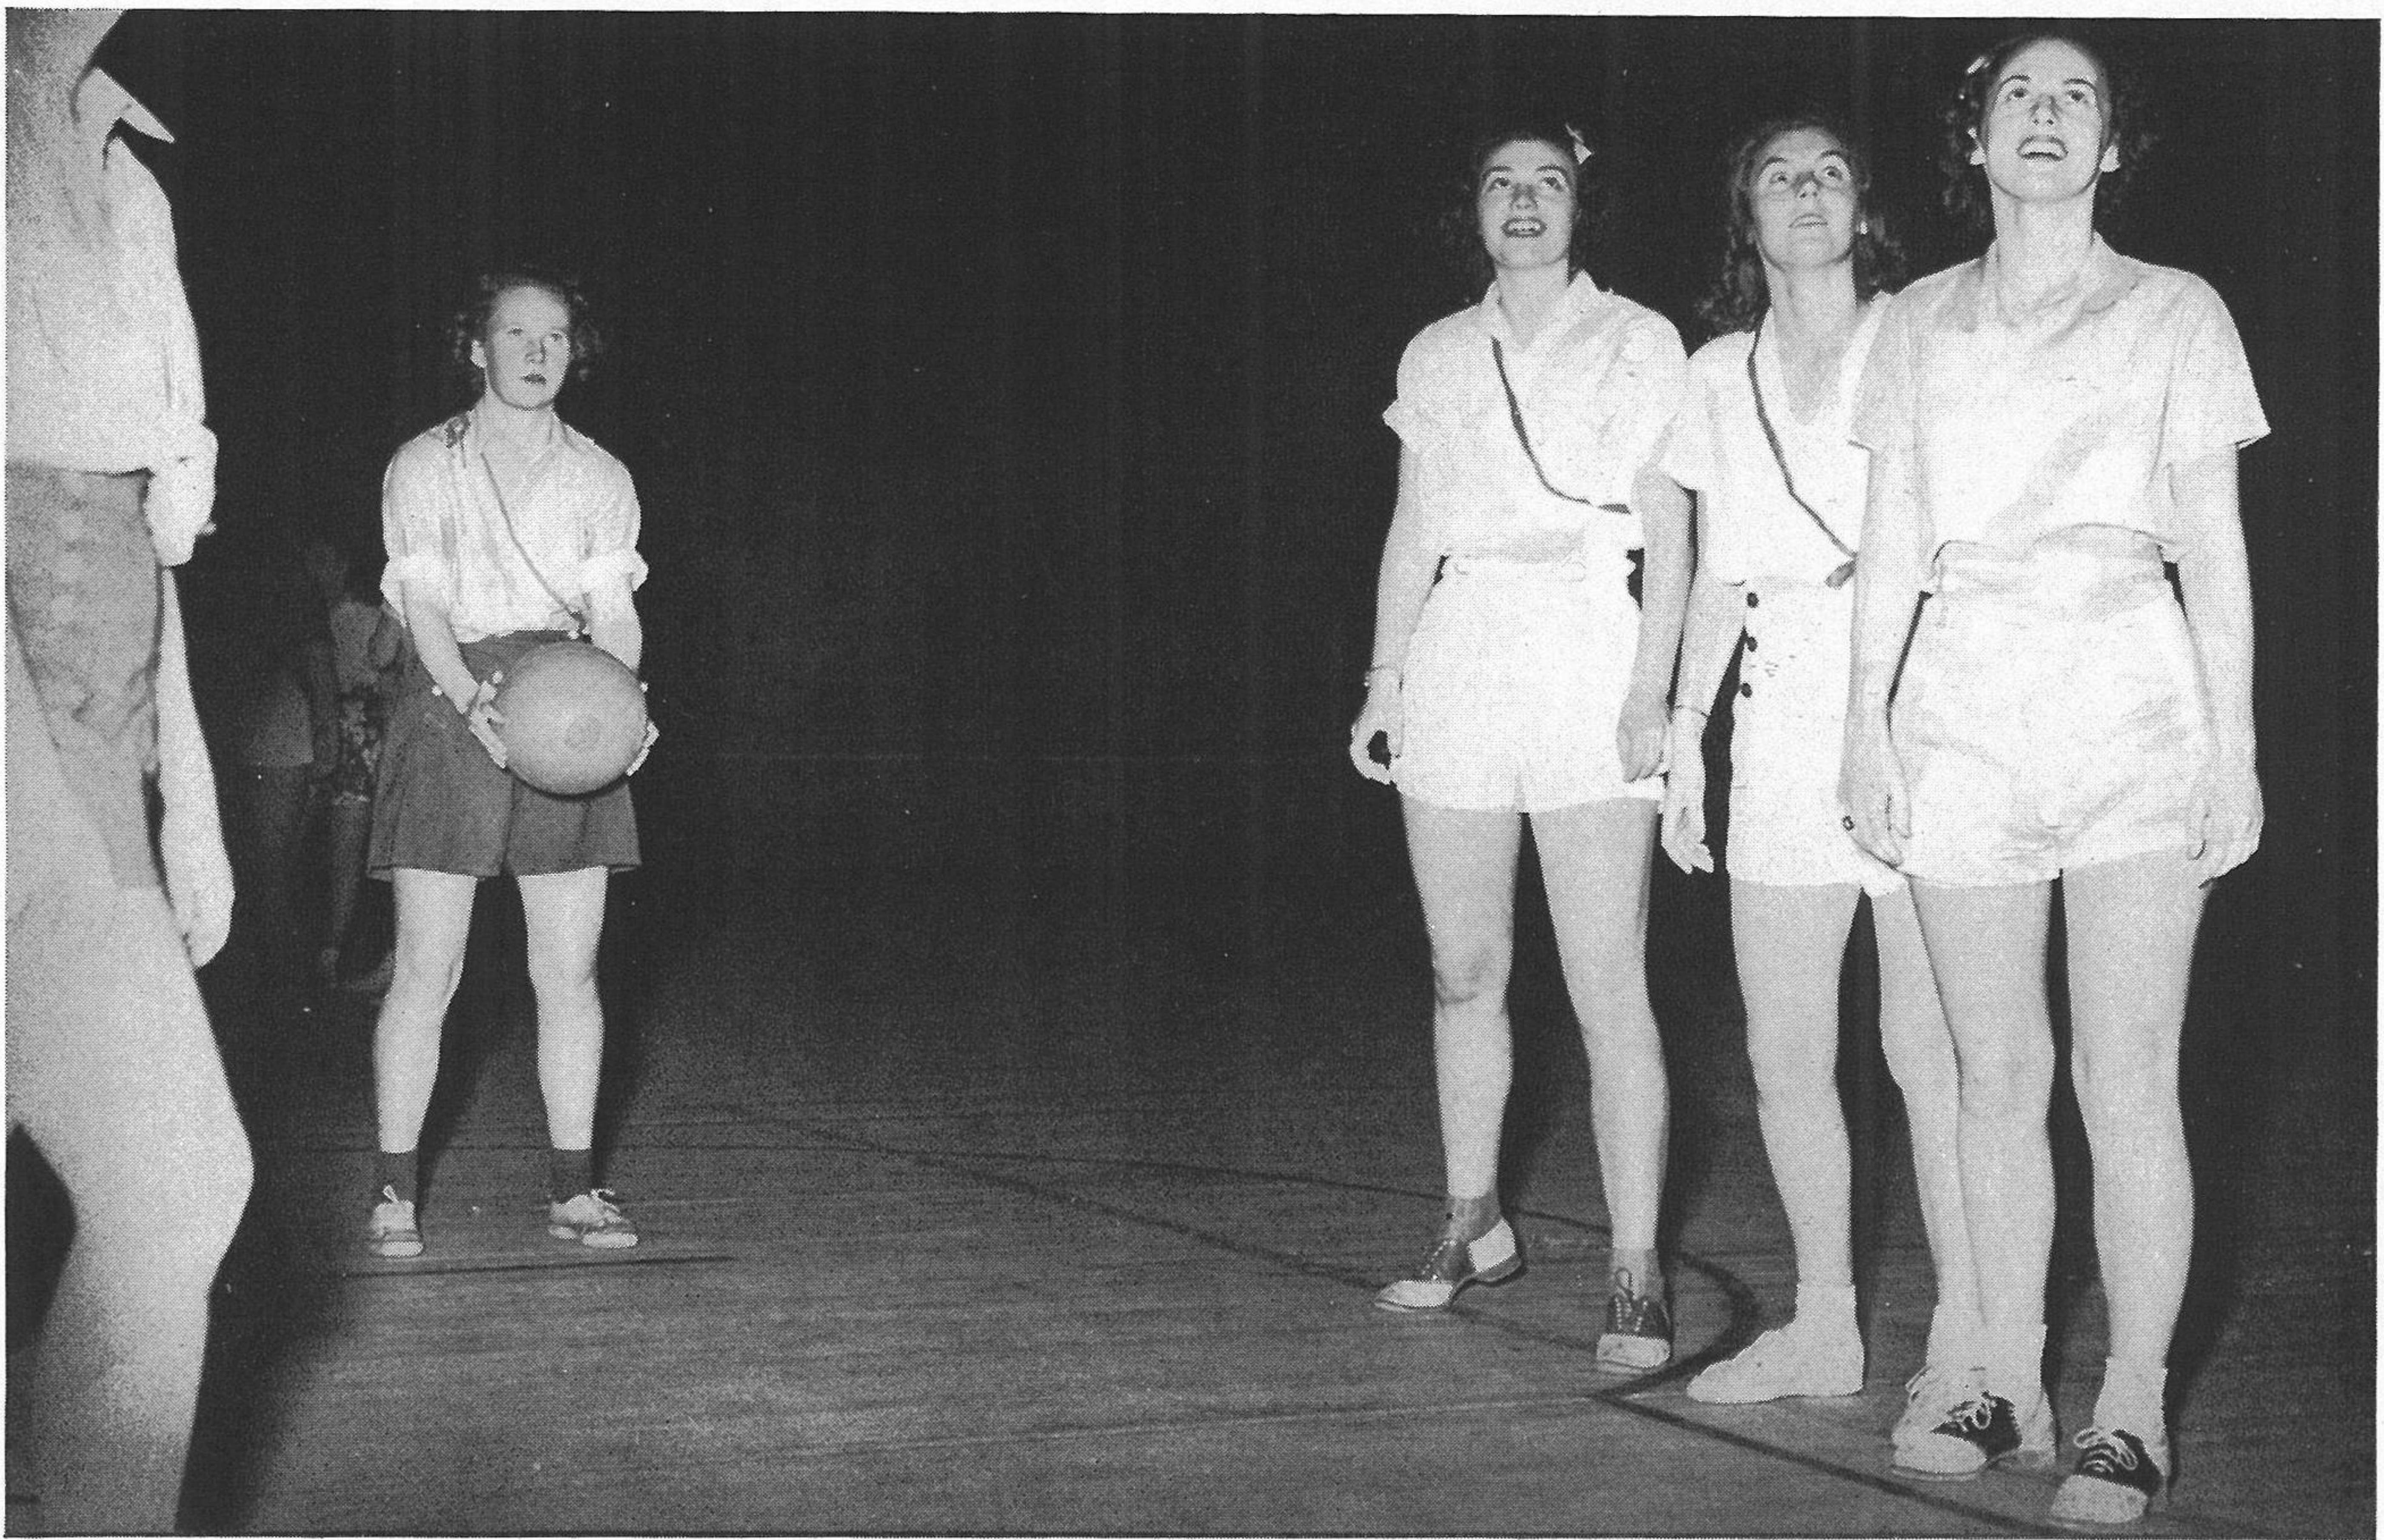

Nineteen organized houses entered teams in the tournament last fall, in which Blaine hall took second place, followed by Sigma Kappa.

Hard playing, plus keen competition provided coed spectators moments of excitement amid many laughs as they watched sorority sisters battle to keep in the race.

Outstanding players were Dorsey Reed and Vada May Lawrence, Kappa Delta; Harriet Winde, Delta Gamma; Peggy Grout, Blaine hall; Jane Taubman, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mary Gordon, Chi Omega; and Barbara McCurdy, Kappa Alpha Theta.

There is always plenty of action in a Blaine hall, Kappa Delta game

BASKETBALL

Basketball held the top place in women's sports winter quarter. In the intramural tournament 19 teams from organized houses participated.

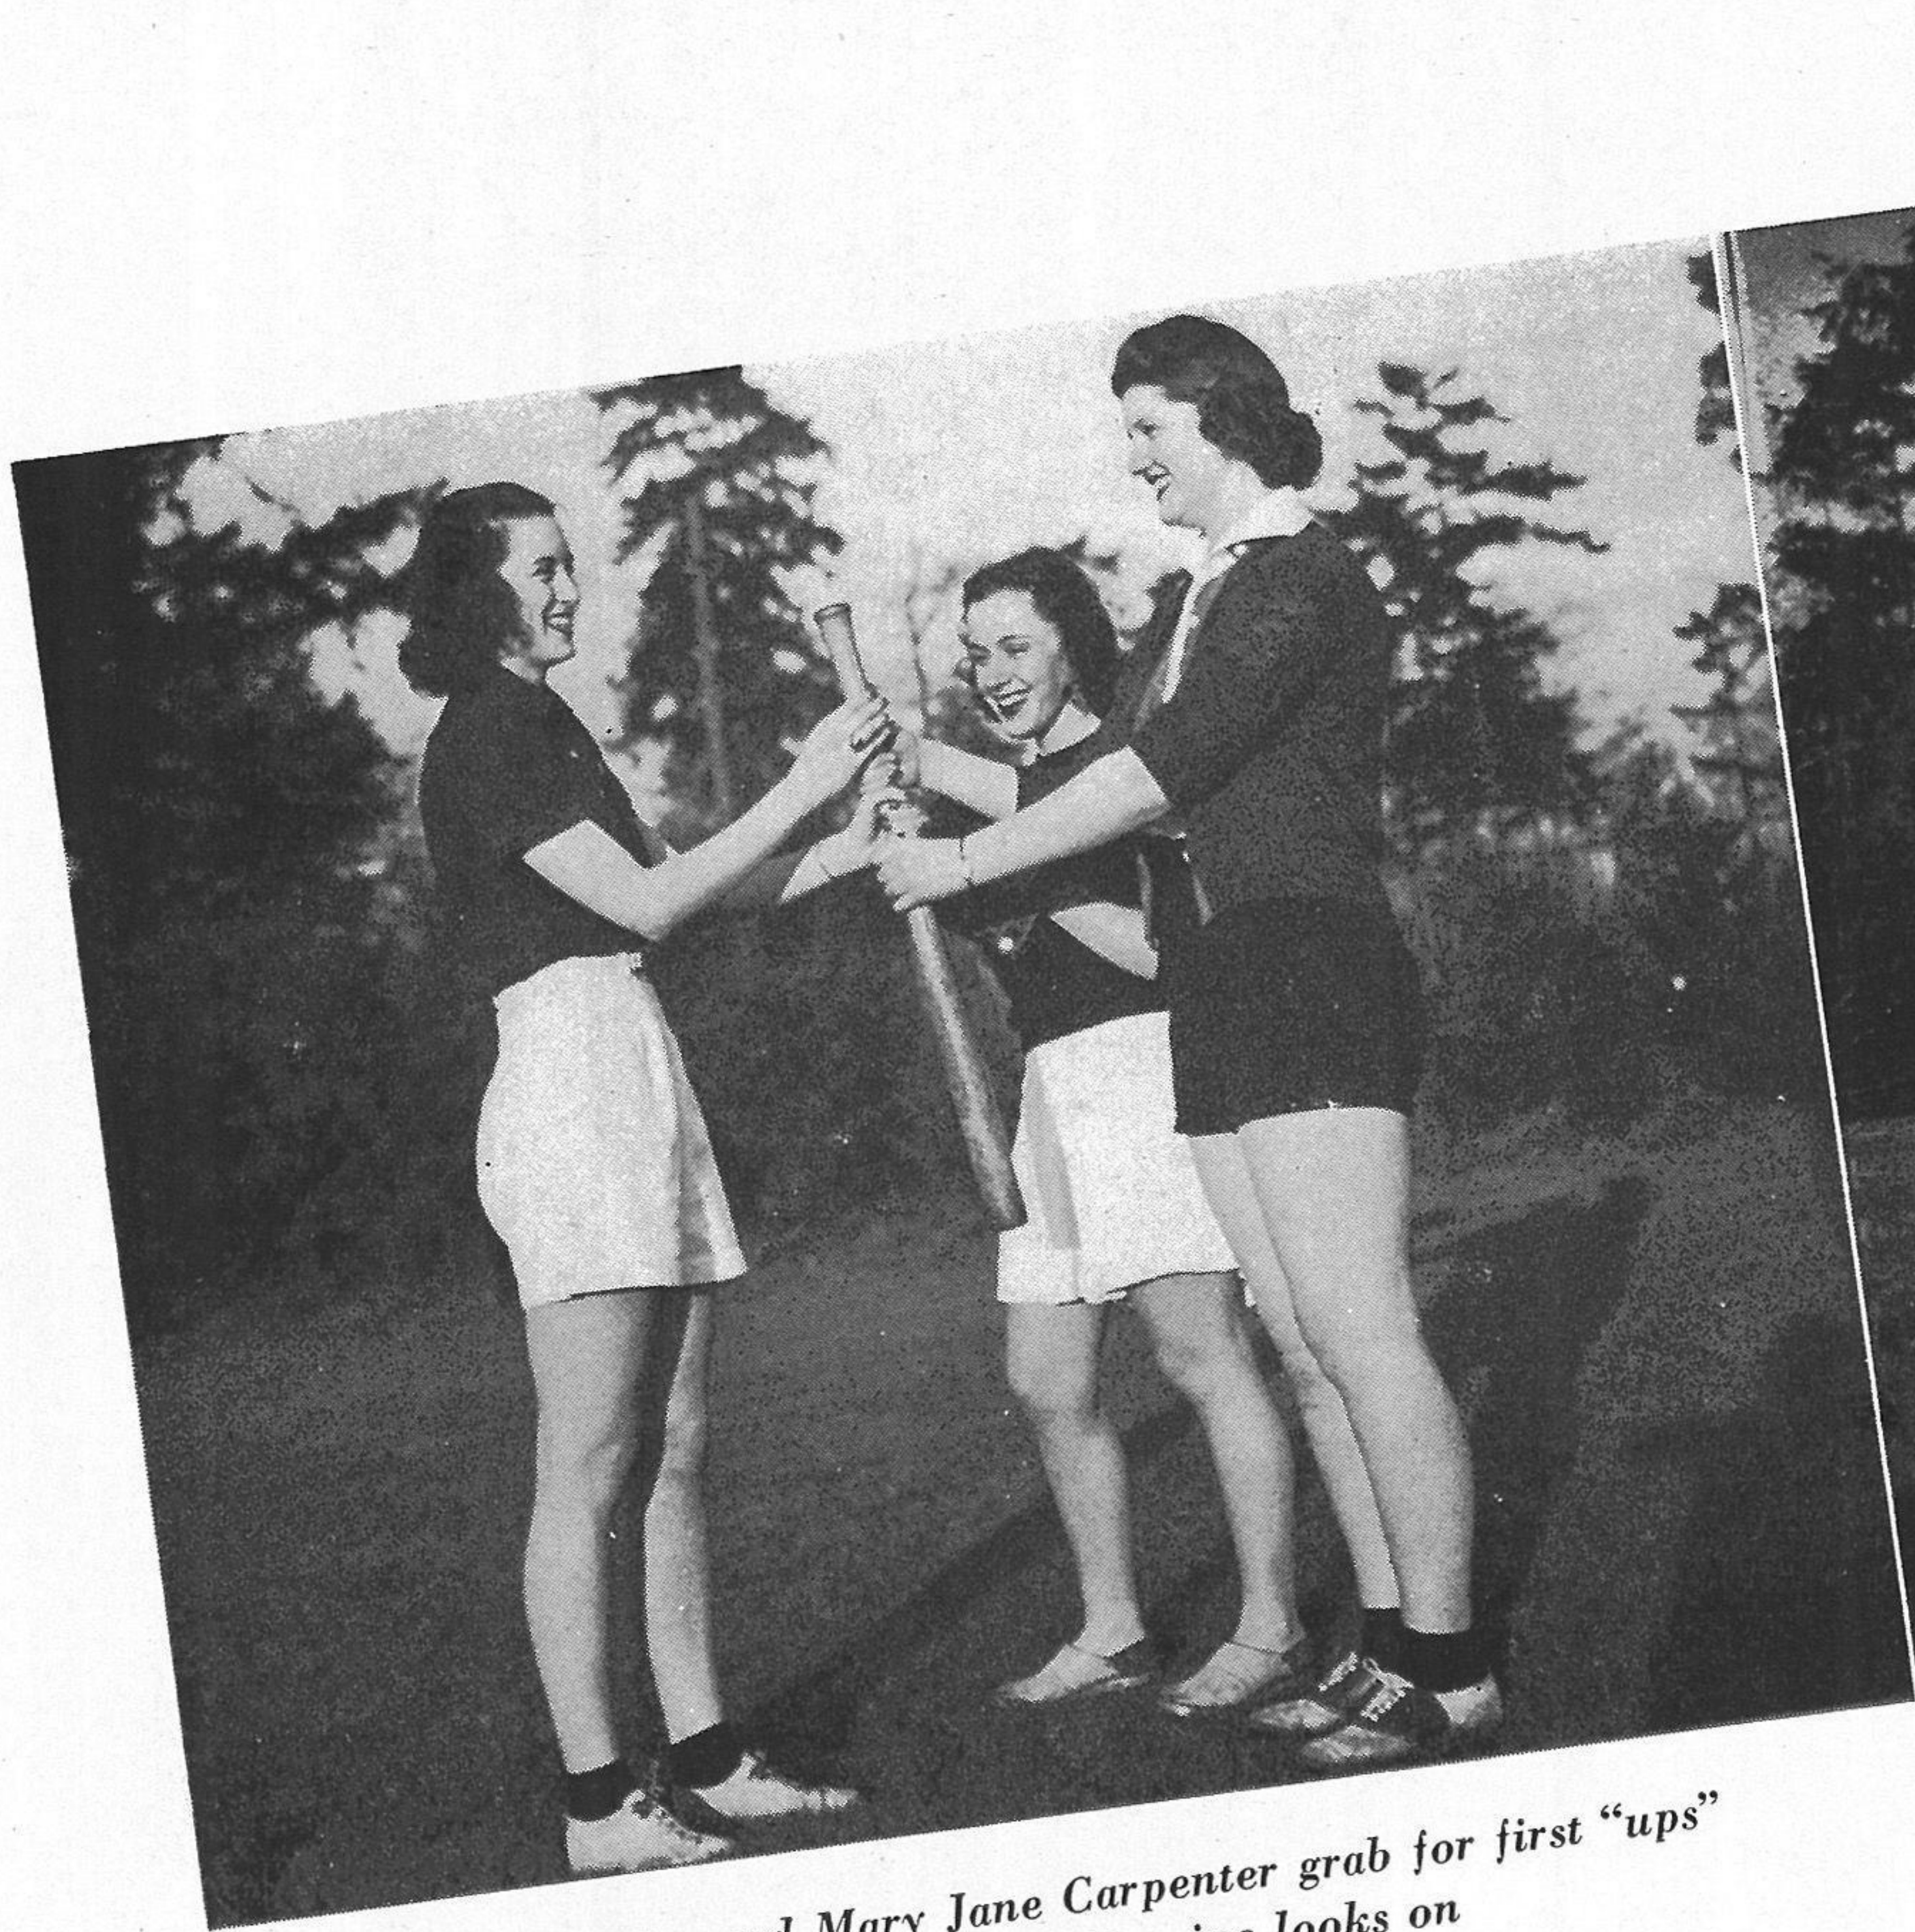

As Tyee went to press, Blaine hall was scheduled to play McKee for the tournament championship. These two dorm teams and the Kappa Delta squad were rated the hardest teams to beat by all groups in the tournament.

In the quarter finals of the winners' tournament Blaine defeated Kappa Delta 26-19 and McKee won from Kappa Alpha Theta 18-9. Blaine met McKee in the semi-finals and was defeated 26-17.

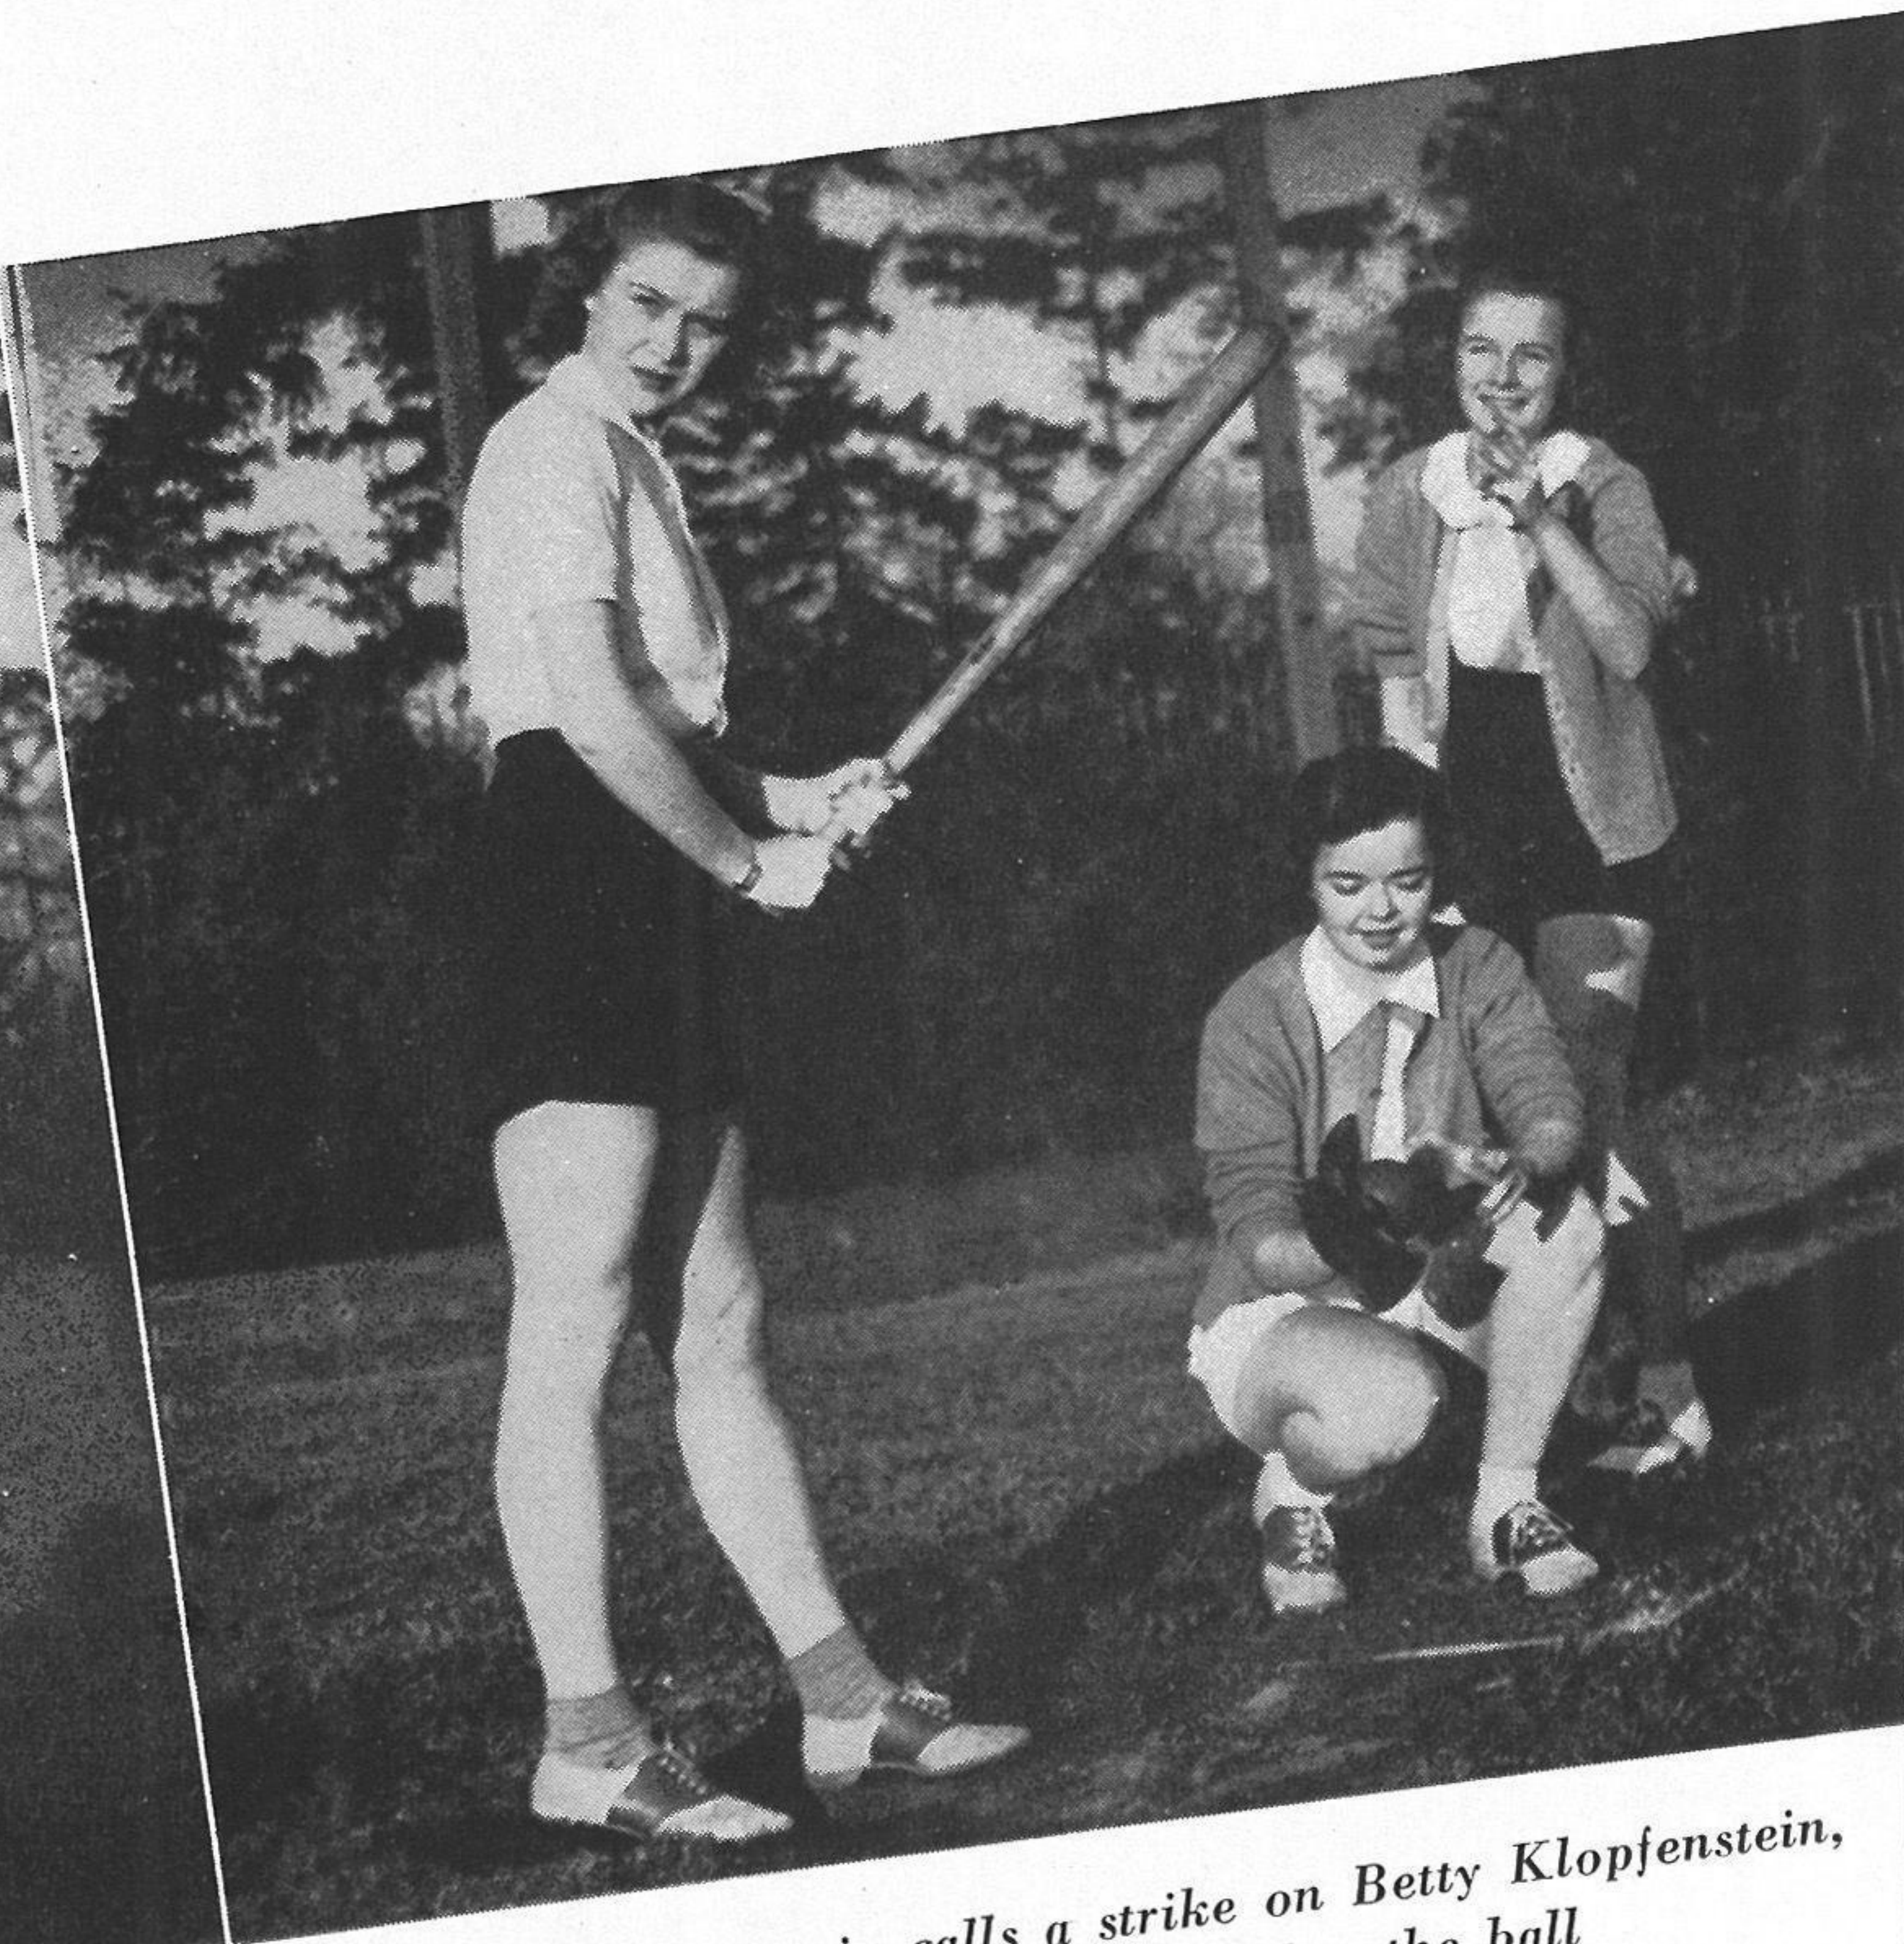

Down in the losers' bracket defeated teams have another chance at the championship. In this bracket, Delta Gamma eliminated Kappa Kappa Gamma 9-6, and Kappa Alpha Theta dropped out after a 25-22 beating by Kappa Delta. The Blaine hall girls defeated Kappa Delta by 12 points to earn a chance at the championship in their second encounter with McKee.

on the third rung.

Baseball draws more participants and spectators than any other girls' sport at Washington. Every sunny spring afternoon finds a cheering group of coeds lounging on the grass behind the girls' gym, watching their favorite team perform.

Prominent baseball playing coeds last spring were: Delta Gammas Evelyn Nyberg and Valerie Delana; Kappa Keltas Beth Chisholm, Dorsey Reed, and Vivian Sprague; Peggy Grout and Muriel Thatcher from Blaine; Kappas Perry Scudder, Maybeth Rhodes, Margaret Woodford, and Mary Jane Argue; Pi Phis Peggy Goodman, and Jean Coon; Thetas Betty Jane Wiggins, Peggy Moren, Lois Johnson, and Phyllis Jackson; Chi Omegas Elva Watson, Jane Sorley, Mary Gordon, and Betty Klopfenstein; Lois Parker, Sigma Kappa; Gamma Phis Barbara Stewart, Mary Jane Carpenter, Eileen Driscoll, and Betty Shaw.

Nineteen of these players will be playing this spring to make another season of close competition.

TENNIS

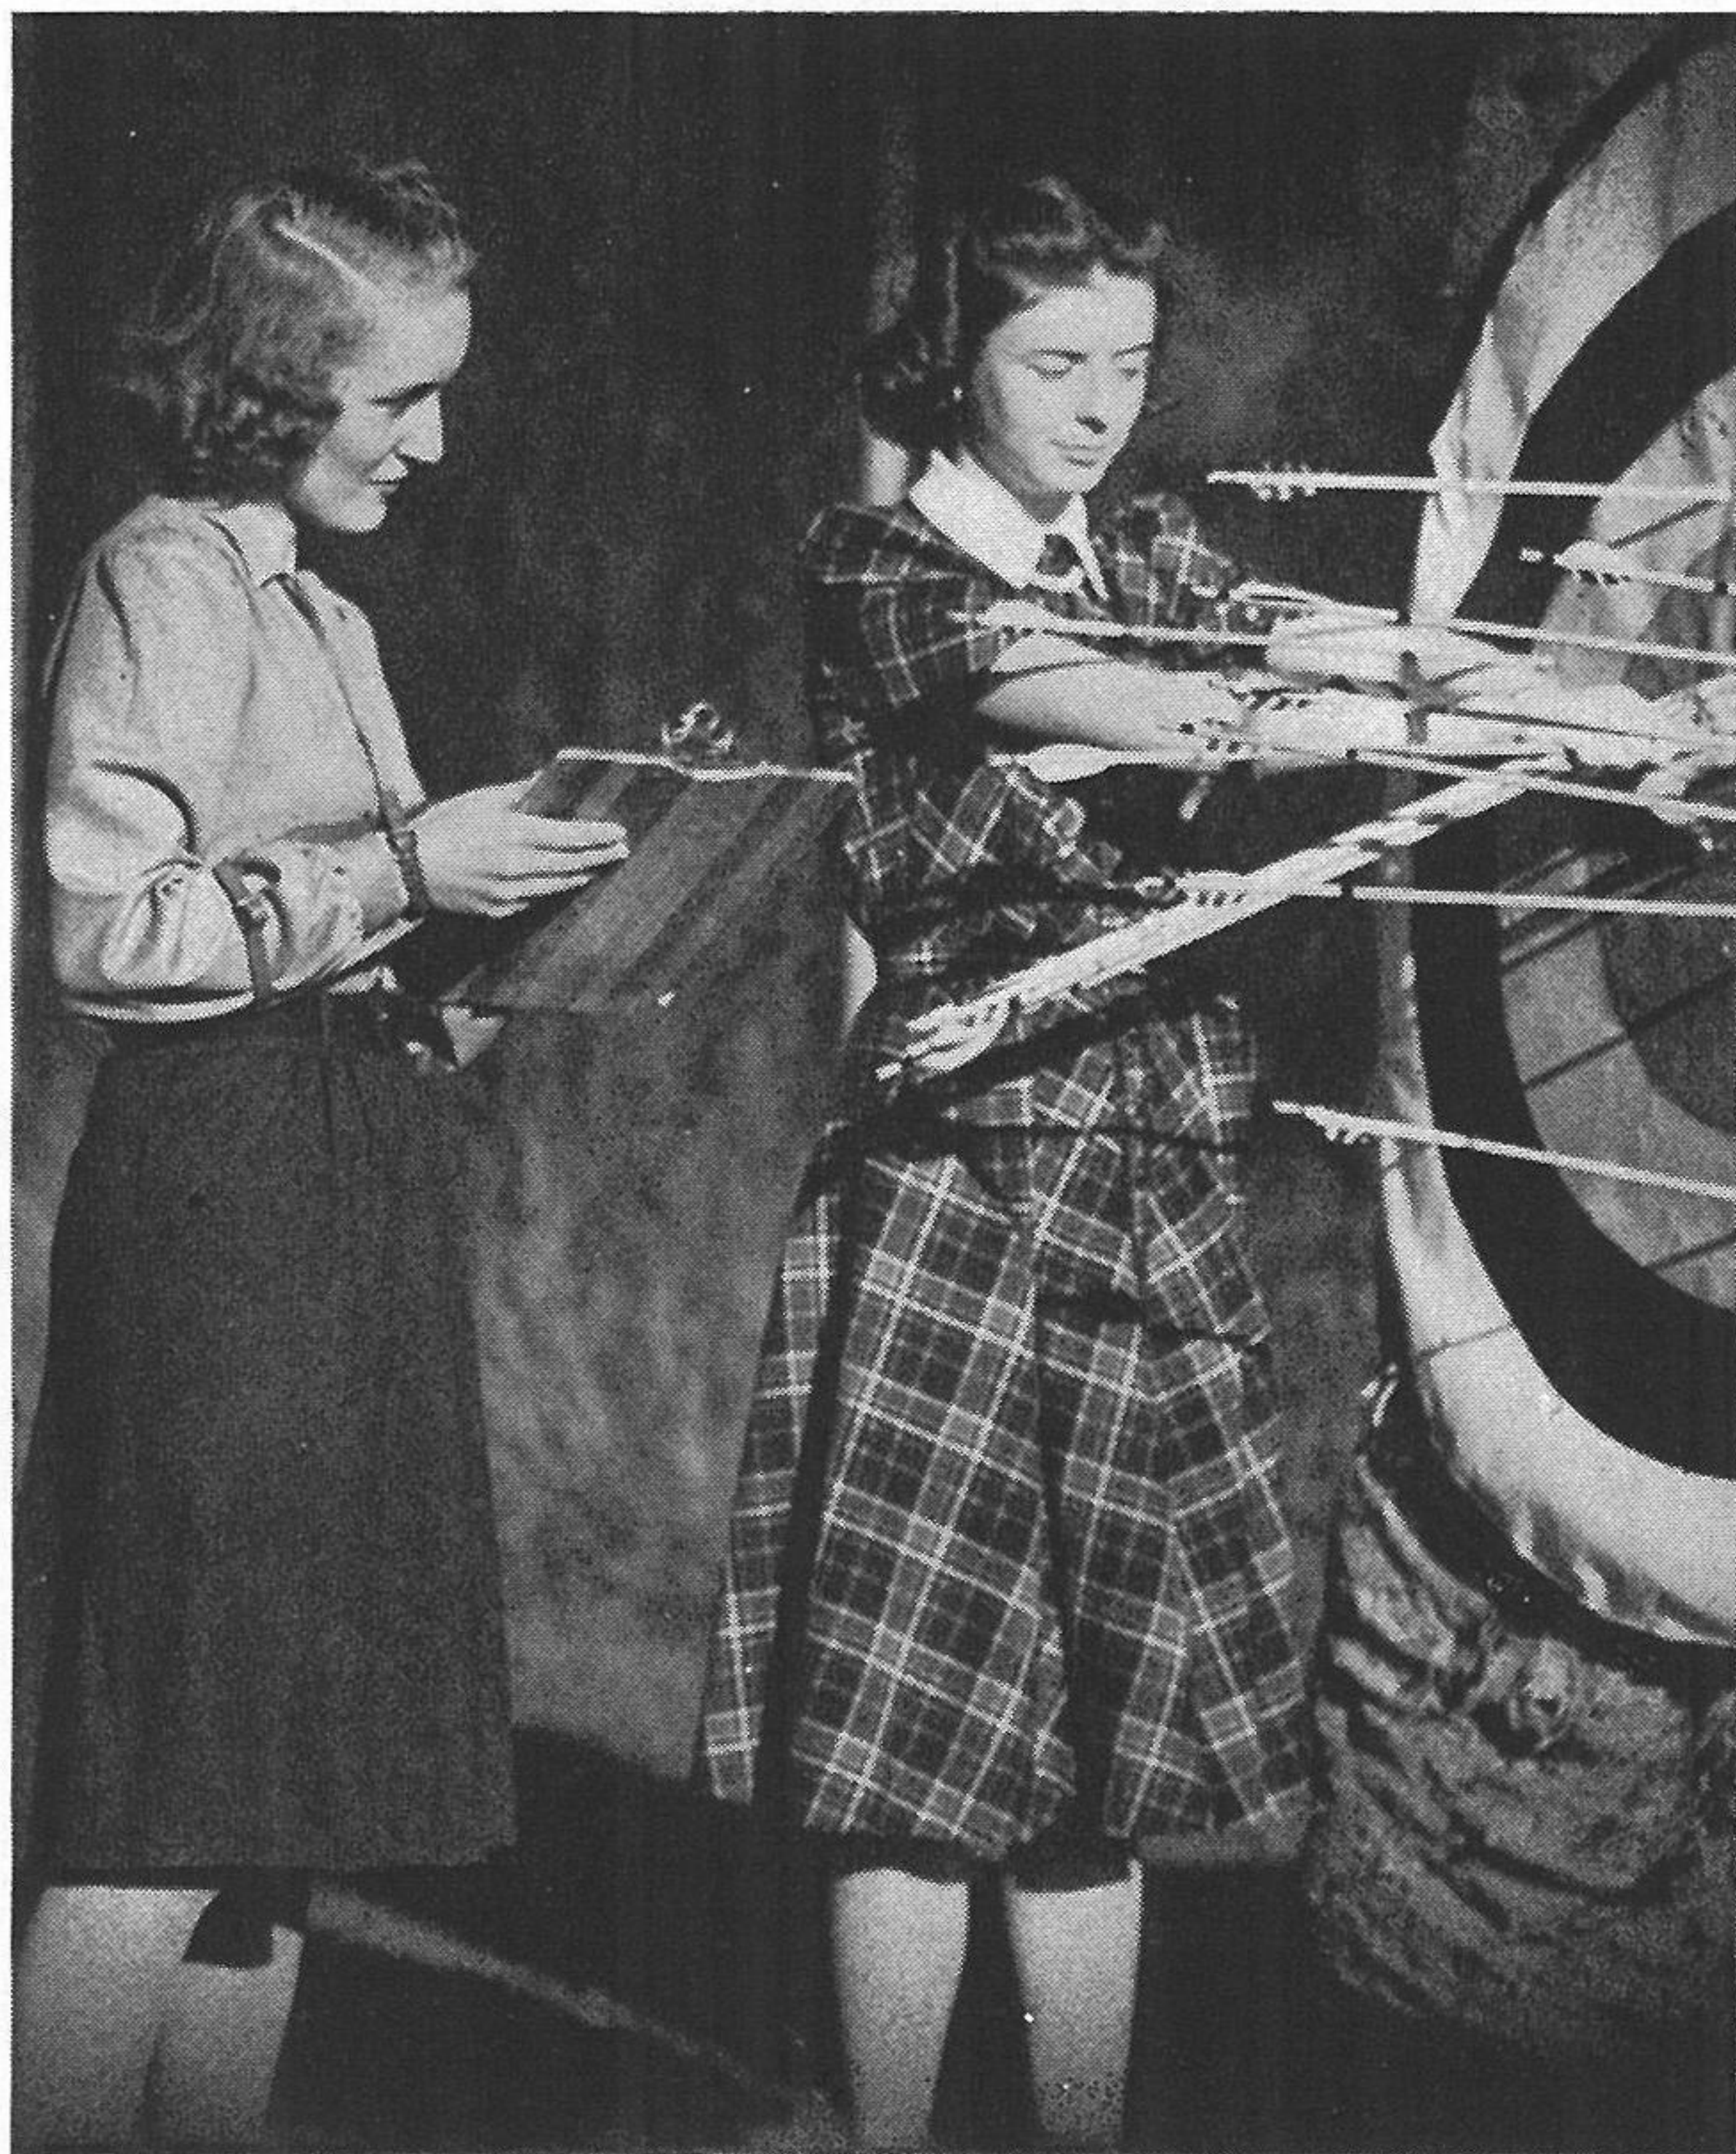

For three years Dody LaGasa, 1939 open club champion, and veteran of many Northwest tennis tournaments, led Washington's coed racket wielders. Dody's closest rival in last year's matches was freshman Vada May Lawrence, who extended her three sets before yielding to the superior strategy of a more experienced player.

Vada May is rated as this season's top woman player, although her position will be challenged by sophomore Valerie Delana, and Mary Gordon, junior.

Out of a field of 34 participants, Mary Gordon, Dody LaGasa, Valerie Delana, and Roberta Stitt reached the quarter finals.

ARCHERY

Although there is no organized women's archery group on the campus, archery is a popular pastime for many coeds in the spring and early fall.

In a cleared space in the grove just west of the women's gym a wire fence encloses a green turf, making a picturesque spot in which Washington archers may shoot.

The Women's Physical Education department is planning an archery tournament for spring quarter.

RIFLERY

Coached by Colonel Thebaud and Sergeant Gage 25 coeds have been turning out for rifle practice twice a week since October in preparation for the spring intercollegiate matches.

Starting in February, the girls shot in contests against other colleges all over the country. Ten contestants were entered and the five highest scores exchanged by mail to determine the winner.

This spring the National Rifle Association sponsored a tournament of all college women's rifle teams, on their own rifle ranges.

An annual banquet with the men's rifle team is scheduled for spring quarter, at which the teams' activities are summarized, and medals, cups, and letters are awarded.

Outstanding members of the Washington team are Jean Kolinski, Manager Dorsey Reed, Sigrid Bergerson, Helen Lawrence, and Jocelyn Dohm.

GOLF

The intramural girls' golf tournament started last fall was called off before the final match because of poor weather. However, Manager Muriel Veatch has plans in progress for an open and intramural tournament to be played spring quarter.

In the fall contest, Mary Jane Gilke, transfer from Washington State college, and women's golf champion on the Pullman campus last spring, proved herself a threat to coed golfers for the coming tournaments. Mary Jane won several matches by a large margin before she was forced to default to Muriel Veatch, present champion. The finals between Betty Jones and Muriel Veatch have been postponed indefinitely, pending better weather.

HOCKEY

The hockey club is one of the most active girls' athletic groups. The purpose of the club is to stimulate interest in hockey among Washington coeds.

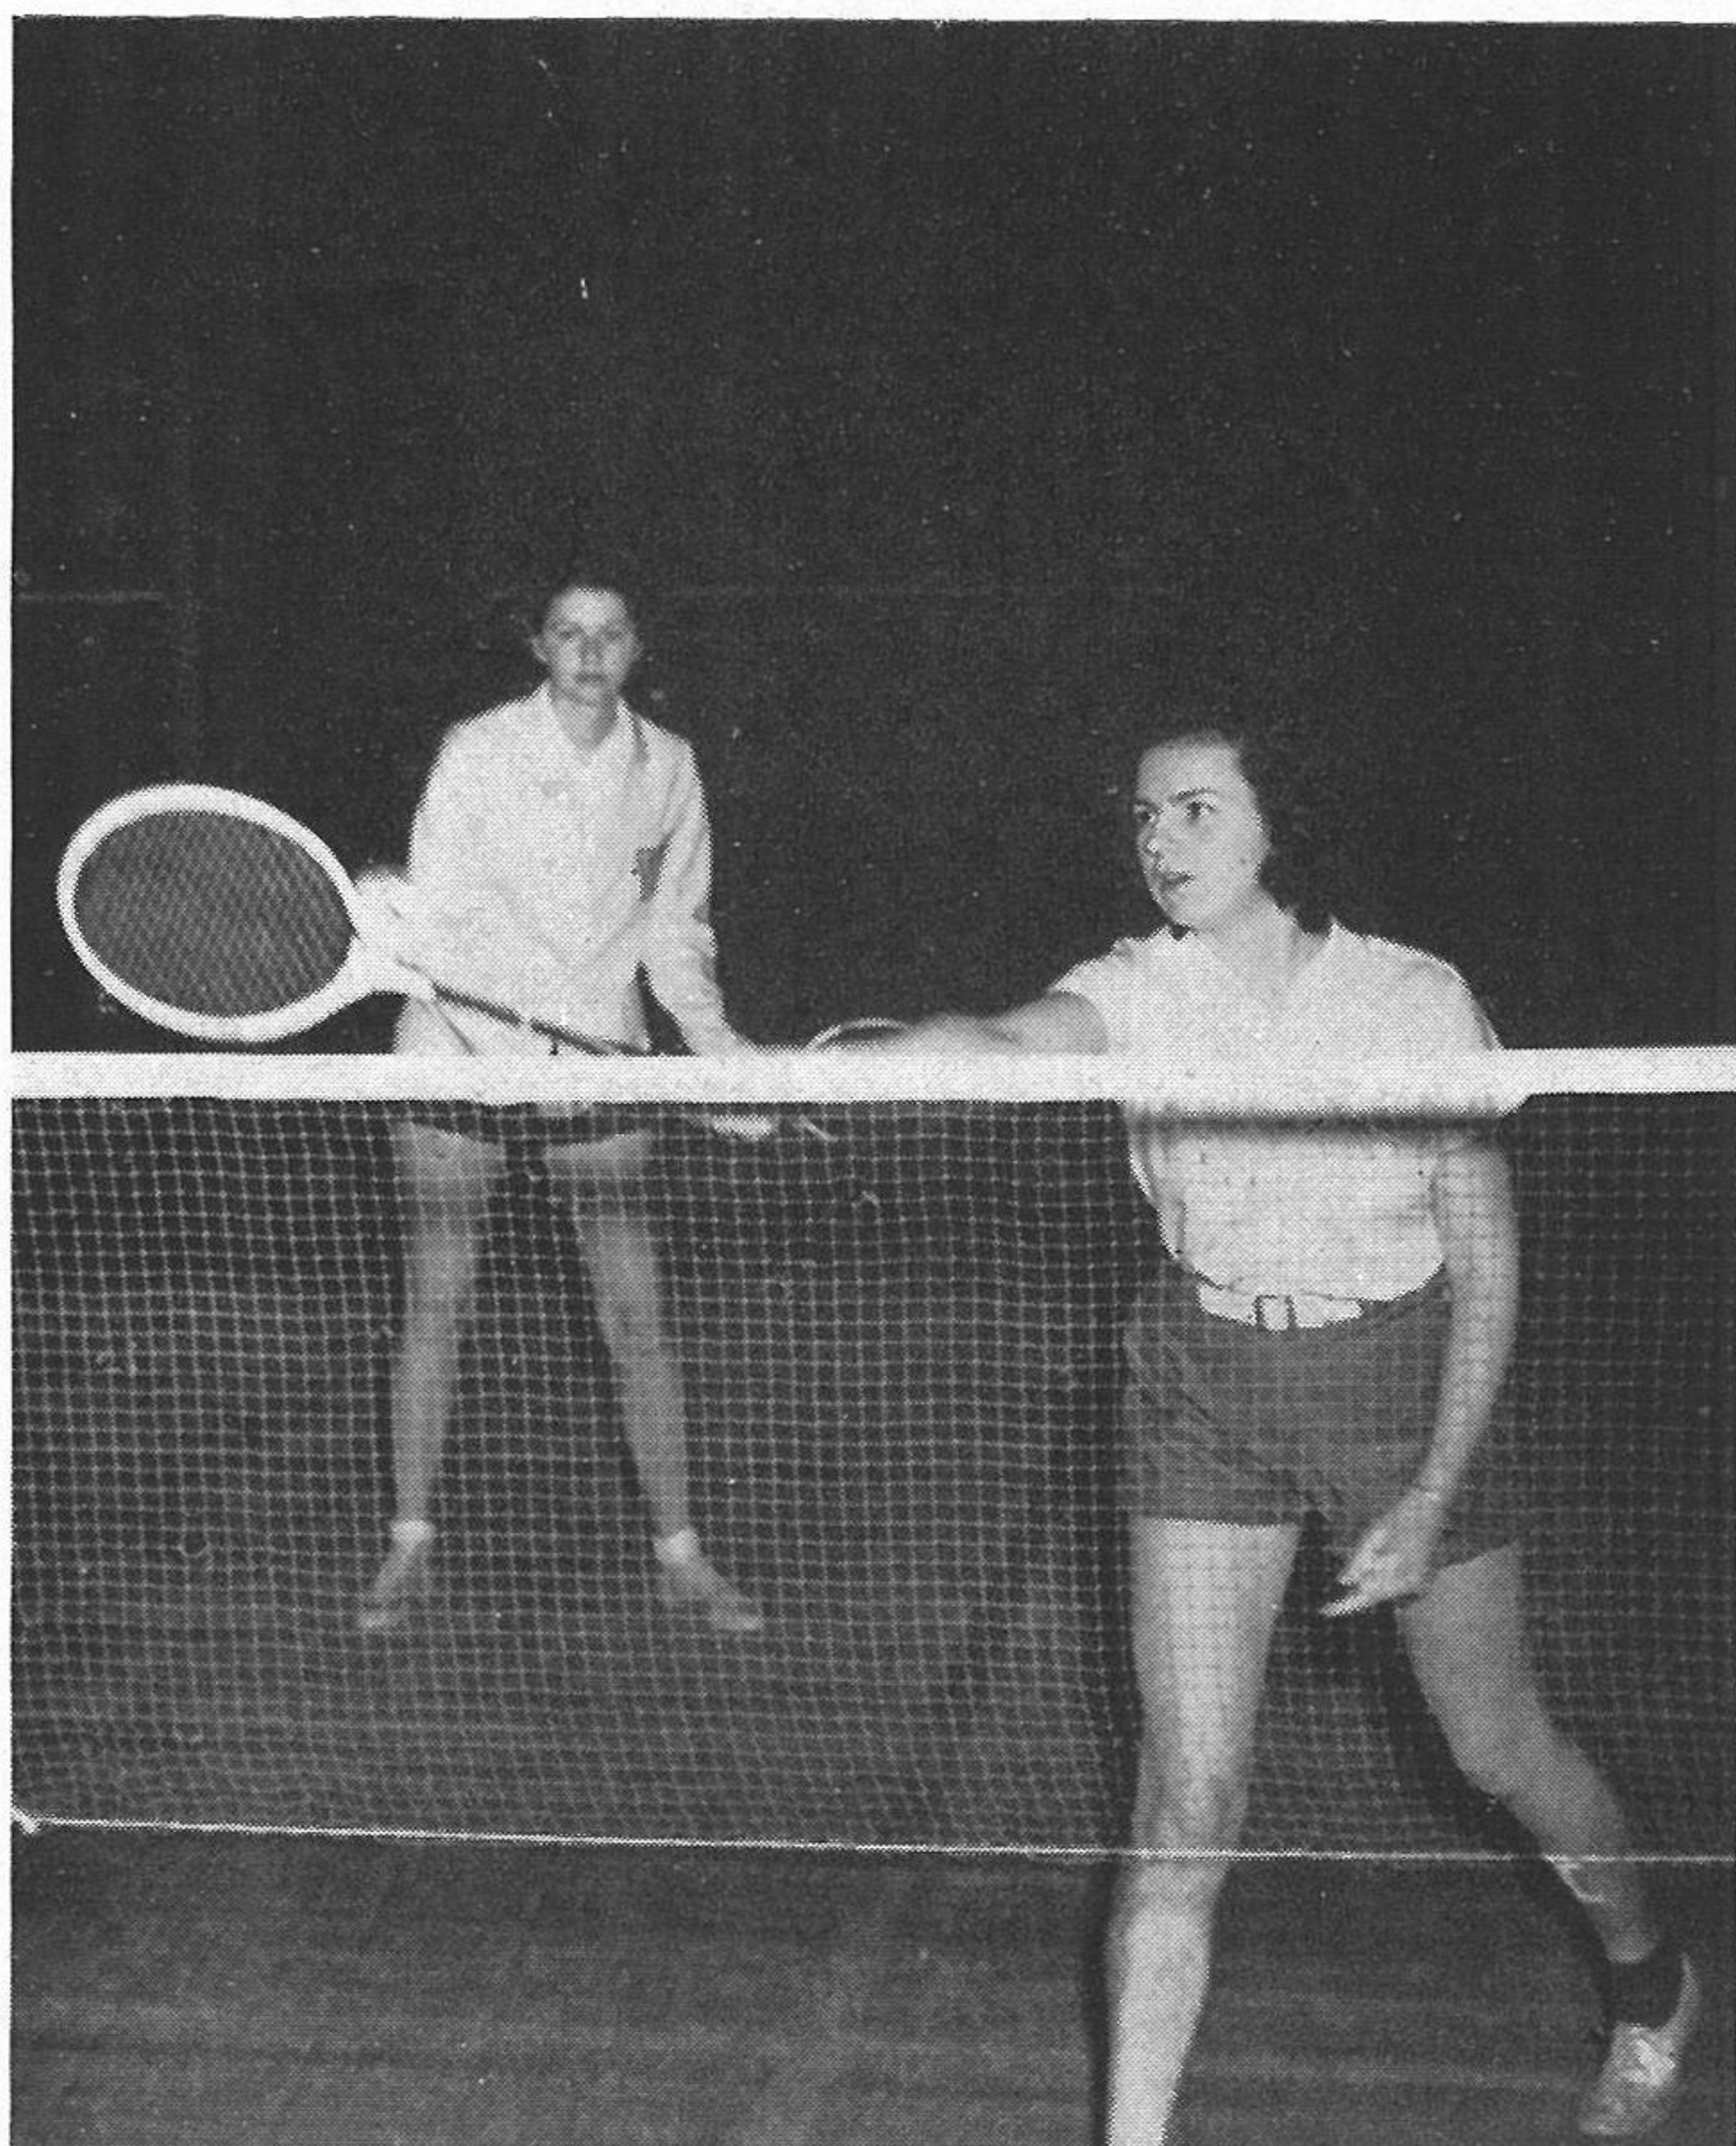

Included on the schedule of activities for the club is the annual game with the girls from the College of Puget Sound in Tacoma. These two groups do not play against each other. The usual procedure is reversed and the girls mix teams and play with each other. This year's game ended in a scoreless tie.

Hockey club officers are: Grace Bodley, president; Se Reed Fernald, vice-president; Eleanore Hamlin, secretary; Margaret Aitken, treasurer.

BADMINTON

Women badminton players started the year's activities with two tournaments fall quarter.

In the ladder tournament 36 players participated. Eight girls signed up for the elimination contest.

In the first round Pat Ashcraft defeated Marjorie Young, Rosalea Wilcox eliminated Pauline Allmindinger, and Betty Collyer beat Abbie Rehberg.

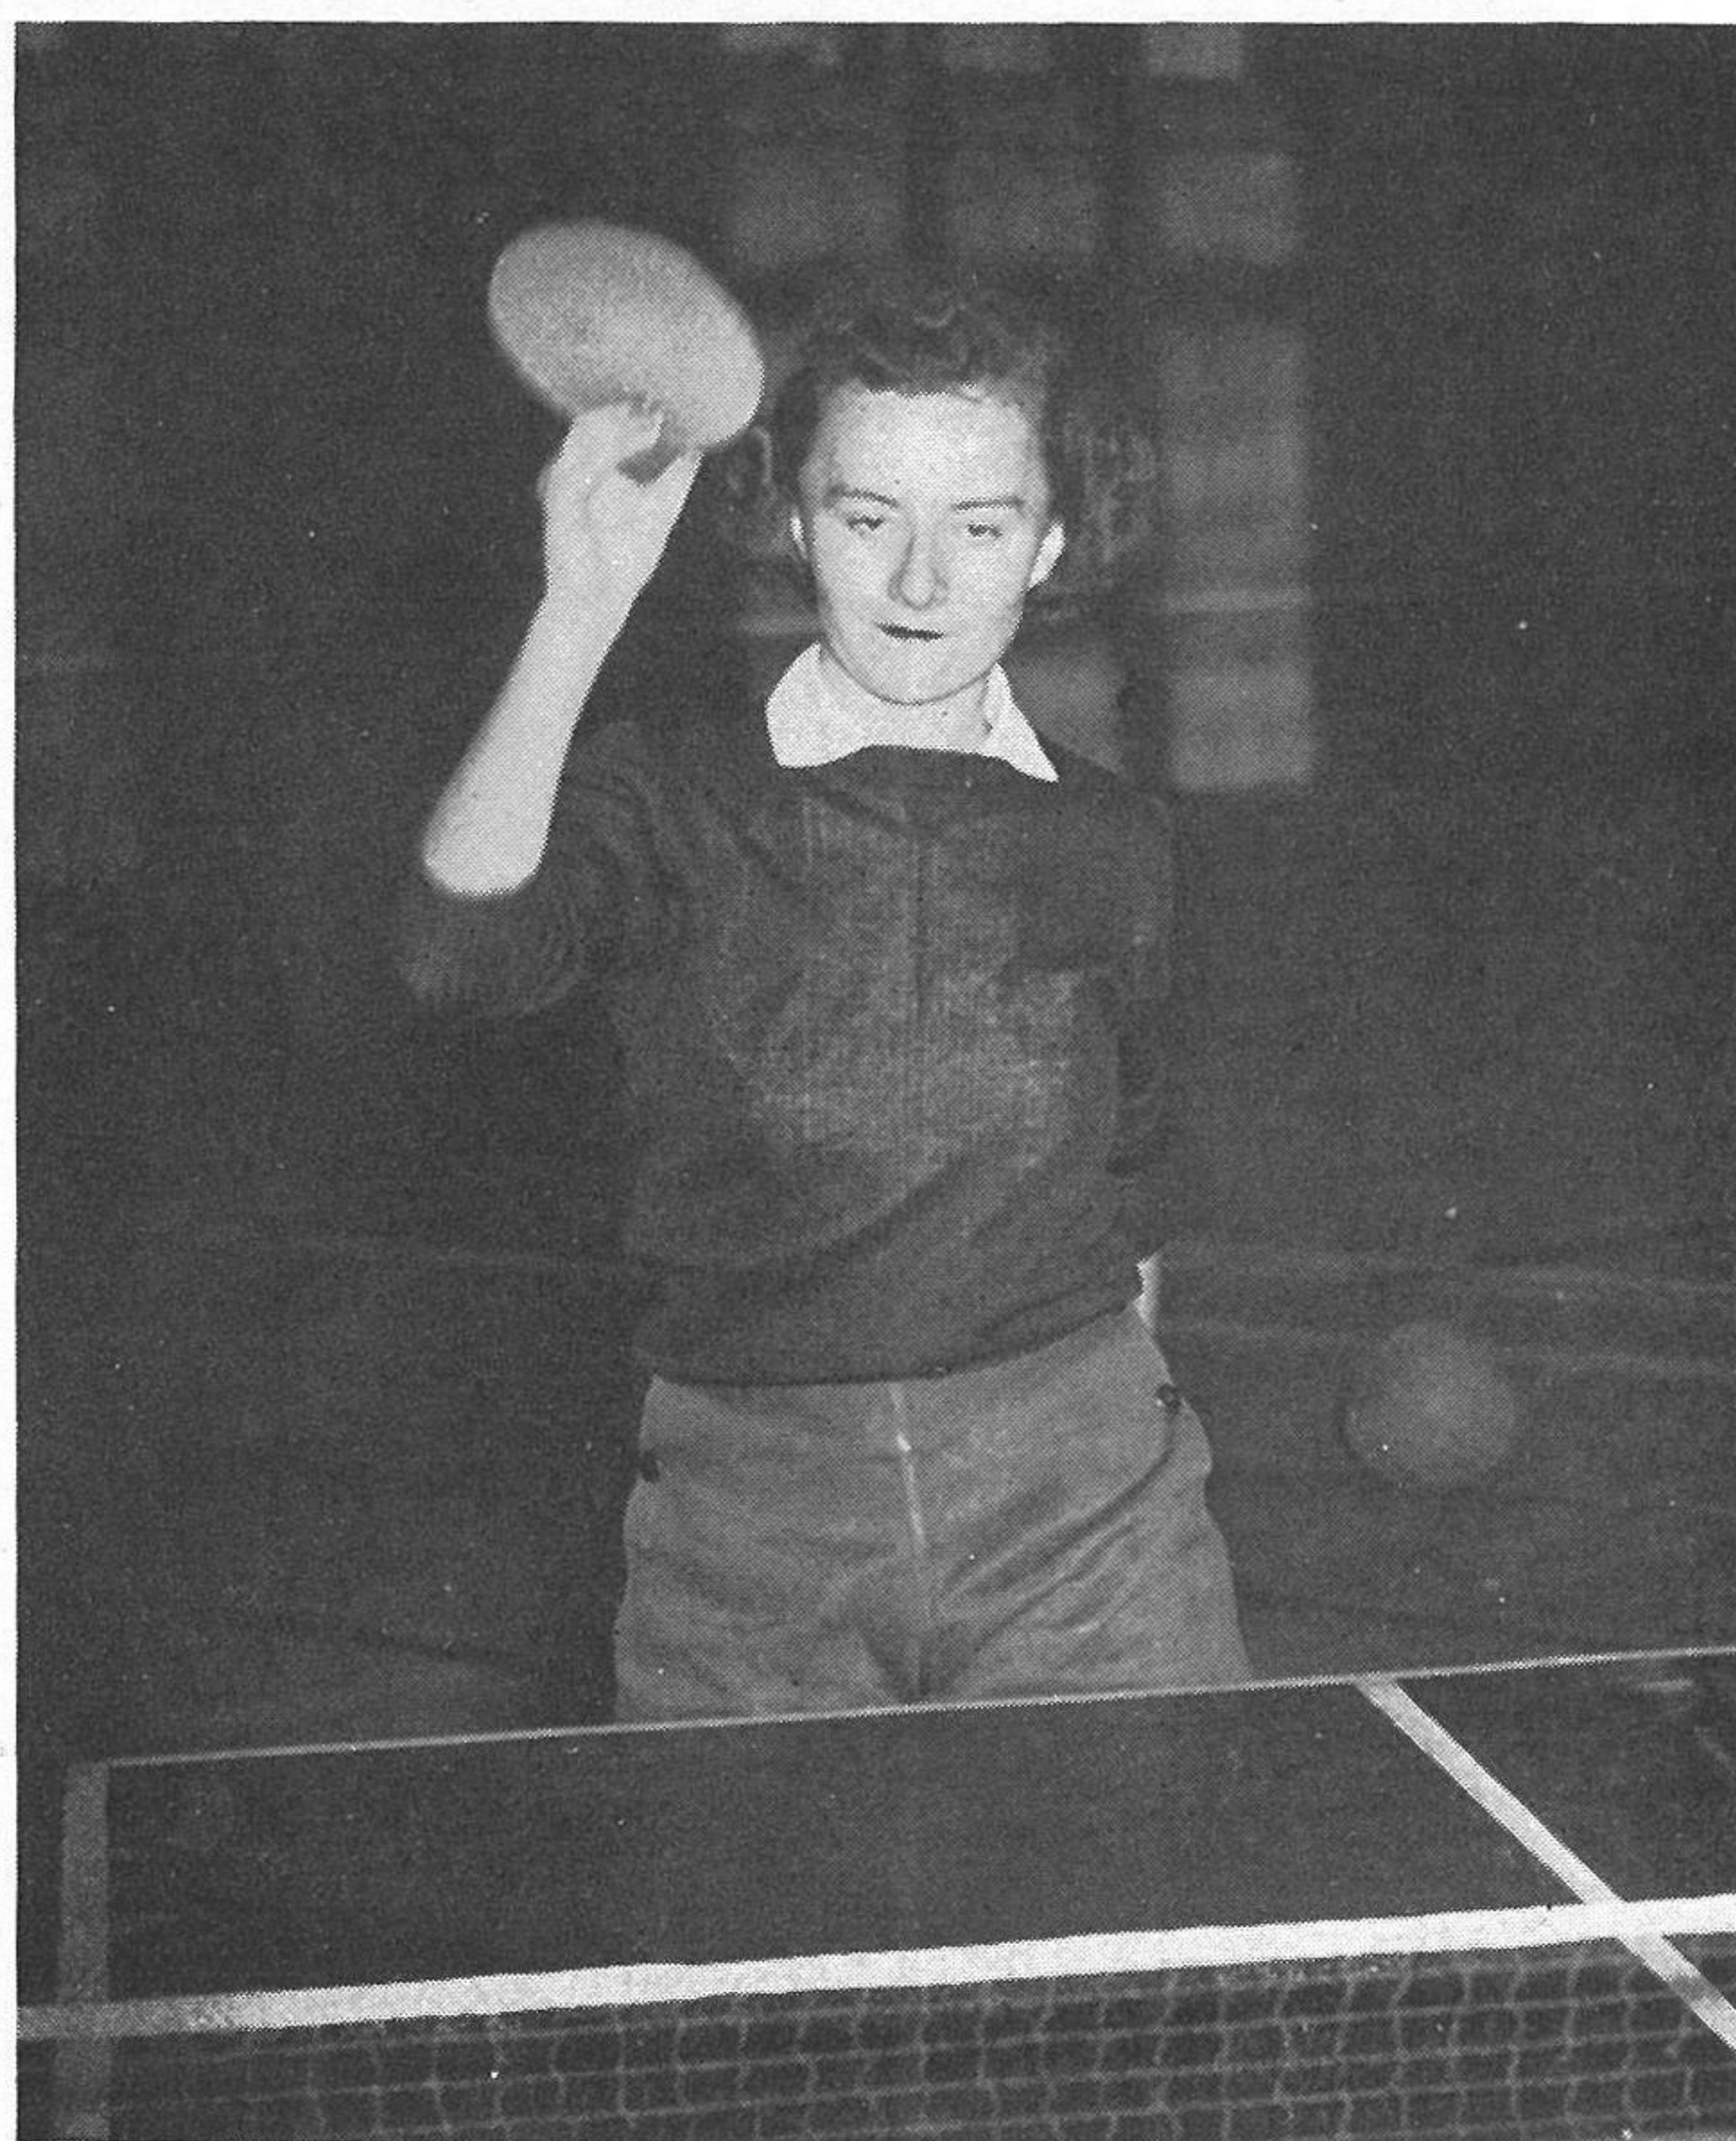

Betty Collyer, badminton tournament manager has plans for spring quarter contests.

PING PONG

Mary Gordon, a consistent winner of ping pong matches, whom you see at your right, finishing a smash stroke, became the champion of the girls' open club tournament held fall quarter, when she defeated Virginia Voeks, 21-4; 21-9; in the final round.

Virginia defeated Rosalea Wilcox in the semi-finals and Mary won from Evelyn Gilmour to gain her place in the finals. Eight girls entered the contest.

In the winter quarter tournament, in progress when Tyee went to press, 16 participants remained in the running at the second round. The girls who won their first round matches are: Mary Kubota, Virginia Williams, Rosemond Hirschorn, Jessie Beebe, Dorsey Reed, Adaline Linkletter, Mary Jane Carpenter, Stella Gorman, Rosalea Wilcox, Mary Holcombe, and Betty Harmon.

FENCING

Girls interested in fencing formed a fencing club under the direction of the women's fencing instructor, Miss Joan Schutz, last winter quarter.

The thirteen club members turn out to practice once a week. They also plan to have two or three bouts at each turnout and receive advanced lessons in fencing from Miss Schutz.

WAFFLE BREAKFAST

Winner of the "Corrugated Cookie" eating contest for 1940, was record breaker Earl Younglove, Delta Chi. He held out over runners-up to the tune of twenty-five waffles, smashing all past contest records. Sponsored by the YWCA, the breakfast, of Saturday morning, January 13, fed over 800 patrons. General chairman for the affair was Iola Brown, with Mary Jane Carpenter, chairman of food soliciting. Her assistant was Nancy Goodfellow. Decorations in Hawaiian, Swiss, Dutch, Wild West, and Mexican motives in the five participating sorority houses, were arranged by Peggy Caskin and Margaret Hopple. Committee members mixed over 110 pounds of flour for the annual event, and boasted that the YW cottage was "practically flowing in syrup." More students attended than at any previous "breakfast."

PASSION FOR FASHION

Co-eds walk with gingered steps . . . and show off styles . . . that show off co-eds . . .
I smile at the styles . . . and wink at the co-eds . . . and fall in love with both . . .

Ella Raines

Patty Counts

WASHINGTON coeds continued to charm their male counterparts as they reflected the kaleidoscopic fashions of the year—fashions which in turn reflected the influence of the new World war and the movie version of a book. Civil war styles revived as hundreds of Scarlett O'Haras traipsed the campus and many others wore dresses and skirts cut along military lines influenced by World War II. Jewelry went wild, losing its simpler lines in many-pendant necklaces and bracelets. Better than a photo-album will the pictures in Tyee this year represent one year in the ever-changing panorama of fashion.

WITHOUT FANFARE

Unlike their predecessor Harold J. Laski, two Walker-Ames lecturers visited this campus this year without fanfare, publicity or protest from newspapers and legislators of the state. First of the two was J. Bjerknes, famed Norwegian meteorologist, who visited here several weeks of winter quarter, lectured to scientifically minded students and faculty members—departed as quietly as he came.

As this book went to press, Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize-winning physicist, was departing to continue his scientific peregrinations in the search of new knowledge, new material. His was a split lecture series climaxed by a brilliant discussion of the debt of man to science before a packed house. No hackneyed approach was his but rather a blanket condemnation of civilization for its misuse of the achievements of science.

Experts in their fields, much as Laski, these gentlemen were unassailable by politicians or crusade-hungry newspapers—theirs was a quiet entree, quiet but valuable stay.

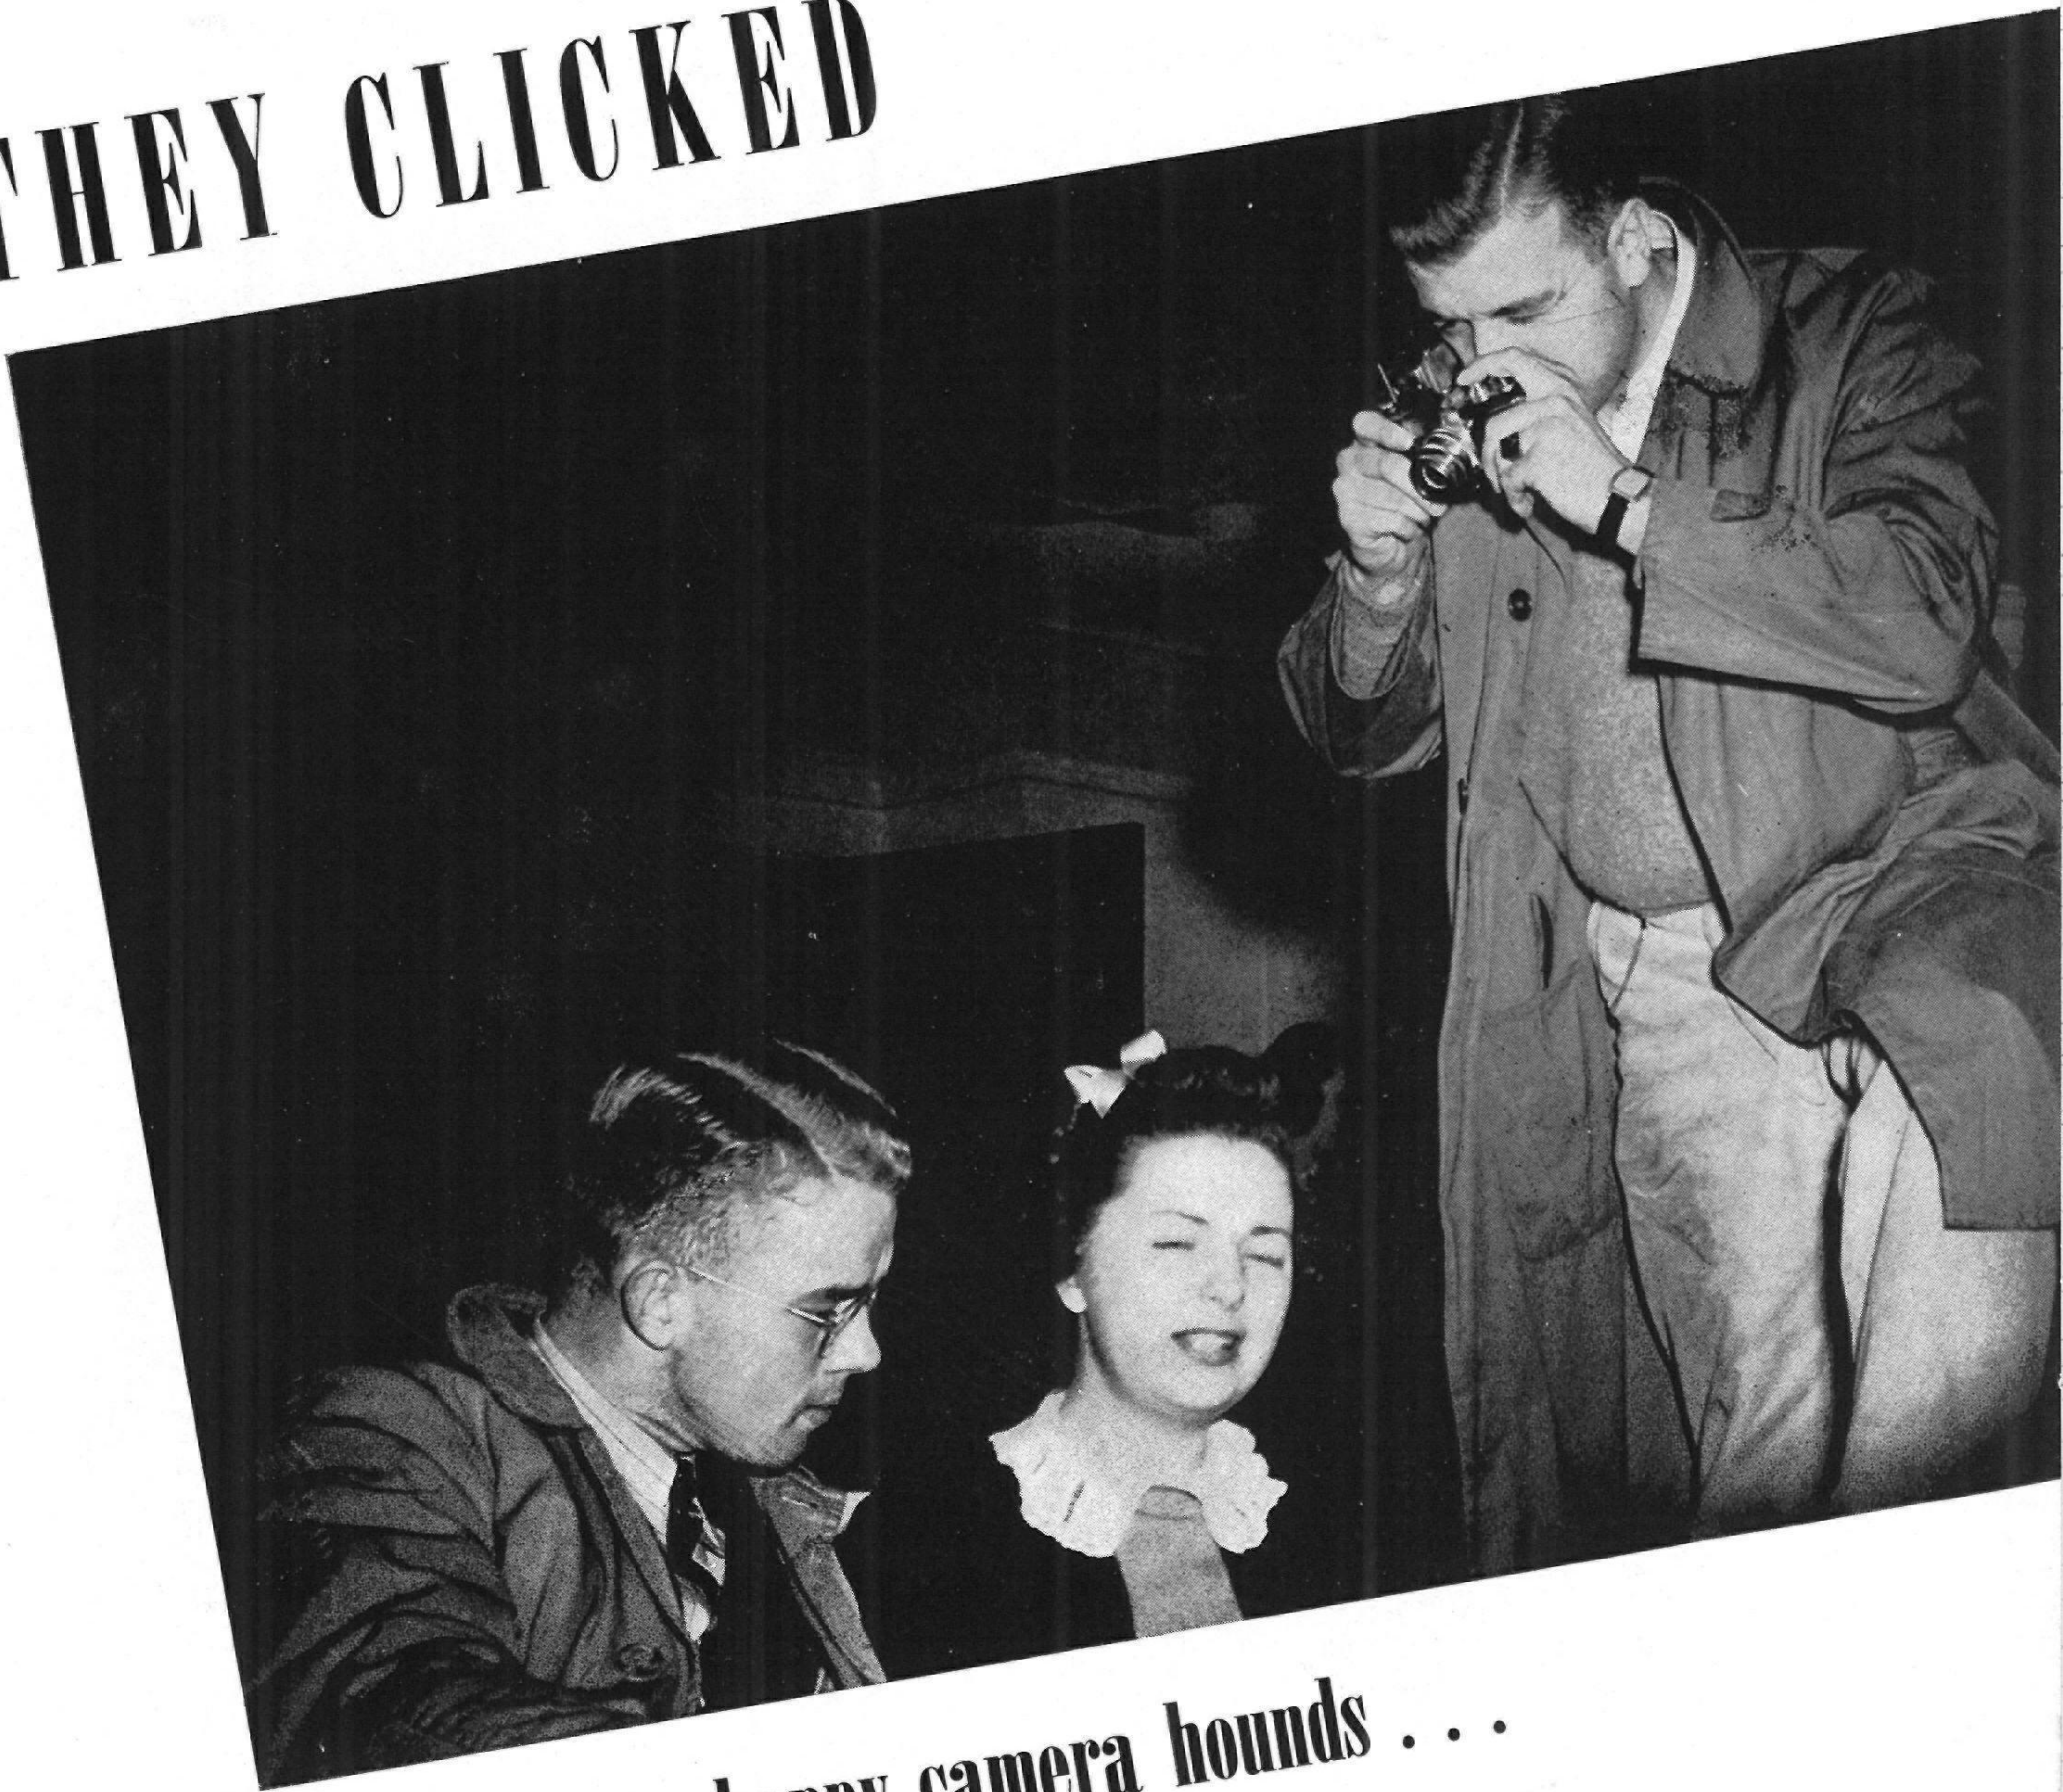

STUDENTS GET WINGS

Nearly half of Washington's CAA student pilots flew seaplanes.

Government sponsored civilian pilot training which began at Washington in 1939, had 30 members enrolled. During 1940 an additional 40 fledglings were added. Cost to students who could pass the stiff physical examination and fulfill scholastic requirements, was $40. The 1940 class trained in both seaplanes and landplanes, and had four girls in its ranks. The course included 72 hours of ground school plus 35 to 50 hours of flight training, with a private pilot's license as the reward for successful passing of final tests. During spring quarter six students were selected for advanced training, received 46 hours of special ground school and 40 to 50 hours of instrument and heavier ship instruction. Seaplanes were specially popular with students with hangars located only a few minutes from the campus on Lake Union.

TYEE'S first candid contest was a success with over a hundred entries of all kinds of shots. Judging of the entries was done on a basis of five possible points each for how candid the picture was, quality of photography, interest, and individuality. Many photos lost out because they were not candid enough. Judges were Ron Donaldson, head of the Photography Department at the Bookstore; Ed Hillyer, Manager of the University Athletic News Service; and Janice Richards, Tyee Section Editor. Tyee expects the contest to continue in future books, and hopes thereby to improve and encourage photography at Washington.

Probably the First Business You Ever Owned

This "Candid" will recall "life at college" to more students than any campus scene! For both the drama major who dwelt exclusively in Denny's ivory towers, and the engineer who never ventured above Guggenheim, knew the "Avenue" well . . . and both owned a share in the Book Store as did every other student. Greasepaint and T-squares came from the Book Store, tennis shoes and Christmas cards. Over 10,000 of these student-owners shared in the earnings of their business this year!

Your Profit in Rebate

As a student you automatically become part-owner of the Book Store. That's why you save sales slips all year. The Book Store, managed by your representative student and faculty board, counts the profits again this year . . . distributes them back through The Rebate, a cash share of everything you spent there this year!

The Book Store is forty years old this year! It started back in 1900, when students opened a "supply" counter in a Denny Hall closet. From this small beginning, the Book Store has grown large enough to be your shopping center even after you've graduated.

Alums Are Owners Ex-Officio

Graduates living far from the Avenue continue to buy their books, sports and camera equipment, gifts and souvenirs from the Book Store's complete departments. Though you relinquish your rebate with your A.S.U.W. card, you'll always depend on the Book Store's ability to serve you!

—the results, whether one color or four, photographic or drawn, printed or lithographed. It's all in doing the right thing at the right time, with least waste, and you can be surprised and gratified, too, whether you start out with a simple letterhead, folder, or launch into a well-organized campaign of advertising.

SPRING brings her challenge and inspiration. And each spring we have worked on Tyee it has been with the thought that we are helping to make a finer book. This new Tyee goes into the world a worthy successor to many fine books. We offer our congratulations to the staff on the production of a Tyee which will challenge the ingenuity of those who produce the next Tyee.

ART STAFF

This 1940 Tyee enjoyed the largest art staff in the history of the book. To: Irwin Caplan for his color inserts, end sheets and cover plan; George Jensen for his original layouts; Marlowe Hartung for his Husky cartoons; Paul Swensson for his air brush work; Lloyd Ludvigsen for his opening section work; and Herbert Muehlenbeck for the copy of his portrait of Dean Condon . . . thanks!

CINDERELLA SHOW

This year's Tyee show in Meany hall more than fulfilled its purpose. Not only did it entertain but it introduced 16 swell girls to the campus—16 coeds Tyee is proud to present in a special fashion section. Tyee contributed nothing to the show but the idea; to: Master of Ceremonies Phil Reilly; Varsity Quartet; Frank Willis; Tri Delt Trio; Austin Hall Choir; Laton Jatton; Allen Botzer; Howard Edelson; Concert and Pep Bands; and the Campus Radio Studio . . . merci!

EDITORIAL STAFF

This much we know, the 1940 Tyee editorial staff was tops. To: Associate Editor Gail Collman who climaxed four years of yearbooking; Janice Richards, Section Editor extraordinaire; Betty Bouton, late starter with a photo-finish; Jane Brokaw, Women's Sports Editor; Sports Editor Ples Lee Irwin, deadline evader—supersition hater; Copy Editor Elmer Vogel who wrote the war and senior editorials; Ed Smith, hardest working frosh; Ginna Hamilton and Bob Mooney who handled Greek row during the fall quarter picture seige; Humorist Lenny Anderson, writer of subdivision nonsense; Assistant Sports Editor Jack Pierce; and many other individuals whose valuable services are appreciated . . . gracias!

OFFICE STAFF

This year, as well as every year, some organized house comes through in the pinch to help with the book. Delta Gamma furnished more helpers than all other houses combined. To such D Gs as: Virginia Crowe, Betty Bouton, Adelaide Hayes, Jean McKinney, Virginia Hamilton, Pat Cowan, Virginia Marguette, Polly Coder, et al . . . danke!

PHOTOGRAPHY STAFF

This yearbook surpasses all previous books in number and size of pictures. To: Marvin Tipp for the kodachrome cover picture, the opening section building shots, the tricky subdivision work, the fashion fotos, and the departmental and administrative pictures; Gordy Williams who took all the air photos and covered the ski carnival and crew race as well as half the regular staff work; Russell Ulrich who carried the other half of the staff work as well as helping on some of the subdivisions and taking all the house candid; Charles Bell who took all the drama department pictures; former Tyee photographers Dick Hubbell, Bill Weld and Bob Ward for furnishing old prints we needed; Kennell-Ellis' panel-maker Truth Toncray; all Photo-contest contestants and judges and the Book Store; Charles Forkner; Bryce Black; Bob Spring; Jim Young; Dave Preseley . . . takk!

SPECIAL MENTION

This completes my acknowledgments—mentioning those not listed as workers in 116 Lewis hall. To: Ed Hillyer more than the usual thank you for the advice and pictures he generously gave; Bert Sturm and his business staff for all their work; The University of Washington Daily for its loyalty and cooperation; Clyde Robinson, Publications Manager, and Olivia Easter, for handling and "dirty work"; Tom McDonough and Paul Corskie who helped us in and out of locked rooms at night—also for keeping us company during the late hours; Mr. Graff and his fellow Dexter Engravers; Mr. Kennell and staff; Mr. Pratt and the rest of the Lowman & Hanford gang for their desire to publish a really better book . . . arigato!
